The plan further provides that 80 per cent of the judgment shall be utilized for a per capita distribution to each enrolled Bois Forte band member born on, or prior to, and living on the effective date of the plan, June 6, 1979, Wadena said.

The tribal executive committee, at a regular meeting of the Minnesota Chippewa tribe, set August 20 as the cut-off date.

Only those who meet the membership requirements of The Minnesota Chippewa Tribe will be accepted as members, and only those applicants affiliated with the Bois Forte Band of Chippewa Indians will be considered for this distribution, Wadena added.

Applications must be received or postmarked by midnight on the deadline date. All inquiries and all membership applications should be directed to The Minnesota Chippewa Tribe, Box 217, Cass Lake, Minnesota 56633.

The judgment of $1,023,808 represents the fair price adjustment for lands ceded in northeastern Minnesota under the treaty of April 7, 1866.

Tools of the trade shown in the bottom photo include the pistol and cartridges, binoculars used by a spotter to assist the shooter in pinpointing his misses and the score card used to record hits or misses during the two five-shot relays at each of four different target sets.

Year Of Child Meet Planned At Crookston

Celebration of the "International Year of the Child" on the local level will be discussed at a region I childcare and development meeting on Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Selvig hall conference room on the University of Minnesota — Crookston (UMC) campus.

The special session has been scheduled to provide an opportunity for area communities to take an active part in the year of the child.

Plans encouraging an assortment of projects and activities within Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Norman, Kittson, Marshall and Roseau counties will be developed at the meeting. The public is encouraged to attend, a committee spokesman stressed.

More information is available from Marilyn Grave, University of Minnesota — Crookston, telephone (218) 281-6510, extension 284.

New Eligibility Standards In Food Program

A 10.2 per cent increase in the guidelines used to determine children's eligibility for free and reduced price meals and free milk was announced recently by assistant secretary of agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman.

The new guidelines will apply to schools and child care institutions participating in the school lunch, school breakfast, child care food program and the special milk program.

"Each year we adjust the income eligibility guidelines to reflect changes in the cost of living," Foreman said. The new income guidelines, effective July 1, 1979, to June 30, 1980, reflect the change between the 1978 average of the consumer price index and the index of March, 1979.

States are required by U.S. department of agriculture regulations to set eligibility for free meals and milk at 125 per cent of the income guidelines, and for reduced price meals, at 195 per cent. Thus, under the new guidelines, a family of four can earn up to $8,940 and maintain eligibility for free meals and milk. Reduced price meals will be provided to children in a family of four earning $13,940 or less. Previously, the guidelines were set at $6,490 for free meals and milk, and $12,660 for reduced price meals.

In applying the new guidelines, schools and institutions may consider both the income of the family during the previous 12 months and the family's current rate of income, to determine which is the better indicator of a child's need.

Children whose parents become unemployed will be eligible during the period of unemployment, if the loss of income places the family within the eligibility limits.

Strategic Air Command Fires Two Missiles

Strategic air command (SAC) announced that two unarmed Minuteman III ICBMs were successfully launched twelve seconds apart at 12:29 p.m. (CDT) last Tuesday from Vandenberg AFB, CA., as part of SAC's readiness exercise Global Shield 79.

Tuesday's launches were part of the exercise scenario with SAC forces responding to a hypothetical enemy attack on the United States. The launches were part of the regular series of operational launches which test the total reliability and accuracy of the Minuteman weapon system.

Global Shield, SAC's largest exercise in more than 20 years, kicked off Sunday evening with the entire SAC force being generated to test its ability to implement emergency war orders which support U.S. national policy if deterrence fails. Approximately 100 unarmed B-52 and FB-111 bombers along with KC-135 tankers and reconnaissance and command post aircraft have been dispersed to military and civilian airfields and are on exercise alert waiting to receive simulated orders directing them to execute strikes against hypothetical enemy targets. Missile maintenance personnel also were dispersed to locations separate from their main operating bases.

Bomber and tanker aircraft from various SAC units began flying simulated airborne alert missions in two preplanned orbit areas Tuesday. The ability to have aircraft on airborne alert provides SAC forces with increased survivability and improves their readiness during times of increased tension.

All SAC units within the U.S. and at Anderson AFB, Guam, have generated their forces to simulated full-combat status. This includes 31 SAC bomber and missile locations with approximately 650 bomber, tanker, reconnaissance and command post aircraft; and Minuteman and Titan II missiles on simulated alert.

In addition, personnel have practices augmenting such critical areas as runway repair and security police operations as part of SAC's warskill program. Disaster preparedness exercises have been taking place and a SAC directed communications exercise has simulated the environment that could exist during wartime.

Roller Skating Is Discontinued During Fair

Summer roller skating program, under the sponsorship of the Thief River Falls park and recreation department, will not be maintained in the sports arena this week because of the Pennington county fair.

Eric Allen and Brent Waale served as disc jockeys.

Senator Would Put Limit On Import Of Oil

Senator Dave Durenberger has introduced in the U.S. senate a bill to limit oil imports to the 1978 level of 8,038,000 barrels per day. Durenberger said the import ceiling was needed to "put American energy policy in the hands of American policymakers once again."

Speaking on the floor of the senate, Durenberger described his mandatory oil import control act of 1979 by saying ". . . It is more inoculation against future crises than remedy for our current ills. . . It is designed to prevent us from becoming even more dependent on foreign oil and thus even more susceptible to economic ruination in the future.

"So long as demand for crude oil continues to grow and the OPEC nations have the power to restrict supply, the world price of crude oil will continue to escalate at rates that spell disaster for the oil consuming nations," said the senator.

Durenberger said his bill complemented the commitment made recently by President Carter at the seven-nation summit conference in Tokyo. The President pledged to hold U.S. imports to 8.5 million barrels per day, a promise he has the power to fulfill under existing law.

The senator said his legislation was needed because "Congress should take the opportunity to shape the energy policy of the United States. The citizens of this country must have the chance to offer their support of the President through their elected representatives. In May, the people's representatives rejected one part of an energy policy — rationing. Now, the people, through Congress, can take a positive step toward a goal we can and must achieve."

Durenberger said his legislation was also necessary to "guarantee equitable distribution of the limited imports and restore competitive practices in the domestic market."

Durenberger warned his colleagues that limiting imports was only one step toward a "more certain energy future. . . The mandatory oil import control act cannot stand alone in an energy crisis. It must be combined with measures that would achieve significant conservation, encourage new supplies, develop alternative resources, protect those who are economically disadvantaged and insulate the American petroleum market from the marker price of foreign crude. Seen in this light, the bill I am introducing today is a modest part of an extensive and necessary program to cure our energy ills," Durenberger said.

Wheat Growers Challenge US Crop Estimate

Spring wheat production figures released by the USDA last Wednesday were immediately challenged by the president of the Minnesota association of wheat growers as being "outdated" because of severe weather conditions during the past two weeks.

Grower's president, Jorgen Knutson, Red Lake Falls, reports that recent surveys made by the wheat growers association indicate that production will be down 10-million bushels from the figures released by USDA.

In checking with Carroll Rock, agricultural statistician for the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service, Knutson found that the report released Wednesday, July 11, was formulated on material gathered before July 1.

"Heavy rains during the first week" of July caused extensive and irreparable damage to all crops in western and northwestern Minnesota. This, coupled with crops that were two to five weeks late already, means extensive damage. We will not average 36 bushels of wheat per acre, but will be about 32 or 33 bushels," Knutson commented.

The growers president also reviewed weather forecasts that call for a cooler than usual summer and possibly an early fall. "That's all we need — an early frost. Many of our crops will be fighting for their lives this year." He said many acres of sunflowers probably 'won't make it' this year.

USDA forecasts called for Minnesota to produce 89.6 million bushels of wheat from 2.6 million acres this year.

"We'll continue to seek expanded markets and better prices for our wheat. It seems that many organizations within the federal government are still pushing for 'cheap' food," Knutson said.

Reserve Wheat Is Still Under Release Status

Wheat in the farmer-owned reserve will continue in the release status at least through July 31, according to Alton Nybladh, chairman of the Marshall county ASCS committee. Storage earnings on reserve wheat stopped on June 30.

After release of a commodity it may be sold by the farmer holding it after repaying his CCC price support loan. However, release of the reserve does not require farmers to redeem or sell their grain at this time.

Energy Use Reduced With Shortage Rise

Contrary to conventional wisdom, American homeowners today are using energy up to 10 per cent more efficiently than five years ago. And prospects for further improvements are good.

Few people appreciated how much had been accomplished until a new White House report — National Energy Plan II — showed that: new residences (built in 1978) will use over their lifetimes, on the average, 10 per cent less energy than those built in 1973. The annual growth rate in home electrical use has been cut in half — from 6 to 3 per cent. And, half of all U.S. homeowners have added insulation or other energy-saving features to their homes.

The United States has more than 75 million residences and they account for about 19 per cent of all end-use energy consumed in the country. Home use totals 10 quads, or 14.5 quads when losses in electric generation are included. (A quad, or quadrillion British thermal units, is the energy equivalent of about 500,000 barrels of oil per day every day for a year, or the energy generated by 18 to 20 1,000-megawatt power plants in a year.)

An average U.S. home uses 130 million British thermal units (BTU) per year, largely for major consumer products such as furnaces and air conditioners, water heaters, and refrigerators. Fuel price increases, tax credits provided by the national energy act, and exceptionally cold winters over much of the country have resulted in millions of homeowners taking steps to conserve. They have, for example, lowered thermostat and water heater temperature settings and eliminated such waste as unnecessary lighting; and they have added weather-stripping, caulking, and storm windows. Improvements in appliances, new home construction and the retrofitting of older homes offer further energy savings.

Appliances: Efficiency standards in the national energy act cover 13 categories of appliances. Nine of the standards will be issued by the end of 1980 and many of the appliances will be labeled so consumers can compare the energy efficiency of various models. In 1985, when a large stock of more efficient products has replaced the older models, these standards are expected to reduce by at least five per cent the projected energy consumption of appliances.

New homes: If best current building practices are used, including passive solar innovations, the average new home can be heated and cooled using 50 per cent less energy than a comparable existing building.

Existing buildings: Homes and other buildings have long life expectancies. Only two or three per cent per year are demolished. Therefore, the major conservation gains for the next several years can be expected from retrofitting older buildings with conservation improvements. The national energy act provides a number of incentives to stimulate conservation retrofits. Among them are:

—A 15 per cent tax credit for certain energy conservation expenditures up to $2,000, for a total credit of $300.

—A 30 per cent tax credit for the first $2,000 expenditure to add solar and renewable energy devices, and 20 per cent for the next $8,000, for a maximum credit of $2,200.

For additional information on both of the above tax credits, the Internal Revenue Service has toll-free telephone lines, which are listed in local telephone directories and on individual tax forms.

To help the consumer operate and maintain the home more efficiently, the department of energy has reprinted its popular "Tips for Energy Savers." For a free copy of this 30-page booklet, write ENERGY, Box 62, Oak Ridge, TN 37830.

Gifted Child Funding Made By Legislature

Minnesota Legislature has appropriated $600,000 over the next two years to support programs for gifted children in Minnesota schools. That works out to about $30 for every child identified and placed in special gifted programs.

"It's a drop in the bucket, but it's a beginning," says Dr. Bella Kranz, a professor of education at Moorhead State University who specializes in the education of gifted children. Prior to this new appropriation, she said, Minnesota was one of 13 states that didn't allocate funds for the gifted.

Kranz directs Moorhead state's summer program Golden Fleece, one of 12 university projects in the country that offers intensive training for teachers on how to recognize and educate talented children.

"We're at a frontier of gifted education and Golden Fleece is one of the few experiments," said Kranz, who says that the gifted are among the most neglected children in America. She agrees with government estimates that at least three per cent of all children have exceptional gifts or talents.

With the advent of some state money being set aside for the gifted, Kranz expects Golden Fleece to be more visible. Classes begin here July 16. Last year it trained two dozen teachers from Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin. Just as many are expected to go through the program this year.

Teachers interested in attending Golden Fleece or drafting plans for gifted programs in their schools may contact Kranz at the university's education department, 236-2161.

Local Youth Attends SSU Conference

Gasohol and the energy crisis, assistance for the family farm, food as a weapon for peace and the future of nuclear energy were prime questions with the approximately 50 scholar-delegates at opening sessions of the third Rural Youth conference at Southwest state university last week at Marshall.

Selected from this area as a delegate to attend the conference was Tom Scholin of Thief River Falls.

Rural America's most pressing problems — transportation, threats to the family farm and employment for youth — made up the official agenda for the institute sponsored by the Minnesota rural development council.

"Strategies for a Better Rural America" was the institute theme this year, and the delegates, chosen by standards of academic excellence, were to conclude the week with formal resolutions on rural issues to be presented to Gov. Al Quie by Mark Seetin, commissioner of agriculture.

Lt. Gov. Louis Wangberg opened the week-long institute with a list of challenges for young Americans.

"It is sometimes difficult to find meaning in life," he said in his keynote address, "but agriculture provides the best opportunity — food for the world is your responsibility and involves solutions to increased agricultural production and the energy crisis and developing new agricultural products."

He offered young Americans this formula: Establish priorities, have tenacity, value your experiences, have the courage to stand for what your conscience dictates, be flexible, enjoy some happiness and believe in yourself.

In responding to questions from delegates, Wangberg commented:

—Some of the jury is still out on gasohol, which is just one piece of a very gigantic energy puzzle.

—Yes, the small family farm needs management assistance.

—Yes, food for peace in some form should be carefully studied.

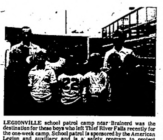
—State officials are informed that there will be adequate fuel supplies for agriculture this fall.

—The time will come when farming is much more profitable; the alternative, according to history, is some form of agrarian rebellion.

—Personal concern about the future of nuclear energy does not mean it is time to "throw the baby out with the bath water," and it would seem that the future will deal with nuclear fusion rather than fission — "and that is really down the road a way."

Institute speakers included representatives of the center for simulation studies and the Minnesota state planning agency; William Walker, Small Farm Project, Control Data Corp.; Russell Owens, National Governor's Association; Joyce Walker, Minnesota department of economic security; Don Schiel, Agri-Marketing Corp.; Roger Sandman, U.S. assistant secretary of agriculture, and Mark Seetin, Minnesota commissioner of agriculture.

President Jon Wefald of Southwest State University gave the concluding address as delegates were presented certificates.



LEGIONVILLE school patrol camp near Brainerd was the destination for these boys who left Thief River Falls recently for the one-week camp. School patrol is sponsored by the American Legion and auxiliary and is a safety program to protect elementary school children. There has not been a fatality at an intersection manned by the school patrol since the program was started. All school patrol members are normally provided with a trip to the Shrine circus by the sponsors, but this year were treated to hamburgers, French fries and soft drinks at the American Legion club rooms when the circus was postponed. Cliff Mattson of the state patrol (back row, left) is chairman of the project for Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117 and Larry Odegaard (right) is post commander. Patrol boys making the trip were James Hahn, Ryan Hedlund, Jason Peterson, Richie Smith, James Amundson, Matthew Bartsch, Paul Brandt, Jim Breiland, Joseph Drevlow and (not pictured) Gene Leppala. At Legionville they hear talks and view demonstrations by state patrol personnel and see safety movies as well as enjoy normal camp activities.

Barley Acreage In State Down 27 Per Cent

Minnesota's barley acreages total 780,000 acres, down 27 per cent from last year's 1,070,000 acres. The northwest district accounted for 74 per cent and the west central district accounted for 22 per cent of the state's total acreage. Acreage in both districts was down sharply.

Minnesota barley growers again planted Larker to more acres than any other variety. This is the 15th consecutive year Larker has been the No. 1 variety planted in Minnesota.

Its popularity, however, declined for the second consecutive year. Of the total barley acreage, 43 per cent was planted to Larker in 1979, compared with 65 per cent last year and 74 per cent in 1977. Larker accounted for 41 per cent of the planted barley acreage in the northwest district and 51 per cent of the west central district acreage.

The No. 2 variety, Morex, is reducing Larker's popularity. Developed by the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station from a cross of Cree and Bonanza, and released in 1978, Morex was introduced commercially this year and planted on 35 per cent of Minnesota's barley acreage. It accounted for 34 per cent of the barley planted in the northwest district, 39 per cent in the west central district, and 36 per cent in all other districts.

Manker dropped to No. 3 this year after being No. 2 since 1976. It comprised 15 per cent of the barley acreage this year compared with 24 per cent last year. Manker was planted on 18 per cent of the acreage in the northwest district, but only seven per cent in the west central, and three per cent in all other districts.

Beacon flax was planted on two per cent of the total barley acreage.

Three per cent of the state's total barley acreage consisted of other and unknown varieties. Other varieties included Bonanza, Conquest, Glenn, and Park. Also included in this category were Klondike and Primus, which are not recommended as malting varieties by the Malting Barley Variety Improvement Association. Nordic, which also is not recommended by the Association, accounted for two per cent of the state's barley acreage.

Egg Production In MN Dips, Value Rises

Egg production on Minnesota poultry farms during the first five months of 1979 totaled an estimated 73.75 million dozen with a gross farm value of over $38 million, agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin reported recently.

January-May egg output this year was five per cent below the 77.8 million dozen production during the same period of 1978, but the gross value this year is higher by $5.9 million or 18 per cent above last year's because Minnesota poultry farmers are receiving the most favorable wholesale egg prices since 1974.

Minnesota egg producers received an average of 51.6 cents per dozen for the eggs marketed this January-May, compared to 41.4 cents a dozen during that period in 1978. However, farm egg prices have been dropping since the March high of 55 cents a dozen, and in mid-June were down by nearly 16 per cent to an average of 46.5 cents.

Commissioner Seetin said that eggs are still one of the best nutritional food buys available to Minnesota consumers, even with the costs added into the retail grocery store prices for marketing, transportation, grading, cartoning, and overhead.

He suggested that consumers can get more value for their expenditures for eggs by pricing eggs by weight rather than by the dozen, when the price spreads are narrow between grade sizes.

Small eggs weigh 18 to 20 ounces per dozen, medium eggs 21 to 23 ounces per dozen, large eggs 24 to 26 ounces per dozen, extra large eggs 27 to 29 ounces, and jumbo eggs average over 30 ounces per dozen.

4H CLUB

Holt 4-H Club

Holt 4-H club met on July 12 at the Kenneth Peterson home following the club tour. President Dana Peterson called the meeting to order. Flag pledges were said. Roll call was answered by, "If you could go anywhere in the world where would you go?"

A motion was made to pay $5 to Joyce Haglund and Barbara Garthus to help them pay part of the expense for their Lake Sarah 4-H camp trip. We discussed the fair. Our club is to have its exhibits in at 1:30 p.m. for conference judging on Thursday, July 19.

We work at the 4-H food-stand on Sunday, July 22, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. We need to have 16 pies, three gallons of potatoes for potato salad, and four gallons of cabbage for coleslaw. Bob Castle volunteered to make name tags for our club to use when we work in the food stand. Three adult leaders or junior leaders are needed to go to cleanup day on July 23. Songs were sung and lunch was served.

Governor Will Participate In Area Cook-Out

Governor Al Quie will participate in a summer evening cookout at the Don Loeslie farm northeast of Warren, according to information released by his office this week. The event is scheduled from 5 to 8 p.m., Friday, July 27.

Loeslie, who has sponsored similar events in the past, points out that this year's event will be the largest ever. "We are expecting more than 1,000 farmers to be on hand. We'll have plenty of good food and fellowship during the evening," he predicted.

Representatives from overseas have expressed interest in attending the event and in meeting wheat farmers, who produce food for their respective countries.

The counsel general from Taiwan says he is attempting to re-arrange his schedule so that he can attend. Hugh O. Young, who headed a Taiwan buying mission to Minnesota two years ago, pointed out that this offers a rare opportunity for him.

Other representatives from overseas are expected from Russia, England, Singapore and Japan.

Many state and national leaders have been invited to participate in the event. "We'll have pork, beef, potato salad, baked beans, bread, soft drink and a dessert. There will be plenty of free parking and we hope a large crowd will attend," Loeslie said.

Officials of the Minnesota association of wheat growers and representatives of the wheat council have been invited to attend this event. "We'll have someone from these groups on the program," Loeslie added.

Tom Mick, Western Wheat associates official from Asia, will be on hand to discuss overseas market development and promotion projects.

Adams Named Insurance Rep

State Farm Insurance companies have announced the appointment of Paul and Marilyn Adams to the State Farm sales team servicing the Thief River Falls area.

Paul was a field underwriter for several years and most recently did adjusting work in the Thief River Falls area. He is a graduate of the Life Insurance institute of Purdue university and completed his college degree at Buena Vista college of Storm Lake, Iowa.

The Adams have two children, Amy and Sam and Paul is a member of the Elks, Rotary club and the Jaycees.

Energy Prices Increase Total Farming Costs

Skyrocketing energy prices may increase Minnesota farm production costs on field crops alone by at least $50 million this year, agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin estimated recently. That $50 million figure may be conservative if cost increases do not level off.

That is based on an average increase of 25 cents per gallon over last year's Minnesota farm costs for bulk delivered gasoline and diesel fuel.

In mid-June the officially estimated average prices for bulk fuels delivered to Minnesota farmers was 82 cents per gallon for gasoline and 69 cents per gallon for diesel fuel. Those prices were 21 cents and 23 cents higher, respectively, compared to mid-June 1978.

Minnesota farm fuel prices increased by six cents a gallon on both gasoline and diesel between mid-May and mid-June and that was the highest one-month increase on record. A comparable increase appears in prospect for the current month.

Commissioner Seetin said that in his own farming operations, which do include some reduced tillage practices to conserve fuel, his records show an average use of about ten gallons of fuel per acre just for field crops production through harvest. A 25 cents per gallon increase over last year's fuel costs will mean an added $2.50 per acre for field crop energy requirements this year.

Those relatively small figures translate into shockers when multiplied by Minnesota's estimated 22.5 million acres of field crops.

Although diesel fuel is still lower priced than gasoline, Minnesota farmers field energy consumption for crops production and harvest is heavily geared to diesel powered equipment and represents an estimated 60 per cent of total farm fuel use. At an indicated average farm cost of 72 cents a gallon for diesel fuel this year, that adds up to a $97 million fuel bill. Minnesota farmers will also shell out an estimated $78 million this year for gasoline fuel needed, making the total field crops fuel bill for 1979 loom in the neighborhood of $175 million.

Wildlife Group Defends Conservation Projects

"Ignorance is a personal problem," a perceptive person once wrote. "But to take advantage of one's position to share that ignorance and call it gospel is a social crime of monumental proportions."

Wildlife is in danger of becoming a victim of this alleged social crime, not as an intended casualty but as an innocent bystander. It is being put in that precarious position by unreasoning critics of hunting, crusaders who seek to force their moral standards on others who enjoy an honored and legitimate outdoor recreational activity.

The critics' latest tactics include efforts to destroy a time-tested national program that is the backbone of wildlife conservation in the U.S. Apparently they are doing this because the program is accused of being of primary benefit to game animals and is financed by hunters.

That program is the Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration program, sometimes called the Pittman-Robertson or P-R program after its congressional sponsors. Created in 1937, it is funded by manufacturers' excise taxes on sporting arms and ammunition, archery equipment and handguns. Receipts go into a special fund in the U.S. treasury and are apportioned among state wildlife agencies on a cost-sharing basis for research, land acquisition, habitat development and outdoor education. State apportionments are based on land area and hunting license sales.

In the past 40 years, the P-R program has financed more than $1 billion in wildlife restoration activity. Those who would undermine the program claim that most of the money is spent on animals that are hunted, such as deer and ducks, to the detriment of species that are not, such as evening grosbeaks and house finches. They are half right, which makes them half wrong and, thus, ignorant of some important facts.

Most of the money, in fact, is invested in programs designed and labeled to benefit game birds and animals. Consequently, most deer and duck populations are in pretty good shape. But these programs do not decimate nongame as the crusaders claim. Also, as a matter of fact, evening grosbeak and house finch populations are increasing rapidly. The reason is relatively simple. Certain groups of wildlife species (game and nongame) prefer certain types of habitat.

For example, when a land manager uses prescribed annual burning in a maturing southern pine forest to stimulate the growth of low vegetation that supplies food and cover for bobwhite quail, he automatically helps cotton rats, cottontail rabbits, bobcats (which eat the rats and rabbits) and at least 20 species of songbirds. It happens that way because the rats, rabbits and songbirds need the same type of food and cover as do the quail, and therefore, the bobcat's dinner table is set, too. There are, of course, many other closely knit associations of game and nongame in other types of habitat.

That these associations exist is an indisputable scientific fact. So much so that experienced wildlife managers can name the animals — game and nongame — expected to be present in any one area simply by looking at the habitat type. Consequently, if the P-R program helps certain game on certain areas of land and water, it is ecologically impossible to avoid helping certain nongame. But that's only part of the story.

Any time an acre of land is improved for one group of species, its value may be changed for another group. Gray squirrels and Acadian flycatchers don't like annually burned pine forests; fox squirrels and pine warblers do. And so on and on.

Therefore, when P-R funds are used to create a certain type of habitat, the results are not increases in game and decreases in nongame. The results are that the land becomes more attractive to those wildlife species, game and nongame, that prefer that type of habitat, and becomes or remains less attractive to animals with different needs. This is why wildlife managers try to create diverse habitat types — so there will be a greater variety of animal species for people to enjoy.

That is why the P-R money is used to burn in one place, impound water in another, cut timber in another, plow and cultivate in another, and provide complete protection to vegetation in another. And the record shows it works. A visit to a water area developed for ducks or to an upland managed basically for deer, turkeys or squirrels quickly reveals that many nongame animals are benefited. In fact, the number of nongame species benefited invariably exceeds the number of game species.

But to appreciate the present, one must understand the past. About 1900, many authorities did not have much hope that any of the larger forms of wildlife would survive beyond the 1920s. This pessimistic view failed to foresee the scientific wildlife management programs that developed in the early 1930s and which, with the help of P-R money, have expanded through subsequent decades.

The beaver, antelope, bison, elk, white-tailed deer, wild turkey, trumpeter swan, wood duck, sea otter and several species of egrets and herons were in dire straits during the early 1900s. Today, all these animals are relatively abundant. The P-R program helped finance the return and maintenance of these species and many others, both game and nongame. And it does not cost federal taxpayers one penny because all costs for administering the program are borne entirely by the manufacturers' excise taxes paid by those who enjoy recreational hunting.

It would be wrong to infer that the program is perfect. Certainly, it can be improved and is being improved. But to scuttle it in ignorance of its great value to America's wildlife heritage, as some would do, would be a social crime of monumental proportions.

USAF Promotes Cindy Forslund

Cindy A. Forsland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Kverno of St. Hilaire, has been promoted to the rank of airman first class in the U.S. air force.

Airman Forsland is a material facilities specialist at Grand Forks air force base, and serves with a unit of the strategic air command.

Mosquito Watch On In Areas Of Minnesota

Again this year mosquito surveillance is being conducted by the Minnesota department of health, Fergus Falls office in southwest, west central and northwest Minnesota. The culex tarsalis mosquito, which can carry the virus responsible for western equine encephalitis in humans and horses, is the focal point of the surveillance.

This species of mosquito is always present in the area beginning about the middle of June. It peaks sometime late in July and tapers off by later in August. The mosquito is active from approximately sunset to sunrise, and is particularily active on hot, humid nights.

As of July 16, the culex tarsalis mosquito is being regularly found in light traps throughout the area in varying small numbers, and appears to be increasing slowly. The public should be advised that normal precautions should be taken when out of doors between the hours of sunset and sunrise by wearing protective clothing or insect repellant.

The mosquito surveillance will continue throughout the summer and virus studies will be conducted on the culex tarsalis mosquito. The public will be advised of any changes in the situation.

Hobby Hour On Coin Collecting Planned Thurs.

Second in a series of hobby hours will be presented at the Northwest regional library, 101 East First Street, Thief River Falls, Thursday, July 19, from 2 to 3 p.m.

A presentation will be made by Pat Klemisch dealing with coin collecting. Klemisch, who is active in the local coin club, will bring portions of his collection and talk about different types of coins, their value, how to get a coin collection started and sources for additional coins.

Hobby hour is free and open to anyone over eight years of age. For more information, call the library at 681-4325.

St. Bernard's Collection Aids Boat People

St. Bernard's Catholic parish took up a special collection Sunday for the "boat people" — the homeless and hungry refugees of Indo-China — as an expression of love and concern for those less fortunate, according to Rev. James Bernauer, pastor.

The collection and special prayers were in response to an appeal by Pope John Paul II "to the conscience of humanity that all should take their share of responsibility" in reducing the suffering and hardship that hundreds of thousands are now enduring.

Pope John Paul said the need goes beyond races and idealogies and urged all Christian families to "make a personal commitment to make a concrete gesture as far as individual generosity and love-inspired creativity allows."

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Moose and children visited at the Russel Floberg home Saturday evening.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Charles Fisher of Annandale visited at the LeRoy Gustafson home.

Kenneth Forsberg and Ray Harwood of Van Nejus, Calif. arrived Thursday evening and will be spending some time at the LeRoy Gustafson home.

Energy Saving Tips Given For Summer

Just as consumers can count on a long hot summer, they can count on utility bills rising along with the temperature. So this is a good time to ask, "What can be done to hold down rising utility bills?"

First, use the air conditioner only when it is really needed. Second, use a whole-house ventilating fan (not an attic fan) instead of the air conditioner when it's 82 degrees Fahrenheit or below outside, or unless it's very humid. This can cut utility bills considerably. Third, use or buy cooling equipment that meets the need. Overcooling is expensive and wastes energy. Select a unit with the lowest suitable capacity and the highest energy efficiency rating available to cool your home.

If an 80 degree F setting raises the home temperature six degrees (for example, from 74 degrees F to 80 degrees F), savings of between 12 and 47 per cent in cooling costs can be realized, depending on location. If air conditioning temperatures nationally were raised six degrees, the nation would save the equivalent of 190,000 barrels of oil every day.

Setting the thermostat at a colder setting to accelerate cooling when the air conditioner is turned on also wastes energy. Set the fan on high speed except in very humid weather. When it's humid, set the fan on low speed which will result in less cooling, but more moisture removed.

Here are some more tips on the efficient operation of an air conditioner:

—Clean or replace filters at least once a month. When the filter is dirty, the motor has to run longer to move the same amount of air, requiring more electricity.

—Turn off window units when leaving the room for several hours. Less energy will be used cooling the room later than if the unit was left running, even on low speed.

—Consider using a fan in addition to the window air conditioner. It can spread the cooled air farther without greatly increasing use of electricity.

—Don't place lamps or TV sets near the air conditioning thermostat. Incandescent lights or home appliances generate heat, which is sensed by the thermostat. This could cause the air conditioner to run longer than necessary.

For more energy-saving tips, including some on the efficient operation of the home without air conditioning, write ENERGY, Box 62, Oak Ridge, TN 37830.

LEGAL NOTICE

July 11, 18, 1979
Notice of Hearing On Proposed Improvement

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Notice is hereby given that the City Council of Thief River Falls will meet in the Council Chambers of the City Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. on July 23, 1979, to consider the making of improvements on the following streets and alleys pursuant to Minnesota Statutes, Sections 429.011 to 429.111:

1. BITUMINOUS SURFACE MAINTENANCE PROGRAM — The recommended construction would consist of placing a layer of hot-mixed bituminous paving approximately ¾" thick over the following streets: Atlantic Avenue (8th Street-11th Street), Sixth Street (Main Avenue—BNR), Arnold Avenue (TH 32—6th Street), West First Street (Brooks Avenue — Knight Avenue), East First Street 225' W. of Soo Line RR (Pennington Avenue — Hwy. 59), Nora Street (Pennington Avenue —Spruce Avenue), Spruce Avenue (Nora Street — TH 59), Maple Avenue (Nora Street — Taft Street), Kneale Avenue (Nora Street — Taft Street), Merriam Avenue (Hughes Street — First Street and TH 59 — Taft Street), Crocker Avenue (Taft Street — LaFave Park), Tindolph Avenue (TH 59 — Taft Street), Taft Street (Kendall Avenue — Maple Avenue), Mussey Street (Merriam Avenue — TH 59), Gulf Street (Merriam Avenue — Pine Avenue), Hughes Street (Kneale Avenue — Spruce Avenue), Pine Avenue (Gulf Street — TH 59). The estimated cost of this portion of the project is $297,000.

2. STREET CONSTRUCTION — A. Oriole Avenue, Cardinal Drive and Cardinal Avenue. The recommended construction would consist of the construction of concrete curb and gutter and plant mixed bituminous pavement. The estimated cost of the recommended construction is $85,000.

B. Kendall Avenue (Third Street to Taft Street). The recommended construction would consist of the complete reconstruction of this street at its present width, including excavating unsuitable soils, backfilling with aggregate base, constructing concrete curb and gutter and plant mixed bituminous pavement. The estimated cost of the recommended improvement is $29,000.

C. Merriam Avenue (First Street to Third Street). The recommended construction would consist of excavating unsuitable soils, backfilling with aggregate base, removing and replacement of selected curb and gutter and plant mixed bituminous pavement. The estimated cost of the recommended improvement is $42,000.

D. Fourth Street (BN Tracks to Brooks Avenue). The recommended construction would consist of constructing concrete curb and gutter and plant mixed bituminous pavement. The estimated cost of the recommended improvement is $11,000.

E. Brooks Avenue (Third Street to Fourth Street). The recommended construction would consist of constructing concrete curb and gutter, plant mixed bituminous pavement, and storm sewer. The estimated cost of the recommended construction is $24,000.

F. Arena Parking Lot. The recommended construction would consist of excavating unsuitable soils, backfilling with aggregate base, constructing concrete curb and gutter and plant mixed bituminous pavement. The estimated cost of the proposed improvement is $47,000.

G. Columbia Avenue (Greenwood Street to Parkview Street). The recommended construction from Greenwood Street to Jerome Street would consist of excavating unsuitable soils, backfilling with aggregate base, construction of concrete curb and gutter and plant mixed bituminous pavement. The estimated construction cost of the recommended improvement is $40,000.

H. Jerome Street (Columbia Avenue to North of Greenwood Street). The recommended construction would consist of excavating unsuitable soils, backfilling with aggregate base, constructing concrete curb and gutter and plant mixed bituminous pavement. The estimated cost of the recommended improvement is $41,000.

I. Barzen Avenue (Third Street to Sixth Street). The recommended construction at this time would consist of reshaping the road surface to rebuild the westerly ditch slope and putting a new gravel surface on the street. The estimated cost of this improvement is $4,500.

J. Greenwood Cemetery. The recommended construction would consist of excavating unsuitable soils, backfilling with aggregate base and constructing plant mixed bituminous pavement. The estimated cost of the recommended improvements is $70,000.

K. Downtown Alleys (Blocks 29, 35, 36, 37 and 63 of Original Townsite). The recommended construction would consist of replacing and-or repairing the existing storm water sewers, manholes and accessories prior to the paving. This construction would consist of excavating unsuitable soils, placing an aggregate base and constructing 8" thick concrete paving. The estimated cost of the recommended improvements is $192,000.

L. Greenwood Street (Pennington Avenue to Kendall Avenue and Crocker Avenue to Spruce Avenue). The recommended construction would consist of excavating unsuitable soils, backfilling with aggregate base and constructing concrete curb and gutter and plant mixed bituminous pavement. The estimated cost of the recommended improvement is $253,000.

The properties proposed to be assessed for such improvements are all or a portion of the properties shown in Exhibit A attached. The estimated total cost of such improvement is $1,130,500. Such persons as desire to be heard with reference to the proposed improvements will be heard at this meeting.

Dated this 9th day of July, 1979.

Cat Classic Starts Friday

Mike Lee might be a bit biased, but he figures the place to be this weekend is the Thief River Country Club for the second annual Arctic Cat golf classic. Lee, the club manager, says Friday's ProAm competition and the Saturday-Sunday Cat Classic "is assured of excellent golf action." He invites all area residents to visit the Country Club "and watch the area's best golfers, pro and amateur, compete."

Sunday's eight-man championship flight promises top-notch competition says Lee who expects defending champion Wade Hoppe, "whose game is improving," to be a strong title contender, along with top area challengers Jim Strandemo of Mahnomen, Mike Sipe of Crookston, Scott Johnson of Hallock and Greg Mireault of Fosston, and Tom Zieman of International Falls, a former Lincoln high school golf standout who won this year's Thief River Falls Father's Day shortstop title.

In addition to Hoppe, Lee expects several Thief River Falls golfers to be in title contention. Bob Forberg, the 1978 Thief River Country Club champion and Hoppe's city best ball title partner is a good championship bet, along with Jay Moum, Mike Kosel and Marv Carlson, all everyday golfers who are "good off the tee," and Dave Geatz and Bob Fitzgerald, Hoppe's teammates on a strong Lincoln high school golf squad.

Nancy Harris, a high schooler from Roseau, and winner of yesterday's Thief River Falls ladies invitational tournament here, headlines the ladies division for the Cat Classic, with Marge Corliss and Sylvia Sjoberg representing the top Thief River Falls entries.

First year of junior division competition here will feature Chris Daniels, an 11-year-old from Fosston who will play in the World Series of Junior golf in Daytona Beach, Fla. in November. Top Thief River Falls juniors are Jon Onkka, Jimmy Geatz, Tommy Kenville and Jeff Storhaug, all regular golfers who are expected to compete for positions on Lincoln high school golf squad.

A group of 12 professionals will challenge the Country Club course Friday beginning at 1 p.m. to kick off the three-day Cat Classic affair.

Lee says he expects Jim Shade, Paul O'Leary, Mike Barge and Dave Kingsrud to be the leaders for the $400 prize money. Shade is the teaching pro at the Fargo Country Club who has won many sectional tournaments, including the North Dakota Open. O'Leary, of Grand Forks Lincoln Park, is the defending tournament champion, taking the 1978 title here with a three-under par 69. Barge is the assistant pro at the Moorhead Country Club and Kingsrud is the head pro at Fargo's Edgewood Golf Club.

There is no admission charge for any part of the Cat Classic, with spectators welcome to follow the golfers around the 6,054-yard course.

Another portion of the Cat Classic is the Saturday banquet which features guest speaker Ron Schara, outdoor sports editor of the Minneapolis Tribune and a contributing writer to Outdoor Life and other wildlife periodicals.

It should be pointed out, said Lee, that Schara, an accomplished outdoor story teller, does not golf (when does one find time to golf when you spend your entire life "working" as hard as Schara does). His appearance at the Cat Classic banquet opens the event up to a broader audience.

The Cat Classic banquet is open to the public. Tickets, free to tournament golfers, are priced at $15 per couple and $10 for singles. The banquet at the Country Club will include a cocktail hour beginning at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7:30 and Schara at 8:30, with video-tape highlights of Saturday's golf action following Schara's presentation.

To reserve banquet tickets; for additional tournament information; or to question Lee's title choices, telephone the Country Club at 681-2955.

Pam Johnson

Jim Heckroth

Johnson, Heckroth Earn Trap Honors

Pam Johnson and Jim Heckroth of the Thief River Falls Trap League were trophy winners at the 1979 Minnesota state trap shooting tournament last week at St. Cloud's Del-Tone trap range.

Johnson won the ladies handicap state championship in a shoot-off with Carol Puglisi. Both women shot 92x100 in regulation rounds, with Johnson taking the shoot-off with a 24x25 to a 23x25 for Puglisi.

Heckroth won the Class AA state singles championship, equivalent to a third place state finish behind the state champion and runner-up, with a 199x200.

He also took the Class AA doubles title in a shoot-off, going 96x100 in regulation rounds and 20x20 in the shoot-off to a 19x20 for his opponent.

Capping his strong showing, Heckroth earned the prestigious Class AA high all-around trophy based on the combined totals of 16-yard doubles and handicap targets with a 383x400.

Schmidts	3	10
Melvies	1	11

Wed., July 18: Schmidts vs. Melvies, 7:30 p.m.; Action Realty vs. Coca-Cola, 9 p.m.

Action Realty broke open a scoreless game with a three-run fourth inning en route to a 4-1 win over Schmidts Monday in Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league action. It was the only game played of the three that were scheduled Monday and Tuesday.

Matching the eight wins by league leader North Star Transport (8-0) and second place Coca-Cola (8-1), Action Realty (8-5) took command when Nick Drees led off the fourth by hitting a 1-0 pitch over the left field fence for a tie-breaking home run. Jeff Ulrich then singled and Mark Thorstad tripled to right, scoring the third run of the inning on a ground out.

Action Realty made it 4-0 in the fifth as Wayne Liden walked with two out and stole second. A throwing error on the play advanced him to third and the relay back to the infield led to another error and the run.

A similar play produced Schmidts' only run of the game in the top of the sixth when Larry Coltom drilled a double off third baseman Harley Drees' glove. The throw back to the infield sailed all the way to the right field corner, scoring Coltom.

TRF Legion Beats Bagley . . .

Sabo Strike-Outs Mount; Has 15 In 6-0 One-Hitter

Scott Sabo is on a pitching tear. On Tuesday the Thief River Falls American Legion left-hander struck out 15 Bagley batters en route to a 6-0 one-hit shutout. That follows a three-hit 5-1 victory over Roseau a week earlier when he struck out 17, giving him 32 strike-outs in his last 14 innings of work.

The victory raised Thief River Falls' season record to 9-3 heading into a regular season-ending 1 p.m. doubleheader against Bemidji Saturday, probably on the Northland community college diamond because of the Pennington county fair that forced cancellation of a Friday game against Gonvick.

Thief River Falls gave Sabo the only run he needed in the top of the first inning when Jeff Kosel continued his strong summer showing at the plate with a game-opening double. Tom Drury's sacrifice bunt moved Kosel to third and he scored on Jim Sethre's single.

It became 2-0 in the third inning when Sabo reached base on a fielder's choice and later scored on a two-out passed ball.

What had been a close game was broken open in the seventh when the visitors netted four runs on two hits — singles by Kosel and Sethre who accounted for all four Thief River Falls hits — two walks, an error and four stolen bases.

Sabo, meanwhile, struck out every Bagley batter at least once, striking out the side in the fifth and sixth inning and fanning nine of the final 10 batters he faced. Only hit off Sabo was a lead-off single in the second inning.

Babe Ruth Baseball . . .

TRF Elks, EGF Blue District Favorites

Rivals Thief River Falls Elks and East Grand Forks Blue are the co-favorites heading into the 1979 Lake Agassiz District Babe Ruth baseball tournament. The state tournament-qualifying four-team, double-elimination event will be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Roseau.

First round games Thursday will find the Thief River Falls Elks playing host Roseau at 10 a.m., with the East Grand Forks Blue facing Williams at 12:30 p.m.

Lake Agassiz District winner will advance to the 1979 state Babe Ruth baseball tournament for 13-15-year-olds next week at Maple Lake, near the St. Cloud area.

Thief River Falls Elks, coached by Bruce and Paul Williams, will carry a 20-8 record to Roseau. They'll enter the tournament as the Lake Agassiz Southern Division Sub District runner-up, a title won by the East Grand Forks Blue with a pair of wins over the host Elks in last week's tournament.

In five meetings between the Elks and Blue this summer, East Grand Forks has a 3-2 winning edge thanks to 10-3 and 12-11 Sub District tournament victories last week. During the regular season East Grand Forks won the first meeting 10-9 before Thief River Falls bounced back to win the next two confrontations 10-2 and 11-1, that second triumph coming in the semifinals of the Elks' Thief River Falls invitational tournament.

Defending Lake Agassiz District champion Crookston failed to survive the Southern Sub District playoffs this summer.

Nancy Harris Wins TRF Ladies Golf Meet Title

Nancy Harris of Roseau, featuring a one-over par 39 on the second nine, won championship honors Tuesday with an 82 in the 1979 Thief River Country Club ladies invitational golf tournament.

Harris bettered a first round 43 with her fine 39 to finish with a four-shot edge over runner-up Marge Corliss of Thief River Falls, the first round medalist with a 42 to go along with a 44 and an 86 total.

Sylvia Sjoberg was one shot back with rounds of 45-42 for an 87, followed by another Thief River Falls golfer, Sylvia Olson who had rounds of 45-46 for a 91.

Lee Grigg of Crookston won the first-flight with rounds of 49-43 for a 92. Donna Neujhar of Bagley was second with rounds of 48-47 for a 95, with Sharon Martins of Grafton and Bonnie Pitblado of Roseau sharing third with 97s as Martins went 48-49 and Pitblado covered the course in 47-50.

Second flight winner was Marilyn Collins of Park River, with a three-way second place tie featuring Linda Fisher of Gonvick, Arlene Devig of East Grand Forks and Marilyn Lapp of Grafton.

Vi Johnson of Thief River Falls won the third flight. Diane Epema of Crookston was second, with Keks Lee of Thief River Falls and Helen MacFrethen of Fosston tying for third.

Fourth flight — 1. Jan Anderson, Mahnomen; 2. Phyllis Moum, TRF; 3. Sam Rasmussen, TRF.

Fifth flight — 1. Mary Pyle, Grand Forks; 2. Kathy Wicklund, Greenbush; 3. (tie) Gertie Carter, Roseau and Shari Idso, TRF.

Sixth flight — 1. Betty Mitzel, Grand Forks; 2. Doris Schon, Fosston; 3. Butch Kosel, TRF.

Seventh flight — 1. Betty Buckeland, Gonvick; 2. Ruth Bagne, Gonvick; 3. Marilyn Charlson, TRF.

Eighth flight — 1. Linda Ness, EGF; 2. Cammy Johnson, TRF.

Raiders Edge Merchants To Keep Division I Edge

A 14-7 loss at the hands of Swenson Plumbing & Heating, Inc. Monday failed to dent the Rusty Nail Raiders' two-game Division I lead in the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association since their closest competitors — TRF Merchants and Tony Dorn, Inc. — were also losers, with the Rusty Nail Raiders beating the TRF Merchants 7-5 in a key head-to-head confrontation to complete a doubleheader assignment for both teams.

Brian Peterson and Gary Laidley both went 4-for-5 as Swenson Plumbing & Heating, Inc. upset the Rusty Nail Raiders 14-7.

TRF Merchants momentarily cut into the Rusty Nail Raiders lead by out-scoring Hobo Haus 21-11, but lost that ground when the Rusty Nail Raiders won the feature match between the two, 7-5. Two Don Grabowska home runs — a towering two-run shot over the center field fence in the second inning and a three-run blast over the left-center field barrier in the sixth — accounted for all the TRF Merchants scoring.

Shorthanded Tony Dorn, Inc. missed an opportunity to move within one game of the lead in an 11-2 loss at the hands of Wagon Wheel, a 16-1 winner over Arnold Realty in the first part of a twinbill.

Brian Rokke and Dan Magner homered as Hobo Haus handled Hartz 16-5, with Hartz gaining a doubleheader split by beating Furuseth-Nelson, Inc. 14-3.

Division II

Division II, which featured a four-way first place tie last week, has an undisputed leader this week in the St. Hilaire Bears who decisioned First Federal Savings & Loan Association 11-4 in a first place battle Tuesday.

First Federal Savings & Loan Association bounced back to beat Popplers-Action Realty 12-9 to become the winningest team in Division II, but remain a game out of first place in the more important loss column.

The Get-A-Way lost a chance to take over first place after splitting a pair of 3-2 doubleheader decisions, losing to Home Lumber and Jim Elleson's home run run in the opener before using the same score to defeat Hamms-Pizza Hut.

Last place Dallmann Athletic, Inc. pulled off a pair of surprises in beating Hamms-Pizza Hut 3-0 and knocking off Home Lumber 12-9.

Division IV

Division IV leaders matched wins as Wilson Brothers beat Kmart 11-4 Monday and Jean Junction-Rundell Electric crushed Lon's Restaurant & Pub 20-3 Tuesday when Phil Fore went 4-for-4, hit a home run and drove in six runs.

RUSTY NAIL RAIDERS shortstop Jim Rogalla tried to complete a second inning double play after forcing out TRF Merchants runner Tom Bendickson at second base during Monday's Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association clash matching the top teams in Division I. Rogalla's relay to first base was too late to get the double play, but the Raiders won the game 7-5.

Pizza Hut Wins RLF Women's Slow Pitch Softball Tourney

Pizza Hut of Thief River Falls bounced back from a third round 9-7 loss to Red Lake Falls to beat the host team twice in the championship finals of the double-elimination Red Lake Falls women's slow pitch softball tournament Sunday.

A demanding six-game Pizza Hut championship march began with an 8-3 victory over the TRF Farmer's Co-op Stingers as Patti Langlie, Coco Stokke and Georgine Troska hit home runs.

Rita Rantanen's dramatic two-out, two-run home run in the bottom of the seventh inning lifted Pizza Hut to a 6-4 second game victory over the Halstad Merchants.

Red Lake Falls rallied from a 7-4 deficit with a five-run seventh inning to win the key third round match 9-7.

Pizza Hut rebounded with a 16-5 victory over the Middle River Ridge Runners to gain a spot in the finals against unbeaten Red Lake Falls.

A six-run first inning carried the Pizza Hut to a 9-5 win over Red Lake Falls, forcing a third and deciding game between the two Thief River Falls league rivals.

The finale was a dandy as Pizza Hut pulled out a 3-2 victory when Langlie snapped a 2-2 tie with an RBI double in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Red Lake Falls opened with a 1-0 lead, but Sandy Schob's run-scoring single tied it at 1-1 in the fourth. Barb Hanson's RBI single in the fifth put Red Lake Falls back on top 2-1, but Langlie tripled as Pizza Hut tied it at 2-2.

St. Hilaire Tips Ridge Runners

A bases-loaded double in the bottom of the eighth inning by Lynette Huot lifted the St. Hilaire Saints to an 8-7 extra inning win over the Ridge Runners Monday in a key match-up of teams battling for a spot among the leaders in the Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league.

The outcome enabled the St. Hilaire Saints (9-2) to pull into a virtual third place tie with the Ridge Runners (10-2), two games behind unbeaten league-leading Red Lake Falls in the all-important loss column.

Red Lake Falls ran its record to 14-0 with a doubleheader sweep over the Rusty Nail 14-0 and Hydra-Mac-Toreq 18-2 in a game highlighted by a Red Lake Falls triple play.

Pizza Hut is sandwiched between Red Lake Falls and the Ridge Runners with an 11-1 record following a 17-14 triumph over the upset-minded Healthy Hustlers. Georgine Troska and Sandy Schob homered for the winners.

Arlene Knutson's home run spelled the difference as First Federal Savings & Loan Association edged Great Northwest Agency, In.. 10-9.

Donna Kompelien tripled and Linda Olson and Jodi Ranum both hit doubles as Falls Clinic defeated J & B Drug 12-7.

Ekeren Drug ten-runned the Credit Bureau 18-8 and the Farmer's Co-op Stingers shelled the Schmidt Stealers 17-0.

Ducks Unlimited Survey Says 1979 Outlook Is Optimistic

Ducks Unlimited, North America's largest waterfowl conservation organization, announced that recent reports from its DU (Canada) field staff indicate waterfowl production this year through Saskatchewan and Manitoba looks to be generally encouraging with hopes running high for a good fall flight.

"The northern portions of both Saskatchewan and Manitoba have excellent water conditions," said Ducks Unlimited executive vice president Dale E. Whitesell. "Within the next few weeks our field crews there expect to be able to confirm that we're into a good if not better-than-average production season despite cool spring weather which resulted in a late hatch. We're particularly pleased with conditions across the northern reaches of Saskatchewan above Saskatoon. Thanks to considerable rainfall through June, many marshes there are at water levels above those of early spring. Brood survival should, consequently, be extremely good, with production above average."

Whitesell went on to explain that unlike northern Saskatchewan, hot, dry weather in the southern portions of the province is "taking its toll of surface water with only the deeper, more permanent marshes providing assured brood water." But these conditions, he said, are countered by optimistic reports from southern Manitoba where broods of mallard, pintail and widgeon are appearing in good numbers, with second nesting efforts already underway.

"These field reports are generating enthusiasm in our volunteer ranks," said Whitesell, "as they gear up for our conservation fund-raising events across the country late this summer and through the fall. Ducks Unlimited now has over 300,000 members who care enough about the future of North American waterfowl to spend the kind of time and money needed to meet a critical habitat preservation and restoration challenge head on. Saskatchewan and Manitoba are cases in point. Just take a look at our habitat construction efforts there in 1979."

According to Whitesell, Ducks Unlimited's construction program in central Canada involves work on 76 waterfowl-habitat-creating projects totalling some 52,874 acres and 513 nesting shoreline miles.

1st NW Bank New Division Leader In Golf

First Northwestern State Bank joined the Arctic Swingers and Wennberg's as division leaders after five weeks of Thief River Falls men's golf league competition at the Thief River Country Club.

With a 911 team stroke total, First Northwestern State Bank replaced Hartz Wholesale as the Snead Division leader. Hartz Wholesale slipped to second with a 919, followed by Elks 921, Lee Plumbing & Heating Co. 937, Dwight's Hartz 940, Bakke-Iverson Agency 942 and Pepsi-Cola 942.

Members of the First Northwestern State Bank squad include Roger Reuter, Dave Kjos, Jim Rogalla, Darrel Bakke and Bob Kosel.

Arctic Swingers, featuring Jon Bolen, Bob Carlson, Harvey Ebbighausen, Chuck Folley and Bob Kuchowicz, maintained its Demaret Division lead with a 896, followed by Paint & Glass Supply 914, Model Laundry 920, Blue Cross 924, Larson Music 926, KOSN 927, Northern State Bank 931 and Bridgeman's 931.

Wennberg's held on to its Hogan Division lead as Dale Wennberg, Curt Geatz, Gus Holmes, Larry Spong and Russ Lane totaled a 901, followed by Doctors, Inc 908, HBO 917, Gordon's Hallmark & Gifts 918, Ekeren Drug 922, First Federal Savings & Loan Association 926, Simplot Soil Builders 941 and Professional Building 953.

Mike Kosel and Jay Moum shared the fifth week low gross honors at 36, with Gary Laidley shotting a 29 for low net recognition.

Texas-Style Golf Match Is Played Here

Golf team of Jay Moum, Kathy Walker, Curt Geatz and Bill Corliss were sudden death victors in Texas golf played Saturday at the Thief River Country Club.

The Moum group carded a birdie three on the 20th hole to claim the first place title over the team of Stu Rugland, Marge Corliss, Tommy Kenville and Arnie Johnson. Both teams shot an 8-under par 64 after regulation play.

Forty-five golfers participated in the 18-hole event played under windy conditions on the 3,054 yard Country Club golf course.

In a playoff for third place, the team of Steve Waale, Vi Johnson, Mike Anderson and John Moum edged out the Paul Wurst, Sam Rasmussen, Joel Carlson and Russ Lane team with a birdie three on the third extra hole. Both teams had played to an 18-hole tie at 67.

Golf action continues this week at the Country Club with the final round matches of the Tunberg Motor Match play classic and the weekend highlight, the second annual Arctic Cat golf classic, being played Saturday and Sunday with the Pro Am Friday.

TRF Merchants Sweep Roseau, Split Tuesday

Two wins at Roseau Monday and a split at home against Crookston Tuesday gave the 13-year-old Thief River Falls Merchants baseball team an 11-4-1 record heading into a regular season-ending doubleheader against East Grand Forks this morning (Wednesday) on the Northland community college diamond.

Thief River Falls swept Roseau 6-2 and 4-3 with Scott Johnston and Ryan Bakke picking up the pitching wins. Johnston tossed a two-hitter in the opener when Rick Spong collected two hits.

Tim Bottem pitched a one-hit shutout at Thief River Falls blanked Crookston 3-0 in Tuesday's opener on the Northland diamond, striking out seven batters in the five-inning game. But Crookston capitalized on eight Merchants errors to take the second game 7-1.

Post-season Lake Agassiz District tournament play will get underway Monday at East Grand Forks, with games also planned for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Several Changes Made In 1979 Hunting, Trapping Regulations

Several changes from past hunting and trapping seasons are featured in the regulations announced today by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. Many of these changes are in response to the testimony of people who expressed their views at 11 public meetings conducted around the state by the department this spring.

They include a shortened deer season in northwestern Minnesota, a ban on bear hunting during the deer season, a limit on raccoon for nonresident hunters, a longer season on Hungarian partridge, a shorter fox season and creation of a "furbearer line".

In addition, all deer hunters — both those using firearms and those using bow and arrow — will have to buy their licenses before the first day of the firearms deer season, which opens November 3 this year. Previously licenses could still be purchased on opening day of the firearms deer season.

There will be five zones for firearms deer hunting this season and all will open November 3. The closing dates vary depending upon the zone hunted.

Persons selecting zones 1 and 2 (northeastern and northwestern Minnesota) may hunt the entire season for those zones but may only take an antlerless deer (assuming they have a permit) on the dates set aside for antlerless deer hunting.

In zones 3, 4 and 5, however, hunters will have to choose between hunting during one of the early seasons when only buck hunting will be allowed or during one of the late seasons when antlerless hunting (for those with permits) will be open. Hunters without antlerless permits may also elect to hunt bucks during the late season in zones 3, 4 or 5 rather than the early season.

Hunting in zone 2 has been reduced from a total of 19 days last year to only nine this season, with antlerless hunting restricted to the final two days of the season on November 10-11.

A deer hunting zone was added in the western prairie region of the state this year to provide one more day of antlerless hunting to help assure an adequate take. Officials said that hunting conditions were poor on the one day allowed for antlerless hunting last season and the large deer herd in that area was underharvested.

Hunters who wish to take part in the special muzzleloader season will have to select thtat season (December 1-16) when buying their license.

Bow and arrow deer hunters will have a season from September 29 through November 25 statewide. They may take deer of either sex except for a limitation to buck-only hunting within a zone when there is an open firearms deer season.

Bow and arrow hunting will also be open December 1-16 in all of zone 3 (southeastern Minnesota) and zone 1 (northeastern Minnesota) south of U.S. Highway 2. The traditional December zone in the southeast has been expanded northward to accommodate the growing interest in late season bow hunting along the eastern side of the state.

Details of the Camp Ripley bow and arrow season will be announced later. St. Croix Park will not be open to hunting this year.

Bear season will be open September 4 to October 23 and no bear hunting will be allowed during the deer season, contrary to past years. Officials said the bear population in the northeast suffered last year because of a berry crop failure.

In addition, no bait may be put out for bears prior to August 25 and baiting stations must be registered with the local or regional conservation officer or with the director of enforcement in St. Paul.

Wildlife surveys show that Hungarian partridge populations are at a high level and this year's season will open September 15 and close December 31. Limits will be five daily and 10 in possession.

Pheasant hunters will have a season opening October 27 and closing December 2 with limits of two daily and four in possession. Only roosters may be taken.

This year a "furbearer line" has been established to divide the north central and northeastern portion of the state from the south and western part for the purpose of setting seasons on fox, raccoon, badger, mink, muskrat, fisher and otter.

Seasons on these species will open earlier north and east of the line because of the earlier freezeup and primeness of furs. A new law makes this change possible.

This year, because of another law change, nonresident raccoon hunters must buy a special license (costing $50) in addition to the nonresident small game license. They will also be limited to only eight raccoon for the season with tags required for transporting.

The badger is now protected by law and may only be taken during an established season, which this year will be the same as for fox trapping.

A statewide beaver season will be held, beginning on November 15, two weeks earlier than last year. Officials said they hoped this would increase the harvest of a beaver population that is currently at a very high level.

The treeing (but not taking) of raccoon with the aid of dogs will not be allowed this year from October 15 to the opening of the season.

Fox, raccoon and badger seasons will open at noon on Fri., Oct. 26, this year instead of the usual Saturday opener. South of the new furbearer line this opener is six days later than it was last year. The statewide closing date of January 24 is a week earlier than last year. These reductions are in response to indications that fox populations are down in some areas.

Like last year, no trapping will be allowed in muskrat houses and this year, the smaller adjacent structures called "pushups" are also off limits for trappers.

With the exception of the Talcot Lake wildlife management area, all those areas open for the muzzleloader deer season last year will again be open this year.

A synopsis of the regulations will be available from license dealers well in advance of the season openings. Waterfowl regulations will be announced following receipt of the federal "framework", sometime in August.

FISHING THE Yellowstone river at Intake, Mont., Bernie Weigel of Thief River Falls caught his prey when he handed this 60-pound paddlefish in mid-June. He used regular deep sea fishing equipment, including a 50-pound test line, two three-prong hooks and a spark plug for a sinker in the swift-flowing current.

Michigan Man Sentenced For Wolf Violation

A Burton, Mich., man has been sentenced to three years in federal prison and fined $1,000 after pleading guilty to transporting two wolves into Michigan in violation of the federal Lacey act, and for being in possession of a firearm as a convicted felon.

Donald Alvin Lockrey, 46, received the sentence June 27 from Judge James Harvey in the U.S. District Court at Fling, Mich., according to the enforcement division of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Lockrey was sentenced to one year in prison and fined $1,000 on the wolf charge and was sentenced to an additional two years on the firearms charge. The sentences are to be served concurrently. One count of obstruction of justice, and one count of false statements were dismissed at the time of sentencing pursuant to a plea bargain agreement under the provisions of Rule 11 of the federal rules of criminal procedures, enforcement officials said.

Lockrey is believed to be the first person in the U.S. to be sentenced to federal prison for violating federal and state laws pertaining to the protection of wolves.

Tides of Time

Portrait of human initiative!

At the moment it is moving bits of beach from place to place. But as the tides of time sweep in that initiative will be turned to ever more important aims.

TODAY offers more exciting opportunities than changing the contours of the sand. In churches around the world children are being taught the spiritual truths that will become essential as their horizons of initiative expand.

We love to watch our toddlers "working." Yes, we marvel at the energy and industry that inspire their sand bucket brigades. It is time to provide them with the moral and religious resources needed by those we count on to build a better world.

The highlight of the day was a 100 years of the Radniecki family history in pictures shown by Regene Radniecki, a presentation that will be long remembered by all present. Wedding cake was served to approximately 125 family members present.

Weekend guests at the Virgil Radniecki home were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kalar and boys of Blaine, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Perreault and family of Waseca, Randy and Gayle Radniecki of Crookston, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sorenson and family of Red Lake Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Radniecki and Tyler of Twin Valley.

Guests from Monday to Wednesday at Virgil Radniecki home were Sister Margaret Mary Fortier of Brainerd, Mrs. Dora Palsich of Yakima, Wash. Joining them on Wednesday for a picnic dinner were Mrs. Ethel Fortier of Oklee, Mrs. Pat Czech of Roseau, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdie Mandt of Thief River Falls, Gayle and Randy Radniecki of Crookston, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sorenson and family of Red Lake Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Radniecki and Tyler of Twin Valley, and Mr. and Mrs. Errol Rustan and Sam of Oklee.

Mrs. Norman Peterson,
Rt. 5, City, 681-2230

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Tronvet of Fargo, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Hestad from Grand Forks and Harlan Hestad of Moorhead were house guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hestad the last week in June. July 1 they hosted an open house at the Evangelical Free church in Thief River Falls in honor of their parents' 25th wedding anniversary. Also house guests at the Hestad home and attending the open house were Mr. and Mrs. Thelmer Ona and Tommy of Minneapolis and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ona of Duluth.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Peterson and Sarah of Angleton, Tex., came Sunday, July 1, to visit until Friday at the Norman Peterson home. Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. James Peterson, Eric and Jennifer of Becker and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peterson, Brent, Julie and Aaron of Portland, N.D., came and spent the remainder of the week. Also visiting during the week were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walling of Streeter, Ill. Mrs. Emmy Ashley and Gary of Tonica, Ill., Mrs. Rhuhama Hiatt, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Solseng and daughter of Fargo, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wold, Kristi, Tom and Dale, Francis Wold, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Peterson, Todd and Troy.

Arriving Sunday to visit with their mother, Mrs. Gladys Bakke, for a week were Mrs. Janice Reger, John, Jane and Karl of Buffalo, N.Y., and Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hancock from Sacramento, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Moore, Jeff, Allison and Dorothy of Boise, Idaho. Evelyn Klien, a sister of Mrs. Bakke of Los Angeles was also a house guest for a week and Mr. and Mrs. Art Bakke, Tommy and Scott of Bemidji spent the weekend with their mother. Friday evening all attended the Shaun Oen-Steven Muzzy wedding at the Trinity Lutheran church.

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Fred Halcock of Sacramento, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Moore of Boise, Idaho attended the reunion of the class of 1949 of Lincoln high school.

Our Saviour's couples club was held Sunday evening at the Roger Peterson home. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Roger Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Art Moe and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Peterson. President Reuben Wold was in charge of the program and Mrs. Paul Abel led the group in singing.

Attending were Pastor and Mrs. Eugene Enderlien, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Abel, Mr. and Mrs. Art Bredeson, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Mortrud, Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Halvorson, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Wold, Mr. and Mrs. James Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hauter, Mr. and Mrs. Art Moe, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vigness and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Grothe.

Northern Pipeline Advantages Cited

For more than three years, the proposed Northern Tier pipeline has been discussed and evaluated. Now, critical decisions that will determine the future of the proposed 1500-mile pipeline from Port Angeles, Wash. to Clearbrook are about to be made.

State permitting for the pipeline has been approved by North Dakota; decisions from other states on the pipeline's proposed route are expected soon. Meanwhile, in Washington, D.C., the timetable for White House action has been moved up from December of this year to October. Between now and then, the Secretary of the Interior, Cecil Andrus, will compile an inter-agency report for the President. When completed and presented to the White House by early October, President Carter is expected to announce his decision.

"Our nation's consumers and farmers desperately need some good news on energy," stats Jerry Tvedt, president of CENEX. His company recently become an owner-investor in Northern Tier.

"Northern Tier would connect the largest area of agricultural production in the United States with the largest available source of domestic crude oil in the country," Tvedt said. "Alaska has proven reserves of 10 billion barrels of Oil. Agriculture throughout this heartland needs. Alaskan oil and the Northern Tier pipeline to deliver long term supplies."

Northern Tier would bring sizeable quantities of Alaskan crude inland to refineries in the northern tier states. According to the Northern Tier plan, Alaskan crude would be shipped via tanker to Port Angeles, Wash. From there it would be pipelined inland to refineries along or near the 1,500-mile pipeline stretching across Washington, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota. Once approved, the pipeline is expected to be built in approximately two years, at a projected cost of $1.6 billion.

Inland refineries (Cenex has a 40,000 barrel per day refinery at Laurel, Mon.) need to secure new dependable sources of crude as Canada phases out its oil exports to the United States, Tvedt said. As recently as 1973 Canada exported over one million barrels of crude and petroleum products per day to the United States. Last year these exports were trimmed to 172,000 barrels per day. By the early 1980s they were expected to end.

Another significant trend affecting inland refineries is the departure of major historical suppliers from rural markets. "In the past four to five years many major suppliers have left the rural market to serve more concentrated, urban areas," Tvedt explained. "As these suppliers leave, the local co-ops have moved to pick up the slack."

Tvedt indicated that suppliers are currently feeling the pinch of tight fuel supplies and crude oil availability. "Our refineries are running at 70 to 80 per cent of capacity because crude oil supplies are limited. This is stretching our capacity thin as demand for refined products increases. The past few years our demand for refined fuels has risen at an annual rate of seven to 10 per cent," Tvedt said. "The nation's average increase for gasoline consumption during the same period has been just two to four per cent per year.

"We have become an owner of Northern Tier pipeline because we see this pipeline as a dependable, long-term answer to farmers' energy needs. Northern Tier will be a lifeline for agriculture's continued productivity and for the economy of a large part of the United States."

Jon Voight points out their son to his ex-wife (Faye Dunaway) in this scene from "The Champ," opening Fri., July 20, at the Galaxy Twin Theatre.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

There is something very wrong with Quie (or Perpich) or anyone else making appointments to government positions on the basis of minorities or women — not on qualifications.

This is in direct violation of constitutionally guaranteed "equality." It is setting groups up to be better than equal.

Show me a nation where everyone is equal and I'll show you a people not free. The United States has been a nation of free men because the people are not equal. (This too is changing.)

Carter now wants to bring in 3,500 Russian Jews a month as refugees and 14,000 (or more) Viets a month. Imagine setting up 28 new towns of 500 each, every month ($) in the United States... Viets with no money, no job skills, unhealthy and diseased; unemployment is increasing, inflation and taxes and debt soaring, no gasoline or fuel or housing for those already here. It's national suicide. There are already 12 million illegal aliens in the USA!

St. Paul Pioneer Press editor Bill Sumner wrote in an editorial in recent weeks that it is his understanding that 30-40 different languages are now mandated in public schools in the USA. Will we now have to provide the Viets with their own language in schools? Their own centers to "preserve" their culture? This is what the American melting pot means?

Few realize the potential for terrorism. I noted last week that the Viets were already "threatening" violence" overseas in a refugee camp when officials had to move some of them to another camp. England and other European countires are rife with terrorism by Asian immigrants that have turned against their hosts. You read about it in the back pages of newspapers, if at all.

Where are poor people (Viets) getting $3,500 per person to buy exit visas? Think about it.

The Viet government is now saying they will expel one to 1.5 million ethnic Chinese. These people are unassimilable. Carter is bypassing historic strictly-limited Oriental immigration quotas by designating these Viets as "refugees."

Drop Gov. Al Quie a postcard and let him know your wishes on minorities, women and refugees (State Capitol, St. Paul 55155)... also to President Carter (white House, Wash., D.C. 20500)... be sure to call and write your two U.S. Senators and two legislators, too. Your message need be no longer than a telegram but you must make your wishes known on all issues. Write at least one postcard a day to some elected local, state or federal official.

Call short messages on urgent issues or critical votes to your two U.S. Senators and Congressman. These are toll free hotlines: U.S. Sen. Boschwitz: 1-800-652-9771; U.S. Sen. Durenberger: 1-800-752-4226; and U.S. Congressman Stangeland: 1-800-432-3770.

The people must take back their government from the lobbyists and big campaign contributors if they want to pass on our 200-year-old heritage to our children and grandchildren.

Studying Middle Age

So accustomed have we become to interference by the government in our lives that we frequently accept it in the same fashion we accept mosquitoes on camping trips and ants in the picnic potato salad. For those who would resist, however, there is no known convenient spray to ward off government.

Publisher Bob Johnson at Wadena notes that Florida Congressman Claude Pepper announced recently that a government study has shown old age to be a direct outgrowth of middle age. Now that such a miraculous discovery has been made, at the expenditure of many tax dollars, the federal government is "beginning to consider what to do about it".

Johnson doesn't like the idea of being studied. Here is what he has to say about it:

Knowing the federal government's track record, I suspect that means they're trying to figure out a way to slap a tax on middle age. But first they'll probably set up a bureau to administer it. They'll call it something like Bureau of Median Lifetime (BML) and it will immediately have a Washington staff of 25,798 people. That's before they even have the field directors and branch offices.

And the first thing the bureau will do is make up a set of forms I'll have to fill out every year, probably under penalty of prison or fine or both. Without even seeing it, I know the form will have lots of sentences like "Deduct line 3 from line 2 unless 1-a is greater." They'll ask me a lot of stuff that's either none of their business or just plain ridiculous like "Do you suffer from loss of appetite after eating?"

Now I've acquired a certain amount of skill in formsmanship. Once I was filling out an application for an insurance policy and after "Have you ever used alcohol to excess?", I wrote "Yes."

The next line was "Explain circumstances." I wrote "Can't remember circumstances." The insurance company turned me down, which was great because I didn't want the policy in the first place.

I'm sure that little piece of smarting-off will probably show up in my BML file. They have ways, you know.

And I bet they'll figure out a way to make me get a license to be middle-aged. I'll either have to carry it on my person at all times or post it prominently in my home. If I want to spend Saturday night sitting around in my bathrobe watching old movies, I'll need my license, especially if an inspector pops in on a surprise inspection.

"Open up," he'll say. "Are you legally entitled to stay home on Saturday night?"

And I'll have to show him my birth certificate and the copy of my last year's BML return and probably an affidavit from Rick the barber that those grey hairs aren't the product of artful frosting.

The next thing you know we'll have illegal middle-aged people sneaking around, furtively reading underground copies of "Life Begins at 40." They'll have clandestine meetings at which they revel in not having to go to Cub Scout Blue and Gold banquets and hassle with the kids about who gets the car tonight.

More ominous to my wife is the fact that Congress has done a 333-page study devoted exclusively to women in mid-life. Among their suggestions are "legislative policies designed to put more women into elective and appointive offices." Getting into office is apparently Congress' idea of the closest we'll get to heaven on this earth.

As for me — go away, government. Let me romp wild and free through the silver years and into the golden ones. Please.

Our Situation Is Different

Columnist Lois Trapp wrote the following in a recent issue of the Grafton, N.D., Record:

Aren't you getting a bit tired of reading that Mr. Carter was lectured by the European leaders, and particularly by Helmut Schmidt, of West Germany, on the subject of America's profligate use of oil? It happens at every conference.

All of us are aware that something must be done to conserve energy but if our critics took a look at the United States they might see that it isn't as simple as they think; that in many ways our problems and theirs are not exactly the same.

It might be instructive to give Mr. Schmidt a car and tell him to drive from Bismarck to Phoenix. (Or try to get there by train.) The amount of empty space between here and there would probably put him into a state of acute shock.

You could put all of West Germany into the state of Montana and have enough room left over for Denmark and the Netherlands. All of Western Europe and Japan cover less than half of the area of the United States. The population density of West Germany is 648 per square mile. Wyoming's is about 4. Even our most populous state, California, has a density of about 125 per square mile.

Propaganda has it that Europeans all ride bicycles or walk to work while we jump into our cars for every errand. True, we do have the car habit, but in Europe things are a bit closer together.

They boast of mass transit systems and railways superior to ours. They also have the population density to make them economically feasible.

While Mr. Schmidt lectures us, the Germans also have their love affair with the automobile. Thanks to A. Hitler and the German military, they have a networik of 4,000 miles of super highway — the Autobahn.

It was interesting to note in the morning paper that the latest figures show that the United States cut oil consumption last month by .7 per cent; not much, but still a cut. At the same time, European consumption rose by more than three per cent. Let's hope someone gets that news to Mr. Schmidt.

"The Soul of Justice"

Following editorial is from the Minneapolis Star:

In an appalling decision, a narrowly divided Supreme Court has granted judges everywhere sweeping freedom to close court rooms, holding in effect that trials are a private matter for the judge, the defendant and the lawyers. It has, in short, said that courts can arbitrarily function as though they were private clubs.

The 5-to-4 case involved primarily a pretrial hearing, but Justice Potter Stewart's devastating majority opinion went further. It also gave judges the option of locking the doors during an actual trial at the request of defense and prosecution attorneys.

So once again the Burger court has driven news organizations to dismay and anguish with a harsh and chilling denial of their role as sentinels for the public, or even as the mere chroniclers of routine court business. But it would be wrong to dismiss this case lightly as just one more instance of the running feud between Chief Justice Burger and the news media. On the contrary, the very first words in Stewart's opinion, in which Burger joined, said:

"The question presented in this case is whether members of the public have an independent right to insist upon access..." Not, mind you, reporters, or the press, but the members of the public, the people whose taxes support the court system to which they're subject.

In fact, a great case for the public's need to know first hand what goes on in courts, where 90 per cent of all indictments are settled during pretrial proceedings, was made by Justice Harry Blackmun. In his dissent, Blackmun spoke for the public, and for the press as the agent of the public, as eloquently as — and probably better — than any news organization person could. The betst way to editorialize against the majority's approval of secret courts is simply to quote a few lines from Blackmun's dissent:

"Open judicial processes, especially in the criminal field, protect against judicial, prosecutorial and police abuse; provide a means for citizens to obtain information about the criminal justice system and the performance of public officials; and safeguard the integrity of the courts."

"Publicity is essential to the preservation of public confidence in the rule of law. . .Only in rare circumstances does this principle clash with the rights of the criminal defendant to a fair trial. . .Those circumstances do not exist in this case."

"The requirement that a trial of a criminal case be public embodies our belief that secret judicial proceedings would be a menace to liberty."

"Publicity 'is the soul of justice'."

Interesting Opinions:

"We were the first to assert that the more complicated the forms assumed by civilization, the more restricted the freedom of the individual must become."

—Benito Mussolini

"Our basic thesis is not that the system of free enterprise for profit has failed in this generation, but that it has not been tried."

Labor-HEW—An Excessive Price Tag

The people of the United States have made it very clear they are opposed to continued excessive spending by the Federal Government, but so far Congress has not taken stock, or moved positively, in the direction of the will of the people.

Billions of dollars are appropriated each year by Congress, and recently the House approved overwhelmingly the $73 billion Labor-Health, Education and Welfare Appropriation Bill for 1980. The total dollar value of the bill is over $237 billion for fiscal year 1980, which amounts to an increase of slightly over $22 billion above the 1979 appropriation.

I was one of 84 members of the House who waged a losing battle to defeat this appropriations bill. Many of its functions are necessary. Many of its individual line items are funded at responsible levels and some are underfunded. In total, however, it represents too much spending. To put the budget of this department into perspective, consider the fact that HEW receives the largest appropriation in the U.S. budget — almost 40 per cent, and this total is greater than the budget of any other country in the world except the Soviet Union.

In a time when our economy is experiencing growing pains, Congress and government must become dedicated to an attitude of fiscal responsibility, and begin acting to reduce the Federal budget instead of inflating its price tag. One of the many ways to reduce the budget without reducing services is to reduce waste and fraud, but apparently most people, including those serving in Congress, have forgotten that only last year HEW Secretary Joseph Califano publicly admitted this his department loses $8 billion annually to misappropriations, waste and fraud.

Another abuse atrributed to HEW is the department's insistence on hiring large numbers of consultants at high wages. Secretary Califano reported to Congress last year that HEW was paying only 12 consultants more than $25,000 a year, and the National Institutes of Health, a subdivision of NEW, reported no consultants above that level. But when Congressional investigators performed a computer check, 102 consultants in HEW and 83 in NIH were found to be earning more than the $25,000.

Limits are also placed on the number of consultants an agency or department can maintain on its payroll. Investigators have discovered that NIH has 100 more consultants than its legal limit, and HEW has 45 consultants doing work that could easily be done at less cost by regular civil servants. Further investigations examined 29 of 2,217 consultant contracts and found that 23 involved violations of Federal hiring rules and procedures. Eight of those cases were uncovered in Secretary Califano's personal office.

I cannot support budget increases and excessive spending by HEW since it continues to display a total lack of regard for the economic well-being of the American taxpayer. This department continues to proliferate and demonstrate the ineffectiveness of the large bureaucratic machine, and until Secretary Califano makes significant headway in reducing waste and fraud, I will continue to vote against unnecessary and unwarranted budget increases.

NORDEN . . .

Mr. and Mrs. James Dedina, of Montgomery have been house guests at the Ivan Mikkelson home. They also attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cork which was held at St. Bernard's church July 1. July 4 was spent fishing on Lake of the Woods. The fishing was good, also. The Dedinas left for their home Friday morning.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

It's Time to Stop Treating Bureaucrats Like Untouchables

We live in ironic times. In this enlightened age, we are generally more educated and better equipped to achieve, create, improve and excel than ever before. And yet, we must also contend with a government absolutely determined to be our nanny — one that is convinced we have neither the right nor the ability to fend for ourselves. The result is frustration, a kind of collective gnashing of teeth and a tilting away from individual opportunity and economic growth.

I see these contradictions whenever I travel. Outside Washington, people are obviously very concerned about problems like inflation and energy, but, they still believe in their own potential; they know they can produce needed solutions if only government would get out of the way and stop taxing and spending so much of their money. Not so in Washington, where bureaucrats distrust anyone producing anything without their permission. Here the quest is always for more power.

People go to the polls believing they are electing representatives to a Congress that writes the laws of the land. It isn't so. Regulatory agencies currently spew out about 18 regulations with the force of law for every one law enacted by Congress. These little nuggets of wisdom cost every working American substantially more than $1,000 a year. And the beauty of it all is — at least from the bureaucrats' point of view — that we rarely even know it's happening.

How many Americans, for example, will have the time to read of scan the 75,000 pages of the Federal Register each year to learn which of the 7,000 new federal regulations personally affects them? How many of us even realized that bureaucrats had been busy, busy, busy writing regulations for mousetraps? They were. The specifications weigh 3.3 pounds, cover 700 pages and total about 20,000 words. That's why we pay more for a mousetrap than we should. But we shouldn't get upset, for the regulators could care less what we think. Unlike our representatives, they are neither elected by us, nor responsible for us; in effect, they are practically untouchable.

Some of the worst examples of the bureaucratic overkill come from the Federal Trade Commission. Perhaps the most aggressive agency in Washington, the Commission's influence extends to virtually every activity in our economy, from the manufacture of hearing aids to mobile homes. One of its goals — to root out deception from the marketplace —, is both legitimate and necessary. But the FTC seems to hunger for a more sweeping mandate to regulate our entire economy, and it has some 600 lawyers and 80 economists sitting around deciding what they believe is unfair in life. These people have a license to go hunting behind every bush and every door, but they are under no compulsion to consider the impact of their regulations. The result is a host of ill-conceived rulings that translate into millions of dollars in litigation fees being passed on to consumers in the form of higher product costs.

One of the FTC's latest quests is to move ahead with proposals that could ban, or sharply limit, child-oriented television commercials. As usual, the FTC has presented no cost-impact study. An economist who did, estimated that at a minimum, the proposals could cost 284,000 jobs and lead to a loss or more than $2 billion in tax revenues. There is an alternative. Parents can exercise their responsibility by occasionally turning off the television and using that dirty two-letter word: No.

Nor does the FTC's strict concept of fairness in the marketplace extend to its own dealings. I find it appalling that its staff members have systematically attacked the credibility of witnesses opposing an FTC proposal. Indeed, many of these proceedings are all but rigged, but they are controlled by: One staff member who proposed the rule; a colleague who serves as "impartial" hearing officer, and still another colleague who decides which "public interest" group will be given taxpayers' money to "objectively" support the proposed rule.

I believe it's time to require cost-impact studies and also permit Congress to veto unwise regulations before they're enforced. The Administration is fond of populist rhetoric, yet it opposes the Congressional veto since it would interfere with the power of the Executive Branch. But Congress is closest to the grassroots and more than 200 members of the House already support the idea.

And why not? Right now regulatory agencies are out of control. A Congressional veto could bring the process into the open by insisting that bureaucrats assume the same responsibilities as other Americans . . . rather than remain the untouchables they now are.

Shape Up For The Long Run

Shaping up has become the great American pastime. And it can be done painlessly and without strain with the proper combination of exercise and good nutrition. Aerobic exercises like jogging, biking and walking tone muscles and improve cardiovascular health. Serving main dish salads topped with a seasoned polyunsaturated corn oil dressing is a good nutritional counterpart for shaping up. Serve Tomato Salad Dressing with a variety of greens, raw vegetables, low fat cheese and poultry julienne strips.

A new booklet called "Shaping Up for the Long Run" describes the exercise - good nutrition connection, dispelling many of the commonly heard myths. For a free copy, write Mazola corn oil, Dept. SU-D, Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

TOMATO SALAD DRESSING

- ⅔ cup corn oil
- ⅓ cup cider vinegar
- ⅓ cup catchup
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 clove garlic, minced or pressed

In small jar with tight fitting lid place corn oil, vinegar, catchup, Worcestershire sauce, salt and garlic. Cover; shake well. Refrigerate. Shake thoroughly before serving. Makes 1 cup.

FOR DIETERS AND DIABETICS — SUGAR-FREE, HOMEMADE JAMS

	Calories per 100 grams serving	Calories per 1 tsp.
REGULAR GRAPE JELLY made with granulated sugar (USDA Home & Garden Bulletin #72)	278	17
SLIM SET GRAPE JELLY made with artificial sweetener	74	4
-made with honey	125	7
-made with reduced amounts of granulated sugar	135	8

Rocketing food prices and developing public awareness of the widespread use of questionable ingredients in commercially processed foods have combined to turn many U.S. families to home canning, with particular emphasis on fruit jams and jellies. A larger percentage of the populace, however, has been barred until recently from enjoyment of wholesome, homemade fruit spreads by the restrictions of either diabetes, or weight-reducing diets; groups which can not tolerate the heavy sugar content normally required in preparation.

The need has been obvious, but the answer—a product which would enable those on sugar restricted diets to again enjoy truly delicious homemade jams and jellies—was not an overnight development. Slim Set development took time. Now available in most food markets, it has been tested in tens of thousands of home kitchens over a three year period since its initial introduction, and has demonstrated beyond doubt that it will make excellent quality jams and jellies. It can be used with fresh fruit and/or bottled or canned fruits and juices.

Slim Set, a truly unique, new jelling mix, now makes it possible for nearly anyone to enjoy delicious homemade jellies and jams without fear of excess sugar intake. It permits the use of honey, artificial sweeteners or reduced amounts of refined sugar in place of the standard 55% sugar by weight required in conventional preparation. Of equal importance to dieters and non-dieters alike is the fact that more of the real fruit flavor is retained by the use of Slim Set, since the flavor-producing fruit juice is not boiled away, as is the case with conventional recipes.

The importance of Slim Set's contribution to the American dieter cannot be overstated. Current official estimates indicate approximately 50% of our total population to be on weight-reducing diets. In addition, there are currently more than ten million known diabetics in the U.S., with at least that many more suspected as latent or undiagnosed. Comparison of Slim Set Grape Jelly with published official figures tell its own happy tale:

Quite obviously, Slim Set jelly easily qualifies within official FDA definition as a "low calorie" food product.

Fall-Proof Recipes

To experienced home canners, it will become immediately apparent in the recipes below that the use of Slim Set in lieu of pectins actually simplifies preparation by eliminating the long and tedious boiling otherwise required to get a jell. Alternate sample recipes are given for preparation of Concord Grape Jelly (the most popular jelly flavor) with honey, with low-calorie artificial sweeteners, and with a reduced amount of granulated sugar.

Free recipes

Slim Set recipes for making full-flavored jams and jellies with nearly every variety of fruits and/or fruit juices are available to you at no cost. Simply write to: SLIM SET, MCP FOODS, INC., P.O. Box 3633, 424 South Atchison Street, Anaheim, Calif. 92803.

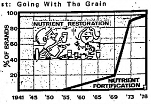
NEWS OF NUTRITION

Breakfast: Going With The Grain

In meeting the nutritional needs of children and adults, the importance of a good breakfast cannot be overestimated. In this article, a scientist who has had long involvement with American breakfast habits explains how cereal-based breakfasts suit our changing lifestyles while contributing importantly to daily nutritional needs.

By Eugene B. Hayden, Ph.D.



Voluntary restoration of key nutrients in breakfast cereals to whole grain levels began in the early 1940's, fortification to higher than whole grain levels in the 1950's — until today more than 92% of ready-to-eat cereals are fortified.

Breakfast cereals are highly nutritious foods which, because of ease of preparation, are playing an increasingly important role in providing essential nutrition at breakfast for millions of children and adults each morning.

A recent study showed that ready-to-eat cereals are included in 44 percent of all child breakfasts. In fact, a bowl of cereal and milk has become the number one at-home breakfast choice for millions of Americans. According to the Fifth National Household Menu Census, breakfast is skipped three times more often by children in households which do not serve ready-to-eat cereals.

Dr. Hayden

Today's breakfasts are often characterized by individual family members eating at different times, selecting and preparing their own food and, as a result, eating fewer food items. Thus, each food assumes an increasingly important nutritional role.

Ready-to-eat cereals are ideally suited as sources of needed nutrients because they are popular foods consumed by all segments of the population. As food consumption patterns at breakfast have changed, cereal makers have voluntarily enhanced the value of these foods to consumers through nutritional fortification. Fortification is the practice of adding nutrients to foods to increase their nutritional value.

Because many nutritionists recommend that breakfast provide about 25 percent of the day's nutrients and calories, cereal makers have fortified most ready-to-eat cereals to provide 25 percent of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance (U.S. RDA) for at least seven vitamins in a serving—before the addition of milk. The much greater percentage of nutrients relative to calories make these cereals highly desirable.

Since cereals are eaten almost always with milk, the nutrients added to cereals have been chosen to complement the nutrients present in milk. For example, a typical fortified ready-to-eat cereal is high in iron, several B vitamins, vitamins A, C and carbohydrates. Whole milk is low in these nutrients but an excellent source of calcium, protein, vitamin D and phosphorus.

The nutritional content of today's fortified ready-to-eat cereals, whether presweetened or regular (non-presweetened), is the result of a series of voluntary responses by cereal makers to evolving knowledge of dietary needs. Cereal makers have been adding nutrients to breakfast cereals for 38 years and have provided information on nutritional content on cereal packages since 1941.

Breakfast is a vital part of daily nutrition, and we know that children who do not eat ready-to-eat cereals skip breakfast more often. Judgments on the nutritional importance of ready-to-eat cereals—their contribution to American breakfasts, their convenience and economic value—aren't matters for debate or opinion, they are matters of fact.

Dr. Hayden is president of the Cereal Institute, Inc., which was founded in 1943 to encourage greater awareness of the nutritional importance of breakfast and the role of cereals in the diet.

PREDICTING THE FUTURE

Watt's Ahead For Electric Power?

There's no shortage of energy ideas.

Though there may be a fuel shortage, there's no shortage of ideas on how electricity will be generated in the years ahead.

In addition to conventional fuels to fire the steam boilers that turn the turbines that generate electricity, there's uranium—currently the least expensive method of generating electricity by nuclear power.

What else is ahead? According to the experts at the Edison Electric Institute, a lot.

- Coal gasification (gas from coal) and liquefaction (liquid fuel from coal). So far, not economically feasible.
- Magnetohydrodynamics. Very hot, high pressure gasses are blown between magnetic poles to generate electricity. Technology not expected to be perfected until about the year 2000.
- Solar energy. Science still seeking economical ways to capture the sun's energy, store it and change it into electricity.
- Solar satellite and solar farms. A satellite would collect sunlight 24 hours a day, beam it to earth by microwaves where it would be transformed into electricity. With costs and other problems, it's not expected to be a reality until the 21st century.
- Geothermal energy. Although it's relatively clean, needs no additional fuels and is believed to have long-lasting reserves, energy production from this source will require more advanced technology to be economically feasible.
- Wind power, the oldest energy source. The wind might have some rural uses but is not expected to make any significant contribution to national electric power production. There are too many uncontrollable problems.

Summons Something Not To Be Ignored

by Court Information Service
Minnesota Supreme Court

The person coming to the door may be dressed in ordinary street clothes or may be wearing the uniform of a sheriff. As the door is answered, the person asks, "Are you P.Q. Jones?" You relpy yes. Reaching into a vest pocket, the person pulls out a sheaf of papers. "I have something for you."

This person is a process server and the process being served is the legal process. The papers are most commonly a civil summons and complaint, although they also might be a criminal summons, a subpeona or other legal documents. But whatever they are, people on the receiving end — those being served — should sit up and take notice.

The most likely papers to be carried by the process server are the civil summons and complaint. These papers are the first signal to a person that a lawsuit has been started against him or her. The complaint sets out exactly what the lawsuit is about — be it dissolution of marriage, loan, contract, automobile, accident or other. The complaint is a legal document prepared by the person bringing the suit — called the plaintiff — or by the plaintiff's attorney. In certain cases a petition is used instead of a complaint.

On top of the complaint is the civil summons. The summons is literally a call to action. It informs the person being sued, the defendant, to respond to the complaint at once or suffer the consequences — a default judgment. The response must be by means of another written legal document, called an "answer." An answer usually must be completed in 20 days, although sometimes the time period could be as short as five days or as long as 30 days.

The consequences for not filing an answer can be serious. A default can mean that the case proceeds without the defendant being involved any further. The defendant can lose automatically in court, and whatever rights or claims the defendant had are similarly lost. Some default judgments can be reopened, but only with difficulty and in special circumstances.

Dealing with criminal summons is often less complicated. The criminal summons and complaint are generally used for minor charges, such as traffic tickets. It is more straightforward because it contains a date to appear in court and orders the person being charged to be there. But, the on-the-doorstep personal service of a criminal summons is less common than of a civil summons. For most criminal charges, a person is brought to court through an arrest or arrest warrant, rather than by a summons.

Another court document that also might be personally served is a subpeona. The subpoena is simply an order to a person to appear in court and give testimony as a witness in a case.

The process server must follow certain rules in delivering court papers, but the extent of these is often misunderstood. In civil cases, for example, the process server need not be a sheriff; any person except an actual party to the lawsuit can serve the papers. In addition the summons and complaint can be left either with the person being sued, or with anyone else who lives at the residence and is of "suitable age and discretion." If a person refuses to take the summons and complaint, for example, by closing the door on the process server, the documents can be left in a "conspicuous" place.

As with most legal rules, there are exceptions to the need for personal service in civil actions. Conciliation court represents the most common. For small civil claims in conciliation court, the summons and complaint are sent by mail. And, in other cases, where the person being sued cannot be found after a diligent search, the summons and complaint can be published in a legal newspaper.

Whenever a question arises about the service of a summons and complaint — or what to do after it is served — an attorney should be consulted. Whatever the situation, there's generally not much likelihood about the papers, like the process server that brought them, will simply go away.

FLOWER POWER

As a boy, Robert Fausch participated in the Minnesota State Fair as a member of the Farm Boys Camp. He also exhibited swine in 4-H competition. At age 73, he continues to take part in the fair by displaying dahlias in the annual Minnesota Dahlia Society State Fair Show.

In last year's competition, Fausch's dahlias won both sweepstakes and grand sweepstakes honors. His flowers have also taken grand championship laurels at the Aitkin County Fair the last four years. He contributes his success in raising champion dahlias, in part, to "the availability of the warm, plentiful waters of the Big Sandy Lake."

Fausch and his wife, Laimi, moved to Big Sandy Lake in McGregor 10 years ago, after he retired from the Minneapolis public school system. Their home is located on a rocky island in the middle of the lake. Since rocks do not grow good dahlias, Fausch constructed patches of sand, compost and barnyard materials from which to grow his blooms. Fausch says the dahlias planted along the lakeshore provide summer and fall pleasure for boaters passing by.

Boaters are not the only ones to share in the beauty of the dahlias. Fausch contributes flowers to many weddings, anniversaries, banquets and churches in the area. An avid promoter of the dahlia culture, he frequently gives talks to flower clubs, school groups and garden tours. He also furnishes roots to interested gardeners, resulting in many new dahlia enthusiasts in the McGregor area.

Mrs. Fausch takes part in her husband's hobby by making flower arrangements with the dahlias. Her arrangements will be on display along with Fausch's blooms at the 1979 Minnesota State Fair, Aug. 23 through Sept. 3.

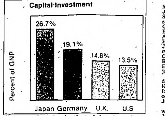
WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU?



The rate of modernization of American plants is falling below that of our foreign competitors.

Increasing America's productivity might help reduce inflation and create more jobs. In this article, a leading businessman discusses this goal and explains how we can achieve it.

By T. J. Murrin

Worker productivity has been rising much faster in Europe and Japan than in the United States. Concurrently, the U.S. share of world exports has declined significantly. The slowdown in U.S. productivity growth inflates costs and makes U.S. goods less competitive in world markets.

The importance of technology to productivity improvement and the creation of jobs cannot be underestimated. For example, employment in the United States has been growing almost nine times faster in the high-technology industries than in the low.

Our government must increase its research and development investment and foster a climate which encourages innovation. Changes should be made in the federal tax structure to help stimulate R&D by private companies. Secondly, investment in productivity-improving plants and equipment must be encouraged.

We as a nation and as individuals have placed emphasis on consumption rather than saving and investing money. As a result, sufficient money for plant and equipment investment cannot be easily borrowed or raised on the stock market.

To stimulate saving and investing, we might eliminate the taxation of phantom capital and interest gains resulting solely from general price inflation, and the double taxation of corporate income distributed to individuals as dividends.

Improving productivity will help us create more jobs.

T. J. Murrin

Another way we can improve productivity is to improve the management of people so they get more satisfaction from their jobs and, in the process, become more productive.

Productivity would also benefit from a closer match between skills and jobs. Educational institutions must be more cognizant of the future job market, and we must better prepare youth to meet job requirements.

Growing government regulation and the expansion of government controls is imposing a heavy cost on society, reducing the rate of productivity growth and reducing technological innovation. It is estimated that in just one year administrative and compliance costs of $66 billion were equivalent to a hidden tax of $307 on every person in the United States.

Our government should review existing and proposed legislation, regulation and practices at all levels of government for their impact on productivity.

The productivity growth problem is very complex, but it is essential that the decline be reversed. International competition for our jobs means we have no more borrowed time available. Improving productivity must become a national priority.

T. J. Murrin is President of the Public Systems Company, Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

Armyworms Threaten Grain Crops In Area

Reported heavy infestations of armyworms in eastern Pennington and Marshall counties have failed to reach the immediate Thief River Falls area but the potential exists for future damage, according to Terry Courneya, Pennington county extension director.

Courneya said he checked about 15 fields in the Rocksbury, Silverton and Cloverleaf township areas this morning and in only one field of nearly mature lodged barley did he find sufficient number of the caterpillars to cause concern. In most fields checked the number was only 0 to 1 worm per square foot. In the more mature barley field the count was 4 to 6 per square foot.

The extension director said he would be checking fields in the Gatzke, Goodridge and Mavie areas this evening and would have a more complete analysis report for Wednesday's Times. Farmers are advised to check their fields carefully to discover the worms when they are small and before extensive damage is done.

"Killing worms after they are full grown and the crop is ruined is just a matter of revenge," points out a state extension service bulletin. An average of three or four worms per square foot in small grain generally justified chemical control. Fully grown worms are 1½ to 2 inches in length.

Nominees For Hospital Board Are Accepted

Nominations for trustees to be elected to the board of Northwestern Hospital association are being accepted from the general membership of the association until noon on Monday, August 6, according to Terry Courneya, secretary of the association.

Annual meeting of the hospital is scheduled for September 10 — a change from prior years when it has been held on the last Monday in July.

Nominating committee consisting of Lowell Swenson, chairman, Orin Green and Gene Beito has filed its report with the secretary and has nominated Curtis L. Charlson, Roy Lee and Terry Courneya to succeed themselves and Duane Walton to succeed Dr. H.P. Wendt. Lee and Courneya have each served two three-year terms on the board and Charlson has served one. Dr. Wendt was named to the board in 1976 as chief of the medical staff.

Under by-laws of the association, trustees may serve only three consecutive three-year terms.

Any member of the association may nominate any other member of the association as a candidate for the board of trustees. Such nominations must be accompanied by the nominees written consent to serve if elected and must be received by noon on the first Monday in August. Nomination forms are available in the hospital's administrative offices.

Any person of legal voting age who submits a written application for membership and pays a $10 life membership fee may become a member of the association. Applications for membership must be approved by the board of trustees at a regular board meeting.

JULIE PETERSON of Silverton 4-H club was awarded the grand champion ribbon at the Pennington county fair in the advanced foods division this year.

EPS Clinics Are Scheduled For August

Early and periodic screening (EPS) clinics have been scheduled for the month of August. The clinic schedule for the Four-County (Marshall, Kittson, Pennington, Red Lake counties) area is as follows: Hallock — August 1; Grygla — August 6; Newfolden — August 7; Red Lake Falls — August 8; Warren — August 9; Thief River Falls — August 10 & 24; Oklee — August 13; Karlstad — August 14.

Four County EPS will screen any child or young adult between the ages of 6 months and 21 years. Early and periodic screening provides simple and efficient methods of screening basically well children. EPS clinics provide the following components: vision and hearing check, height and weight determination, dental assessment and instruction in care of teeth, Denver developmental testing, hematocrit determination and urinalysis, physical assessment and also, immunizations are available. Appointments must be made in advance.

For further information concerning EPS services, making appointments and cost of clinics, call or write: Four County EPS Service, Marshall County Courthouse, 208 E. Colvin Ave., Warren, MN 56762, 745-4004.

Game Operators At County Fair Pay Heavy Fines

Seven game operators with the Matt Armstrong shows at the Penning county fair were charged with gross misdemeanor offenses and paid heavy fines in Pennington county court late last week. They were also placed on two-year probation with six-month jail sentences pending if they commit any more offenses in Minnesota.

Fined $1,000 each on charges of theft by swindle were Charles Earl Cook, 29, Nashville, Tenn.; Gordon D. Moss, 20, Oak Park, Mich.; Donald Riley Williams, 50, Westlake, La.; and William J. Rush, 65, Marion, Ill.

Charged with operating gambling devices and fined $500 each were Gerald Lynn Nelson, 40, Pineville, La.; Carrol Jamis Marlar, 43, Starport, La.; and Stanley William Gaffney, 47, More, Okla.

All of the defendants were given six-month jail sentences in addition to paying the fines with the sentences suspended on the condition that they have no Minnesota offenses within the next two years.

Sheriff Charles R. Richards, whose department joined with the local police department and the Minnesota bureau of criminal apprehension (BCA), said that the men were operating dice and dart games at the fair Wednesday evening. Several agents from the organized crime unit of the BCA played the games and gathered evidence in the "razzle dazzle" system being used by the game operators.

Warrants were obtained and arrests were made about 8 p.m. Thursday at the fairgrounds. All of the men posted bond the same day and appeared in county court on Friday at 3 p.m. All pleaded guilty to gross misdemeanor charges and the fines were levied at that court appearance.

WIC Program Lists August Clinic Dates

The WIC (Women, Infants and Children) food supplemental and nutritional education program will conduct certification clinics during August.

Schedule for the four-county area (Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake counties) is as follows: Hallock — August 1, Presbyterian Church; Grygla — August 6, Community Center; Newfolden — August 7, Bethlehem Lutheran Church; Red Lake Falls — August 8, Red Lake Falls Clinic; Warren — August 9, Evangelical Covenant Church; Thief River Falls — August 10, Redeemer Lutheran Church; Oklee — August 13, Zion Lutheran Church; Karlstad — August 14, First Lutheran Church. The time for all clinic sites is 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

For further information regarding the WIC Program, call or write: Four County EPS Service, 208 E. Colvin Ave., Warren, MN 56762.

Patti Hanson In Queen Pageant

(This is the 10th in a series of interviews with candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the annual Jaycee Aquacade. The official Miss America preliminary event will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.)

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Interest in children and sports activities is leading Patti Hanson into the field of elementary education. A junior this fall at Moorhead state university, she is majoring in elementary education and minoring in remedial reading, hoping to teach and to coach elementary girls basketball and track.

Patti, 19, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin O. Hanson of Warren and a 1977 graduate of Warren high school. She is five feet four inches tall, weighs 108 pounds, and is a brown-eyed brunette. Her pageant talent number will be a vocal solo.

During her school years Patti was a cheerleader, providing support for teams at elementary level through high school, and serving as football cheerleader captain the last two years. She was in the school chorus for four years, a member of the madrigal club and a vocal ensemble and had roles in high school musicals "Sound of Music" and "Annie Get Your Gun".

She was editor of the Mayville state college newspaper (The Exponent) during her freshman year there a year ago and also played powderpuff football. This year she assisted with the special olympics for handicapped students at Moorhead.

Working with children is one of her favorite activities. She is minoring in remedial reading at college and researching children's literature. Someday she hopes to write for children. Other activities include jogging, bike riding, playing tennis and reading.

PATTI HANSON, Miss Warren of 1979, will be one of several community queens participating in the official Miss America preliminary pageant in Thief River Falls Saturday evening. Patti is a 1977 graduate of Warren high school and has attended Mayville state college and Moorhead state university for one year each. Her hobbies include outdoor sports and music and her pageant talent number will be a vocal solo.

Sweat, Not Rain, Dampens Pennington Co. Fairgoers

OUTSTANDING SENIOR CITIZENS for Pennington county were honored during the Thursday evening grandstand program at the county fair in Thief River Falls. Mrs. Gladys Odegaard shows the audience the engraved bracelet she received in recognition of her selection and Joe Rinowski displays emotion after opening his engraved money clip. The two selections will represent Pennington county at the Minnesota state fair later this fall.

Only a few drops of rain fell during the four-day Pennington county fair Thursday through Sunday in Thief River Falls but hot and humid weather left most fair goers anywhere from dampened to drenched in perspiration.

Crowds for entertainment programs held up remarkably well despite the heat, however, and carnival activity was brisk, especially during special kiddies' days held Wednesday, Friday and Sunday. Vernon Lee, secretary of the Pennington county fair association, said he expected the association's share of carnival receipts to approach last year's success.

Again this year the demolition derby proved to be the most popular grandstand event with attendance estimated at 1,800 people Friday night. There were 68 entries in the field and $1,500 in cash and prizes paid out to the winners seven preliminary heats, a feature race and grand slam for all cars able to operate.

Winning the feature race and top prize of $500 was Noel Snare of Greenbush who qualified by placing second in the third heat. His brother Al of Thief River Falls won the grand slam event and $100 first place prize in that event. Second place in the feature event went to Frank Hagman of Thief River Falls ($200) and third place to Terry Haugen of Goodridge ($100). Second place in the grand slam went to Tom Twanley of Kennedy ($50).

First and second places in the preliminary heats were each awarded $25 in prize money. Winner and second place entry in each heat includes the following: First heat, Frank Hagman and Scott Nelson, Thief River Falls; second heat, Kim Emery, Greenbush and Tom Johnson, TRF; third heat, Bob Peterson and Noel Snare, Greenbush; fourth heat, Greg Nelson and Don Schindler, TRF; fifth heat, Tom Hoverson, Strathcona and Lyle Strandlien, Bagley; sixth heat, Bruce Mattson and Rick Kezar, TRF; and seventh heat, Bruce Floan, Fertile and Dean Holtan, TRF.

Best dressed pit crew was the Art John crew, best decorated car was the Rick Kezar entry and sportsmanship award winner tas Duane Hageman, all of Thief River Falls.

Opening night talent contest Thursday—attracted about 1,000 people to the grandstand for the free program. Mike Sistad of Grygla, playing fiddle and banjo, won first place prize of $75 and a trip to the Minnesota state fair. Other winners were Anita Miramontes, Thief River Falls, vocal number, second place, $50; Wendy Easton, Thief River Falls, jazz dance, third place, $35; Terri Cuppett, Thief River Falls, vocal number, fourth place, $25; and a minstrel group from Thief River Falls, fifth place, $15.

Old time fiddler's contest Saturday evening attracted the smallest crowd of the fair with an estimated 200 people in attendance. Winning the event among nine contestants was Lynn Mitchell of Manitou, Manitoba with Gilmore Lee of Watertown, Minn., in second place. Fourteen-year-old Evan Foster of Badger out-fiddled his dad, O'Neil Foster, in a playoff after being tied for third place. Lee won the trophy for coming the greatest distance to participate and Vernon Hickerson of Bemidji, 74, won the trophy for the oldest competitor.

Jeannie C. Riley country western show with comedians Mahana and Jaspering drew 800 sun-drenched enthusiasts on a sweltering Sunday evening.

Exhibitor and exhibit numbers were down somewhat from last year but quality remained high, according to superintendents of the various departments. Conflict of dates with the Marshall county fair at Warren was believed by some to be part of the reason for the decline. Marshall county observed its centennial with special events at the fair there this year.

Pennington county 4-H department had 198 exhibitors entering 658 exhibits and receiving $2,035.50 in prize money. Named to the 4-H hall of fame for Pennington county at a Sunday afternoon awards ceremony was Mrs. Amanda Russell of Thief River Falls.

THE MORE I KNOW MEN THE BETTER I LIKE MY DOG

APPROPRIATE "T" SHIRT was worn by Tami Gaetz of Fosston as she won the showmanship championship at the area 4-H club dog show held during the Pennington county fair Saturday afternoon. Tami's shirt boldly proclaimed "The More I Know Men. . .The Better I Like My Dog".

Quie To Attend Wheat Growers Warren Meet

Final preparations are underway for the July 27 fun-and-food event on the Don Loeslie farm near Warren. Activities are scheduled to begin at 5 p.m., and will include a keynote speech by Governor Al Quie.

"Special invitations have been extended to state and national leaders, as well as dignitaries from Russia, Japan and England," Loeslie said. "It's important to mention that every wheat farmer and those involved in wheat-related businesses in Northwest Minnesota can consider themselves invited."

This will be the largest event of its kind in the area this year, where current and potential buyers of wheat come face to face with the wheat producers, and Loeslie is encouraging area farmers to personally come out and promote their product on a one-to-one basis.

"It's not often that an opportunity like this comes along, for either the buyer or the producer," he noted.

Besides the governor and lieutenant governor and foreign guests, many state and area leaders have been invited and are expected to attend.

THE JEWEL BOX

Rochelle Knutson Weds Lowell Smeby At Radium

Miss Rochelle Kim Knutson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Knutson of Viking, and Lowell John Smeby, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smeby of Grygla, exchanged marriage vows recently at a two o'clock wedding at the Immanuel Lutheran church at Radium.

Rev. Paul Presinger officiated at the single ring ceremony attended by approximately 175 relatives and friends. Nancy Smeby, a sister of the groom, was the organist. She played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied the soloists: Pam Worth, who sang "Annie's Song," and "Wedding Song," and Marie Anderson, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

Arrangements of yellow roses and greenery graced the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in a white organza gown featuring a Chantilly lace empire bodice with wide cuffed bishop sleeves and a sheer yoke with cameo insert. Her bouffant skirt was cutaway in front to reveal a deep insertion of Chantilly lace that flowed back edging the chapel-length train. Coordinating lace formed the headpiece which held her shoulder-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses, ivy and babies' breath.

Matron of honor was Rhonda Thomas of Grygla, a sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Pam Smeby, Grygla, sister of the groom, and Rosalyn Knutson, Viking, sister of the bride. Their gowns of blue and white polyester were styled with high collars, raised waistlines, elbow-length bell sleeves and softly flared skirts. In their hair, they wore a blue carnation with babies' breath. The carried white baskets filled with a potted English ivy, blue carnations and blue ribbon streamers.

Serving as flower girl was Sheila Thomas of Grygla, a niece of the bride. She wore a white floor-length gown with blue and white lace accenting the bodice, neckline, skirt and short puffy sleeves. Her gown was designed and sewn by the bride's mother.

The rings were carried by Travas Knutson, Newfolden, a nephew of the bride. Like the men of the wedding party, he wore a powder blue tuxedo, light blue ruffled shirt and a blue carnation boutonniere accented with babies' breath. The groom's boutonniere was composed of two yellow roses and babies' breath.

Best man was Jim Smeby of Thief River Falls, a brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Rodney Knutson, Viking, brother of the bride; and Eldon Nueschwander, Grygla, a friend of the couple. Serving as ushers were friends of the couple, Steve Saurdiff and James Sparby, both of Grygla.

The mother of the bride was attired in a blue and white floral gown with a lace panel down the front, long lace sleeves and a deep ruffle around the skirt. At the scoop neckline, she wore a gold chain necklace, a gift from the bride. The groom's mother wore a yellow, floor-length gown with long sleeves and a U-neckline. Their corsages were peek-a-boo white carnations, centered with yellow sweetheart roses.

Honor guests were Mrs. Muriel Potucek, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Tiegland and Mrs. Randi Smeby, grandparents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ostby and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smeby, godparents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Potucek, godparents of the bride; and Mrs. Jerrilyn Potucek, the bride's personal attendant.

A reception followed with Roger Knutson, Mrs. Randy Knutson and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smeby, brothers and sisters-in-law of the couple, as hosts and hostess. Mr. and Mrs. Robin Knutson, brother and sister-in-law of the bride registered the guests as Ramona Knutson and JoAnn Smeby, sisters of the couple, ladled the punch.

The four-tiered wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Shirley Potucek and Mrs. Marian Ostby, godmothers of the couple. It was iced in white, decorated with blue and yellow roses and featured a flowing water fountain at the base. A ceramic couple seated on a loveseat graced the top. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Richard Ness of Viking, an aunt of the groom.

Pouring coffee were Mrs. Kim Knutson and Mrs. Diene Smeby, sisters-in-law of the bride and groom.

At the gift table were Becky Knutson, sister of the bride, and Denise Anderson, a friend. Waitresses were Sherry Anderson of Grygla, Jill Johnson and Barbie Blawat of Viking, friends of the couple.

Following a wedding trip to Duluth and along the North Shore drive, the couple is now at home at Grygla, where the groom is farming with his father. Both the bride and groom are graduates of Marshall County Central high school, Newfolden. Photo, C.G. Teigland, Minneapolis

DID YOU KNOW?

Dear friends,

I appreciate your letter in support of returning the drinking age to 21.

We had an excellent hearing on the matter. The witnesses were all lined up by Mrs. Rosalie Ramstead of Burnsville. She did an excellent job in getting the testimony prepared.

The committee members did suggest that we changed some votes because of the witness presentation.

Nevertheless, we did not succeed in passing the bill. We lost the bill in committee on a 5 to 5 vote.

Rather than being discouraged by this, we are greatly encouraged. We will continue to work during the interim and during the session in 1980.

If you will help us by continuing to contact your legislator to support this bill, it would be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

HOWARD A. KNUTSON, State Senator

WCTU Discusses National And Spiritual Liberty

"Freedom" was the topic discussed at the meeting of the Alice Mae Stuart Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance Union held recently at Our Saviour's Lutheran church.

The meeting began with the singing of "America," and the reading of I Peter 2:13-17, stressing "Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake. . . for so is the will of God, that with well-doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men. . . Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Feat God. Honor the King." It was noted that although freedom is a very precious possession, the greatest freedom is not national liberty, wonderful and precious as it is, but rather the spiritual freedom received when Christ is accepted as Savior; as political wisdom is of less worth than spiritual understanding. The meditation included the reading of Emma Lazarus' "The New Colossus," inscribed on the Statue of Liberty. It includes, "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, the wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed to me; I lift my lamp beside the golden door."

Also read were a number of articles contributed by those in attendance. Included were "A family disease," tracing alcoholism from parents, to children and grandchildren; and "Bowling Ban," a news article publicizing the refusal of a Bloomington bowling alley to renew the South Covenant church league contract on the grounds that the bowling alley was losing money as the church members won't drink beer during their two-hour bowling shift. Also read were "Alcohol with sedative is risky compound," and "Berries, sap can intoxicate many animals," both from the Thief River Falls Times; and "Liquor is an enemy of body and soul," by Cyrus Osterhus.

The program concluded with the reading of the "Radio Releases," and the signing of a get-well card for Mrs. Ruth Vielguth, who is hospitalized.

During the brief business session, members were reminded of the National convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union to be held in Oakland, Calif., August 21-28, and the state convention set for September 20-22 at Montevideo.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Curtis Thompson
Newfolden

Chocolate Crumb Bars

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¾ cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- ¾ cup flour
- ¼ teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons cocoa
- ½ cups nuts, optional
- miniature marshmallows
- 1 small package chocolate chips
- 1 cup peanut butter
- 1½ cups crushed, crispy or flaked cereal

Method: Combine and cream together butter, vanilla, sugar and eggs. Add sifted flour, baking powder, salt and cocoa. Fold in nuts. Bake in a greased 9x13 inch pan in a 350 degree oven for 15 minutes. Remove from oven, cover with marshmallows and bake another three minutes. Cool. Combine chocolate chips and peanut butter in double boiler and place over low heat. When chocolate chips have dissolved, add crushed cereal and spread over marshmallows.

Soo Line Profit Margin Better During Quarter

Soo Line railroad company's net income for the second quarter this year was the highest for any second quarter in the history of the company, despite substantial expenses and revenue losses because of flooding in North Dakota and Minnesota in April, Leonard H. Murray, chairman and chief executive officer of the company, announced recently.

Net income for the second quarter amounted to $5.7 million or 75 cents per share, an increased of 12 per cent over $5.1 million or 67 cents per share for 1978. Second quarter net income improved substantially from the $2.1 million in the first quarter of 1979 when earnings were held down by severe winter weather conditions throughout the company's seven state territory.

For the first six months, net income was $7.8 million or $1.03 per share, a decrease of 24 per cent from earnings of $10.3 million or $1.35 per share earned in the first half of 1978. Revenues for the first six months were at an all-time high of $128.4 million, up 11 per cent from 1978 on slightly lower volume.

The severe winter weather in the first quarter was followed by a wet spring and flood conditions which adversely affected operations during the second quarter, Murray said. Soo's mainline connection with the Canadian Pacific railway at Noyes was closed for about a month due to flooding of the Red River of the North in Canada. Operating expenses were also affected by the continuing increases in the cost of labor and materials, particularly diesel fuel. Total railway expenses increased 15 per cent over the second quarter last year.

Carload traffic was down 4 per cent during the first six months and 2.6 per cent for the second quarter. Traffic demand continues strong, however, particularly for the movement of grain. Shipments of lumber showed a decrease, reflecting the decline in housing starts, but the movement of liquefied petroleum gases increased substantially. Soo continues to experience shortages of freight equipment, but hopper car supply for grain shipments improved in the second quarter.

TOP GRADE ANIMAL in the 4-H club beef division at the Pennington county fair was this heifer exhibited by Leann Holen of the Star 4-H club. Reserve championship in the division went to Merle Sorteberg of the Smiley 4-H club.

The company has completed construction of 113 new box cars at its Fond du Lac shops and is currently taking delivery of the last of 20 new locomotives. It has $42 million of additional freight equipment on order. This includes 705 freight cars and 22 additional diesel locomotives.

Plan Dinner For Quie, Stangeland

Plans have been announced to hold a ham supper in the L. B. Hartz park Saturday, July 28, to give area citizens an opportunity to meet Governor Al Quie and Representative Arlan Stangeland who will be in town that day.

The supper will be held from 5 to 6:30 p.m. with admission set at $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12. Entertainment will be provided by the 7th and 8th grade stage band, Morning Darkness.

Stangeland will also ride in the Aquacade parade Saturday and both men will make an appearance at the evening Miss Thief River Falls pageant.

Beef Council Board Officers Are Elected

At the annual meeting of the Minnesota beef council, held July 10 in Bemidji, the board of directors had an election of officers for the fiscal year of 1979-80.

Robert Wiese, recently re-elected to the board of directors for a three-year term from District 7, was elected vice-chairman. Wiese is a feeder from Lynd. Secretary for 1979 to 1980, will be Marvin Manske of Blue Earth. Dr. Harvey Peterson of Crookston, was re-elected to the position of treasurer. Dr. Peterson has been involved with the beef council since it's origin in 1973.

Also elected to the executive committee were Maurice Grogan (District 6), Marine-on-the-St. Croix, and Phyllis Henze (District 5) of Little Falls. Officer elections were held annually.

The sixteen-member board of the Minnesota beef council serves to administer the Minnesota beef check-off program, funds collected for beef research, education and promotion. Each of the board members is an active cattlemen in Minnesota, representing one of nine specified districts. The recent commodity elections conducted by the Minnesota department of agriculture, brought three new members to the beef council board. The new directors are: Duane Flohrs (District 8), Ormsby; Michael Schultz (District 5), Holdingford; and Philip Snyder (District 9), Spring Valley. These newly-elected directors replace resigning board members, Charles Kelly, Houston; Frank Schiefelbein, Kimball; and William Noy, Jr., Vernon Falls.

Minnesota cattlemen will be represented on the beef industry council of the national livestock and meat board by Dean Peterson, Truman. This position is selected by the Minnesota beef council board, and Peterson will hold a three-year term as Minnesota's representative. The BIC conducts national research, education, and promotion for the entire industry through contributions from state beef councils, packers and private-related companies.

The best of North Central and Southern combined.

Our people. Experienced people.

Together, as North Central Airlines and Southern Airways, these people have provided millions of flights during the past 30 years. And now these people are together as Republic Airlines.

It's a new name for a new airline. One that's building with new ideas based on solid experience. Being built by people who have made their reputation by delivering efficient, dependable and friendly service.

The folks at Republic are putting up their new name as fast as possible. But changing the name of the airline that serves more U.S. cities than anyone else is no small task.

So, for awhile, you might see some reminders of North Central and Southern.

But the most important change is already complete. The best people in the industry have come together. And they're building your kind of airline.

Home Buyers Select New Units Quickly

If you thought houses were selling like hotcakes in 1978, you were right.

A national survey conducted by the Family Housing bureau, a public information service of a Chicago-based insurance company, shows that home buyers in 1978 made their home-buying decisions much more quickly and looked at fewer homes than did buyers in the two preceding years. And over 80 per cent would up buying single-family homes that had previously been lived in.

During 1978, the typical home buyer looked at 10.7 homes and made the buying decision in 3.6 months. In 1977, buyers looked at 13.9 homes over a 4.1 month period, while in 1976 buyers checked out 12.3 homes in 4.0 months.

The quick buying is attributed to rising prices and interest rates. The longer a person waited before buying, the more likely the price and the mortgage rate would go up.

First-time buyers took 4.0 months to decide, while repeat buyers took 3.3 months during 1978. The same pattern was evident in 1977 and 1976, suggesting that the repeat buyer has more experience and knows what to look for.

The median price paid by buyers in the 1978 survey was $44,800. If the house was priced under $30,000, the buyer took 8.9 months to decide, compared with 9.7 months in 1977 and 6.7 months in 1976. But if the house was priced over $50,000, the decision was made in 12.9 months, a sharp drop from the 18.4 months reported both in 1976 and 1977.

Single-family homes were purchased by 86.6 per cent of the buyers in 1978 compared with 90.2 per cent in 1977 and 88.8 per cent in 1976. Multi-family homes were purchased by 8.6 per cent; the 1977 and 1976 figures were 6.2 and 4.8 per cent respectively. Condominium buyers accounted for 5.6 per cent of the survey respondents, compared with 3.6 per cent in 1977 and 6.4 per cent of 1976.

During 1978, 85.6 per cent of the survey buyers purchased previously lived-in homes, compared with 87.2 per cent in 1977 and 84.9 per cent in 1976. The remainder — 14.4 per cent in 1978, 12.8 per cent in 1977, and 15.1 per cent in 1976 — brought new homes.

MCCL Leader Objects To Court Ruling

Minnesota taxpayers may now have to finance any Medicaid abortion a woman desires, according to a spokesman for Minnesota citizens concerned for life (MCCL).

MCCL vice president Nancy Koster criticized a July 17 ruling by U.S. district Judge Donald Alsop, calling it "yet another example of how the courts can thwart the will of the people as expressed through their legislature."

Judge Alsop's decision struck down a portion of Minnesota's 1978 abortion funding law defining medically necessary abortions as those needed to preserve the life of the mother. Under the law, passed with strong MCCL support, state taxpayers were required to fund only life-saving abortions, plus those done in cases of forcible rape or incest reported to law enforcement officials within 48 hours of the alleged crime.

Before its passage, the state was funding about 2,000 abortions yearly. Since the law's enactment, no tax-funded abortions have been reported.

Koster noted that abortion activist Bob McCoy, who runs the Minneapolis abortion clinic that challenged the law, praised Alsop's decision as the best abortion proponents could have hoped for and said his clinic would begin immediately to submit bills to the state for abortions performed there. She pointed out also that in testimony before the legislature, pro-abortion leader Dr. Jane Hodgson testified that she considers a medically necessary abortion to be any abortion a woman desires.

"It is truly tragic that the court is willing to put a woman's convenience and an abortionist's desire for profit ahead of a human being's right to life and the right of taxpayers not to participate in the taking of human life," Mrs. Koster said.

Alsop's ruling did not limit the definition of medically necessary abortions but said examples would be those done when the woman has high blood pressure or is obese or depressed. "Thus it appears that the taxpayer will be compelled to underwrite abortions done for any and all reasons, despite the fact that the vast majority of our state's citizens have indicated through public opinion polls and through the pro-life legislature they elected that it violates their consciences to do so," Mrs. Koster said.

She said that although the decision will be appealed by the attorney general's office, McCoy has threatened to sue the state again if welfare department rules made in the meantime attempt to define medically necessary abortions. He has said also that plaintiffs in the suit decided July 17 may seek payment by the state of attorneys' fees and court costs and that such costs have been awarded to abortion advocates in the past.

"Thus," Mrs. Koster said, "The taxpayer becomes a two-time loser. Not only must he pay for the killing of thousands of unborn babies, but he also must finance the suit that took away his right to exercise his freedom of conscience. The only winners are those who make money through the destruction of human life."

She noted that a 1977 U.S. supreme court ruling held that nothing in the constitution nor the social security act requires government funding of non-necessary abortions and that the federal Hyde amendment limits federal abortion funding more stringently than Alsop's ruling allows the state to do.

She said, "Every day citizens are seeing more clearly the awesome power that can be wielded by the judiciary. Judge Alsop's ruling again emphasizes the need for swift enactment of a human life amendment which will again allow legal protection for the lives of all, no matter how small, powerless or inconvenient to others they may be."

Services Held Today For Anna Strandberg, 80

Mrs. Anna O. Strandberg, 80, of Thief River Falls, and formerly of Newfolden, died Friday at the Oakland Park Nursing home.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Strandberg were held today, Monday, at 10:30 a.m., at the Bethlehem Lutheran church at Newfolden. Rev. Hans Floan officiated. Mrs. Vernon Nelson was the organist and Harvey Dyrud, the soloist. Interment was in the Bethania Lutheran cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Dennis Rantanen, LeMar Rantanen, Robert Tabery, Richard Abbott, Jimmie Coauette and Harley Wicklander.

Mrs. Strandberg, the former Anna Larson, was born March 3, 1899 at Wannaska to Louis and Minnie Larson. She lived in the Wannaska community until 1907, when she moved with the family to Westhope, Sask., Canada. In 1911, they returned to Wannaska.

She was married to Harry Strandberg on Dec. 23, 1918 at Viking by Rev. Verner Drotts. Following their marriage, the couple farmed in West Valley township, Marshall county. After the death of her husband on June 23, 1961, she continued to live on the farm until 1962, when she moved into Newfolden. Later, she moved to Thief River Falls, where for the past three years, she had been a resident at Oakland Park Nursing home.

She was a member of the American Legion auxiliary of Newfolden and was a Gold Star Mother.

Surviving are two sons: Mel Strandberg, Plains, Mont., and Kermit of Viking; five daughters: Mrs. Martin (Mabel) Rantanen and Mrs. Edwin (Harriet) Engen, both of Thief River Falls; Mrs. Bernard (Daphne) Tabery, Minneapolis; Mrs. Donald (Vinette) Abbott, Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Chuck (LuAnn) Chaplinski, Middle River; 10 grandchildren, three step-grandchildren, three great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are three sisters: Mrs. Eleanor Halweger, Grand Forks, N.D.; Mrs. Lloyd (Edith) Coauette, Crookston, and Mrs. Harold (Ruby) Wicklander, Roseau; and two brothers: Elvin Larson, Dobbins, Calif., and Lawrence Larson, Roseau.

She was preceded in deaty by her husband, parents, a son, Orville, who was killed in action during World War Two, and four brothers.

Rites Held Here For Rudolph Lindberg, 77

Funeral services for Rudolph Lindberg, 77, of Thief River Falls were held Thursday at 2 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel. Lindberg died Monday, July 16, at Oakland Park Nursing home.

Rev. Marden Wickman, pastor of the Evangelical Covenant church, officiated at the services. Mrs. Alvin Dahlstrom was the organist and Rev. Wickman, the soloist. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Rudolph N. Lindberg was born Sept. 18, 1901 at Alvarado to Ole and Anna Lindberg. His parents died when he was a baby and he was raised by the Charlie Leyden family in Thief River Falls. He was baptized and confirmed in the Mission Covenant church in Thief River Falls and attended school here.

Lindberg was employed as a farm laborer during his working years. For the past 12 years, he had been a resident at Oakland Park Nursing home.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Mabel Hanson of Alvarado; two half-brothers: Arthur Bergen, Chicago, Ill., and Arnold Bergan, Fairmont; and four half-sisters: Mrs. Gladys Oregon, Garrison; Mrs. Ruth Wolf and Mrs. Francis Papenhausen, both of Phoenix, Ariz., and Mrs. Irene DeWitt of White Bear Lake.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his foster parents, a sister and two brothers: Albin Lindberg and Oscar Lindberg.

July 17 — David W. Olson of Thief River Falls reported the theft of his 1969 Ford station wagon from the south side of the Hartz store in St. Hilaire. The dark green vehicle is valued at $300. At the time of the theft approximately $40 of other items were inside the vehicle.

Global Shield SAC Test Said To Be Success

Strategic air command (SAC) successfully completed its readiness exercise, Global Shield 79, recent with the launch of a specially equipped Minuteman II Intercontinental Ballistic Missile from Vandenberg AFB, Calif. Fired by personnel aboard an EC-135 aircraft equipped with an airborne launch control system, the launching culminated the largest SAC exercise in more than 20 years.

The unarmed missile broadcast a coded emergency action message to participating SAC forces and travelled several thousand miles to an impact area in the western Pacific.

"My initial evaluation is that the exercise was very successful," said General Richard H. Ellis, commander in chief of the strategic air command. "It was well planned and appears to have been an extremely valuable training experience for the air crews, missile crews and support personnel who participated in it.

"One of the goals of the exercise was to determine if our plans and procedures could be improved to increase the effectiveness of SAC's forces," Ellis said. "In some cases we found better ways to do things that were already working well.

"As expected," the general noted, "there were times when it was a challenge to keep our aging aircraft flying under the realistic wartime conditions we simulated. But — and I want to emphasize this — we were able to get the job done.

"One of the emerging lessons of the exercise is that we need to continue to have SAC crews flying realistic training missions on unfamiliar routes. Adequade flying-hour allocations are essential to maintain the crew proficiency which our vital mission requires. Overall, I am very pleased with the results of the exercise, and proud of the people who participated in it," the general concluded.

10-Ton Routes Given Okay By Highway Dept.

Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) has added 12 routes to the statewide system of roads and streets authorized to carry 10-ton single axle loadings and 80,000 pounds total gross weight.

The action was taken in response to Governor Al Quie's state of emergency order of June 19 to alleviate conditions brought about by the truckers' strike and to alleviate fuel shortages in the state. Among the route additions is highway 11 from Greenbush to Karlstad — the only northwestern Minnesota change.

Weight limitations are being raised on these 12 routes because they connect or feed designated 10-ton routes and will give greater flexibility to our transportation system in moving agricultural and other products during the emergency, the governor said.

Monthly transportation permits will be required to haul 80,000 pounds on the emergency routes. The permits and maps indicating the 10-ton and emergency routes will be available in July from Mn-DOT offices statewide.

Officers are located at Crookston, Bemidji, Virginia, Duluth, Detroit Lakes, Morris, Brainerd, St. Cloud, Willmar, Marshall, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Windom, Mankato, Owatonna and Rochester.

The permits cost $5 each and are good for the month in which they are issued during the emergency. The permits can only be issued to properly registered vehicles, licensed to carry up to 80,000 pounds.

During the emergency, the permits will be issued for the following routes:

Northwestern Minnesota — TH 11, from Greenbush to Karlstad;

West Central Minnesota — TH 29, from Glenwood to Alexandria and TH 79, from Elbow Lake to I-94;

DR. PHILLIP J. BRUNO, Thief River Falls chiropractor, returned Thursday from a three-day postgraduate study seminar in Las Vegas, Nevada. Dr. Bruno was one of 3,500 professionals who attended a special series of classes which included lectures on stress, survival and quality of life. Additional lectures devoted to total health care for the chiropractic patient covered the latest developments in the field of chiropractic, and with instruction in advanced techniques of patient treatment. Dr. Bruno is a graduate of Northwestern Chiropractic college in St. Paul and his practice is located at 311 Main Ave., Thief River Falls.

Hanson Attends Nat'l. Farmers Union Camp

Dean Hanson of Goodridge recently returned from the National Farmers Union (NFU) all-states camp in the Rocky mountains in Bailey, Colorado. Hanson was a member of the Minnesota delegation to the July 8-14 camp for Farmers Union members completing their work in the senior youth program.

Hanson participated in a "Global Interdependence Conference: Food, Energy, and Population," the theme for this year's camp. Participants discussed a variety of international issues including trade, foreign land ownership, world health, and energy.

Major events at the one-week session included an international dinner, a trip to Denver to visit the NFU headquarters, and a special memorial tribute to three former Farmers Union members: C.E. Huff, former NFU president; Chris Nathan, NFU insurances, special accounts; and Harvey Solberg, former Rocky mountain Farmers Union president.

Hanson earned the trip to All-States Camp by completing nine years of activity in the Minnesota Farmers Union youth program.

Get Off Jimmy's Back

Editor Bob Cary of the Ely Echo is off and running on his own campaign for President of the United States on the Independent Fisherman's party ticket. Despite his announced candidacy, he defends President Carter in regard to the nation's present energy situation. In an editorial entitled "Get Off Jimmy's Back", he wrote the following:

The public and the press, particularly, are acting like a guy who went to the doctor and was told he had pneumonia. . .and blamed the doctor.

There is no painless way the President or anyone else can get this nation out of the oil-energy squeeze. No matter where the cuts are made, somebody's act is going to get all bloodied up. Everybody wants energy conservation, but they want the other guy's energy to get conserved, not theirs.

The truckers want more and cheaper diesel fuel. The tourist industry wants plenty of gas for tourists. The farmer insists on plenty of fuel to run the farm. Factory employees not only want all the gas they need to get to work, but they want the company to pay for the rise in gasoline costs. And you have everybody else, including the politicians, blaming anyone but themselves for the problem.

What made the gas shortage? Many things. In one respect, the oil companies are right: by keeping an artificial lid on oil prices in the U.S., the federal government encouraged an accelerated use of oil. And boy, have we been using it!

Look how many families have two and three cars. Everybody cuts the grass with a gasoline powered lawn mower. We've all got outboard motors and some people use 200-horsepower plants to go fishing. There are gasoline powered recreation bikes and scooters and ATV's and there are hundreds of thousands of gasoline powered snowmobiles. Everybody wants in on the fun. And everybody got in on the fun. The problem is, there simply isn't enough oil available to keep that entire show going.

Because oil was cheap and relatively clean, homes all over the nation converted from coal to oil. It ain't cheap anymore. . .if you can get it. A whole chemical industry has been built on oil. . .basis for plastics and a host of other products now in general use. It isn't amazing that the nation has run short of oil. It is amazing that we were able to keep going as long as we have.

But where to go now? There is simply no way out for the politicians. Any allotment system, any allocation program or rationing program will mean that some segments of the public will get adequate energy supplies, some won't. And when there is a shortage in any sector, the affected business people will scream, union members will scream, chambers of commerce will scream. . and the politicians will wind up doing exactly what they are now, which is nothing.

Take air travel. The gallons-per-mile of moving people around by jet plane are not exactly energy conserving. But you can bet your travel luggage that none of the Congressmen (who love to jet home weekends) are going to pass any legislation to restrict fuel use by the airlines. They may monkey around with auto fuel, because very few Congressmen, if any, drive cars. . .but not airline fuel.

The people will adjust, policians or not. The people are already adjusting. The oil industry is adjusting. Only the policians cannot adjust. They are afraid to. The best answer they can come up with is to put a big tax on the oil industry. As anyone with half a brain knows, this is simply added onto whatever we pay for fuel now. . which is already composed of a big percentage of tax. What the politicians are going to with this new tax bonanza, they haven't yet figured out, but you can bet they will find some place to spend it. And it won't provide one more cup of fuel.

It was appropriate that the President went fishing this week instead of giving his scheduled "major address" on energy. Going fishing was probably the best thing he could do. It would be nice if the Congress would follow suit.

Studying Festivals

Columnist Brian Williams wrote the following recently in the Morris Sun:

How can the phenomenon of summer community festivals possibly be relevant to the question of whether persons who consider themselves intellectuals deserve the stigma which the rest of society seems so often to place on them?

The connection is easy to make if you're an alumnus of St. Cloud State University and recently received the annual publication directed at graduates of the institution: "Outlook." In it, you'll find not only the fluffy PR pieces and hard-sell pitch for contributions which one expects of such a publication, but a profile of a program sponsored by the anthropology department which should pique the curiosity of anyone who hails from a small town.

The program involves sending a batch of anthropology majors to observe summer community festivals around the state every two years. Evelyn Hatcher, retiring professor and coordinator of the program since it began in 1973, attempts to justify it in saying, "I'm not aware of any extensive analysis of festivals based on studies applying scientific methods of observation and classification."

Such social science jargon can sound impressive, but in this case it can be rebutted by the simple fact that anyone lacking sufficient first hand knowledge of festivals to understand their purpose would have to have grown up on Mars.

But alas, we live in an age when intellectuals find themselves increasingly under fire and disciplines with vocational emphasis receive budget priority at many institutions where the liberal arts once reigned.

It is perhaps in a collective sense of self defense that social scientists have beefed up what has always been an esoteric jargon in an attempt to impress others of the need for their fields of study. An author who recently appeared on the "Tonight Show" had the audience in stitches as he recited passages from his book which were examples of excesses in the jargon.

While perhaps not as extreme, several quotes from Hatcher in the "Outlook" article nontheless are in the same vein. An example: "At the core of many questions about human behavior is now individual desires articulate with the needs of society. Human behavior is a linkage between the short-term, self-centered motivations of individuals and the long-term survival and well-being of the group."

Bestselling author Edwin Newman has no tolerance for the type of language abuse he sees social scientists as being guilty of. In "Strictly Speaking," Newman wrote: "For a social scientist to make obscure what he considers to be unnecessarily clear calls not so much for an imagination as for an appropriate vocabulary in which boundaries are parameters, parts are components, things are not equal but co-equal, signs are indicators, and causes are dependent on exogenous variables (and it may take a regression analysis to find out which). To know oneself is to have self-awareness, communities being studied are target areas, thinking is conceptualization, patterns are configurations, and people do not speak but articulate or verbalize; nor are they injured: they are traumatized."

Of course, it's not enough to mill about with cotton candy and record general impressions of human behavior while at a festival. The students use tally sheets, activity scales, cameras and tape recorders. All this while living out of tents, as if scrutinizing a primitive African village.

"(Hatcher) has developed several oppositional scales, representing individual desires at one end and group needs at the other," the "Outlook" article notes. "Successful festivals," she says, "are fairly well balanced on those scales. Problems develop when festivals are heavily weighted at either end. Some of the scales she has used are: excess-control, gaiety-solemnity, excitement-relaxation and novelty-ritual."

By the way, the program was established with the help of a state research grant. Now, if I could only remember the address of Sen. Proxmire. . .

Tire Grading Aids Consumer In Selection

When confronted with a need for new tires, some consumers are in a dilemma; for the most part, all tires look pretty much the same. Getting the best value for the money becomes a matter of chance, if not risk.

Purchasing tires should become easier when a new federally mandated grading system goes into effect in October for all bias-ply and bias-belted tires sold in this country, according to Dottie Goss, University of Minnesota extension family resource management specialist.

The tire quality grading regulation, issued by the national highway traffic safety administration last year, will rate tires on the basis of treadwear, traction and temperature resistance. The treadwear ratings will show the relative tread life of a tire compared to other types or brands, using a numerical scale starting at 70.

"Using this measure, one may expect to get 50 per cent more mileage from a tire graded at 150 than from a tire graded at 100," Goss explains.

Traction will be measured on a scale from A to C. Tires with a C rating may have poorer traction on wet pavement than a tire rated at A. A-to-C ratings also will apply to a tire-temperature resistance. "How resistant a tire is from heat will indicate how quickly it will deteriorate when exposed to excessive heat," Goss says.

A similar grading system applying to radial tires goes into effect April, 1980 and ratings will appear on the sides of all tires, allowing the buyer to compare quality and price.

"This rating system is a very positive aid to consumers when purchasing tires."

The Battle for Flood Control

Flooding in the Red River Valley is something we've all come to expect. The attitude prevails that nothing can be done about it. But this philosophy is more myth than fact. My efforts will not cease until we find ways to curb the destruction caused annually by the Red.

As in so many other facets of life, the Federal bureaucracy has hindered flood control progress. Agency after agency has examined our problems without getting off their duff's to produce significant and meaningful results. I have become impatient with the bureaucracy and refuse to continue allowing it to move at a snail's pace. Just last spring Red River flooding did an estimated $101 million in damage, and unless action is taken now, we can look forward to this same type of destruction year after year.

The best way to weed through the Federal bureaucracy is to lead them down the path to the problem. It is for this reason I requested that the House Public Works and Transportation Committee's Subcommittee on Oversight and Review travel to the Seventh District to examine the problem first hand. On July 2nd in East Grand Forks, the Subcommittee heard testimony from grass roots witnesses representing county soil conservation services, the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, county engineers, city governments, the advisory council to the Souris-Red-Rainey Regional Committee, and private citizens who suffered flood losses. A similar meeting was held, at my request, last September.

The flood control problem, like those that plague our economy and energy policies, cannot be solved overnight, but there are some measures that could be implemented now in order to lessen the amount of dollars lost each year until more long range controls can be enacted. I along with many of the witnesses who testified, favor the development of a Federal cost-sharing assistance program to assist farmers with the construction of ring dikes to protect the homestead. This type of program, operated under the direction of either the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service or the Soil Conservation Service, would provide farmers with a workable means of protecting their homes, personal property, grain storage facilities, livestock and machinery, thus saving millions of dollars.

These hearings are necessary in order to build a case for another option. The Federal government could provide financial assistance to watershed districts in the area in order that they might work toward controlling the run-off of water and slow down its flow into the Red River.

We must also examine the feasibility of re-establishing the Souris-Red-Rainey River Basin Commission as a separate commission. Currently it exists as a subsidiary of the Mississippi River Basin Commission and is not addressing the flooding problems in the Red adequately. It's also imperative that the States of Minnesota and North Dakota work more closely through the Lower Red River Watershed Commission, which was established by the Minnesota Legislature in 1978, and the Red River Joint Watershed Commission of North Dakota.

Effective flood control measures for the Red River Valley have been ignored for over 100 years, but I refuse to sit back and allow government inaction to remain the reason for non-existent flood control progress. Many people argue that the cost to prevent flood damage is prohibitive, but I think this argument is invalid and demonstrates an unwillingness to find solutions to our problems. Each year we spend millions of dollars to clean up and restore damage done to property, homes, and the personal economies of Seventh District residents, but this money would be more wisely spent investing in programs that would reduce flooding and, consequently, the dollar losses caused by floods.

Junk Food Ban Proposal Sent For Approval

Recent proposal to prevent public school students from buying vending machine "junk food" until after the school lunch is served would go into effect Jan. 1, 1980, if approved through the U.S. department of agriculture.

The proposed ban would affect schools serving federally subsidized lunches — roughly 98 per cent of the nation's public schools.

"Such a ban would at least remove non-nutritious foods from being so readily available," says Louise Mullan, University of Minnesota extension food service management specialist. "But this doesn't mean students won't eat these kinds of foods at other times. The ban is not an answer in itself, but it is part of the solution."

Education is also part of the solution, Mullan says. Parents who set strong examples for their offspring by their own food preferences have part of the task. Schools must also incorporate nutrition education as part of the curriculum. Food service personnel make up another component.

"Food served at school must be nutritious and things kids like to eat," she says. "Federal regulations governing menu planning have eased in recent years, making for increased flexibility in food offerings. Now we must have continuing education for the food service personnel so that they may do a good job even better. Recent federal school lunch funds have been designated to do so."

Mullan feels the proposed ban is a step in the right direction, but feels people must be realistic and should not "battle a point."

"Together, we must all — parents, schools, vending machine operators — explore the available alternatives."

The public has until September 6 to comment on the USDA proposal. Comments should be sent to Director of the School Programs Division, Food and Nutrition Service, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

"I encourage people to be thoughtful about this proposed ban and write to the USDA no matter what side of the issue they take," Mullan says. "I believe parents and schools will have real impact on this proposed regulation."

MPCA Hearings To Be Held On Landfill Rules

Sparsely-populated areas may be able to use more relaxed, less expensive standards for solid waste disposal facilities, the Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA) announced recently.

The MPCA will be holding public hearings around the state on Minnesota Rule SW-11. The proposed rule will allow the MPCA to issue permits for "modified landfills," which will have less stringent standards than are currently required of sanitary landfills.

To qualify under the proposed rule, waste disposal sites would have to serve a population of 2,500 or less and be more than 30 miles away from a permitted sanitary or modified landfill. However, the MPCA is considering 10- to 40-mile distances and the issue will be open for comment at the public hearings.

The MPCA is proposing the less stringent standards in response to complaints from rural counties, particularly those in northern Minnesota, which argue that the current standards for sanitary landfills are too strict and expensive for small rural landfills. The solid waste division has responded to these complaints by proposing immediate revisions to Minn. Rule SW-11 which will help solve existing problems by cutting waste disposal costs in rural areas, while continuing to protect the quality of the environment. All of the solid waste rules, including SW-11, will be reviewed by the MPCA with the assistance of an advisory committee withing the next two years.

One important feature of the proposed rule will be a relaxed standard concerning the soil "cover" which must be placed on top of the trash when it is compacted in the landfill. Currently, this soil cover is required daily in all sanitary landfills. Under the proposed rule, modified landfills would be required to use cover only once per week except once per month during the winter, when the soil is frozen and difficult to move.

In addition, open burning of certain materials — wood wastes which are bulky and hard to bury — will be allowed. However, an MPCA burning permit and permission from local authorities will still be required.

Public hearing will be held Tuesday, July 24, at Bemidji State University, Lower Student Union, Crying Wolf room, 14th and Birchmont drive, Bemidji, convening at 1 p.m. and reconvening at 7 p.m.

For more information, please contact Michael Kanner, solid waste division, MPCA, at (612) 296-7352.

Applications Accepted For Fiddle Contest

Applications for the Minnesota state fair's second annual old time fiddlers contest are now being accepted. The contest is open to all fiddlers and the first-place fiddler in each of the four categories will receive a trophy and a $100 cash award. Second through fifth place fiddlers will also win trophies and cash prizes.

Categories include junior, 17 years and under; adult, 18-59; senior, 60 and over; and open, fiddlers with professional experience.

Special trophies will be presented to the oldest and youngest fiddlers, the fiddler who has traveled the farthest distance to the contest, most improved fiddler from last year's inaugural contest and a showmanship trophy for the fiddler generating the best audience response.

The contest will be held at 2 p.m. September 3 in Heritage square, the state fair's early American theme area.

Competition will be limited to the first 60 qualified applicants with an approximately equal number of entrants in each category. There is no entry fee.

For complete entry information, contact Minnesota State Fair, St. Paul, 55108; phone (612) 645-2781.

Raymond Olson To Study At GM Workshop

Raymond Olson of Thief River Falls A.V.T.I. will be attending General Motors annual automotive summer workshop program for high school and community college automotive instructors. These intensive one-week sessions will be taught by GM training center personnel at no charge to the individual or school district.

Olson will be studying engineering innovations incorporated in GM's new compact 1980 models. Briefings and materials are also provided to the teachers so they can better equip their students to pass certification tests administered by the national institute for automotive service excellence (NIASE).

Teachers who complete this program may apply for college credit applicable to teacher certification or advanced degree requirements at any one of more than 75 colleges and universities which acknowledge the program.

Last year more than 1,300 teachers received more than 47,000 hours of instruction.

Bathroom Has Most Hazards In The Home

Inch for inch, the bathroom may be the most hazardous room in your home, according to the Minnesota safety council.

Electrocutions are frequent causes of death in the bathroom. Avoid using electric appliances while in the tub or while wet. It's a good idea to keep radios, hair dryers and even telephones out of the bathroom or, at least out of reach from the tub or wash basin area.

While most bathroom falls are not fatal, they result in large numbers of injuries. Bathtub surfaces, wet floor tiles and soap are the culprits. Guard against bathroom falls by installing a grab bar, anchored to the wall beside the tub to aid in standing. Use non-slip backing on throw rugs to keep floors from getting wet and feel from slipping.

Beware of cuts from razor blades and faucet handles. Be extra careful to dispose of used razor blades in a closed container where children won't find them, and don't use the old blades as cutting and trimming utensils. Replace porcelain faucet handles with metal ones that won't break to cause severe cuts.

Use aerosol sprays such as hairsprays, deodorants, talcums, etc., only in properly ventilated areas. Be sure to aim sprays away from the eyes.

Guard against accidental poisoning by marking all medicine bottles plainly. Destroy old prescriptions. Don't take medicines in the dark; it's easy to take the wrong prescription by mistake. Lock up all medicines out of the reach of youngsters.

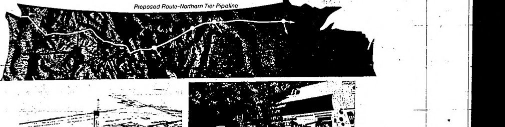
American oil for American farmers ... It's a good idea.



Let's connect America's largest oil field on Alaska's North Slope with your farm.

CENEX lays it on the line.
Farmers organized CENEX nearly 50 years ago to establish their own dependable supply of quality farm fuels. Over the years, CENEX has made the investments necessary to fulfill that purpose—investing in producing oil wells, pipelines, refineries, rail and highway tankers, plus storage and distribution facilities. And that's why CENEX recently invested $2 million in the Northern Tier Pipeline.
Lately, international events have made CENEX's job a lot tougher. But CENEX didn't grow by avoiding challenges—and as a leading supplier of farm fuels in 14 states, CENEX won't avoid this one.
Your future fuel needs will require access to additional sources of crude oil. CENEX believes that Alaskan crude oil, pumped through the Northern Tier Pipeline, can help provide for those needs best. There are three important reasons why.

Alaskan crude, a secure supply.
By far, the largest reserve supply of crude on American soil lies under the North Slope of Alaska. It has 10 billion barrels of proven reserves and exploration is continuing. Consequently, Alaskan crude can provide the most secure, long-term source of petroleum to America's most vital industry—agriculture.

Northern Tier, the least expensive route.
The Trans-Alaska Pipeline has been operating at a little more than half its ultimate capacity—and still there is a surplus of crude on the West Coast. On average, 350,000 to 500,000 barrels of crude per day can't be used by West Coast refineries. Instead, it is shipped by tanker through the Panama Canal to be fed into pipelines running north from the Gulf of Mexico. The Northern Tier Pipeline would shorten the shipping route to CENEX country by almost 5,000 miles, and cut transportation costs by more than half.

Environmental concerns.
CENEX believes the Northern Tier is the safest way to bring Alaskan crude to inland refineries. Because the distance traveled is much shorter, it poses a smaller risk of spillage than present transportation by tanker through the Panama Canal.
CENEX intends to work closely with Northern Tier to insure farmers have a fair say about how the pipeline will cross their land. The line will be buried below tillage depth and the topsoil replaced. During construction, Northern Tier will install temporary fencing to contain livestock, and try to locate pumping stations at fence rows. They'll work with you to route the line around future building sites. The Northern Tier Pipeline is the safest way to transport oil to meet your needs.

Help build an American pipeline.
You have a vital interest in the Northern Tier Pipeline because its construction will have a favorable impact on your future fuel supplies. This fall, our government will either approve Northern Tier, or choose one of two foreign pipeline options. These options would take control out of American hands, and according to a recent Department of Energy study, would add significantly to the delivery cost.
CENEX urges you to speak up now if you want your views considered. Write your President, Senators and Congressman. In states the Pipeline will cross, Governors, State Legislators and local public officials should also be contacted.
If you have any questions or need more information, visit your local CENEX Co-op, or contact CENEX, Public Relations Division, Box 43089, South St. Paul, MN. 55164. Your questions will be answered promptly and factually.

Combining numbers from near-identical spring high school and summer American Legion baseball seasons, pitcher Scott Sabo has had a statistical season that must rank among the top Thief River Falls athletic performances in recent memory; perhaps surpassed only by those remarkable record-setting figures by Northland college basketball All-American David Dickey in 1973-74 and 1974-75.

Heading into a scheduled regular season-ending American Legion doubleheader against Bemidji Saturday, Sabo owned strike-out figures that would be the envy of any major leaguer. In 72 innings of 1979 high school and American Legion baseball, Sabo has struck out 136 batters.

For the high school Prowlers, Sabo struck out 71 batters in 37 innings, finishing with an outstanding 1.89 earned run average.

Those high school statistics were duplicated during American Legion ball when Sabo struck out 65 batters in 35 innings, giving up but three runs and 10 hits in five games.

Nine times Sabo strike-outs reached double figures for the seven-inning games, highlighted by three games in which he struck out 17 batters — a May 15 high school victory when he one-hit Roseau 5-0; a June 21 American Legion debut when he two-hit East Grand Forks 3-0; and a more recent July 10 repeat performance against Roseau that netted him a three-hit 5-1 victory.

Sabo twice struck out 15 batters — following those 17 strike-outs against Roseau with 15 strike-outs in a July 17 one-hit 6-0 victory over Bagley; and putting down 15 Crookston batters in a memorable 1-0 ten-inning pitching duel he lost to the Pirates' Brent Stahlecker.

Sabo's won-loss record belies his performances. He was 1-4 for the Prowlers, losing that marathon to Crookston and dropping games to Moorhead when he struck out 13, Bemidji when he struck out 11 and to Crookston again when he struck out 13. Losses in a 3-2 American Legion season include a 2-1 defeat at the hands of Red Lake Falls when he struck out 11 and gave up just one hit and 4-1 setback at the hands of Crookston in the semifinals of the Crookston invitational tournament.

Dickey, for the uninformed, set a bundle of Northland records in leading the Northmen to 20-5 and 24-1 records before moving on to the University of North Dakota. The Canton, Ohio native is most remembered for his tremendous passing ability that enabled his to accumulate 513 assists in 50 games.

Abram Leaves Coaching

Terry Abram, the former Roseau high school hockey coach, has resigned as hockey coach at Anoka high school to take a position in business and sales for a Minneapolis-based plastics corporation.

Abram's surprising announcement was made last week. A South St. Paul native and an All-American defenseman at the University of North Dakota, Abram has made several surprising decisions during his hockey career. He turned down a professional contract offer from the Chicago Black Hawks who made him a first round NHL draft pick in 1969; he left a Roseau team after the 1977 season that was one of the state's best ever with players like Neal and Aaron Broten, Butsy Erickson, Frank Bruggraf, Brian Vatnsdal and Dean Byfuglien to take over a nondescript Anoka team following the resignation there of former Lincoln high school standout Joey Poole; accepted a position as an assistant coach at the University of North Dakota after one year at Anoka but then promptly rejected the job to return to Anoka; and now leaves an Anoka team that many feel will be a state tournament contender this winter.

"I contemplated about waiting after this year before leaving coaching," Abram told Tom Yelle of the Anoka County Union, "but then that job might not be open a year from now. I am a firm believer in taking the opportunity as it comes."

The 32-year-old Abram said the decision to leave teaching and coaching for the business world was based strictly on financial reasons.

TRF Elks Earn Spot In State Babe Ruth Meet

Thief River Falls Elks earned a berth in the 1979 Minnesota Babe Ruth 13-15-year-old state baseball tournament with a championship performance in the Lake Agassiz District tournament played Thursday and Friday at Roseau.

The Elks, coached by Paul and Bruce Williams, edged Roseau 2-1 in the first round of the double elimination district tournament before posting a pair of wins over the rival East Grand Frosk Blue, winning 5-4 Thursday and taking a 5-2 decision in Friday's finals.

Thursday's first day games featured four one-run decisions as the East Grand Forks Blue got by Williams 5-4, Thief River Falls Elks edged Roseau 2-1, Roseau outscored Williams 12-11 and the Elks edged the Blue 5-4.

East Grand Forks Blue, the Lake Agassiz Southern Division Sub District tournament winner over Thief River Falls the previous week, got another shot at the Elks with a 6-3 victory over Roseau Friday but lost the district tournament rematch against Thief River Falls 5-2.

The state Babe Ruth tournament begins Friday at Maple Lake, located about midway between St. Cloud and the Twin Cities on highway 55. Thief River Falls will take a 23-8 record into the double elimination event.

TRF 2, Roseau 1

Out-hit 4-2, Thief River Falls Elks used a pair of Roseau errors and a base hit by Rob Jorstad to score twice in the fifth inning of a 2-1 first round Lake Agassiz District tournament win over host Roseau.

Mark Harder, backed by the Elks defense that committed just one error, was the winning pitcher.

TRF 5, EGF 4

Thief River Falls broke a 4-4 deadlock in the top of the seventh inning for a 5-4 first meeting triumph over the East Grand Forks Blue.

Tim Bergland walked to start the seventh. Greg Harder received an intensional walk and Brent Schmitz picked up his second hit of the game, a perfectly placed bunt down the first base line, to load the bases. Jeff Milender then walked on four pitches for the run. A strike-out and a double play kept the Elks from scoring more, but the damage had already been done.

Greg harder was the winning pitcher, striking out nine. He was staked to a 3-0 lead, but East Grand Forks tied it with a three-run third. The hits were even at seven apiece.

Single runs in the first, second, third, fifth and sixth innings added up to a 5-2 Thief River Falls victory over the East Grand Forks Blue in the finals.

Mark Harder earned his second pitching decision of the tournament, limiting East Grand Forks to just two base hits and a pair of first inning runs on errors. Harder was also 3-for-3 in a nine-hit Thief River Falls attack that also saw Tim Bergland and Greg Harder go 2-for-3.

Cota, Hitting .500, Lifts Coke Past Action Realty

Roger Cota went 2-for-3, lifting his league-leading batting average to an even .500 to lead Coca-Cola to a 4-2 victory over Action Realty Wednesday, making Coke the winningest team in the seven-team Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league.

It was Coca-Cola's third win of the season over Action Realty and the team's ninth victory in ten starts. However, Coca-Cola still trails unbeaten leader North Star Transport (8-0). Those two teams are scheduled to meet Friday.

Coca-Cola picked up two runs in the bottom of the first inning when Cota and Rob Almquist beat out infield hits. Cota scored on a fielder's choice and Almquist scored on Tony Johnson's single to left.

It became 3-0 in the third when Almquist reached second base on a throwing error and scored on Johnson's second RBI hit of the night.

Action Realty closed the gap to 3-2 on a two-run Wayne Smith home run in the fourth. Harley Drees reached base on a fielder's choice and Smith smacked the first pitch he saw over the center field fence for his fourth homer of the year.

Coca-Cola apparently scored an insurance run on Cota's one-out home run in the top of the fifth, but he was ruled out when a teammate walked across the playing field before he had completed running out the hit.

However, Almquist followed suit with his third home run of the year—a shot over the left field fence for a 4-2 win.

Fri., July 27 — Coca-Cola vs. North Star Transport, 7:30 p.m.; Radio Shack vs. Melvies, 9 p.m.

Schmidts 5
Melvies 4

Bruce Johnson's looping single to right field scored Rick Johnson with an eighth inning run as Schmidts opened the Wednesday doubleheader with a 5-4 victory over Melvies.

Schmidts scored the first run of the game on Bob Tunheim's lead-off home run over the left field fence, his first homer of the year, in the first inning.

Melvies scored twice in the bottom of the second on a fielder's choice and Keith Charbonneau's inside-the-park home run into centerfield.

The Melvies lead mounted to 4-1 in the third inning when Tom Shetler doubled with one out and advanced to third on an error on Del Beito's ground ball. Rick Kofstad and Darwin Nelson came through with RBI singles.

Schmidts tied the contest in the bottom of the fourth as Mark Haats walked and Mark Anderson homered for a 4-3 game and Tunheim made it 4-4 on an RBI single that scored Lloyd Noreen who beat out a bunt single and went to second on an error on the play.

Jay Moum Is Winner In Cat Classic Golf Event

Dropping a three-foot putt on the eighth hole, Thief River Falls golfer Jay Moum closed out friend and former college teammate Jim Strandemo to win the second annual Thief River Falls Cat Classic golf tournament completed Sunday at the Thief River Country Club.

The Cat Classic tournament, revised to match play from last year's medal format, represented the first win of the season for Moum who is often the dominant force on the regional golf scene.

Moum encountered few serious difficulties enroute to the title. The first match against Gary Peterson (Mahnomen) went eight holes before Moum emerged the victor 2 and 1 (two holes up, one hole to play).

The second match found Moum pitted against Paul Hanson (Mahnomen), another good friend and ex-teammate from Bemidji State University. The victory went to Moum 3 and 2, the match going only seven holes.

Strandemo, Hanson and Moum are all former number one men at Bemidji state. Strandemo, originally from Mahnomen, and a Moum teammate at Northland community college when the Northmen dominated the MJCAA golf picture, now plays out of Sioux Falls, S.D. Strandemo won the 1978 South Dakota state amateur championship.

Bob Ferberg (TRF) won Cat Classic consolation honors with a 2-up victory over Scott Johnson (Hallock).

In the women's portion of the tournament, Nancy Harris (Roseau), winner of the Thief River women's invitational event just four days earlier, collected her second straight title at the Country Club by defeating Marge Corliss (TRF) 2 and 1.

Harris also defeated Gail Johnson (Roseau) 4 and 3, and low qualifier Sylvia Sjoberg (TRF) 2 and 1.

In the women's consolation final, Ramona Wilson (Roseau) managed a 1-up victory over Carol Christian (TRF).

Thief River Falls golfer Jim Geatz won the Cat Classic junior division championship 1-up over Terry Olson (Fosston). Geatz posted earlier wins over Todd Spilde (Mahnomen) 4 and 3, and Tom Kenville (TRF) 2 and 1.

Junior division consolation title went to Jon Onkka (TRF).

TRF Merchants Top Seed In District Meet

Top-seeded Thief River Falls Merchants received a first round bye this morning (Monday) as the Lake Agassiz District 13-year-old Babe Ruth baseball tournament got underway at East Grand Forks.

Crookston met east Grand Forks at 10 a.m. in the first round of the three-team, double elimination event that will send its winner to the state tournament beginning Friday at Cottage Grove.

Thief River Falls Merchants were scheduled to play the Crookston-East Grand Forks winner at 12:30 p.m. today. The tournament will be completed Tuesday.

A 14-4, 12-2 season-ending doubleheader sweep over East Grand Forks Wednesday lifted the Thief River Falls Merchants record to 13-4-1 for the year.

RUNNER-UP FINISHER in the 1979 Thief River Falls Cat Classic golf tournament completed Sunday on the Thief River Country Club course was Jim Strandemo, a Mahnomen native and a Northland community college graduate who now plays out of Sioux Falls, S.D. Strandemo, the 1978 South Dakota state amateur champion, dropped a 2-up championship match decision to former college teammate Jay Moum of Thief River Falls in Sunday's finals.

Unbeaten RLF Meets Saints, Ridge Runners

Unbeaten Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league leader Red Lake Falls will face a pair of challenges tonight (Monday) in a doubleheader assignment against the St. Hilaire Saints and the Ridge Runners, a pair of teams battling for third place in the 16-team standings.

St. Hilaire Saints (10-2) kept pace with Red Lake Falls (14-0) and second place Pizza Hut (11-1) with a 10-0 victory over winless Rusty Nail during an abbreviated Wednesday night schedule, breaking open a scoreless tie in the bottom of the fourth inning.

However, the Ridge Runners (10-3) lost ground in dropping a 6-4 decision to the Farmer's Co-op Stingers.

Falls Clinic defeated Roseau Transport 8-5 in Wednesday's only other game.

Legion Sweeps Bemidji Squad

A 10-1, 3-1 doubleheader sweep over Bemidji Saturday closed out the 1979 Thief River Falls American Legion regular season baseball schedule with an 11-3 record.

Bemidji, playing without five starters, ended the season 14-9. Both teams begin post-season Sub District play this week — Thief River Falls competing in the Ninth District portion of the state-wide playoffs and Bemidji playing in the Sixth District.

TRF 10
Bemidji 1

A six-run fourth inning broke a 1-1 tie as Thief River Falls crushed Bemidji 10-1 in the doubleheader opener.

Thief River Falls pitcher Scott Sabo silenced Bemidji on two hits, striking out 14 batters while giving up only an unearned first inning run.

Successive third inning singles by Monty Peterson, Mark Ludin and Steve Bengston tied it at 1-1 in the third.

Thief River Falls' fourth inning uprising sent 11 batters to the plate, producing six runs on six hits and a Bemidji error.

It became an official rout in the sixth when Thief River Falls tacked on three more runs, thanks in part to three Bemidji errors.

Jeff Ulrich and Tony Bakke, both more accustomed at other positions, were given pitching assignments in the second half of the twinbill and the surprising result was a pitcher's duel won by Ulrich and Thief River Falls 3-1.

Ulrich gave up just three hits, struck out nine and walked only two while receiving errorless support. Bakke was a tough-luck loser in throwing a one-hitter that was spoiled by four Bemidji errors. Bakke struck out 10 and walked five.

Thief River Falls scored in the second inning when Dave Kays reached base and scored on errors.

Two more errors in the fifth made it 3-0 when Kays again reached base on an error and Monty Peterson walked. Two passed balls scored Kays and Bemidji's fourth error of the game scored Peterson.

Thief River Falls' only base hit was a two-out first inning double by Jim Sethre.

Bemidji scored in the sixth on singles by Roger Degerman and Scott Pemberton.

Agassiz Refuge Is Mentioned In New Book

Minnesota's Agassiz national wildlife refuge is mentioned in a new book, "Guide to the National Wildlife Refuges," being published by Anchor Press-Doubleday in July.

According to the book, Agassiz "harbors as great a variety of waterfowl and other wildlife as any national wildlife refuge — but its most imposing resident, without doubt, is the moose." However, it also supports nesting populations of Canada geese, 16 species of ducks, white-tailed deer, beaver, mink, porcupines, and many others, plus fascinating botanical specimens."

Agassiz is one of almost 400 U.S. national wildlife refuges described in the book.

U.S. national wildlife refuges, which were begun as a national project when president Theodore Roosevelt proclaimed tiny Pelican Island as a wild bird sanctuary in 1903, now cover more than 30 million acres in almost every state, including Alaska and Hawaii. They harbor wildlife called by president Russell Train of the world wildlife fund — U.S. "as diverse and interesting as that of any country in the world" — an extraordinary array of more than 220 species of mammals, more than 600 of birds, 250 of reptiles and amphibians, over 200 species of fish and uncounted numbers of plants, from wild orchids to unique kinds of plam trees.

Grizzly bears, bighorn sheep, elk and moose, rare and endangered whooping cranes, bald eagles, tiny and exquisite painted buntings, waterfowl in numbers that literally darken the sky — all are found at U.S. national wildlife refuges.

The book, by Laura and William Riley, is the first comprehensive guide ever published to these refuges, and it tells how to get there, when to go, and what are the outstanding natural residents in each place.

Minnesota North Stars defenseman Gary Sargent of Bemidji was on the ice for a greater percentage of his team's goals than any other player in the NHL during the 1978-79 season. League statistics showed that Sargent was "on" for 53.1 per cent of the North Stars' goals. Colorado's Barry Beck and Toronto's Borje Salming finished second and third behind Sargent.

Save mowing time with ZTR Mowbility

Two hand levers minimize drive work. The zero turning radius reduces mower work. That's how Dixon® ZTR® mowers cut mowing time in half.

The DIXON® model 308 is 30" of Mowbility, town-lawn size that saves up to half the time you've spent riding other mowers.

Model 308 is ideal for any lawn loaded with trees or other obstacles — or between plantings with narrow strips to mow. Same 8 hp engine and patented DIXON transaxle as the bigger model 422, with LevelCut™ front axle to keep the cut even on turns — Zero Radius Turns. Safety features, easy 2-lever control.

Don't take our word for it. Come in for your own Mowbility demonstration now — before your lawn needs its next mowing!

CAT CLASSIC GOLF tournament champion Jay Moum of Thief River Falls blasted out of the sand on the ninth green on his way to a 3 and 2 semifinal victory over Paul Hanson of Mahnomen in the match play event on the Thief River Country Club course. Moum finished with a 2-up championship match victory over Jim Strandemo, a former Mahnomen golfer who now lives in Sioux Falls, S.D.

Close Division Races Are Featured In Slow Pitch

First place ties exist in two of the four divisions of the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association entering the final two weeks of the 1979 regular season schedule.

While Divisions III and IV feature the first place deadlocks, the pennant race in Division II is no less exciting as four teams struggle for the top spot. Only in Division I where the Rusty Nail Raiders have a "comfortable" two-game edge is the leadership not based on a game-to-game basis.

Division I

Top four Division I teams were winners, leaving the standings virtually unchanged.

First place Rusty Nail Raiders were 10-2 winners over Hobo Haus Wednesday. On Thursday, the TRF Merchants outlasted Arnold Realty 10-9 in ten innings and Tony Dorn, Inc. beat Swenson Plumbing & Heating, Inc. 7-3 to remain locked in a second place struggle. Trailing 7-5 in the seventh, the TRF Merchants were rescued by a one-out game-tying two-run home run by Don Grabowska. Brad Kosel was 4-for-4 in the Tony Dorn, Inc. victory.

Fourth place Wagon Wheel opened a gap between the top and bottom half of the Division I standings with a 9-6 decision over Hartz Wednesday.

Furuseth-Nelson, Inc. was a doubleheader winner Thursday, beating Arnold Realty 18-3 and knocking off Swenson Plumbing & Heating, Inc. 5-2.

Division II

Topsy-turvy Division II pennant race has a new leader in First Federal Savings & Loan Association. They grabbed the top spot Thursday on the strength of a 9-3 victory over the St. Hilaire Bears, completing a doubleheader loss for the Bears who began the night as division leaders but lost their opener to Bridgeman's 5-4.

Unpredictable Bridgeman's failed to capitalize on the opportunity, though, losing the second half a twinbill to Popplers-Action Realty 6-5.

Craziness continued Friday when The Get-A-Way, in position to pick up a share of first place, was upset by Hamms-Pizza Hut 8-5, a team that built a 14-6 lead in a doubleheader opener against Bridgeman's only to lose 15-14 in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Even the non-contenders made noise as Popplers-Action Realty outlasted Dallmann Athletic, Inc. 24-21 in the league's highest scoring game of the year.

Division III

What had been a four-game spread between first and second place in Division II evaporated when Arctic IWA won just once in three starts, a 4-3 squeeker over The Club, Wednesday when Brian Herringa and Dan Sletten were both 3-for-3.

Arctic IWA lost to Phase II 15-4 Wednesday and fell to First Northwestern Insurance Agency 18-7 Friday and had its 11-4 record matched by Schumacher's Tireland, a 15-9 winner over Great Northwest Agency, Inc. Wednesday when Tom Ronchetti enjoyed a 4-for-4 night at the plate that featured two home runs, a triple and a double.

Consumer's Co-op Association swept a Wednesday twinbill, beating The Club 11-1 and sidelining a streaking Phase II squad 7-6.

Great Northwest Agency, Inc. picked up a 7-0 forfeit win over McDonald's Wednesday.

Division IV

Wilson Brothers Co. pulled even with idle Jean Junction-Rundell Electric in the Division IV standings with a 12-2 record by coming from an 8-0 deficit to edge Smith & Holthusen 12-11 Friday, scoring the winning run with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning.

TRF Aggies upset Kmart 16-6 Thursday.

List Framework For Migratory Hunting Seasons

Regulations setting the hunting frameworks for certain migratory birds for 1979-80 hunting season have been proposed by the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Lynn A. Greenwalt, director, announced.

Generally the frameworks are the same as last year except for a few minor changes which affect local areas or regions.

The proposal, published in the June 28, 1979, Rederal Register, sets forth the species to be hunted, daily bag and possession limits, shooting hours, season lengths, earliest opening and latest closing season dates and special closures, from which state conservation agency officials may select open season dates.

This is the third rulemaking notice dealing with the 1979-80 migratory bird hunting season issued by the service. The short comment period for this proposed rulemaking is necessary in order to permit publication of final rulemaking on July 23, allow the states to develop their regulations within this framework and publish final regulations for these categories by August 10, 1979.

Species included in this proposal are mourning doves, white-winged doves, band-tailed pigeons, rails, woodcock, common snipe and gallinules; teal in portions of the Mississippi and Central Flyways during September; sea ducks in designated areas of the Atlantic Flyway; and sandhill cranes in portions of North and South Dakota. The proposal also includes provisions for an early duck season in Iowa in late September.

The proposal includes an option for a falconry season in certain states meeting federal falconry standards. It would afford falconers additional opportunity to participate in the sport but would not result in any substantial increase in overall migratory game bird harvest.

As in the past, hunting regulations this year are designed to remove or alleviate chances of conflict between seasons for migratory game birds and the protection of endangered species.

Additional details regarding the proposals are available from the service's Washington or regional offices.

A's	2	13

David Onkka's shutout pitching led the Twins to a 10-0 victory over the Yankees.

In an upset, the A's defeated the Twins in a slugfest 14-13.

In the league's longest game this year, the Twins defeated the Blue Jays 5-2 in 11 innings. With the score 1-0 in the bottom of the sixth inning, Scott Novak's single scored the tieing run for the Blue Jays to send the game into extra innings. Each team scored one run in the ninth inning forcing more extra play. The Twins then exploded for three runs, all unearned, in the top of the 11th inning to win the game. Ryan Drees pitched nine innings of ball, striking out 19 batters, and the opposing pitcher, Kevin Nelson, also had a well pitched game.

All teams will play three games this week to finish out their schedule. With a two game lead, the Twins are picked to win the league championship.

Reach for a Leech

Walleyes have been hitting in the Nisswa area near Brainerd in spite of the hot weather according to Mary Koep of the Nisswa Bait and Tackle Shop.

Week ending July 8 was a busy period in the walleye department. The largest fish weighed 11-pounds, eight-ounces and was taken from Whitefish Lake. In second place was a walleye weighing 10-pounds, 15-ounces taken from Pelican.

All of the other walleyes reported were taken from Gull Lake. Three were in the nine pound class — two weighed over eight pounds and one was seven-pounds, 14-ounces.

All the big walleyes with two exceptions were caught on leeches.

Muskie Weather

Hot weather is muskie weather. Leech Lake is famous as a muskie lake and many 'follows' have been reported.

Nine-year-old Shane Huether of Oshkosh, Wis. caught a muskie weighing 21-pounds, two-ounces on a minnow. Don Spencer of Lake Crystal caught one weighing 15-pounds, 10-ounces and Ruth Purviance of Jefferson, Iowa boated one weighing 13-pounds, 13-ounces.

In the northern department, four-year-old Katy Kell of Circle Pines caught a northern weighing 14-pounds, four-ounces.

Suit Dropped Against Federal Wildlife Group

A 15-month lawsuit against the federal aid program to states for conducting wildlife conservation projects has been voluntarily dropped for at least a year by two animal welfare groups, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service director Lynn A. Greenwalt announced. The lawsuit had charged that administration of the 1937 Pittman-Robertson program was not in compliance with the national environmental policy act.

"We are pleased to have the federal grant-in-aid program out of the courtroom and back in the full-time business of helping wildlife and habitat conservation," Greenwalt said. "A number of changes have been made in our procedures that reflect our primary concern — carrying out the purposes of the program in full compliance with NEPA."

In addition to suspending their challenge to the national program, the committee for humane legislation and friends of animals also agreed not to challenge this year's funding of state projects, most of which began on July 1. In return, the Interior agency agreed to summarize the 182 state projects that were challenged in notices placed in local newspapers and in the Federal Register.

Each notice will include a brief summary of the project in that area, announce that an environmental assessment is available, and that the project has been found to have "no significant impact on the human environment."

Although there is a 30-day public comment period, funding of this year's projects will not be affected. Service officials estimated this year's cost of placing paid notices in the newspapers will be about $100,000.

Notices will also be run in 1980 and 1981 on new projects that require an environmental assessment. In those years, the notices will solicit public comment at least 45 days before a decision in made on whether the project will have an impact on the environment, and prior to the federal funding.

District Court Judge Charles R. Richey approved the settlement agreement on June 26, 1979, and dismissed the lawsuit that began in March 1978. At the time the suit was filed, the service was completing an environmental impact statement (EIS) on the national program but the plaintiffs then challenged the 614 ongoing state projects, claiming that each was a major federal action that required an EIS. The number was later reduced to 182 and environmental assessments were provided to the plaintiffs. Environmental assessments are the initial documents required after NEPA and are the basis for deciding whether there will be a significant impact on the environment and whether a full EIS is needed.

The Pittman-Robertson act established a continuing cooperative program between the federal government and the states for the selection, rehabilitation, and improvement of areas of land or water for wildlife restoration. Since 1938, more than $882 million have been distributed to wildlife conservation agencies in the states, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands. The funds are derived from federal excise taxes on sporting firearms, ammunition, hand guns and archery equipment. In 1979, $82.2 million was distrubuted to these agencies.

Include TRF In New State-Wide Hunter Education Program Plan

Thief River Falls will be included in the program when hunter education and edification comes of age this year in Minnesota with the scheduling of over 18 hunting clinics and seminars around the state in August and September.

Born from a cooperative effort between state sportsmen's clubs, the Department of Natural Resources, the Minnesota environmental sciences foundation and the regional environmental education councils, the series of classes, meetings and programs is a model being followed carefully by other states. The concerns that gave rise to these classes and meetings are shared across the country; deteriorating relationships between landowners and sportsmen, shrinking habitat, declining game populations, fewer acres on which to hunt and concern about the future of the sport itself. These were articulated in 1973 in an entire issue of the Conservation Volunteer devoted to "The Twilight of the Hunter".

Thief River Falls will be the site of a waterfowl clinic September 18.

In previous years these groups singularly and together conducted pilot programs and collected surveys to help determine what hunters needed and wanted in the way of information and what opportunities they would like to pass on to other hunters and younger sportsmen. The result has been a series of classes, single evening meetings and day-long meetings on a large variety of topics of interest to hunters. Because of the great variety of the skills and experience of the hunters involved in the pilot programs, the meetings are designed so that people taking part are as much information givers as receivers.

Les Kouba, noted wildlife artist, has donated his painting "Mallards Arriving" to the program. Prints of it are being sold to support the program development.

Credit for the design and success of the program so far goes in large part to Dick Anderson of the Fergus Falls Sportsmen's Club. A gun and bow hunter all his life, and a tracker whose services are much in demand, Anderson lives his sport, and is greatly concerned about its future. During the first three years of the program's existence, Anderson has conducted numerous weekly classes and deer, grouse and trespass law symposiums. His meetings are always marked by high attendance, in large part because the people who participate are given the means of sharing their own knowledge, skills, and concerns with others.

In the past two years, about 75 sportsmen and members of other organizations from around the state have been trained in conducting these classes and meetings. This year, Anderson is being sponsored by the DNR to travel the state helping the instructors schedule and organize their efforts.

"I have found the hunter education program to be a great extension of my favorite pasttime" said Anderson. "There is something in every session even for the most experienced outdoorsman. The highlights of every clinic are the sharing of experiences with others who have the same interests and concerns, and the chance to make lasting friendships."

Anderson stressed that more instructors and resource people are needed to help with the classes and seminars. People who are interested should contact him at 316 North Oak Street, Fergus Falls, MN 56537.

A schedule of classes and clinics confirmed for August and September includes:

+Archer's weekend Aug. 17-18, Deep Portage Conservation Reserve, Hackensack.

+Hunter education class Sept. 6-16, Austin.

+Trespass clinics Sept. 6, Fergus Falls; Sept. 11, Detroit Lakes; Sept. 12, Deer Creek.

+Grouse hunters weekend Sept. 7-8, Deep Portage Conservation Reserve, Hackensack.

+Grouse clinics Sept. 11, Grand Rapids; Sept. 13, Fergus Falls.

+Duck hunters day Sept. 15, Elks Point, Fergus Falls.

+Waterfowl clinics Sept. 17, Thief River Falls; Sept. 18, Bloomington; Sept. 19, Lac Qui Parle refuge; Sept. 20, Heron Lake near Slayton; Sept. 21, Austin.

SHARING THE REWARD with her dog April is Tami Gaetz of Fosston who took first place in beginner B competition at the dog obedience trial held July 11 in Thief River Falls. Tami was one of five contestants in her division. She and her golden Labrador qualified for the dog obedience graduation competition by successfully completing a 10 week class under the direction of Marian Myhrum of Fosston.

DOG OBEDIENCE GRADUATION was held July 11 at the Thief River Falls sports arena with participants from six area towns. Taking first place in one beginner A group with her Carin terrier, Banner, was Mary Solberg of Crookston. All participants had successfully completed the 10-week dog obedience course offered under the sponsorship of the Tri-County Humane Society and Pennington county extension office. Another session of classes will be offered Wednesday evenings beginning August 1 at 7 p.m. in the city sports arena. No preregistration is necessary. For further information contact Linda Joppru at 681-5664 or Ellen Bolen at 681-5770.

One Third Of Population Has Osteoarthritis

Osteoarthritis is a joint disease that is found in over one-third of the adult population of the United States, according to the Arthritis foundation. In Minnesota, 290,000 are seriously afflicted with the disease.

A spokesman for the Minnesota chapter of the foundation added that osteoarthritis, often called degenerative joint disease, is becoming more widespread as more and more Americans are living longer. "If we live long enough," he said, "We're all going to get osteoarthritis."

During July the message center of the Arthritis foundation has a message dealing with osteoarthritis and what can be done about it. The message may be heard by calling the foundation's toll-free number, 1-800-552-1278. Callers may ask for free literature on osteoarthritis or on other arthritic disorders.

The message center is one of the free services the Arthritis foundation is able to provide as a United Fund agency in most Minnesota communities.

CO. BOARD PROCEEDINGS

July 23, 1979
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
Pennington County Board
Of Equalization
July 2, 1979

Pursuant to Law the Pennington County Board of Equalization met in the Commissioner's Room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls at 10:00 A.M., July 2, 1979. The 2nd day of July being the 1st business day following the July 1st date set by Statute. July 1st fell on Sunday this year.

Members present: Hoffman, Grabanski, Koop, Stenberg and Tasa. All present. County Assessor DeHahn and Assistant Finstad as well as County Attorney Olin, were also present.

The County Assessor indicated that he felt there was a problem in Deer Park Township because of the Local Assessors policy of classifying tillable peat land as pasture land rather than tillable land. It was indicated that the reason for this was that peat is only tillable in certain years depending on the rainfall. The records indicate that tillable lands have decreased in Deer Park and are some 2,000 acres below what the ASC records indicate. The problem is that adjoining Townships do not classify lands in the same manner and they cannot then equalize values without some other explanations and in this manner the appraisals appear un-equal.

DeHahn recommended an increase in value of 25 per cent in Deer Park on pasture; 30 per cent in Highlanding; 30 per cent in Mayfield on peat land and 30 per cent in Deer Park on woods. Commissioner Grabanski indicated regret that the Local Assessors were not present to assist in clarification of the problem. It was then determined that the Board should adjourn and convene at another time when the Assessors and Town Chairman of the Townships of Highlanding, Deer Park and Hickory could be present to assist in the matter.

Moved by Grabanski seconded by Koop that the meeting adjourn to convene at 9:00 A.M., July 9, 1979 and to invite the Chairman of Town Boards of Deer Park, Highlanding and Hickory and Assessors of Deer Park and Hickory. Motion declared unanimously carried.

The Board of Equalization reconvened at 9:00 A.M. July 9, 1979. Members present: Hoffman, Grabanski, Koop, Stenberg and Tasa. All present. Also present: DeHahn, Finstad and State Revenue Dept. Representative Ruben Rydeen.

Board members from Highlanding, Deer Park and Hickory along with Assessors for Deer Park and Hickory were present:

The problem at hand was reviewed by the County Assessor where land is being classed in one Township with no comparable class in an adjoining Township.

The Township representatives were asked to come up with a solution and after re-working the various classes into comparable categories it was determined that the actual differences were small, and it was felt that in another year the labels for the classifications could be re-aligned so that they could be evaluated properly.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Koop that the General Property Assessments in all classes and Mobile Home Assessments for the entire County be accepted as returned by the local Boards of review, and further that the Market Value of all Agricultural Lands, Buildings, Improvements and Machinery of the various Townships and Cities be accepted. Motion declared unanimously carried.

Moved by Koop seconded by Stenberg that meeting adjourn. Motion carried.

Minnesota Property Taxes Rise In 1979

For the second year in a row, state-wide property tax increases have been kept to a minimum, according to figures compiled by the Minnesota taxpayers association. Although still preliminary, the data points to a 5.8 per cent increase in "average" net property taxes paid by homeowners in 1979. Total taxes levied by all governmental jurisdictions amounted to $1.63 billion. The state-paid homestead and agricultural credits reduced the tax burden by an estimated $295 million or 22 per cent for a net total of $1.33 billion.

In Pennington county the total of property taxes climbed to $4,318,737 or 8.7 per cent. Taxable values were up 13.9 per cent to $39,198,608 but the average mill rate dropped from 115.42 to 110.18 mills. Homestead tax credits increased from $664,460 to $720,797. The net property tax payable was up 7.9 per cent to $3,457,439.

According to Don G. Paterick, executive director of the association, the 5.8 per cent increase follows a 4 per cent rise witnessed last year. "A 10 per cent rise over the past two years is not excessive," Paterick stated, "in comparison to a 20 per cent rise in the Mpls-St. Paul Consumer Price Index since April of 1977. Although personal income figures are not yet available for 1979, Minnesota witnessed a 15 per cent rise in 1978 alone."

Over the past six years, annual net property taxes have increased on a state-wide basis as follows: 1974, 3.75 per cent; 1975, 16.55 per cent; 1976, 3.58 per cent; 1977, 12.19 per cent; 1978, 4.31 per cent and 1979, 5.79 per cent.

"It appears as if 1979 has broken a trend in property tax hikes," Paterick said. "For the past six years, property taxes have not been stable. Homeowners have had a mild tax increase one year, however, substantially increased the next year.

"The state's contribution in alleviating the property tax burden should be emphasized," Paterick said. "Since 1968 the state has provided direct relief to homeowners in the form of homestead credit reflected directly on the tax bill. This relief has more than tripled since its initiation to an estimated $295 million in 1979. Beginning with taxes payable in 1976, the state has also provided the property tax refund (circuit breaker) which is income related."

Extensive relief measures were passed by the 1977 Session to ease 1978 and 1979 burdens. These measures included (1) classification ratio reductions, for homeowners, which are utilized in the determination of taxable values; (2) elimination of certain special levies in the local levy limits; (3) an increase in the local government aid formula, (4) increased aid for AFDC costs. In addition, some local jurisdictions were able to hold the line of budget levy increases.

The 1979 legislature again enacted substantial property tax relief for homeowners to stabilize property taxes for 1980 and 1981. The total tax relief will amount to $169 million. Limited market value will be eliminated over a two-year period by limiting property tax valuations to increase 10 per cent of the prior year's valuation of 50 per cent of the difference between the preceding year's limited market value and the property's estimated market value — whichever is greater. Once again, assessment ratios for homesteads will be decreased over a two-year period.

The flexible homestead base will increase to $21,000 (presently $17,000) and the indexing formula is liberalized. The homestead credit will increase from the present 45 per cent of gross tax and a maximum of $325 to 40 per cent and a maximum of $550 for taxes payable in 1980. For subsequent years the state will pay 55 per cent to a maximum of $600. The property tax refund and its co-insurance feature will increase the maximum relief from $800 to $1,000. The agricultural mill rate credit in increased from 15 mills to 17 mills and the acreage limit is increased from 160 to 240 acres. Further property tax relief should result from state takeover of additional welfare costs and increased local aids.

Northwestern Bell Credits MN. Customers

Northwestern Bell customers received more than half a million dollars worth of direct credit on their bills during the first two months of the company's directory assistance credit and pricing plan in Minnesota.

In its first report to the Minnesota public service commission, the company said it charged customers who made more than five calls each month a total of $135,700 while crediting bills $648,400 for a net result of $512,700.

The company also reported $532,900 in direct savings brought about by the reduced number of operators and equipment needed for the reduced calling volumes.

By the end of the quarter, calls to directory assistance decreased more than 50 per cent. That reduced level is continuing today.

The average number of directory assistance operators was reduced by 239 during the quarter. This was accomplished by attrition, retraining and re-assignment, transfer, or promotion to other jobs.

The company also incurred startup costs for the first quarter totaling $1.1 million of which over $600,000 was for additional directories.

In the first two months of the plan the company distributed more than 370,400 directories, 65 per cent of them to customers in the 612 area code.

The company spent $128,000 statewide on public information efforts to introduce the plan and incurred an additional $343,000 in business office expense generated in part by customers who called to express opinions about the plan or ask questions.

Much of the directory and business office expense would not be repeated in future quarters, and the charges are expected to directly offset the customer credits and other company costs over the course of a year, the company said.

Toll-free telephone service is available to Veterans Administration regional offices in 50 states. Some 24 million callers will receive help and information from VA this year.

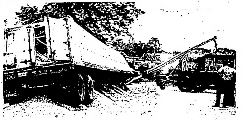
BEEF COW-CALF project grand champion was this entry by Roger Solem of the City View 4-H club. Reserve championship in the division went to Brian Noreen of the Black River club. Competition was held at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls with judging taking place Friday afternoon.



QUITE A SPILL took place July 16 when the trailer of a semi driven by Gary Hoffman of Thief River Falls unhooked from the cab, hit the pavement and released a load of barley Hoffman was hauling. Hoffman had just taken off with the truck and was on his way to Winona but the pin apparently wasn't hooked and the trailer came loose. Hoffman was hauling for Doug Barth of Thief River Falls at the time. In this photo the clean-up work is underway as the spilled grain is being transferred to another truck.

Court Decides 39 Cases Thur.

In a regular session of Pennington county court held Thursday, July 12, a total of 39 cases were decided including 13 Thief River Falls police department cases, 12 cases brought by the Minnesota highway patrol, 13 Pennington county sheriff's department cases and one case brought by the department of natural resources (DNR).

Among the cases brought by the police department were: Ron Harrelson, Oklee, driving while intoxicated, $300 fine and 30 days stayed, and open bottle, $50 fine; Alice E. Peters, Plummer, driving while intoxicated, $300 fine and 30 days with $100 and jail stayed; Rickie W. Anderson, Strandquist, driving while intoxicated, $300 fine and 30 days stayed; Donald G. Fanfulik, St. Hilaire, exhibition driving, $20 fine; Charles T. Marhula, Baudette, driving left of the roadway center, $100 fine; Duane L. Skibicki, Thief River Falls, exhibition driving, $20 fine.

Employer Tax Reports Due On July 31

July 31 is the date by which employers must report on Form 941 social security and withheld federal income taxes for the second quarter of 1979, and pay any taxes due, the Internal Revenue Service said. If the quarterly liability (reduced by any deposit during the quarter) is $200 or more, the unpaid balance must be deposited.

This deadline does not apply to those employers who make timely deposits of the full amount of tax due in federal reserve or approved commercial banks. They are allowed until July 31 to file Form 941, "Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return."

If employers have not received Form 941 by mail, they can obtain one from local IRS offices. IRS Publication 15, "Circular E — Employer's Tax Guide," is also available at local offices.

STATE FARM NEWER HOME DISCOUNT

Retail Sales Up 63.2% In 5-Year Period

Data from the 1977 census of retail trade show that Minnesota's 33,602 retail stores had sales totaling $13.6 billion, an increase of 63.1 per cent over sales reported in 1972 when the last such census was taken, according to the bureau of the census, U.S. department of Commerce.

Among the kinds of business for which data are presented for the state, the percentage change in sales ranged from an increase of 144.6 per cent for fuel and ice dealers to an increase of 13.0 per cent for non-store retailers.

Measured in dollar volume of sales, grocery stores were the largest retailers in the state with 1977 sales of $2.3 billion, followed by new car dealers with $2.27 billion, and department stores with $1.5 billion. These three kinds of business accounted for 44.9 per cent of the state's total sales by retailers.

The 1977 payroll of retail stores in the state amounted to $1.6 billion, up 59.3 per cent from 1972. Jewelry stores showed the largest increase in payroll, with an increase of 125.9 per cent.

There were 271,212 paid employees (full- and part-time) engaged in retail trade in the state as of mid-March 1977. Eating places were the largest employers with 75,397 employees, followed by department stores with 32,520 employees, and grocery stores with 30,812 employees.

Hennepin county led the counties in the state, accounting for 20.9 per cent of total sales by retailers. Minneapolis had the largest sales among the cities in the state, accounting for 9.7 per cent.

The statistics in this release come from the Minnesota Georgraphic Area Statistics report, RC77-A-24, 1977 census of retail trade. The complete report to be issed shortly in microfiche and paperback versions, will present data on 10 major kind-of-business groups for all counties and for incorporated cities of 2,500 inhabitants or more in the state. More detailed kind-of-business information will be presented for major areas — the state, standard metropolitan statistical areas (SMSA's), and counties and cities with 500 establishments or more. The amount of kind-of-business detail will vary according to the number of establishments in an area. (The geographic area reports will be issued for each state, the District of Columbia, and the United States.)

Announcements containing descriptions and publication dates of the various publications in the 1977 census of retail trade, and an order form for purchasing them, can be obtained from the Subscriber Services Section (Publications), Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233.

Dr. Goodrich On State Advisory Committee

Commissioner David Printy of the Minnesota department of economic development recently announced the appointment of the department's 21 member advisory committee. Dr. Donald Goodrich of Thief River Falls was appointed from the seventh district.

The committee is comprised of two members from each of Minnesota eight congressional districts and five drawn from the state at large.

Functioning like a board of directors, the committee will meet four times annually to review the department's budget and activities and to formulate recommendations for its program. Terms of office for the members correspond with those of the governor. Members of the committee were chosen to represent the broad spectrum of the constituency of the department.

FmHA And Land Bank Agree To Co-Financing

Minnesota farmers will have new means of financing through an agreement between the Federal Land bank of St. Paul and the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

The agreement involves a new FmHA guaranteed loan program and a revised FmHA participation loan program. The signing enables the FmHA to significantly expand its loan programs for Minnesota farmers through the land bank and frees up federal money for a broader range of service to farmers.

Armyworm Threat Continues In County

An extensive survey of grain fields in Pennington county by county extension agents Terry Courneya and Howard Person indicates a very spotty infestation of armyworms.

"Only in heavily lodged fields of small grain, especially barley, were we able to find worm counts that approach the level where spraying is considered economically feasible," Courneya said.

"The largest counts were found in the northeastern portion of the county, especially north of Goodridge, where worm counts of 10 to 15 per square foot were noticed in both barley and wheat that was badly lodged."

"If I were to sum up the situation today," Courneya said, "I would have to say the infestation is not widespread at this time. The potential is there, however, so it is important for farmers to watch their fields closely for the next two or three weeks. Armyworm moth counts at light traps in northwestern Minnesota suggest that further spread of the armyworm is possible."

Toxaphene at two pounds per acre, malathion at one and a half pounds, and dylox according to directions on label are cleared for use in Minnesota. Toxaphene is recommended for use only when straw is not intended for livestock feed or bedding.

Spraying is not recommended unless worm counts average four or five per square foot over much of the field. Chemical suppliers and aerial applicators say insecticides are in plentiful supply to meet the need. For additional information, contact your county extension office.

Kim Blaeser In Queen Pageant

(This is the last in a series of 11 interviews with candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the Jaycee Aquacade pageant. The official Miss America preliminary event will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.)

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Varied interests including drama, community activities, photography, reading, French language and culture, fishing and tennis provide varied activity for Kim Blaeser of Thief River Falls.

Kim, 23, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Blaeser of Mahnomen and has been employed for the past two years as reporter and photographer for the Thief River Falls Times. She is five feet three inches tall, weighs 116 pounds, has brown hair and brown eyes. Her pageant talent number will be a dramatic characterization from "Diary of a Mad Housewife".

Kim has 10 years of experience in theatre ranging from high school plays through college drama work and summer and community theatre productions. She was in the high school chorus and band, church and college choirs and has danced in cabaret theatre and musicals. She began speech participation in seventh grade and has taken college courses in voice and diction, oral interpretation, theatre arts and speech.

Holder of a BA degree from the College of St. Benedict with a major in English and a minor in French, she spent one summer in Chartes, France, living with a French family and studying medieval architecture and French language and literature.

She has been accepted into the graduate school at the University of Minnesota in the Twin Cities and has tentative plans to accept admission in the masters program in English with an emphasis on non-fiction writing. Eventually she hopes to earn both master and doctor degrees in English and would like to study overseas and gain further experience in journalism and other areas of communication.

A participant in the Miss TRF pageant last year, she was selected as winner of the talent division, co-winner of the Miss Congeniality award and second runner-up to Miss Thief River Falls, Julie Schelling.

In 1978 she was selected by the Business and Professional Women's club as local and district winner in the young career woman competition and earned second place in the state contest.

Kim is an officer of the BPW club, member of the sales and marketing advisory committee at the local AVTI, member of the chamber of commerce convention and tourism committee, concert association, Jaycee Women and St. Bernard's parish.

Kim has one brother, Robert, 25, a graduate of the University of Minnesota law school.

DRAMA AND READING are favorite activities for Kim Blaeser, one of 11 candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls title at the Jaycee Aquacade pageant Saturday. A frequent visitor to the regional library for reading and theater material, she often finds a busy schedule makes it necessary to use the after hours depository to return the books.

MISS T.R.F., Julie Schelling, will crown her successor Saturday evening at the annual Jaycee Aquacade pageant. The new Miss Thief River Falls will win a $1,000 scholarship and other prizes and represent this community in the Miss Minnesota pageant next spring. Photo review of Miss T.R.F. candidates appears today on page 6.

Social Services Act Is Tuesday Co. Board Topic

Community social services act of 1978 was among the topics of discussion at the Tuesday, July 24, meeting of the Pennington county board. Roy Waters of Northwest Mental Health Center of Crookston was present to discuss the new law which makes social service funds directly available to Minnesota counties. Governing bodies of the counties will then be responsible for contracting for services.

Pennington county presently has a contract with Northwest Mental Health Center which runs until July of 1980 but since the new law goes into effect January 1, 1980, Waters felt the contract had to be realigned. He encouraged board members to determine what services they intend to contract for from the mental health center prior to the December 31, 1978 deadline.

At the request of the state, the board also appointed an implementation officer for the new community social ser-

First Aquacade Events To Begin On Saturday

"Thirty-five and Still Alive" is the theme for this year's Thief River Falls Jaycees sponsored Aquacade celebration to be held from July 28 to August 5. Dave Olin, general chairman of this year's event, states that this is the 35th year the Thief River Falls Jaycees have sponsored the summer celebration, which this year will run for nine days. Events are scheduled to interest people of all ages.

To kick off the nine-day celebration on Saturday, the Aquacade parade will be held, beginning at 1 p.m. The Jaycees have announced that Ronald McDonald will be honorary grand marshall of the parade, which will feature area bands, floats, visiting royalty, Miss TRF pageant candidates and other units. Units from the surrounding area are invited to enter the parade.

On Saturday evening, 11 young ladies will compete for the title of Miss Thief River Falls for 1979-80. The pageant will be held at the Lincoln high school auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m. Advance seat tickets can be purchased at Ekeren Drug or Larson Music for $2.75. Any remaining tickets will be sold at the door for $3. The newly crowned Miss Minnesota, Debra Ann Nerby, will be in attendance.

On Sunday, July 29, the third Aquacade slowpitch softball tournament will be the feature event on the day. The 24-team tournament is open to area teams.

Two treasure hunts will be featured during this year's Aquacade celebration. Finder of the first treasure will win a $50 prize and the winner of the second and more difficult hunt will claim $100. Clues will be given each day until the treasures are located. Again this year, the treasures will be hidden on public property. Clues will be announced in the Times and on KTRF radio.

Aquacade water fights will be held on Thursday, August 2

Special guest was RRV King Agassiz Bruce Hein of Frazee.

Council Approves Street, Parking Projects Tues.

Street improvement project and downtown parking assessment district project were the main topics of discussion at a regular meeting of the Thief River Falls city council held Tuesday, July 24.

Approval was given to all portions of the 1979 street project except Greenwood St. and the engineer was instructed to prepare plans and specs for the projects. The tax and assessments committee will review the Greenwood proposed project and come back with a recommendation August 14 about what portion of the project should be undertaken at this time.

Official approval was also given to the parking project and the assessment district was formed with the previously outlined boundaries. Appointed to serve from the council on an advisory committee for the parking project were Aldermen Bill Penning and Don Goodrich and Mayor Bob Carlson. Members of the committee from the downtown development committee are Jon Larson, Dick Bjorkman and Duane Walton.

The committee was instructed to proceed with acquisition of property going ahead with negotiations with Burlington Northern for site B and to get plans and specs for the project.

In other business, the council approved the final plat for the Roger Gage first subdivision; approved the marketing study prepared by

Jeannie C. Riley: New Mission In Music

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Jeannie C. Riley freely admits that she used to be in the country western music business for the glory. Now, riding an emotional high from what she calls her "born again experience", she finds a glory in the business.

The 34-year-old singer with the long brown hair, heavy southern accent and infectious smile leaned forward on a table in her red, white and blue bus an hour before her concert at the Pennington county fair and talked frankly and openly about her background, her ideals, her divorce and reconciliation, her 13-year-old daughter Kim and her new-found mission in life.

"I've had a born again experience, you know," she said early in the conversation. "When 'Harper Valley PTA' was at the top of the charts and there were a lot of folks who wanted me to be on their shows and that sort of thing it was a real glory trip. I wanted to be part of it for the money in it, for what it could do for me and what it could get for me. I never thought about what I could give to other people."

Things are different now. Jeannie has discarded the mini-skirts and high-heeled boots of an earlier era and come down to earth in what she believes to be a heavenly-inspired fashion. Unlike most entertainers she likes the one-night stands of county fairs and small town concerts. A two-week appearance is unappealing — more accurately, boring — for this country lady with seemingly boundless energy and enthusiasm.

"I want to lift the spirits and share the love of God," she said about her current entertainment emphasis. "My show is intended for the entire family and I want the entire family to share in it." The statements weren't show business rhetoric — they were spoken in simple country honesty.

One family that does share in it is the Don Leach family of Pontiac, Ill. This husband, wife and four children pile into the family car for a week each summer and follow the Riley bus to wherever Jeannie is scheduled to appear. They have traveled over 50,000 miles for Jeannie's concerts,

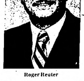
Jeannie C. Riley Shares Her Thoughts During Thief River Falls Times Interview



Roger Reuter

Reuter Elected President Of First NW Bank

Board of directors of the First Northwestern state bank of Thief River Falls has elected Roger Reuter as president to succeed George Schwartz. Schwartz is leaving the bank effective Sept. 1 to become president of the First National bank of Fargo. Both banks are affiliated with Northwestern Bancorporation.

Reuter began his banking career in Hastings in December of 1965 when he joined the staff at Northwestern National bank. He transferred to the First Northwestern National bank of Two Harbors in September of 1972 where he served as vice president and cashier until moving in January in 1976 to the First Northwestern state bank of Thief River Falls as its senior vice president.

A native of Hastings, he graduated from Hastings high school in 1960 and received his associate in arts degree from Rochester junior college in 1965. He also completed two years of active duty with the U.S. navy.

Reuter has completed various courses with the American institute of banking. He graduated from the Minnesota school of banking in 1969 and the graduate school of banking at the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

An active member of the Thief River Falls Lions, he served on the board for two years. Also on the board of directors of the golf club, serving as its vice president, he is a member of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce and the Elks.

Roger resides with his wife, Jane and their three children, Kathy 13, Timothy 11, and Kristin 7 at 1105 Greenhill Drive.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Mary Lynn Bergeron Weds Paul Lasha In Oklee

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cameron Lasha are at home in Thief River Falls following their recent wedding at St. Frances Xavier Catholic church in Oklee.

The bride, the former Mary Lynn Bergeron, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bergeron of Oklee. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Lasha of this city.

Rev. Keough Patnode officiated at the double ring ceremony. At the organ was Shelley O'Neil of Oklee. Vocalists were Janet Brown and Margaret Knutson of Oklee, friends of the bride. They sang "Hand in Hand," "The Wedding Song," and "Whether Thou Goest."

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in a bridal gown of white jerisana and imported Venice lace. The fitted bodice was styled with long sleeves edged with lace, a mandarin collar, and a bib-styled yoke enhanced with pearl trimmed Venice lace appliques. Lace edged her gracefully draped skirt and watteau train. Her Venice lace headpiece, embroidered with pearls, held her mantilla styled-veil of bridal illusion, edged with matching lace. She carried a cascade of white carnations, accented with blue cornflowers.

Personal attendant was the bride's sister-in-law Phyllis Bergeron of Thompson, N.D.

Connie Parenteau of Oklee, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Lila Lessard, Oklee; Lori Kvasager, Crookston; and Colleen Peters, Plummer, friends of the bride. Their blue floor-length gowns featured blouson bodices with elbow length sleeves slit to the shoulders.

Serving as flower girls were the bride's nieces, Melissa Bergeron of Thompson, N.D., and Amy Bergeron of DeRidder, La. They wore blue printed floor-length gowns and carried baskets filled with flowers.

Paul Curfman of Thief River Falls, a friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Lloyd Bergeron and Dale Bergeron of Thief River Falls, brothers of the bride, and Gary Young, Bemidji, a friend of the groom. Serving as ushers were Harlan Bergeron, Thompson, N.D., a brother of the bride, and Gary Jordet, Thief River Falls, a friend of the groom. All wore navy blue Bryon tuxedos. The groom's tuxedo was in all-white, accented by a boutonniere of blue cornflowers centered with a white carnation.

The mother of the bride wore a pale blue polyester floor-length gown; and the groom's mother was attired in a gown of apricot polyester crepe.

Host and hostess at the reception that followed were Duane and Melody Bergeron of DeRidder, La., brother and sister-in-law of the bride. Phyllis Bergeron registered the guests as Margaret Lambert, Thief River Falls, and Mari Mandt, Moorhead, friends of the bride, ladled the punch.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Doris Goulet and Lorraine Mercil. Rena LaCoursiere and Gladys Odegaard poured.

Waitresses were Brenda Lessard, Kristin Lambert, Michelle Bachand and Jennie Hammer. Debbie Lessard of Oklee assisted by recording the gifts as they were opened by the couple at the bride's parental home.

The evening, prior to the ceremony, the groom's parents hosted a dinner at Lon's for the bridal party and members of the immediate families.

LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Thorvald Myhrer returned Tuesday from Coon Rapids where she visited with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Myhrer and family. She also visited at New Hope with her granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Kjos, saw her new great granddaughter, and attended the ordination into the ministry of John Kjos at the Association of Free Lutheran Congregations school at Medicine Lake. Rev. Kjos will be serving two churches in Cumberland, Wis., after August 1st. Before returning home, Mrs. Myhrer also spent time in Apple Valley with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Myhrer and family and at Zimmerman with Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Clausen.

Mrs. Selma Anderson returned recently from a month's trip to the state of Virginia where she visited at Virginia Beach with her granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Duvall, David and Jennifer. She also went sight-seeing at Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D.C. On her return flight, she spent a weekend with another granddaughter and family, the Terry Metelaks at Shoreview and with her grandson, David Wald, who is employed in Minneapolis. She also spent a week at Zumbrota with the Alvin Nordvolds, who brought her home and visited for a time at the Anderson home. Other guests were Mae Anderson, Detroit, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Hanson, Fosston, and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Longelin of Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Luoto Honored at Middle River

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Luoto, who were married recently, were honored at an open house reception on Sunday, July 15, at the First Lutheran church, Middle River. Mrs. Luoto is the former Kim Amundson.

Garden flowers decorated the tables for the luncheon served by friends of the couple. The newlyweds received a large number of gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Luoto are making their home at Warren where the groom is a member of the police force.

GIRL SCOUT ACTIVITIES

All Brownie, Junior and Cadette Girl scouts are invited to march in the Aquacade parade on Saturday, July 28. Scouts should wear their uniforms and meet at the new arena parking lot at 12:30 p.m.

The girls will return to the new arena following the parade and should be picked up there.

First Aquacade Events Begin On Saturday

at 7 p.m. Teams will consist of four members and single eliminations will be held to determine the winners. Entry fee for the event will be $10 per team and an Aquacade button per team member. Cash prizes will be awarded for first, second and third places. Both male and female teams are encouraged to enter.

First round of the Aquacade archery tournament will be held on Saturday, August 4. The two-day tournament, which will conclude on Sunday, is sponsored by the Thief River Archers and will be held at their outdoor range south of the Thief River Falls airport.

Seventh annual TRF open tennis tournament will also be held in conjunction with Aquacade. Entrants will compete in both men's and women's classes during the two-day event. Entry fee is $2 per singles entry and $3 for doubles teams. Northland community college courts will serve as the focal point of the tournament. Trophies will be awarded for first and second places.

The tourney will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Aquacade will conclude on Sunday, August 5, with a full day of events scheduled at LaFave park. A new event added to the Aquacade schedule this year is a joggers marathon. Co-sponsored by the TRF Jaycees and Dallmann Athletic, the marathon will begin at 11 a.m. at LaFave park and will cover a six-mile course through the city. Entrants will compete in six classes. All finishers will receive T-shirts and will be eligible for drawings for jogging shoes and clothing.

Returning to the Sunday schedule of events this year are the American power boat association sanctioned boat races, which will begin at 1:30 p.m. The Twin City power boat association will present six classes of racing. These racing boats carry outboard motors or up to 200 horsepower. Races will be held on the Red Lake river between Third and Eighth streets. Testing and hot laps will begin in the morning.

Other events scheduled for Sunday afternoon are a barbecue contest between local business and civic groups, kid's games, a barbecue supper and a fireworks display at dusk.

To help finance the 1979 Aquacade, the Jaycees and supporting businesses will be selling Aquacade buttons. Purchase of an Aquacade button will admit the wearer to most aquacade events and will allow reduced rates for other events. Aquacade buttons can be purchased at supporting businesses in Thief River Falls or from Jaycee members.

Individuals who wish to participate in the parade, tennis tournament, water fights, softball tournament, marathon or barbecue contest can obtain more information by calling the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce at 681-3720 or by writing the Thief River Falls Jaycees, Box 53, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

City planning office was given permission to advertise for a replacement for Jan Reid, administrative assistant for the city planner and building inspector, who will be leaving around September 5. Applications for the position will be accepted until Autust 15 and the screening committee will consist of one council representative and two planning commission members.

A report from the Bureau of Mediation Services regarding the hearing held to clarify the position of five city employees with regard to the city employees union indicated that three of the five were classified as supervisors and the other two will remain in the bargaining unit. Those classed as supervisors were building engineer, Gus Holmes; utilities line foreman, Don Laidley; and wastewater department head, Bud Enge. Water department foreman, Arnold Wiskow, and park department foreman, Clarence Brelland, will remain in the bargaining unit.

City engineer Doug Stewart indicated that he had had an inquiry regarding the city's participation in repair or replacement of curb. After some discussion council passed a resolution stating that both sidewalks and curbs will be the responsibility of property owners, however the city would take care of intersections.

Jeannie Riley: New Country Music Mission

including the one at the fair in Thief River Falls Sunday.

"They have become very dear friends," Jeannie said. "This is the type of thing that seems to happen in country music. People develop a loyalty to a person in the country field. It hasn't happened for me to the extent that it has for some of those who are pioneers in country music, but I hope that some day I'll be worthy of that kind of following."

Pounding over the highways in all kinds of weather throughout the summer months gets to be exhausting at times, Jeannie admits, but she never tires of reaching out to an audience. "The people make it exciting," she says. "They give you what you need to maintain your enthusiasm. A standing ovation at the end of a concert is as big a thrill for me now as it was when I started in the business and when Harper Valley success was at its peak."

While Jeannie talked about her reactions and experiences, several members of the band that accompanied her shuffled back and forth through the bus. Jeannie's husband, Mitchell (Mickey) Riley, sat on a cushioned bench across the aisle, propped a lanky leg up on the seat and aimlessly thumbed the strings of a convenient guitar.

During the public peak of her career when Jeannie was chasing her dream and taking that "glory trip" she mentioned, her marriage to Mickey fell apart. They had been married when Jeannie was 18, a few months before she graduated in 1964 at the top of her class at Anson, Tex., high school. In January of 1966 Kim Michelle was born.

"You hear about a lot of people who have marriages that fail," Jeannie said. "I'm just happy that we had a divorce that failed." That divorce took place in the early 1970's. In January of 1975 Jeannie and Mickey were remarried in a quiet ceremony at Nashville with daughter Kim serving as flower girl.

The Rileys now live on a 200-acre farm in the hills near Franklin, Tenn., and have named their place "God's Country". Their home is a 150-year-old house steeped in Civil war history and two Confederate generals are buried on their land.

"We spend about half of our year there, Jeannie said. "I run around to my sister's or go shoppin' or whatever and Mickey tends to his cows or sits in the shade. The name of the place isn't really "God's Country" but we have decided that wherever we live, that's what we're going to call it."

Jeannie apparently harbors no illusions about her success being pegged to the Harper Valley PTA hit. She still sings it in her concerts as she did here and it is still a crowd-pleasing favorite. "It's my trademark," she said. "I think the Lord had a mission for me and brought me and that song together. It was His way of leading me into what he wanted me to do with my life."

"A lot of people know me by just that one song. That was in 1968 and now we're in 1979. I've gone through the years of being bitter about it. I talk about 'Harper Valley' more and mind singing it less and am more grateful for it now than I was two years ago. I've found a message in it that's sort of like a sermon and I'm quite comfortable with it. In spite of all the things that have been written, I wanted myself to be uncomfortable with it for a number of years."

Although she has had other songs which have sold well and has now turned to writing her own, she waits like other performers for another big hit to come along. It takes the right song, the right voice and the right time to combine for such success. If another song like Harper Valley doesn't come along, she will accept that as also being part of God's purpose for her.

Jeannie believes that country music goes deep into a person's roots and that it is particularly suited to telling a story. The songs she has written are rooted in her own experiences. And she hopes that her daughter Kim will come to share to a greater degree in appreciation of country music.

"I think she likes it more than she lets on," Jeannie said. "Her friends and peers go for the rock stuff now. Some of it gives me a headache. Some of it I won't let her buy. She has a better voice than I did at her age and she hits some notes that I can't touch now. I'd like to have her sing on our show, and I'd just sit back and be a proud mama. Maybe it will happen some day."

Would Mickey and Jeannie like to see Kim plunge into the country music business? "I'd just as soon she wouldn't," Mickey states flatly. "I won't stand in her way," Jeannie says, "but I won't push either."

Jeannie says there is a common bond among country and western musicians because of what they do, but there is more competition and jealousy within the field than she would like to see. She thought the feeling was especially evident when Tanya Tucker was skyrocketing to success as a teenager with a number of hit records but never received top recognition within the field. "I've found it to be a truth that most people just don't want to see anyone do good 'til they've paid their dues," she said.

The Rileys were just starting on their summer tour when they played in Thief River Falls. Ahead of them are thousands of miles of travel in the northern and western states before they again head back home. . .to "God's Country".

vices act. To serve as that contact person is Commissioner Otto Stenberg.

In other business, the board voted to contract to lay bituminous surface on the new golf club bridge. The blacktop will go south to meet the present pavement and be placed approximately 650 feet north of the bridge.

At the request of Larry Bryl of Goodridge, commissioners agreed to have the engineer investigate a drainage problem on a portion of Bryl's land and to proceed with the cleaning of a one and a half mile stretch of judicial ditch No. 13 if it appears necessary. The engineer was also instructed to examine a bridge in the area which is down.

Final plats were approved for Gages first subdivision on the south edge of Thief River Falls and for the TRF Dev-Co first addition south of the Northland Manor apartments.

The board also voted to respond to a Jaycee barbeque challenge by making a contribution of $100 to the organization.

She was preceded in death by one son.

Della Anderson Services Held At Argyle

Mrs. Della Anderson, 76, of Argyle, mother of Mrs. Jerry Amundgaard of Thief River Falls, died July 11, at the Warren hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Della Anderson were held Friday, July 13, at the Community Presbyterian church in Argyle with Rev. Robert Byle officiating. Mrs. Lyle Beaudry was the organist and Erling Lodoen, the soloist. Interment was in the Woodlawn cemetery at Argyle.

Pallbearers were Lawrence Carlson, John Schmidt, LeRoy Johnson, Sophius Schmidt, Irvin Muzzy and Verne Nyblad.

Mrs. Anderson, the former Della Lodoen, was born Dec. 26, 1902 at Warren to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lodoen. She attended Warren high school and Medical Technical training in Minneapolis. On Aug. 14, 1926, she was united in marriage to Algot Anderson. The following year, the couple moved from Alvarado to Argyle where they operated Anderson Bros. garage.

Mrs. Anderson was medical technican for the Warren clinic for many years. She was a member of the Community Presbyterian church and served as organist for a number of years. She was also a member of the Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are two daughters: Mrs. Jerry (Lois) Amundgaard, Thief River Falls, and Adla Anderson, Karlstad; three sons: Charles Anderson, Argyle, and Edward and Donald, both of Fargo, N.D.; seven grandchildren and two sisters: Mrs. Florence Sundin, Saskatoon, Sask., Canada; and Mrs. Alice Heckel, Oxford, Ohio.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in 1971, three brothers and two sisters.

Betty Griffin Bengtson Rites Held At Trail

Mrs. Ray (Bette) Bengtson, 53, of Olathe, Kans., and formerly of this area, died Monday, July 16, at the Baptist Memorial hospital in Olathe.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ray Bengtson were held Saturday, July 21, at 2 p.m., at the Mount Olive Lutheran church at Trail with Rev. Charles Keeler officiating. Tomine Moen was the organist and Rev. Keeler, the soloist. Interment was in the church cemetery. The Pederson-Holalmen Funeral home, Fosston, was in charge of arrangements.

Honorary pallbearers were Johnny Handy, David, Albert and Carl Bengtson; Vernon Hovelsrud, Jerry Thursten and Lloyd Erickson.

Serving as active pallbearers were Orville Hanson, Marvin Scott, Dennis Halverson, Orville Dahle, Elmer Hanson and Halvor Rikje.

Mrs. Bengtson, the former Bette Griffin, was born Oct. 4, 1925 at Gully to Ivan and Clara Griffin. She attended school in Trail and Gonvick and was graduated from Lincoln high school, Thief River Falls. In 1954, she moved to California.

She was united in marriage to Ray Bengtson on Dec. 22, 1958. For the past 17 years, they have resided in Kansas City, Mo., and Olathe, Kans.

Mrs. Bengtson was a surgical technician and was employed for 10 years at the Baptist Memorial hospital. For the past seven years, she had worked in other hospitals in that area.

She is survived by her husband, her mother, Clara Strand of Trail; two brothers Vern Griffin and Dennis Griffin, both of Mt. Vernon, Wash., and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her father, Ivan Griffin, and her step-father, Norman Strand.

Mrs. Ted Eide Services Held At Newfolden

Funeral services for Mrs. Ted (Gladys) Eide, 72, of Apache Junction, Ariz., and formerly of the Newfolden community, were held today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m., at the Evangelical Free church in Newfolden. Mrs. Eide died Friday at the Mesa Lutheran hospital at Mesa, Ariz. She had been in ill health for the past several years.

Rev. Earl Eveland officiated at the services. Mrs. Carroll Lindstrom served as organist and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Hogberg provided vocal selections. Interment was in the Oak Grove cemetery at Newfolden. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were James Elseth, Dan Gust, John Lokstad, Lester Eide, Marshall Myhrer and Donald MacDowall.

Mrs. Eide, the former Gladys Peterson, was born Jan. 4, 1907 in Thief River Falls to Henning and Lena Peterson, now deceased. As a young girl, she moved with the family to Newfolden, where she grew to womanhood. She was baptized here and confirmed in the Mission Covenant church in Newfolden. Following her graduation from the Newfolden high school, she attended Moorhead State teachers college and taught schools in New Maine township and at Strandquist.

On Nov. 1, 1930, she was married at Red Lake Falls to Ted Eide. After their marriage they moved to Langdon, N.D., where they owned and operated a creamery. In 1973, they moved to Arizona, where they have since resided.

She is survived by her husband, one sister, Mrs. Gordon (Pearl) Elseth of Newfolden, and several nieces and nephews.

Axel J. Majer Services Held At Strathcona

Axel J. Majer, 88, of Deer township, Roseau county, near Strathcona, died Thursday afternoon at the Greenbush Community hospital.

Funeral services for Axel Majer were held Monday at 2 p.m., at the Poplar Grove Lutheran church with Joe Jacobson officiating. Conciliation Court Process Described by Court Information Office

Minnesota Supreme Court

One man claimed that a drycleaner ruined his $200 coat. A woman argued that restaurant chop suey had chipped her tooth. A couple alleged that their landlord wrongfully refused to return their security deposit.

These are people in conciliation court. Conciliation court is Minnesota's court of small claims, the court where civil matters in amounts up to $1,000 can be heard. In 1978, there were lots of people doing just that over 80,000 cases were presented in conciliation court.

Conciliation court is unique because no attorneys are needed, and in many counties, attorneys aren't permitted to represent persons in conciliation court. The processes and hearings in conciliation court are less structured and formal than in other courts, making it easier for people to present their own cases.

A conciliation court claim is not difficult to file, but there are some basic rules that ease the path. Before filing a conciliation court suit, people should first attempt to settle the problem. Negotiating can save everybody time, money and personal energy. It can also bring a successful resolution to the problem.

If a matter can't be resolved, the next step is to file the claim. Claim forms are available at the courthouse or can be obtained by mail. Before filling out the claim, certain information should be gathered: (1) The exact name of the other party; (2) the other party's address; (3) a short statement about the problem; (4) the dates, times and locations involved in the problem situation and (5) the amount of damages caused. The clerk of court can be quite helpful in assisting people to fill our conciliation court claims.

The completed conciliation court claim is generally mailed to the person being sued, and a court hearing is set, usually within a month or six weeks. The person who has been sued has the opportunity to bring a counterclaim, that is, sue the original party for any damages that the original party caused. This must be done by a form completed at least five days before the scheduled hearing.

The hearing is the most important part of the case. While judges in conciliation court do not demand strict adherence to rules of court and evidence, each side must be prepared to prove its claims. There is in fact, no substitute for preparation for a conciliation court hearing.

Preparation consists of determining the essential facts and gathering the evidence to prove them. The first step in preparation is to write down what happened and what damages occurred.

This information should be consolidated into a few short statements. Next, anything that can be shown in court to prove these statements should be collected, such as documents, receipts, leases, bills, contracts or letters. Photographs of actual items can be taken into court-pictures of an apartment or the coat that went to the drycleaner. A person who observed the incident, someone who knew the circumstances before and after or anything to show the costs of damages such as an estimate for repairs or a cancelled check are also helpful.

Judges and referees who hear conciliation court cases emphasize that all too often people fail to bring relevant evidence to court with them. This failure may cause them to lose.

Once in court, the person filing the claim will speak first. The person being sued will then have an opportunity to present his or her point of view. But whichever side, speaking clearly and to the point is the real key. In court, a person should be calm, organized and assertive, but never argumentive with the judge or other party.

Decisions from conciliation court are usually sent in the mail a few days after the hearing. Someone who loses on conciliation court can appeal if he or she is dissatisfied with the decision, but only by acting promptly. The appeal period ends 10 days after the decision is reached. Preparing an appeal is more difficult than filing the initial conciliation court claim, and often an attorney is needed at this state. Once filed, an appeal is heard by a judge from the county court, or in the Twin Cities, by a judge from the municipal court.

The U.S. Employment Service, which directs the federal-state employment system, has over 2400 local offices.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

For the last 22 years I have lived on the same farm east of Thief River Falls off highway No. 1.

From time to time we have people stop in who have car trouble, or that run out of gas. Today was one of these times, although these people didn't come to our door. They just stopped at the top of our driveway. They assumed to have radiator trouble, and had gotten water from the ditch instead, which surely didn't bother me!

But when I looked up there again from my home, I saw a woman and a boy outside the car, and the boy was going to the bathroom (and I don't mean urinating) and then the woman wiped him, threw the paper down on the ground, and just got back into the car — and they did this right at the top of our driveway!! I couldn't quite believe it! I rushed out there as fast as I could, but the people were driving away.

Now, if these people would have had car trouble in town by someone's house, do you think they would have done the same dirty thing on that person's driveway? Just because we live in the country, some people think they're welcome to do anything on other people's property!!

Now why, if these people had any common sense at all, couldn't they have come to our house and asked to use the restroom? I surely would rather have seen them use our restroom than our driveway!

I sure hope the people who did this read this letter and I hope you feel like plain fools.

Crops And Soils Day Held At NW Station

Crops and soils day at the University of Minnesota, Northwest experiment station, Crookston, was well attended, including Minnesota commissioner of agriculture Mark Seetin. Seetin visited with farmers and discussed many things during his visit.

Approximately 500 persons attended the combination of tours. New location of the major soils research and the shorter crop tour allowed visitors to see both areas to their advantage. More clinics and booths were situated at the agricultural research center lawn this year with plant and pest problems again being a popular area. More emphasis on the horticulture booth and a display by crop scientists demonstrating basic research in agronomy, were also new this year.

At the barley plots, Don Rasmusson, department of agronomy and plant genetics, St. Paul, reported that Morex, one of the newest barley varieties with high extract values, has recently been given another nod of acceptance by one of the major brewers and in his opinion this will put this high yielding variety near the head of the list.

Another outstanding feature which drew much attention was the full range of treatments in the herbicide trial under the direction of Dr. Richard Behrens, department of agronomy and plant genetics, St. Paul. The entire agronomic area under the direction of Dr. John Wiersma, agronomist, Northwest experiment station, was groomed and the arrangement of the tour and plot areas was intended to accommodate traffic flow better.

Buses unloaded visitors directly at the new soils plot area and the special trials were within short walking distance. Dr. Gary Varvel, soil scientist, Northwest experiment station, and his crew were involved in many of the research projects in the soils demonstration.

State's June Milk Totals Boost Income

Minnesota's June milk production estimated at over 100.3 million gallons was the highest monthly output in a year and boosted the state's total for the first half of 1979 to almost 576 million gallons with a farm value of over $546 million, Agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin reported recently.

January-June milk production this year was within one per cent of equaling the 580 million gallon Minnesota total for the same period of 1978.

Farm value of first half 1979 milk production is nearly $79 million higher than last year, due to the average farm milk price this year of 94.9 cents per gallon — 14 cents a gallon higher than in 1978.

During June Minnesota dairy farmers had an estimated 830,000 cows on the milk production line. Although that was down by 3,000 cows from the previous month and 20,000 fewer than the count last December and January, the June count was higher by 5,000 milk cows compared to the Minnesota inventory a year ago.

Average production per Minnesota milk cow this June was 121 gallons, representing a gross earnings of $114.40 for the month.

Block Grant Workshop Set In Crookston

Northwest regional development commission will hold an instructional workshop on the community development block grant program August 10 at 1 p.m. in the commission's office, 425 Woodland Ave., Crookston.

Jan Morlock, HUD regional representative and the NWRDC staff will provide potential applicants with program information, regulations and requirements to assure the applicants a clear understanding of the HUD program procedures. There will be a question and answer period to give potential applicants an opportunity to have their specific questions answered.

Pre-applications will be accepted from September 17 through October 1, 1979. Many area communities have unsuccessfully tried to obtain funds from these programs. Previous applicants, both successful and unsuccessful, will be able to share their concerns with each other and question HUD.

Prospective pre-applicants will want to begin preparing citizen participation plans and prepare formal pre-application activities as time is short. Contact the commission office for information at 281-1396.

Community development block grants can be used for public facilities, water, sewer, streets, housing rehabilitation, economic development, and comprehensive programs which include many activities. Those planning to attend should call or write the commissioner's office.

Postal Job At Plummer Open

Postmaster Nadine Johnson has announced an opening for a part time flexible clerk at the Plummer post office. Application forms can be obtained at the Plummer post office through August 3.

OVERALL DAIRY CHAMPION and showman of the champion herd in the 4-H club division at the Pennington county fair was Scott Muzzy of the Steiner 4-H club.

DECORATED CAKE won an open class grand champion ribbon in the culinary department for Mrs. Lois Bergland of Thief River Falls.

JUNIOR DIVISION champion in the Pennington county 4-H club horse show at the county fair Saturday was Susie Thune of the Happy Acres 4-H club. She is shown while competing in the egg and spoon event. Junior division was for club members 13 years of age and younger.

AEROSPACE EXHIBIT by Charlie Simenson of the Smiley 4-H club won a grand champion ribbon in the 4-H department of Pennington county's fair last week.

Silverton

The Silverton 4-H club held its monthly meeting on July 8 at the L.B. Hartz park. First we had our 4-H tour and went to some members' houses and saw what they were exhibiting at the fair. Then we went to the park where we had supper and our meeting. We discussed who would work at the fair and community pride. Entry cards were due and the Dress Revue is coming. Happy Birthday was sung to Lisa Togerson and Delray Sparby. For recreation we played volleyball and balloon toss and had a treasure hunt.

Present at the meeting were 19 4-Hers, 15 4-H parents and 11 visitors.

Deb Togerson, Reporter

Steiner

The Steiner 4-H club held its monthly meeting July 9, beginning with a club tour at 7:30 p.m. We ended up at the Dale Dunning home for the meeting. Terry Courneya from the Extension Office gave us tips on our projects for the fair. The meeting opened with the club and flag pledges.

Special business included: the County Fair, Club banner, Dress Revue on July 12, Demonstration Day on July 17, and getting workers to work at the 4-H food stand and to sell lunch at an auction sale.

Our next meeting will be August 13th with a hayride before the meeting. The officers are in charge of getting it ready.

Present at the meeting were 17 4-H members, and 8 4-Her's parents.

Kittson County Speedway Has New Manager

Kittson county speedway of Hallock has been reorganized under new management. Heading the corporation is Kevin Jopp, president, Stephen; Jerry Hennum, secretary-flagman, Hallock; Steve Nyberg, pit steward, Kennedy; and Harold Phillips, maintenance, Hallock.

A driver organizational meeting was held July 14 at which all drivers agreed to return to Hallock for late model and super stock racing. First action under the new management will be this Sunday evening beginning at 7 p.m. Late model and super stock racing will be held and street class will run if 14 cars are guaranteed. Firm committments have been received from 14 late model and 14 super stock drivers for the opening night, according to Jerry Hennum.

Admission fees will remain the same at adults, $3 and 12 to 16 years of age at $1.50, with the exception of 12 years and under being admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

The new managers feel they can maintain the speedway through race fan support. The speedway is set up a non-profit business with profits being returned to the drivers after the fixed overhead (insurance and track maintenance) is determined, Hennum said.

Interested racers can contact Jopp at 478-3524; Hennum at 843-5124; Nyberg at 674-4453; or Phillips at 843-2357 for further information.

The raceway was formerly operated under the direction of Jim Corcoran out of Grand Forks, N.D.

Gjovik To Show Steam Sawmill

Immediately following the July 28 Aquacade parade, Roy Gjovik will be giving a demonstration of sawing wood with a steam engine in the Floyd B. Olson park. Roy will be using a one-third scale replica of a 1915 65 H.P. Case steam engine. Admission is free.

Price Support Oats Loans Can Be Extended

Price support loans in 1978 crop oats may be extended for six months, according to Alton Nybladh, chairperson of the agricultural stabilization and conservation (SAC) committee. 1978 crop barley and wheat laons may also be extended, as announced earlier.

The ASCS official said the extension will allow producers to market their grain over a longer period and thereby alleviate transportation and storage problems.

"Farmers who wish to take advantage of this option and extend their loan should notify our office," Nybladh said. He added that the six-month loan extension applies only to price support loans on oats, barley and wheat.

7,200 Expected To Enroll At Moorhead SU

Record enrollment of more than 7,200 full and part-time students is expected at Moorhead state university when classes open September 6, about 200 more than last year. Registration and orientation is scheduled September 4-6 and the residence halls open at noon August 31.

The students, about 5,300 of them going to school full time, come to Moorhead state from 40 states and all but one of Minnesota's 87 counties. More than a quarter of them are North Dakota residents attending the university under the reciprocal tuition agreements between the two states, but most are from Minnesota. About 125 foreign students from 30 countries are also expected to enroll this fall.

MSU, founded in 1885 and now in its 94th year, is one of seven state universities in Minnesota. It offers majors in 52 fields and graduate programs in 17. Housed on a 104-acre campus with 28 major buildings, the university employs 290 faculty members — 60 per cent of them holding doctorate degrees — and a staff of 240.

Besides its regular day program, MSU offers nearly 200 late afternoon and evening courses on campus each quarter in addition to over 100 off-campus continuing education courses during the year in surrounding communities. Its external studies program, helping adults earn a college degree through part-time study, has attracted 700 students since it began six years ago and has already graduated 100.

Because of the current enrollment trends, the MSU residence halls, which house about 2,300 students, are expected to fill up fast. Students are encouraged to contact the housing office on campus as soon as possible for on or off-campus housing information.

Tuition and fees at MSU are $667 a year for a full course load, up about seven per cent from last year. Room and board on campus is $1,115, exactly the same as in 1975.

Grants, loans, scholarships and campus job opportunities amounting to nearly $6 million will be available to MSU students this year — about half of that in grants and scholarships alone. In addition to that, the MSU foundation will start a fund drive this fall to increase the number and amount of scholarships available to the university's students.

Overall, the university's operating budget this year will amount to about $18.5 million.

Of that, $10.2 million is appropriated by the Minnesota legislature and the university will take in revenues of about $3.3 million, mostly from tuition payments. In addition to that $13.5 million, the university will collect about $525,000 in student fees to operate student activities and recreation facilities. Another $1 million is collected in bookstore revenues that support other operating expenses on campus.

Revenue from the residence halls and food service will amount to $2.7 million this year. That money is used to pay the mortgage on the nine residence hall buildings and to maintain them and the food service.

Faculty Asks To Stop Daily Investigation

Journalism faculty at the University of Minnesota has voted to ask that the board of regents suspend its current investigation of the Minnesota Daily.

Thirteen members of the faculty voted recently in favor of a resolution asking that the regents "allow due process to take its course."

A four-member subcommittee of regents conducted its first meeting to collect information on the student-run Daily recently and has another meeting scheduled for July 31.

The study group was named in response to public pressure after the Daily produced a year-end "humor" issue that has been labeled obscene racist and anti-religious by its critics.

The resolution states that the Daily investigation is "occurring in an atmosphere of public pressure that carries with it the threat of punitive and intimidating action."

The regents' investigation is being done "before the responsible agencies, the board of publications, the assembly committee on student affairs, and the Twin Cities assembly have had time to act," the resolution states, "(which) clearly constitutes a breach of due process."

The resolution also states that earlier proposals for changes in Daily structure and funding have been "exhaustive," and calls the current study "hasty."

"Offensive or merely unpopular utterances have created similar pressures that have historically threatened freedom of expression," the resolution states. "Freedom of expression, whether in print or in the classroom, is indivisible."

There are 20 faculty members in the school of journalism and Mass communication, according to F. Gerald Kline, director of the school. Four of the seven faculty members not present at the meeting were out of town, and the other three were not able to attend, Kline said.

The resolution was presented to University President C. Peter Magrath and Duane Wilson, secretary of the board of regents.

Quie Says Feds Enforce Regs On Thermostats

Governor Al Quie recently emphasized that there would be federal enforcement of a U.S. department of energy regulation requiring that thermostat settings be kept at 78 degrees in non-residential buildings during the summer.

Quie said he strongly supported the federal regulation because it represented an important way to save energy, especially during July and August when air conditioning results in heavy energy use.

The governor also pointed out that compliance with the regulation is mandatory and willful violators face fines of up to $10,000 per violation.

Quie said that the state would be unable to enforce federal regulations regarding thermostat settings in commercial and industrial buildings, but the federal government will.

"The primary reason the state won't is that the $123,000 provided by the U.S. department of energy for enforcement is simply not enough for our state energy agency to do an adequate job of inspection," the governor said. "Therefore the DOE will enforce its own regulations."

The governor said that he expected there would be strict federal enforcement of the thermostat regulation.

Music As A Hobby To Be Program Topic

Music as a hobby will be the theme of the Northwest regional library's third hobby hour to be held Thursday, July 26, from 2 to 3 p.m. in the library meeting room.

Jim Solsten will be this week's guest. His talk and demonstration will cover two areas, the making of musical instruments and the art of playing an instrument.

Solsten will demonstrate his talent playing the violin and will also bring violins he has constructed and pieces for one not yet finished to demonstrate the process.

The program is free and open to anyone over eight years of age. For more information on the hobby hour or other library programs, call the library at 681-4325.

State Groups To Visit Area On Flooding

State Senator Marv Hanson, District 1, reports that two committees of the state Senate will visit northwestern Minnesota July 31 and August 1 to discuss water management and flood control.

"I am pleased that the committeees accepted the invitation extended by Duane Ekman, Argyle, chairman of the state water resources board, to visit Northwestern Minnesota," Hanson stated.

"The state water resources board will be visiting in our area at the same time and the committees will meet with the board on July 31 to discuss watershed legislation. After this meeting, the board and the committees will tour the areas along the Red river which were flooded this spring."

Hanson invited area residents to meet with the committees at the American Inn at 9:30 a.m. in East Grand Forks on Wednesday August 1.

"We hope to have people from North Dakota and Canada join us as well. The Minnesota legislature appropriated the first state dollars for flood control this past year. One of the committees coming has the responsibility for the application of those funds. It would be my hope that we can have a frank discussion on the task before us with water management in the Red river basin," Sen Hanson said.

Discussion topics to be covered, Hanson said, were legislation and water management, concepts for a change in federal involvement, coordination of water management authorities and the state's role in financial support.

"We've made some good steps forward in Minnesota recently to start to come to grips with flooding and water problems. We have a long way to go. I am hopeful that this visit by the state senate commmittees will continue us on that path," Hanson concluded.

Pets Require More Attention On Hot Days

During the most sultry time of summer, it's all most people can do just to stay cool. Although he or she may not tell you so, your pet also is coping with summer's heat.

"Animals, when allowed to roam freely, adjust themselves rather well to heat," says Dr. Raymond Solac, University of Minnesota extension veterinarian. "It's those pets who are confined to a home or a yard that may have trouble"

Temperature isn't the only consideration when helping your pet keep cool. Relative humidity plays an important role as well. "If the humidity is in the 50 per cent range, animals can withstand quite a bit of heat; it's when the humidity jumps above 70 per cent that a pet owner should start being concerned," Solac says.

An animal has similar needs to those of a human. When outside, a dog or cat will need a shady place to get out of the sun. Inside or out air movement is also important, but don't over do it; direct strong drafts from a fan or air conditioner can make your pet sick.

"Many people think it is fine to leave a pet in a car if the windows are open," Solac says. "These people don't realize how hot a car can become when it stands in direct sun. We find most cases of heat prostration in animals are caused from being left in a car."

Exercise and adequate amounts of water are basic pet care rules. In the summer, moderation of these rules is in order; too much of a good thing can make your pet ill.

"When the weather is very hot, it is best to reduce the length of walks, or at least cut down on the pace," Solac advises. "After a walk, make sure your dog is cooled down before giving him water. Animals don't know when to stop drinking and will often drink enough to induce vomiting or cramps."

A cat or dog does not sweat from the pores of the skin as humans do, but rather from the tongue. Normal respiration rate is about 25 times per minute. Excessive panting may be a sign of distress.

If your pet appears to be overcome by the heat, Solac recommends immersing it in a tub of cool water or hosing it down outdoors. Take care that its head does not go below the water line. If these treatments do not work, contact your vet right away.

Good grooming also helps your pet to stay cool, by removing excess fur and preventing matting. You may want to clip long-haired pets.

"Animals can pretty much take care of themselves in hot weather," Solac says. "But it doesn't hurt to help them out now and then it could make for a happier owner and pet."

Law Adopted To License Accountants

Minnesota state legislature enacted a law during the 1979 session to license public accountants. The law provides that any person who is a resident of this state or has a place of business in this state, who has attained the age of 18 years, and who meets the requirements listed below, must make application to the Minnesota state board of accountancy on or before the first day of January 1980, to be a licensed public accountant.

(1) Persons who held themselves out to the public as public accountants and who were engaged within this state for a minimum of one year as of July 1, 1979, in the practice of public accounting as their principal occupation;

(2) Persons who for at least one year immediately prior to July 1, 1979, have been employees whose principal duty has been the practice of accounting for a certified public accountant or a public accountant engaged within this state in the practice of public accounting as his principal occupation;

(3) Person who, for a minimum of one year as of July 1, 1979, held senior level accounting or auditing positions in government which are equivalent, as determined by the board, to the practice of public accounting, and were required to successfully complete an examination in accountancy or obtain specific accounting experience or accounting education as a prerequisite for the position; or

(4) Persons serving in the armed forces of the United States of America on January 1, 1980, who for a minimum of one year immediately prior to entering the service held themselves out to the public as public accountants and were engaged within this state in the practice of public accounting as their principal occupation. In that case, the time for application for licensure shall be extended for a period of 12 months from the time the person is separated from active duty.

The law provides that no person, partnership or corporation shall assume or use the title of public accountant unless licensed under Minnesota Statutes 326.20.

All requests for application forms or information may be made to: State Board of Accountancy, 590 Metro Square Building, St. Paul, MN 55101, Telephone (612) 296-7937.

No applications for licensure as a licensed public accountant will be accepted after Jan. 1, 1980.

Quie Announces Inter-Agency Fuel Meetings

Governor Al Quie recently called the first in a bimonthly series of meetings of the inter-agency fuel coordinating committee.

The committee is composed of the heads of 13 departments and agencies most influential in and affected by the state's energy supply.

The governor says he has arranged the ongoing, cabinet-level meetings because of his growing concern over the state's energy needs for the coming winter. The purpose of the committee is to provide a coordinated state effort to monitor and anticipate the constantly changing energy situation, and to prepare a long range plan to deal with winter energy needs.

"My concerns are centered on two things," says the governor. "First, the inadequate supply of fuel oil for this coming winter — how much of a shortfall we will have is still uncertain. And secondly, I'm concerned over the increase on the price of fuel. That, as we know, has dramatically increased, and will be a tremendous harm to poor and fixed income people."

Besides providing intergovernmental coordination and ongoing energy information, the committee will also be seeking the input of the private sector in solving and the ongoing energy problems.

"As I look at it, we've got to be preparing now to have a plan and place for whatever does happen this winter, and in order that people might be able to solve the problem of inadequate fuel and high prices," says the governor. "For some people to be able to get along without much suffering and others to suffer greatly is going to create great dissention. People have a tremendous capacity to sacrifice, but they all need to know they're in the boat together. And that's what we're going to be working on."

Members of the Inter-agency Fuel Coordinating Committee, to meet bimonthly, are: Al Johnson, Minnesota energy agency; Dick Braun, department of transportation; David Printy, department of economic development; Mark Seetin, department of agriculture; Jim Hiniker, department of administration; Kris Sanda, consumer services;

Also Charles Weaver, Metropolitan council; Terry Hoffman, pollution control agency; John Yngve, Metropolitan transit commission; Rolf Middleton, department of economic security; Eugene Avery, department of public service; John Sopsic, department of public safety; and Art Sidner, state planning agency.

Pedestrian Toll Shows Decline During 1978

Motor vehicles killed 115 pedestrians in Minnesota last year, a decline of almost 18 per cent from the 140 pedestrian fatalities in 1977, according to the Minnesota department of public safety.

"Year after year, the groups that suffer the highest number of pedestrian deaths are children, young adults and senior citizens," public safety commissioner John P. Sopsic said.

In 1978, pedestrian crashes killed seven children under five years of age, and seven others between 5 and 14 years. Twenty-two of the pedestrian victims were between 15 and 24 years and 30 fatalities were persons over 65.

The pedestrian toll last year was one of the lowest in recent years, Sopsic said, and about [illegible] per cent below the average of 127 killed annually between 1963-1978. The low in recent years was 106 pedestrian fatalities in 1974, while the high was 149 persons in 1971 and 1973.

Of the pedestrians killed last year, 71 were males and 44 were females. The most hazardous parts of the day for pedestrians were during dusk and nighttime hours as more than 71 per cent were struck between 5 p.m. and 1 a.m.

The largest number of fatalities, 29 (12 of these persons over 65), occurred as pedestrians were crossing a roadway that had no traffic signal or marked crosswalk. Twelve pedestrians died after they were hit while standing in the roadway.

"The drop in pedestrian deaths last year is encouraging to see," said Sopsic. But he urged that pedestrians should learn to walk safely and defensively. Studies show that the majority of pedestrians are struck as they commit a traffic violation or an unsafe walking practice.

"Pedestrians should always walk on the left side of any road or street without sidewalks, so they are facing oncoming cars," said Sopsic.

"Another safety rule is to cross at intersections and to use crosswalks whenever possible. But also be alert for drivers who don't stop for pedestrians in crosswalks, even though the law requires it," he said.

"Watch out for turning vehicles by looking around carefully for any approaching vehicles before you cross."

"And avoid the dangerous practice of walking out into the street from between parked cars. Oncoming drivers don't expect to see you there and may not be able to stop in time," Sopsic said.

Mrs. Alfred Solem, Rt. 2,
City, 681-3897

Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Rondorf, Mrs. Clifford Jorde and Mrs. Angie Larson attended funeral services for Mrs. Virginia Anton, widow of Robert Anton Wednesday afternoon, July 18, at Zion Lutheran church, with Rev. James Mattson officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Curt Johnson, Mark and Jeffry left Monday morning last week for Ely where they picked up Sheryl, who had spent a month at Camp Buxton. They spent some time in Duluth before going on to Minneapolis, where they all stayed at the Radisson hotel, where Mrs. Johnson attended as a school delegate several special meetings. They all returned home Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Muzzy and Laureen, Mrs. Vernon Malberg and Mrs. Clara Jaenette were among the many who attended the open house Sunday afternoon at the Glen Davidson home in Thief River Falls in honor of their silver wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Russell Receives Award

During the Pennington county fair for the past three years the "hall of fame" award has been presented to adults who have been very active in the 4-H program, both as parents and as leaders. The 1979 recipient is Mrs. Amanda Russell, a former leader of the Steiner 4-H club. Making the presentation was Roger Solem, one of her former 4-H members, who is presently involved through his son Roger and daughter Cynthia. Mrs. Russell was a leader from 1943 to 1958, followed with demonstration project leader until 1965. In 1975 she received the 4-H alumni award. For several years when she was a leader the Steiner 4-H club earned the "club of the year" award. She contributed much time assisting with Share the Fun numbers and one-act plays which twice placed first in the district contest in Crookston. She continues on as a strong supporter of the 4-H program and attends its activities whenever she can. She states she has always enjoyed working with 4-H boys and girls; and through this column wishes to thank everyone who has helped her earn the award.

Mrs. Rondorf Winner Of Colored TV

Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Rondorf attended the open house Thursday for the new grain terminal association elevator in Warren, where Mrs. Rondorf's cousin, Larry Johnson, formerly of St. Hilaire, is manager. Mrs. Rondorf was the lucky winner of first prize, a color TV set, in the drawing of attendance tickets. Congratulations are extended to Olive. Donors were the Hogenson Construction company of Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem were Monday luncheon guests at the Harry Christianson home at Wannaska.

House guests the past weekend at the home of Jack and Denise Chrzanowski were her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Larson, Rhonda and Ryan from Carrington, N.D. They also visited at the homes of Mrs. Helen Russell and the Bruce Russell family. Saturday the Larson family, Mr. and Mrs. Chrzanowski and Kristen and Mrs. Helen Russell visited at the Robert Pierson home at Roseau. The men went fishing on Lake of the Woods.

Mrs. Angie Larson, Mr. and Mrs. John Lubitz, David and Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Giles, Mary and John, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Lubitz, Marie and Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Marlan Augustine and Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Augustine attended the Augustine family reunion at Goodhue the past weekend. The Sunday reunion dinner was catered at the Lions club in Goodhue and the afternoon was spent at the farm home of the Raymond Augustine family. About 130 were in attendance. The late John Augustine of Holt is the only member of a family of ten that has passed away. All except one brother were able to attend the reunion. A family tree and history of Marlan's and Angeline's grandparents, John and Mary Augustine, had been composed, dating back to 1785.

Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Rondorf were Friday afternoon guests at the Clarence Semanko home to visit with Mrs. Semanko's father, Lawrence Anton, a resident at the Immanuel Nursing home in Detroit Lakes, who was home for the day. Mr. Anton has had both his legs amputated.

Sunday afternoon visitors at the Alvin Halvorson home were Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hart, Chris and Dicky of Manvel, N.D., Mrs. Gloria Enervold of Grand Forks and Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Halvorson, Lisa and Aaron.

Monday forenoon coffee guests at the LaVerne Rondorf home were his cousins, Mrs. Freda Firehlow from Dent and her sister, Mrs. Katy Swanson of Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Muzzy and Laureen attended the open house honoring Mr. and Mrs. Philip Grothe on their 25th wedding anniversary at Our Savior's Lutheran church Sunday afternoon.

Bean Research And Promotion Council Formed

Organization of the Minnesota dry edible bean research and promotion council has been completed, a marketing order checkoff proposed, and two public hearings and a mail ballot referendum of producers scheduled on the checkoff, Minnesota agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin announced recently.

The first hearing on the proposed checkoff of five cents per 100 pounds of dry edible beans produced and sold by Minnesota producers was July 20, at North Mankato, and the final hearing is set for July 25, at the Freeway Holiday Inn, Alexandria, at 8 p.m.

Ballots will be mailed this week by the Minnesota department of agriculture to 570 known Minnesota producers of dry edible beans. The mail referendum period will be August 1-10.

If a simple majority of dry edible bean producers vote "yes" in the mail referendum, the 5-cent checkoff will begin on September 1, deducted by purchasers at the first point of sale for remittance to the Minnesota dry edible bean research and promotion council. The initial promotion order limits the checkoff to a maximum of five cents per 100 pounds during the first two years of an approved order. By law the checkoff may not exceed one per cent of the market value of the beans.

Robert Mehlhouse of Olivia has been elected vice chairman of the council, with LeRoy Reuss of Danvers elected as secretary, and Robert R. Stevens of Park Rapids elected as treasurer. Mehlhouse and Reuss were elected to two-year terms, Stevens to the one-year term in the July 1-10 mail ballot establishment of th Minnesota dry edible bean research andp promotion council.

Two other members of the new council, both elected to three-year terms, are Herbert J. Nisbet of East Grand Forks, the Edgar Urevig of Lewisville.

This is the ninth council established under Minnesota agricultureal research and market promotion enabling laws. Other farm commodities with active councils are: wheat, soybeans, paddy wild rice, turkeys, potatoes, beef, eggs, and dairy products.

SITE DEVELOPMENT is nearing completion on eight building sites being readied for residential construction north of highway 1 about 10 miles west of Thief River Falls. The sites are mostly wooded and range in size from two to five acres. Construction work on the "West Acres" development was done by Carpenter Brothers and Roger Fellen of rural Thief River Falls. Forty acres of land are being set aside for the residential community.

Disease Control Means Long Life

by Paul Schurke
'U' M News Service

Nostalgia often clouds the fact that "the good old days" were, for many people, short. Infectious diseases took a heavy toll on the lives of children and adults.

But a dramatic change has occurred. Since 1900, our life expectancy has nearly doubled, due largely to advances in the coltrol of infectious diseases.

The 200-year revolution in medical science and public health that produced them is often taken for granted. Wesley Spink, regents' professor emeritus of medicine and comparative medicine at the University of Minnesota, hopes to remedy that situation.

Spink who has documented in "Infectious Diseases; Prevention and Treatment in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries", the events leading to this increased longevity is widely known for his work with antibiotics and is an internationally recognized expert on brucellosis, a common animal disease that disables people.

The book looks at the control of infectious diseases, underscoring the two major factors that led to these advances — the public health movement and the discovery of the microbial causes of specific diseases.

Spink first explores 19th century Britain where the public health movement was aimed at protecting healthy populations from the sick and dying. It encompassed a social reform movement for better working and living conditions and sanitary engineering improvements aimed at fighting impure water, unclean air and improper sewage disposal. It later served as a model for the United States Public Health Service.

Althoug the movement made great strides in disease control, these were later overshadowed by the rise of medical science.

The most brilliant advance in medical science, Sprink says, occurred in the 19th century, when specific microbes were established as the causes of diseases. Methods of preventing and treating infection with various drugs followed quickly.

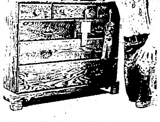
In the interim came a burst of wartime medical research that gave us first sulfa drugs and, a short time later, penicillin. Spink was directly involved in these efforts, first at Boston and later in Minneota. He introduced sulfonamides and penicillin to the Twin Cities in 1937 and 1942 respectively.

Spink profiles 10 groups of infectious diseases, both those now under control, like smallpox, and others like plague, yellow fever, leprosy and cholera that continue to claim many lives in some parts of the world.

In conclusion, Spink charts the future challenges in medicine. One great responsibility lies in maintaining the present status of disease control, he says.

Another, an upshot of these medical advances, is in dealing with the serious socioeconomic problems resulting from an increasing population of persons of advanced years. Addressing a problem particularly near to him, Sprink, who is 74, writes, "the proper care of older citizens has seriously strained the economy and constitutes one of the top priorities in government circles at all levels."

MRS. TILDA ERICKSON of Thief River Falls won a pair of grand champion ribbons for her two quilt entries in the 1979 Pennington county fair, one in the senior citizen division and one in the open class. Quilt on the left is a Rob-Peter-Pay-Paul design and was entered in the senior citizen division; the other is a log cabin design for which Mrs. Erickson used the quilt-as-you-go-method. The second quilt was the open class entry.



SHOP PROJECT grand championship at the Pennington county fair was this oak chest made by Merle Sorteberg of the Smiley 4-H club.

Senior Citizens

It was a warm day when the senior citizens met for their weekly meeting but it was cool at the center.

Some ladies sewed up the ends on the quilt we laid out last Thursday. You've heard the expression too many cooks spoil the soup. This did not hold true in planning the pattern for the quilt. We wondered since we were many working on laying out the blocks and deciding on the colors to use for the top. But it is a beautiful quilt and all ready now to sell.

Some stuffed and sewed up ends on a few throw pillows, also.

We enjoyed the many visitors that came Thursday to visit our center. They were Gerda Johnson, Lena Anderson, Alice Skoglund and Jennie Filpula, all of Middle River; Grace Boen, Lydia Underberg, Amanda Anderson, Lena Larson and Edna Berg, all of Karlstad; Alice Vik and two grandchildren of Halma; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Eskildsen, Eric Henrickson, Ivola Ombler, Ida Bruce and Louie Lofstrom.

Leona Chwialkowski came for her quilt she won and gave us a $2 donation. Thank you, Leona.

Three door prizes were given away Thursday. Helen Eskildsen won the prize Ruth Harper gave. Polly Stalock received the prize Ruth Anderson donated and Ella Thun won the prize given by Irene Larson.

We have a new gas cook stove in our kitchen donated by Ella Thun. She was lucky and got a new electric stove for her kitchen.

Mildred Nelson attended a Green Thumb meeting at Greenbush Thursday. She returned to the center in time for lunch that was served by Ruth Anderson.

Next Thursday will be our fun day so be sure and bring a few bingo prizes.

Friday afternoon Mildred Nelson and Irene Larson visited at the Leo Renstrom home. Dianne Kleinwachter, Kent and Hope also visited there.

Lila Grandstrand visited Mildred Nelson a week ago Monday evening

Piney-Pine Creek's Airport Dedicated

Only binational airport in the world was dedicated Monday, July 23, according to the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT). The Piney-Pinecreek border airport straddles the border between Minnesota and Canada. Minnesota's Governor Al Quie and Manitoba's Premier Sterling Lyon participated in the ceremony.

"This hands across the border project is something that the people of both the United States and Canada can be proud," according to Lawrence E. McCabe, assistant commissioner, Aeronautics division, Mn-DOT. "This airport provides this area with access to the air transportation system and gives pilots a convenient place to go through customs."

Pinecreek, has had an airport wholly in the United States since 1953. But it had a small, substandard runway (2,155 feet), McCabe said. The decision to expand to 3,200 feet was made in 1972.

"Expansion to the south would have severed a county road — an important mail and bus route — so extending the runway north across the border seemed the most obvious way to go," said David Nybakken, regional airport engineer, Aeronautics division, Mn-DOT.

Nine different federal, provincial, state and local governmental agencies had to approve the project before any construction could start, according to Mybakken. Included were the International Boundary commission, the Joint Boundary commission, the U.S. department of state, Canadian department of external affairs, U.S. customs service, Minnesota department of aeronatics (now a division of Mn-DOT), Minnesota department of administration, the province of Manitoba and the local government district of Piney, Manitoba.

"It was a real challenge," said Nybakken. "When you're dealing with so many different governmental agencies for an extended period of time, it can be frustrating. For example, by the time we would get approval from one agency, personnel would change in another and we would have to go back to explain the project to someone else, or rules would change and we would have to start all over again."

Wes Graham, director of program development, Manitoba ministry of transport, summed it up this way: "This project succeeded simply because everyone involved wanted it to succeed. Laws had to be changed at the federal, provincial, state and local levels of government in both the United States and Canada before we received final approval."

To facilitate the construction of the project and to provide for management and operation of the airport, a joint airport authority was formed in September 1977. It consists of six members — three of whom are appointed by the state of Minnesota, three by the local governmental district of Piney, Manitoba. The chairman and secretary-treasurer positions are alternated on an annual basis between Canadian and United States members.

Gene Simmons, the first chairman of the Minnesota-Piney airport authority said, "The creation of the Piney-Pinecreek border airport required an international agreement to be entered into between the state of Minnesota and the local government district of Piney, Manitoba, before we could expand and provide for the future operation and management of the airport."

A special attorney representing the state of Minnesota drafted the agreement. The Canadian department of external affairs in Ottawa and the U.S. department of state in Washington had to approve it. At the eleventh hour a problem arose when the department of state found that it did not possess the legislative authority to grant approval for the agreement. At that time, the late Senator Hubert H. Humphrey was contacted and he was successful in attaching a rider, granting that authority to a foreign aid bill.

Minnesota provided $18,000 in 1952 for the original construction of the Pinecreek airport. It also provided $22,000 for the current project. These funds come from the state airports fund, which consists of revenues from aircraft registration, aviation fuel and airline flight property taxes.

The province of Manitoba provided the additional land and did the clearing and rough grading of that land.

Improvements included extending the sod runway into Canada and constructing an apron on the Canadian side, similar to that on the U.S. side, for better access to the customs clearance office. This work was completed last fall. Ed Beaudette, chief provincial highway engineer, Manitoba, and Nybakken supervised the construction work.

EGG AND SPOON competition was one of the game events held during the Pennington county 4-H club horse show Saturday afternoon at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls. Jan Suronen, who won reserve champion honors in the senior division for member 14 years of age and older, is pictured competing in the event.

COLORFUL AFGHAN crocheted by Mrs. William Hanson of Thief River Falls was judged as a grand champion entry in the senior citizen division of open class competition at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls last week.

Regular season Northwest League champion Crookston is expected to add post-season Sub District American Legion baseball tournament honors to its credit this weekend, but coach Jim Simon said he came very close to forfeiting Crookston's semifinal game appearance.

Simon was upset when only seven ball players showed up at his house Saturday morning for a scheduled 8:15 a.m. departure for a one-day regular season-ending tournament at Park Rapids. He was forced to back out of the four-team event he had hoped to use as a tune-up for the post-season Northwest League Sub District playoffs. And he very nearly threw in the towel for that one, too, according to Lori Mateer of the Crookston Times.

"It was a tough decision to continue on with the rest of the season," said Simon. "I came really close to just cancelling out the remainder of our schedule — that would include dropping the district games. But I decided it wouldn't be fair to the kids that show up so faithfully for almost all the games."

The Northwest League Sub District tournament semifinals and finals will be played at Roseau Saturday and Sunday. Crookston plays East Grand Forks at 2 p.m. and Thief River Falls faces Roseau at 4:30 in Saturday's semifinals. The winners return for Sunday's 2 p.m. championship game.

Titles are always nice, of course, but Saturday's games are the really important ones this weekend since both semifinal winners earn berths in the August 2-5 Ninth District tournament at New York Mills. The eight-team Ninth District tournament, held in Thief River Falls a year ago, matches four Sub District champions and four Sub District runner-ups in a double elimination format that will advance its champion to the August 10-13 state American Legion tournament in Willmar.

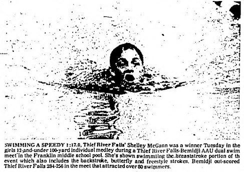
You can expect Crookston to sideline East Grand Forks with relative ease Saturday. They did during the regular season, winning 14-0 early in the year.

That puts most of the attention on the Thief River Falls-Roseau match-up. Based upon past results, Thief River Falls will be favored since Terry Sullivan's ball club won a pair of regular season meetings between the two, 3-1 and 5-1 as recent as July 10. The two split a pair of spring high school games, Roseau winning the first encounter 9-7 and Thief River Falls taking the rematch 5-0. The Rams then came within an eyelash of winning a Region 8A crown.

It'll likely be an excellent pitching match-up between Thief River Falls left-hander Scott Sabo and Roseau right-hander Mark Huglen. And therein lies a problem for both clubs since the winner will have to go with a second-line pitcher in the championship game.

Crookston, on the other hand, won't necessarily have to use star left-hander Brent Stahlecker against East Grand Forks. And even if Simon does elect to start Stahlecker Saturday, he can come back with top-flight hurlers in Brian Bachmeier or Trent Stahlecker in the finals, both considered better pitchers than what Thief River Falls and Roseau can offer. Roseau could pitch Chip Ammerman but Thief River Falls is expected to be without Kelly Gutterud who has a job commitment. That leaves Monty Peterson, who hasn't seen much pitching duty during a light Thief River Falls schedule that has featured just four games in the past two weeks, and Jeff Ulrich, normally an infielder who did perform well in a rare pitching assignment against Bemidji last week.

Thief River Falls and Crookston met just once during the 1979 season, with Crookston taking a 4-1 semifinal decision in its own invitational tournament earlier this month. Crookston finished the regular season with a 17-10-1 record. Thief River Falls went 11-3, dropping two of those games in the Crookston tournament.



SWIMMING A SPEEDY 1:17.0, Thief River Falls' Shelley McGann was a winner Tuesday in the girls 12-and-under 100-yard individual medley during a Thief River Falls-Bemidji AAU dual swim meet in the Franklin middle school pool. She's shown swimming the breaststroke portion of the event which also includes the backstroke, butterfly and freestyle strokes. Bemidji out-scored Thief River Falls 284-256 in the meet that attracted over 80 swimmers.

Melvies Upsets TRF Fast Pitch Softball League Leaders 10-3

Last place Melvies provided the upset of the 1979 Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league season with a 10-3 victory over previously unbeaten league leader North Star Transport Tuesday.

The defeat dropped North Star Transport (8-1) into second place behind Coca-Cola (9-1), although the two teams are tied in the loss column. They'll meet Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Dallmann Athletic, Inc., knocked off Schmidts 6-2 to open Tuesday's twinbill.

Melvies combined five base hits with three North Star Transport errors in the sixth inning for a five-run outburst that snapped a 3-3 tie and produced a stunning 10-3 victory.

DelRay Belto's three-run home run highlighted the Melvies sixth inning outburst.

Collecting 22 total bases on 13 hits, Melvies increased its lead with two seventh inning runs when Darwin Nelson doubled to center and scored on Keith Charbonneau's triple to right. Jay Kverno's sacrifice fly scored Charbonneau.

Melvies started the scoring in the top of the first inning when Tom Shetler singled and Belto tripled.

North Star Transport tied it in the bottom of the first on Tom Neibauer's two-out home run to left-center field and then used three hits and an error to score two runs in the third.

Melvies tied it on Doug Martell's two-run double in the fourth.

Schmidts 2

Retired in order by Schmidts pitcher Howard Dalager through three innings, Dallmann Athletic, Inc. collected three hits and scored three times in the fourth en route to a 6-2 triumph.

Rex Rugland beat out an infield hit to end Dalager's perfect game and Mike Drury sacrificed him to second. Bruce Johnson doubled to left for a run and Terry Sullivan hit a 3-2 pitch over the left field fence for a 3-0 lead.

Dallmann Athletic, Inc. continued to do things in threes when three base hits in both the fifth and sixth innings produced single runs. Two seventh inning hits scored the final run for the winners.

Schmidts scored twice in the fifth inning when Mark Haats walked, Bruce Johnson singled, Mark Anderson had an RBI double and Steve Haats hit a run-scoring sacrifice fly.

But Schmidts also left the bases loaded in the second and fourth innings.

Roseau, EGF Advance In NW Playoffs

Roseau picked up a forfeit victory over Warroad Tuesday and East Grand Forks outlasted Warren 9-8 Monday in the first round of the 1979 Northwest League American Legion Sub District baseball tournament.

That sets the stage for Saturday's semifinals at Roseau when East Grand Forks will challenge regular season Northwest League champion Crookston at 2 p.m. and Roseau will tackle Northwest League runner-up Thief River Falls at 4:30.

Saturday's winners will meet in Sunday's 2 p.m. championship game at Roseau.

Both semifinal winners will move on to the Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament August 2-5 at New York Mills.

Merchants Join Elks As State Tournament Team

Thief River Falls Merchants joined the Thief River Falls Elks as a state Babe Ruth baseball tournament participant with a Lake Agassiz District tournament championship Tuesday.

The Merchants will play in the 13-year-old Babe Ruth state tournament at Cottage Grove while the Elks, winners in last week's Lake Agassiz District tournament at Roseau, will play in the 13-15-year-old Babe Ruth state tournament at Maple Lake. Both 12-team, double elimination tournaments start Friday. But the Merchants aren't scheduled to play until 1 p.m. Saturday and the Elks won't play until 5 p.m. Sunday. If needed, both tournaments will continue through August 3.

A four-team Lake Agassiz District tournament at East Grand Forks was reduced to just two teams — Thief River Falls Merchants and Crookston — when Roseau decided not to participate in the event and East Grand Forks was forced to forfeit its games because of the presence of ineligible players on its roster.

Crookston opened the double elimination event with a 2-1 victory Monday, but Thief River Falls came back to win the next two starts and the title 15-1 and 6-3.

The Merchants will take a 15-5-1 record into state tournament play. The Elks are 23-8.

State tournament arrangements will be made tonight (Wednesday) when parents of the Merchants and Elks ball players meet at the Thief River Falls sports arena. The Elks parents will meet at 7:30 p.m. and the Merchants parents will meet at 8:30.

Crookston 2, TRF 1

A pitcher's duel was won by Craig Stahlecker and Crookston 2-1 over Bob Huot and the Thief River Falls Merchants in the tournament opener.

Huot pitched a one-hitter, but surrendered nine walks, with Crookston using four walks and its lone hit to score twice in the sixth inning.

Stahlecker pitched a two-hitter, giving up a single run in the fourth when Tim Bottem reached base on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on an RBI double by Gary Cornell.

TRF 15, Crookston 1

Thief River Falls bats exploded in the second game rematch as the Merchants pounded out 17 hits in a 15-1 rout.

An eight-run fourth inning featured six consecutive Merchants hits. Brian Kemnitz and Tim Bottem led the assault with three hits apiece while Bob Huot, Gary Cornell, Scott Johnston and Ryan Bakke all collected two hits. Every Thief River Falls starter had at least one base hit.

Johnston benefited from the offense to pick up the pitching decision, tossing a two-hitter.

TRF 6, Crookston 3

A three-run first inning supplied the Thief River Falls Merchants with a quick start in a 6-3 championship game victory.

Winning pitcher Tim Bottem helped his own cause with a 3-for-3 game at the plate that included a long ground rule double in the first inning that accounted for two of his three RBI.

The Merchants, who out-hit Crookston 7-6, added a single run in the third and two more in the fourth off losing pitcher Craig Stahlecker.

TRF Swimmers End AAU Season With Dual Loss Against Bemidji

Summer Thief River Falls AAU swimming program ended Tuesday in the Franklin middle school pool when Thief River Falls, playing host to its first home meet, lost to a larger Bemidji squad 284-256.

Over 80 competitors swam 43 events during the three-hour event. Thief River Falls won 23 races, but could not keep pace with the visitors who fielded a 55-member squad.

Kathy Dillon, Shelley McGann and Tim Penn all won three races for Thief River Falls. Dillon was a winner in the girls 13-over 50-yard freestyle in 27.2, 100-yard backstroke in 1:14.2 and 100-yard freestyle in 1:00.1. McGann was a winner in the girls 11-12 50-yard freestyle in 30.3 and 50-yard butterfly in 35.2 while also winning the girls 12-under 100-yard individual medley in 1:17.0. Penn was a winner in the boys 11-12 50-yard freestyle in 27.6 and 50-yard backstroke in 33.7 while also winning the boys 12-under 100-yard individual medley in 1:12.4.

Dillon picked up a fourth ribbon when she swam the anchor leg on a girls 13-over 400-yard freestyle relay team.

Busy Schedule Changes Little

A busy Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league schedule of 13 games did not change the complexion of the 16-team league as Red Lake Falls continued its unbeaten ways with a doubleheader sweep Monday over the Ridge Runners 25-5 and the St. Hilaire Saints 9-8.

The wins pushed Red Lake Falls' record to 16-0 and pushed both the Ridge Runners and St. Hilaire Saints out of the title picture.

Pizza Hut (13-1) remained one game behind the leaders with a pair of wins, knocking off Great Northwest Agency, Inc. 15-5 in a round of Tuesday make-up games after handling Credit Bureau 28-7 as Georgine Troska homered during Monday's regularly scheduled games.

Healthy Hustlers also won twice, beating J & B Drug 14-1 Monday and out-scoring Roseau Transport 13-11 Tuesday. Mary Skjerven homered twice in Monday's win, a feat matched by Laura Bray Tuesday.

Marlene Foss pitched a shutout as Ekeren Drug blanked winless Rusty Nail 12-0 Monday, with Ekeren Drug adding a 10-7 victory over Hydra-Mac-Toreq Tuesday.

First Federal Savings & Loan Association joined Red Lake Falls, Pizza Hut, Healthy Hustlers and Ekeren Drug as double winners, ripping Credit Bureau 18-1 Tuesday and beating Hydra-Mac-Toreq 17-7 Monday when Arlene Knutson, Karen Sparby and Lynn Christianson all homered. Knutson's blast was a grand slam.

Val Naeseth hit a grand slam home run to lift the Schmidt Stealers past J & B Drug 15-12 Tuesday.

Monday's results also saw Roseau Transport beat Great Northwest Agency, Inc. 6-2 while Falls Clinic edged the Farmer's Co-op Stingers 7-5.

Men's Golf League Ends 1st Half Play

Action is now complete in the first half of men's golf league play at the Thief River Country Club. Six teams have qualified for the season-ending playoffs by placing first or second in their respective divisions.

Paint and Glass Supply won the Demaret Division with a six-week total of 1074. Tom Shetler, Dale Dillon, Jon Carlson, Charlie Boyer and Rock Parkhouse are Paint and Glass Supply teammates.

Rest of the Demaret Division standings finds the Arctic Swingers at 1082, Model Laundry 1102, Bridgeman's 1102, Blue Cross 1107, Northern State Bank 1109, Larson Music 1113 and KOSN 1118.

In the Hogan Division, Hartz Wholesale shot 1093 for first half honors. Hartz Wholesale line-up consists of Bill Corliss, Alex Easton, Ed Gilbert, Bill Penning and Wally Krueger.

The Elks club also qualified for the playoffs from the Hogan Division at 1100, followed by Miracle Water 1107, Lee Plumbing 1121, Bakke-Iverson 1129, Pepsi-Cola 1131 and Dwight's Hartz 1135.

Wennberg's shot a league-low 1062 to win the Snead Division. Dale Wennberg, Curt Geatz, Gus Holmes, Larry Spong and Russ Lane make up the Wennberg's squad.

Other Snead Division scores were Ekeren Drug 1099, Home Box Office 1106, First Federal Savings and Loan 1121, Professional Building 1146 and Simplot Soilbuilders 1129.

Bottom Divisions Provide News

First Northwestern Insurance Agency is making noise in Division III and a Friday battle between Division IV co-leaders Jean Junction-Rundell Electric and Wilson Brothers Co. is expected to provide plenty sound as the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association completes its next-to-the-last week of 1979 regular season action.

Division I

Rusty Nail Raiders came a step closer to annexing another Division I pennant Monday with a 13-6 victory over Hartz.

A second place tie between the TRF Merchants and Tony Dorn, Inc. will be broken Friday when those two meet at 6:20 p.m. on field 1. Tony Dorn, Inc. matched the idle TRF Merchants' 14-6 record Monday with a 13-4 win over Arnold Realty as Tim Engelstad and Tim Olson collected three hits apiece and Rocky Ammerman drove in three runs.

Swenson Plumbing & Heating, Inc. swept Arnold Realty and Hartz in a Monday twinbill.

Division II

A 12-5 First Federal Savings & Loan Association victory over The Get-A-Way Tuesday kept the winners on top of the Division II standings and buried the losers in fourth place.

Second place St. Hilaire Bears kept pace with a 4-3 squeaker over Home Lumber and Bridgeman's moved ahead of The Get-A-Way into third place with a victory over cellar-dwelling Dallmann Athletic, Inc.

Hamms-Pizza Hut out-scored Popplers-Action Realty 9-8 to create a three-way fifth place tie.

Division III

First Northwestern Insurance Agency continued its late-season surge behind the bat of Bill Decker Tuesday, knocking off Division III leader Schumacher's Tireland 19-12 before losing to Great Northwest Agency, Inc. 8-7.

Decker finished the night with four home runs, a triple and two doubles. He hit three homers in the opener, teaming with Tom Kays to hit back-to-back home runs in the fifth inning and repeating the feat again in the sixth. After giving up seven first inning runs, First Northwestern Insurance battled back in the nightcap before falling a run short.

Schumacher's Tireland bounced back to beat McDonald's 14-4 to take a one-game edge in the win column over Arctic IWA, a 10-1 loser to Consumer's Co-op Association Monday.

Phase II stayed close to the leaders with a 5-1 triumph over The Club Monday.

Division IV

With Monday scores showing Wilson Brothers Co. a 20-5 winner over Lon's Restaurant & Pub and Jean Junction-Rundell Electric a 14-9 winner over Smith & Holthusen, Friday's 6:20 p.m. meeting between the two Division IV leaders on field 4 will match the 32-team association's best records (13-2).

Smith & Holthusen defeated Lon's Restaurant & Pub 14-8 Tuesday.

Country Club Golf Tourney Starts Thurs.

Qualifying for the 1979 golf club tournament will begin Thursday at the Thief River Country Club.

Defending champion Bob Forberg will headline a strong field which is expected to include former champions John Moum, Emery Wicklander and Jay Moum.

Championship flight qualifying will close on Wed., Aug. 1, with match play action scheduled to start Thurs., Aug. 2. Lower flight play will begin Thurs., Aug. 8. Tournament finals are scheduled for Sun., Aug. 19.

The tournament is open to all members of the Thief River Country Club. For further information, stop by the Country Club pro shop or call 681-2955.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

This concerns an incident that happened at the fast pitch diamond last Wednesday night. I thought it was a cheap shot, bush league thing to do. It involved a young player who was over zealous over a home run that was hit in a close game.

You only have a league if you can keep introducing young players into it and this kind of thing will only discourage this. The veterans are there to teach these kids the fundamentals, not some bush league tactic. It ruined the whole game and caused a lot of conflicts.

I think some of the players in our fast pitch league should grow up and play the game the way it should be played and show a little sportsmanship.

Wilson Brothers, Hartz Share Trap League Lead

Wilson Brothers Co. and L. B. Hartz Wholesale are co-leaders with six points apiece after three weeks of second half season shooting in the Thief River Falls trap league at the Marshallton Gun Club.

Lloyd Melby posted a 25-straight as Wilson Brothers Co. defeated Northland Realty 119-114 and Pat Fischer's 25-straight led L. B. Hartz past the Cat Busters 118-116 in Monday's latest round of shooting.

Elsewhere, Sjoberg's beat the Soo Line Hot Shots 115-95, Sethre's Hartz stopped Bjorkman's 118-111, American Legion edged Arctic No. 3 110-109, Peterson-Biddick Co. defeated Triple J Trap Co. 120-113, H & B Oil handled Noreen Development 119-84, Auto Body Repair belted First Northwestern State Bank Southside 120-92, Marshallton Gun Club got by Service Master 115-113 and Arctic Spirit shaded Pepsi-Cola 118-117.

There were three ties Monday; a 120-120 draw between the Viking Varmints and Northern State Bank; a 119-119 stand-off between Pizza Hut and Hydra-Mac; and a 116-116 deadlock between The Times and Hible's Standard.

Joining Melby and Fisher in the 25-straight club Monday were Marc Horlen, Sjoberg's; Fran Johnson, Triple J Trap Co.; Michael Lefrooth, H & B Oil; Jim Heckroth, Marshallton Gun Club; Dave Christianson, Viking Varmints; Sandy Wilson and Howard Thorson, Northern State Bank; Jerry Fessler and Bill Moreau, Pizza Hut; and Wayne Martin, Hydra-Mac.

Snowmobilers Meet Sunday

Fourtown snowmobile club picnic will be held Sunday at Grande Corner.

First Hunting Party Selected For Moose Hunt

A computerized drawing to select 685 hunting parties for Minnesota's 1979 moose season was conducted June 29 in St. Paul by the Department of Natural Resources.

Barring rejection of the application because of some irregularity, the names of the first hunting party of four selected by the computer are Thomas and Debra Detschman and Gary and Ruth Johnson of Bemidji.

Successful applicants will be notified on or about August 1, said wildlife officials.

GRAND CHAMPION GRADE in the 4-H sheep division at the 1979 Pennington county fair held last weekend went to Ross Parnow. Ross, a member of the Star 4-H club, is pictured here with his winning entry. Earning reserve champion in that division was Tim Panek.

YOUNGEST PARTICIPANT in the dog show held at the Pennington county fair Saturday was this youngster who exhibited her black Labrador puppy. The somewhat boisterous pup was a handful to handle, but the youngster held on to do a creditable showing job.

JUNIOR SHOWMANSHIP title was won by Jeff Lundeen of the Deer Park 4-H club at the Pennington county fair 4-H club dairy show last week. His brother Dale earned the reserve championship.

Energy Agency Offers Tips On Saving Gas

Since gasoline is becoming such an expensive commodity, the Minnesota energy agency his offered the following tips on easy ways to save gas.

—Driving the speed limit saves gasoline. Most cars get 20 per cent better mileage at 55 miles per hour than at 70.

—See-saw driving wastes gasoline. Repeatedly changing speed by only five miles-per-hour can reduce gas mileage by as much as 1.3 miles per gallon.

—Tailgating costs money because it wastes gasoline. It takes more gas to brake and speed up again than to drive with a steady foot.

—You can increase your gas mileage up to 30 per cent by good driving habits. Don't tailgate. Leave enough room between you and the next car so you don't have to stop and start. No sudden starts. Drive smoothly and steadily. Drive as if there was an egg between your foot and the accelerator. Smooth driving saves gas.

—A well-tuned car uses gasoline more efficiently. A tune-up can improve your gas mileage by as much as nine per cent. Tune-ups are especially important in the spring to adjust the car for warmer weather.

—Keep your engine filters clean. . .clogged filters waste gasoline.

—Radial tires can improve gas mileage three to five per cent in town — seven per cent on the highway. And properly inflated tires increase gas mileage too. They make it easier for the engine to keep the car rolling.

—Here's how to get the best gas mileage from your car when you're driving over hills: build up speed early when approaching a hill to reduce the amount of gas needed on the upgrade. On smaller hills, early momentum will help the car over the crest and gravity will help carry it down the other side.

—You can increase your gas mileage by combating wind resistance. Drive with windows closed. Use the car ventilating system instead for cool fresh air.

—If you want to save gasoline, don't let your car engine idle. Enough gas to drive a mile is wasted for every two minutes of idling. It takes less gas to restart a car engine than to let the car idle for only 30 seconds.

First NW Bank Adds Two New Staff Members

Stephen Reller

Mike Granlund

Stephen M. Reller and Mike Granlund have recently joined the staff at First Northwestern state bank and insurance agency in Thief River Falls.

Reller, who joined the insurance agency, was born in LaCrosse, Wis., and grew up in Hastings, graduating from Hastings high school in 1970.

He received an A.A. degree from Inver Hills state community college in 1972, a B.S. degree in resource management from Mankato state university in 1974 and an M.S. degree in rehabilitation counseling from Mankato state in 1976. Since his graduation he has worked as a correctional counselor for Amherst Wilder foundation at Sandstone and rehabilitation counselor for the state of Minnesota at Mankato.

He also did post graduate work at the University of Minnesota and worked as a teaching assistant in 1978-79. Steve is 27 years old and will be married in September. His hobbies are fishing, canoeing, hunting, gardening, ornithology, archery, swimming and camping.

Granlund is training in the bank's agriculture department. He was born and reared on a farm near Alexandria and graduated from high school there. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota-Crookston and North Dakota state university with a degree in agricultural education.

Since graduation Granlund has worked as a lab technician for the agricultural research service at Fargo, taught vocational agriculture at Underwood, and for the past three-and-a-half years has worked for the Farmers Home administration in Litchfield, Austin, Crookston and Long Prairie. He is 28 years old.

GRAND CHAMPION

SWEDISH IVY which spilled out over its large planter in a display of health and vigor won grand championship honors in the flower division of open class competition at the Pennington county fair last week. Exhibitor of the grand champion entry was Wendy Philipp of Thief River Falls.

Variety Plot Meeting Set Next Tuesday

To review the performance of small grain varieties at the Pennington county varietal demonstration plots, a public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, July 31 at 7:30 p.m., according to Terry Courneya, Pennington county extension director.

The plot, located three and a half miles east of Thief River Falls on highway 1, is especially good this year and will provide farmers with useful comparisons of how a number of varieties of small grain perform when grown under the same conditions, Courneya stated.

Also included in the demonstration plots this year with the 27 varieties of small grain are 11 varieties of sunflowers, 11 varieties of field corn, grass and broadleaf weed control in wheat and starter vs. broadcast fertilizer trials in wheat.

Marlin Johnson, area extension agent, will assist the county extension staff in discussing the varieties and answering questions on all phases of the demonstration work at the plots.

All area crop producers are encouraged to attend. Coffee and donuts will be served following the discussion, Courneya said.

The plots are located on hand owned by Clyde Christensen and Sons in Silverton township and are sponsored jointly by the county extension service and the Pennington county crop improvement association.

Social Security Men Here Tues.

Neil Rowe and Ted Hoversten, field representatives of the Grand Forks social security office will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Regional Arts Grants Given By Commission

Northwest regional development commission awarded $625 for arts projects and $33,793 for senior citizens centers to communities at its July 17 commission meeting.

East Polk county 4-H leaders council received $287.50 for a photography whorkshop and Lancaster public school, fiscal agent for artist unlimited of Lake Bronson, received $337.50 for three painting workshops.

There is a total of $17,599 art funds available for fiscal year 1980 for local or regional arts development. The next art grant application deadline is October.

Red Lake Falls housing and redvelopment authority received a grant of $10,687 to enlarge its present meal site facility and Badger received $23,106 for a senior citizen center.

The next deadline date for funds for the acquistion, alteration or renovation of senior citizens center in Region 1 is October 1.

Agencies or organizations seeking information either of the above projects may call the NWRDC office and ask for either the arts or the aging department 281-1396.

Cancer Society Seminar Held At Hospital

Northwestern hospital hosted a "reach to recovery" training and recertification workshop on July 19 with Mrs. Jeannie Retzwill, state coordinator, conducting the workshop. The seminar was sponsored by the American Cancer society.

New trainees included Dell O'Neil and Esther Carlson, Baudette; Ina Parr, Fertile; and Ann Ole, Roseau. Recertified were Bette Dolly and Evelyn Jesme, Baudette; Lois Erickson, Beltrami; and Kris Oppegaard and Vivian Brekke, Thief River Falls.

Area Hearings Set For Bell Rate Increase

Crookston and Warroad have been selected as two of 12 locations around Minnesota as sites for public hearings on telephone service.

Al Bacon, Northwestern Bell manager, said the company will participate in the series of hearings designed to gain customer input in the rate-making decision process. Warroad meeting will be at 2 p.m. August 29 in the Warroad school and the Crookston session at 1 p.m. August 30 at the NW correctional center.

The company is seeking a 10 per cent increase in local basic service rates. No increase is proposed for long distance, extensions or other services.

The higher rates will yield the company an overall 5.5 per cent increase in annual revenues and went into effect July 7 subject to refund if the increase is not granted.

The public hearings will give customers a direct opportunity to participate in the rate making process, Bacon said.

The lookout tower was scarcely visible, and five miles ahead, straight up the mountain. With the whole afternoon ahead of me, I began the climb. It was a hot day, and the dry, winding road made the climb twice as difficult.

Then something wonderful happened. Sitting by the roadside in the shade of some friendly pine trees were an older couple and their grandchildren. They, too, were on the way to the lookout and were resting. I joined the group and continued the hike, chatting the whole way about families, places we had been, our home towns.

Before we knew it the fatigue was forgotten and two hours had flown by. We had arrived at the tower.

Life, too, sometimes feels like a difficult climb on a hot, dry day. Its demands and burdens can drain us of energy and the will to continue. God knows this, so He gave us His Church, a fellowship of believers to strengthen and encourage us along life's road.

Publisher Promotes Fuel Alcohol Use

"The answer to fuel shortage problems in this country lies in the fields of America," according to Gary Jacobson, editor and publisher of Motor North magazine, a Minnesota-based Upper Midwest automotive trade journal.

"Power alcohol is the key. Not the kind you drink, but the kind that burns safely and efficiently in every gasoline-burning internal combustion engine ever produced," according to Jacobson.

"I'm not talking about gasohol, which contains roughly 10 per cent alcohol," says Jacobson. "But rather, pure alcohol, 160 to 180 proof. It's a safer and much cleaner fuel, although not quite as volatile as its sister fuel, gasoline."

According to the article in Motor North, with a few very minor adjustments, alcohol will burn readily, not only in gasoline engines, but diesel as well.

Jacobson says that the idea of alcohol replacement was studied in North Dakota and Montana 15 years ago, to utilize excess wheat and grain products, but abandoned because gasoline at the time was so cheap and readily available. This, of course, is not the case today. He continues:

"The beauty of this fuel source," he said, "is that it can be distilled from about any renewable high-carbohydrate farm product, including corn, wheat, potatoes and sugar beets. Alcohol can also be produced from apples, wood, grapes, even waste paper and garbage."

"An overnight adaptation to this fuel source is, of course, impossible, especially because our nation's economy is geared to gasoline dependence, but with proper planning, including implementation of existing technology, the transition can be made without upsetting our food chain or economy. In fact, the whole concept would be a shot in the arm for our economy.

"I would advocate solar-powered distilleries, supplemented by energy from waste products such as corn cobs and stalks, old tires and garbage when the sun isn't shining. Eighty per cent of all garbage is paper and it would make a wonderful fuel for distilleries," according to Jacobson.

"It seems such a shame that American garbage, containing all of its potential energy, ends up buried in landfills, occupying valuable real estate."

Jacobson recalled his years between high school and college when he worked for the city of Minneapolis back when they used to burn garbage to dispose of it. "Over 100 truckloads of garbage would be reduced to two small truckloads that were hauled away as residue and ashes.

"At the time it seemed such a waste of energy to me," says Jacobson. But when environmental controls halted the burning and prompted landfill disposals, it seemed like even more of a waste. The time has come to do something about the situation and recognize garbage as a valuable fuel source."

Jacobson's plan is to initially convert the farmers to burn power alcohol. "They raise the crops and could easily bring them into co-op distilleries, which would work on much the same principle as grain elevators.

"These distilleries would convert the product and farmers could haul it back home in tank wagons. The residue mash makes a wonderful feed for animals so there would be absolutely no waste in the whole process.

No money would even have to change hands as payment would be in the form of excess alcohol to be sold by the co-op for diesel fuel, home heating and other purposes. We could begin setting up these co-op distilleries tomorrow if funds were available," says Jacobson. "Unfortunately, our legislature sees fit to appropriate funds toward domed stadiums and other less-important matters, rather than to try resolving this ever-growing gasoline crisis.

"I guess they don't realize that our current gasoline shortage is just a small example of what is yet to come. From this office we watch the national situation very carefully, and believe me, it's going to get much worse. That's why it's essential that the issue of power alcohol is a replacement for gasoline be further explored and developed at once."

As the farmers are being converted to burn alcohol, according to Jacobson's plan, we would be looking for development of a high carbohydrate farm product, not for human consumption, but rather for use as fuel. Call it Carbahol, or whatever.

"From that point, alcohol usage could be expanded to include truckers and perhaps eventually consumers. We would consider alcohol as a secondary fuel supply, as a supplement to gasoline.

"The figures are there," according to the Motor North article. Figuring 20 miles per gallon, 5,000 miles could be obtained from one acre of corn. Sugar beets would produce even better mileage.

"Few people in this country realize that in Brazil, where there are no oil reserves, the government has actively gotten behind a program to build 300 alcohol distilling plants for the purpose of alcohol conversion. Few people also know that Volkswagen at this time is producing alcohol-burning cars exclusively for experimental use in that country. Sugar cane is the fuel for these vehicles.

"Naturally the system couldn't be functional overnight, but our Motor North studies indicate that the first co-op power alcohol-producing still could be erected and operational within one year. From that point an established precedent could be followed and alcohol-producing plants would be set up throughout the country.

"My heart goes out to the truckers who cannot obtain enough fuel to keep their vehicles running to support business and family," says Jacobson. Countless thousands down the chain of distribution will suffer as a result.

"But truckers' strikes do not affect OPEC prices and profit-oriented oil companies. Nor will they affect the waste of billions of dollars and manpower that has already been generated by our 'do nothing' department of energy.

"The answer is power alcohol! And it's essential that alcohol-producing plants be erected in short order as an answer to the fuel crisis in this country."

Mrs. Alfred Solem, Rt. 2,
City, 681-3897

The senior citizen kitchen band from Thief River Falls presented selections for the Heritage Art fair at the Elan Pioneer park in Greenbush Sunday afternoon. Among members of the band are Mrs. Ethel Moe, Mrs. Hannah Kisch and Mrs. Bernice Vatsaas.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem enjoyed a picnic dinner at Hayes Lake state park Sunday, together with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brandt and Mrs. Antonia Boen, all of Roseau, Rev. and Mrs. Kermit Solem, Aaron, Cassy, Arlen and Corrine of Rothsay and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Solem, Roger and Cindy of Norden.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Moe and Jim, Mrs. Ethel Moe and Mrs. Bernice Vatsaas attended family night at the Oak Ridge Lutheran church Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Halvorson, accompanied by Mrs. Ella Nelson of Thief River Falls and Mrs. ElRoy Enervold of Grand Forks drove to Mayville Sunday afternoon and visited Mrs. Annie Brainerd, who is a patient at the Union hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Moe and Jimmy attended the Oak Ridge congregational picnic at Old Mill state park a week ago Sunday. Monday last week Mr. and Mrs. Moe attended funeral services for Johnny Nelson at Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt.

Mrs. LaVerne Rondorf and Mrs. Alfred Solem attended a meeting of the Rebekah circle of the Trinity Lutheran church in the back yard of the Peter Henrickson home in Thief River Falls Thursday afternoon last week.

Jimmy Moe, a member of the Holt 4-H club, enjoyed a tour of their club Thursday evening to view the projects of the members at the homes. The last home visited was that of the club president, Dana Peterson, where the business meeting was held, after which lunch was served.

Sunday evening luncheon guests at the Alfred Solem home were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Anderson of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Solem and Bobby. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson arrived Friday to attend funeral services for her brother, Bertil Ness at the Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt Saturday forenoon. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Solem and Bobby also attended the services. The Andersons returned home by plane from Grand Forks Monday.

Visitors the past week at the Larry Gustafson home were Mrs. Merlin Heath of Circle Pines, Mrs. Jarvis Torgerson, Mike, Debbie and Lisa and Mrs. Donald Jorde, Karl, Nancy and Wade. Mrs. Heath was a house guest for a week at the home of her mother, Mrs. Amanda Torgerson. She returned home Sunday accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Donald Jorde, Karl, Nancy and Wade, who plan to return home next weekend. Mrs. Heath was here to attend her 30th class reunion Saturday and Sunday July 7-8.

House guests the past weekend at the home of Thora and Lawrence Skomedal were their brother-in-law and sister, Jim and Palma Johnson of Minneapolis. Saturday and Sunday they attended Palma's 50th class reunion, having been a graduate of Lincoln high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gustafson, Stacy, Susan and Tony were Sunday afternoon luncheon guests at the Clarence Gustafson home at Viking. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Russell, Cindi and Brenda visited at the Gustafson home.

Wednesday evening visitors at the home of Mrs. Amanda Torgerson were Mrs. Merlin Heath, Mrs. Donald Jorde, Nancy, Karl and Wade, Mrs. Margaret Pederson, Mrs. Larry Gustafson, Stacy, Susan and Tony and Mrs. Jarvis Torgerson, Mike, Debbie, and Lisa. They all enjoyed a wiener roast.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jorde treated Mrs. Clara Jaennette and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja of Smiley to dinner at Brooks last Sunday. They all had lunch at the Lendobeja home later in the afternoon.

Tuesday morning Mrs. Clara Jaennette treated Mrs. Dale Ranum to breakfast at the Best Western in honor of her birthday. Others who enjoyed breakfast with Clara and Beverly were Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja and Mr. and Mrs. Julian Lendobeja, all of Smiley and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Johnson of St. Hilaire.

Among the guests at a birthday party Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Jarvis Torgerson at her home arranged by her children were Mrs. Margaret Pederson, Mrs. Larry Gustafson, Stacy, Susan and Tony, Thora Skomedal and Mrs. Jim Johnson of Minneapolis.

Love Affair With Language

Larry Tucker of the Neodesha (Kansas) Daily Sun shares the following comments about our language with the hope that we will recognize some of our common errors and attempt to mend our ways:

I have a love affair with the English language, both written and spoken. And when I read or hear an articulate presentation, by someone with the ability to transmit his thoughts precisely, I get a warm feeling and sense of hope.

But when I read or hear words that look and sound impressive, yet mean nothing in the way they are used, I'm frustrated.

Every industry abounds with "buzz words", impressive phrases meant to replace simple, direct, understandable English. Thanks to an anonymous author, and a concerned messenger, I'll give you a chance to create your own "buzz words" and make up your own mind about their effectiveness in phrase form.

Take any word in Column I below and add it to any word in Column 2, then complete with any word in Column 3. Example: "integrated digital mobility". Sounds important, doesn't it? But it means nothing! Now you try one:

Column 1,
integrated total systematized parallel functional responsive optimal synchronized compatible balanced

Column 2
management organizational monitored reciprocal
logistical transitional incremental third-generation policy

Column 3
options flexibility capability mobility programming concept time-phrase projection hardware
contingency

Enough said? Class dismissed!

Thanks to Don Fitzgerald of the Kansas Press Association, I'll share more redundancies from the seemingly endless collection of misused words and phrases:

Absolutely necessary, actual truth, advance planning, ask the question, assemble together, at a later date, attached hereto, at the present time, cancelled out, carbon copy, close proximity, consensus of opinion, continue on, cooperate together, deeds and actions, enclosed you will find, redo again.

To continue this list of "important essentials" would be "totally unnecessary."

Not What It Says

Following editorial is from the Bemidji Pioneer:

It has long been a tenet of law that the intent or purpose of a law, treaty, or agreement, must be drawn from the language of the law and cannot be inferred from discussion or purposes stated before enactment.

The Supreme Court brushed aside this principle in its ruling in the Brian Weber case, saying that the Congress had intended more affirmative action programs when it passed the Civil Rights Act in 1964.

The act says, "it shall be an unlawful employment practice for any employer, labor organization or joint labor-management committee to discriminate against any individual because of race, color, religion, sex or natural origin".

In the Weber case the facts were that the Kaiser Aluminum Company of Gramercy, Louisiana, and the United Steel Workers of America negotiated an agreement in 1974 for upgrading the skills of some workers so that they would be eligible for better jobs.

The plan provided that the workers chosen would be 50 per cent white and 50 per cent black. Six white workers and seven black were chosen for the training on the basis of their separate seniority with the company.

Weber was not admitted to the special classes even though he had greater seniority than some of the blacks who were admitted. He sued claiming that he was the victim of reverse discrimination and that the plan was in violation of the Civil Rights Act.

Two lower federal courts found that to be the case.

The Supreme Court, however, negated the Civil Rights Act claiming that it was the intent of Congress that it be flexible enough so that affirmative action programs could be carried on.

In the previous Bakke decision, the court found that University of California Medical School at Davis was wrong when it denied him admission to its entering class. The medical school, which annually admits 100 students, had reserved 16 places in the class for members of minority groups.

Bakke was passed over even though he argued that he was better qualified than some of the minority members who were admitted. The court ruled that this was a quota system and hence illegal.

The court then reversed itself in the Weber case. The Weber case was not ruled on under Constitutional principles, but rather on the provisions of the Civil Rights Act.

It seems a certainty that the last has not been heard of the Weber case and that it will again be in the courts.

Why Hunt Nazis Now?

Following editorial is from the New Ulm Journal:

Always on the lookout for government projects unworthy of the price, we spotted a federal appropriation to track down Nazi war criminals in the United States and deport them.

A bigtime Washington lawyer, Walter Rockler, has been named to head the special probe with a staff of 37. As with everything in Washington, it will grow, the staff numbering 50 by next year.

Opening budget is $2 million, but this is just startup money, and is expected to be doubled next year. The Rockler staff is in addition to a 14-person unit in the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) that already works full time hunting Nazi war criminals.

What will the next expenditure buy us? INS figures there are 175 Nazi war criminals living in the U.S. This appears to be a loose use of the word "criminal" unless they had been tried and escaped sentence. Remember, Hitler was killed. Goering and Hess and other major war criminals were tried, convicted and sentenced at the Nuremberg trials after World War II.

If the special probe unit finds all 175 and spend only $6 million, the costs will be $34,285 per war criminal.

The war has been over 34 years. Ages of these war criminals would be between 60 and or 85.

If the 175 have been living so quietly in this country all these years, unable to be found by the INS and its regular hunt staff of 14, half of them lawyers, they must be pretty well assimilated.

They are no longer a threat to the security of the United States, which today is making a home for thousands of Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees, some of which may be war criminals.

There certainly are more important projects for $6 million than the Nazi war criminal search.

More Double Standards

Following editorial is from the Roseau Times-Region:

Well for goodness sake! Judge John Sirica, who became a virtual folk hero when he handed down sentences in the Watergate trial, has indicated that judicial responsibility is not to be taken lightly. . .except when it comes to Judge John Sirica. He has published a book, "To Set the Record Straight," which discusses his involvement in Watergate.

In doing so he has violated the code of judicial conduct which declares that information acquired by a Judge in his judicial capacity should not be used by him or disclosed by him in financial dealings or even disclosed by him for any purpose not related to his judicial duties. We read that the Judge received $500,000 for the book.

Surely this clear violation of judicial ethics which resulted in financial gain for the judge is in the same moral ballpark as some Watergate activities. We wonder what the reaction of Judge Sirica would have been had a Nixon appointed judge committed this action.

Borrowed Nonsense:

"How could you," the Judge demanded of the con man before his bench, "swindle all those men and women who placed their trust and confidence in you?"

"Your Honor," the con man replied, "it's almost impossible to swindle people who don't trust you."

During an examination a rookie policeman was asked what he would do to break up a crowd. Showing a deep knowledge of human nature he wrote, "I'd take up a collection."

Interesting Opinions:

"Courage is resistance to fear, mastery of fear — not absence of fear."

—Mark Twain

MY FLOWER GARDEN

"MY FLOWER GARDEN" is the title of the poster which won Kim Koropatnicki of the Kratka 4-H club a trip to the state fair. Kim's flower garden poster showed the layout of her garden and displayed photos of the garden at various stages of growth.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Overweight employees from three Chicago banks are voluntarily competing to see which group can shed the most pounds.

At its facilities in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, FMC Corporation has developed a "Monday morning accident room." The room is staffed with physicians and nurses on company payroll for treatment of injuries incurred over the weekend — injuries that would normally be treated in hospital emergency rooms.

Bonne Bell, a cosmetic manufacturing and distributing company in Lakewood, Ohio, offers a jogging program with outdoor path and exercise stations through woods and surrounding grounds; exercise classes three times weekly; tennis lessons at onsite courts, and exercise rooms with shower facilities.

What's going on? Is business becoming a country club or a make-shift hospital? Not at all. It is getting more involved in the health of its employees and promoting better prevention and treatment of disease. And business has every reason to do so. Health care costs have now reached more than $180 billion a year and will soon top $200 billion. Business is the largest private buyer of health care in the country. Last year, employers paid more than $40 billion in group health premiums, and as much in taxes to support Medicare, Medicaid, occupational health services, and paid sick leave. So keeping its employees healthy has become one of the best investments any business can make.

The alternative, as I noted in a prior column, is a government take-over of the health care industry that will only produce more pain. Whether it be the President's $24 billion package of health care "restraint," or Senator Kennedy's $40-$60 (take your pick) billion "comprehensive" approach, a government-imposed health care solution just won't work. History has repeatedly demonstrated these government schemes eventually drive costs higher, and higher, while dramatically reducing the quality of health care.

On the other hand, we know that only five per cent of Americans lacks any health insurance, and a slightly higher percentage lacks catastrophic coverage. Both groups could be protected by slightly expanding coverage of existing programs. The real challenge then, is to arrest the explosion in costs without destroying the most magnificent system of medical care the world has ever known.

We can do it. The Chamber has developed a nationwide program, illustrated by a Health-Action kit, that explains how business and community leaders can voluntarily apply private solutions at the local level to control health costs. The program gives many specific recommendations on how business can instill more competition, cost consciousness and individual responsibility in the health care system. These recommendations fall into four categories:

First, establish physical fitness, nutrition and screening programs for employees. These programs can reduce medical claims, improve productivity, lower absenteeism, and ultimately, lower insurance premiums. For example, the DuPont Company, a pioneer in alcohol abuse programs, estimates it saves nearly $500,000 each year through less alcohol-related absenteeism.

Second, negotiate with insurance companies for more cost-effective policies, which cover preventive, out-patient services and second surgical opinions. Self-insured or self-administered health plans may also be appropriate for some firms. By better coordination of benefits, Borden, Inc. estimated that it saved $2.1 million in 1977.

Third, support the development of Health Maintenance Organizations (HMO's), which have demonstrated their ability to improve health and save money. These plans emphasize preventive services and lower rates of hospitalizations.

Fourth, serve on Health Systems Agencies (HSA), hospital boards and other planning bodies, and participate in local health studies that identify problems and the role business can play in solving them.

What it boils down to is this: If we want to avoid an eventual break-down of our health care system, then we must start getting the government out and getting business in. It's our responsibility. The Health-Action program is the National Chamber's answer to this challenge. If you would like to participate and receive our Health-Action kit, please contact Jan Peter Ozga at the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington, D.C.

Looking Backward

1929 — 50 YEARS AGO

This city was visited by its first tornado, which blew down the A.E. Ellason house at 622 Arnold Avenue north and caused other damage. — Twenty votes were cast in the school district election, with L.G. Largon and Olaf Nest being reelected. — T.P. Anderson, county auditor here for 15 years, was nominated for postmaster by Congressman C.G. Selvig.

1939 — 40 YEARS AGO

Cliff Storholm took over Porter's Eat Shop from Kenneth Porter. — Jay W. Craig company completed the oiling of 44 blocks of city streets. — Chas. Munn and Hjalmer Petersen of the RR and W commission held a hearing at the court house in the request of the Electric Line to discontinue service to Goodridge.

1949 — 30 YEARS AGO

A.C. Tiedman was named commander of the local American Legion post, succeeding Leonard Hanson. — Surfacing of Highway 59 from Brooks to Erskine, the last link in the TRF to the Twin Cities route, has been completed. — The city council sold a second $250,000 issue of water plant bonds to a Minneapolis syndicate on the basis of a net interest rate of 1.87 per cent.

1959 — 20 YEARS AGO

The annual Pennington county fair is to open Monday. — Pat Hornseth was named 4-H style revue queen at the city auditorium. — Jennifer Travnicek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Travnicek of this city, won a train for her back yard as a result of entering in a nation wide contest sponsored by Popsicle. — The Silver Creek church will celebrate its 60th anniversary August 2.

1969 — 10 YEARS AGO

Named as over-all queen of the 1969 4-H style revue in the city auditorium was Paulette Phillip of the Mavie 4-H club as approximately 120 girls in the beginners, juniors, and advanced phases of the clothing project participated. — Mr. and Mrs. Earle Ripley of TRF and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Paulson of Stillwater, formerly of Viking, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. — Expansion of facilities for Arctic Enterprises in TRF is underway with three new buildings being built south the present parts manufacturing building, near the Joppru farm and northwest of the city to accomodate the needs of the growing company. — Tex Williams show, featuring Wanda Jackson, headlines the entertainment portion of the 68th annual Pennington county fair.

For the smart person on the move!
You're one active person! Indoors half the day, outdoors the other half ... it all presents one very bothersome problem - the changing of glasses every time you turn around. You need photochromic lenses that not only can keep up with your smart moves, but also your smart looks. PHOTOGRAY EXTRA lenses from Corning. In less than 60 seconds, they change from almost clear indoors to a comfortable sunglass outdoors. And when you're back inside again, they fade quickly... and conveniently. They're fast ... and they're smart! You can keep one pair of glasses on all day, no matter where your adventures take you. Come in and see for yourself just how fast, convenient, comfortable and stylish PHOTOGRAY EXTRA lenses are. It only takes a minute.

• Munch a mushroom and you're in good company! The Egyptian pharaohs discovered them; the ancient Greeks, Romans and kings and queens of Europe enjoyed them. Some mushroom tips: Buy light-colored, moist mushrooms and refrigerate, but not in plastic. Never peel mushrooms or they'll lose flavor and nutritive value. Cook mushrooms only four to five minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Halvorson of Steiner were Wednesday forenoon visitors at the Roger Solem home. The same afternoon Mrs. Solem was a visitor at the Ron Hanson home in Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hoglo were among those attending the class of '59 reunion and banquet at the American Legion club in Thief River Falls Saturday evening, July 7.

Mrs. Roger Solem and Cindi were Saturday forenoon visitors at the Roy Blomker home.

Dick Hoglo of Thief River Falls and Robby Ayers were Monday evening coffee guests at the Daryl Lewis home.

Gary Hoglo of Sanders was a Saturday forenoon coffee guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Marion Hoglo.

Carey Soiney Is 5

Carey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Soiney, observed her fifth birthday Wednesday, July 18. Following the opening of gifts, Mrs. Soiney served cake and ice cream to the following guests: Carey's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Fayette of Helgeland, her uncle and family, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Fayette, Melanie and Emily of Thief River Falls and a cousin, Cory Jorgenson of Argyle. Sending gifts but unable to be present were May and Gene Howes, Nellie Robideoux, Arlyne Soiney and the Gordon Jorgensons.

Monday afternoon coffee guests of Mrs. Marion Hoglo were Mrs. Edith Dyrdal and Mrs. Daryl Lewis.

Good Cheer club enjoyed its July meeting the afternoon of the 18th at the Hanging Gardens meeting room in Thief River Falls. Hostesses were Mrs. Ernest Melvie Sr. and Mrs. Gladys Bakke. It was decided that the club cookbooks should be completed to be sold at the September flea market. A committee is to begin working on them this week, so if you haven't turned in five recipes in different categories yet, please notify Becky Christianson, Lauretta Blomker, Wilma Olson, Patty Soiney or LuAnn Lewis as soon as possible. It was also decided to hold a meeting in August, though perhaps at a later date than usual, to assemble the cookbooks. Attending the meeting were Mrs. Dave Christianson, Daniel and Sara, Mrs. Roy Blomker, Nathan, Odetta and Jonathan, Mrs. Dave Knudsen, Kari and Sheila, Mrs. Glen Olson, Mrs. Erwin Olson, Mrs. Edith Dyrdal, Mrs. Lilas Klefstad, Mrs. Gordon Olson, Mrs. Helen Willers, Mrs. John Bauer, Mrs. Ernest Melvie Sr., Mrs. Louie Hugg and Jeffrey, Mrs. Harold Langaas, Gladys Bakke, Mrs. Ray Oen and Mrs. Daryl Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hoglo, Jennifer and Steven were among the many attending a picnic at the home of Mrs. Edna Wendel in Thief River Falls Sunday, July 8.

Mrs. Gordon Jorgenson of Argyle was a Thursday forenoon caller at the Steve Soiney home. Cory Jorgenson has been spending the week at the Soiney home while attending vacation Bible school with his cousin, Carey Soiney.

Kristy Dyrdal Notes 12th Birthday

Kristy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donavon Dyrdal, observed her 12th birthday anniversary this week. Wednesday evening, July 18, her birth date, Grandmother Edith Dyrdal, also Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Lewis and Todd and Mrs. Martin Solseng and Shelly, brought her good wishes. Also present besides her parents were sister Kathy and brothers, Greg and John. Kathy had baked and decorated her sister's cake. It was chocolate loaf, iced in white, scattered with tiny pink flowers and topped with two miniature plastic horses by a blue confectionery pond. It was served with ice cream and other party foods, some of which had been brought by the guests. The following afternoon Mrs. Dyrdal took Kristy and a group of classmates to McDonald's for dinner, followed by ice cream at Happy Joe's in Thief River Falls. Taking part in the outing were the guest of honor, Janelle Vatsaas, Wendy Peterson, Jeri Loeffler, Joy Enderlien and Dawn Nelson. All except Dawn were also Kristy's overnight guests. Unable to be present but sending a gift was the Roger Solem family.

Correction

The name of Rog Alan Solem was inadvertantly omitted from the list of guests at the birthday celebration for Don Dyrdal July 13. Apologies!

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Solem, Rog and Cindi, spent Sunday at Hayes Lake state park. They were joined there by Rev. and Mrs. Kermit Solem, Aaron, Cassandra, Arlen and Coreen of Rothsay, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brandt of Roseau and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem of Steiner.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hoglo, Jennifer, and Steven and Natalie Johnson of Newfolden were among those attending the 7 p.m. wedding and reception of Mrs. Hoglo's cousin, Kevin Paulson and Jane Gilbertson, at Our Savior's Lutheran church in East Grand Forks Saturday, July 14. They also spent overnight and the following afternoon were luncheon guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ward Gilbertson, where the newlyweds opened their gifts. Earlier they were guests at the home of Mrs. Hoglo's brother, the Jim Wendels. Before returning home Sunday evening, they also visited at the Kennard Paulson home in East Grand Forks.

Mrs. Marion Hoglo accompanied Mrs. Marvin Olson, Steve, Kelli and Jill to Warren Thursday, where they visited at the Wallace Lamb home and attended the Warren fair. Kelli and Jill remained with their cousins while the rest returned home that evening.

Mrs. Edith Dyrdal was a Wednesday supper guest at the Daryl Lewis home.

In Highway Patrolman Shooting . . .

Gores Sentenced To 10 Years Maximum

Sentencing of Anthony Junior Gores, 32, to a maximum term of 10 years and minimum term of a year and a day in stillwater state prison took place Thursday afternoon in Pennington county district court. Judge Robert A. Peterson imposed the sentence.

Gores had entered a plea of guilty on June 6 to a charge of aggravated assault in the shotgun shooting of highway patrol officer Harold Blazek last winter. Patrolman Blazek was struck in the hand with a blast from a sawed-off shotgun when he appreached a pickup which he had stopped for operating without tail lights. The officer lost several fingers from the close-ringe blast and also reportedly suffered hearing damage and was struck in the face by shotgun pellets.

Gores had originally been charged with attempted murder and the charge was reduced in exchange for a plea of guilty to the lesser charge. He was also charged with possession of a sawed-off shotgun, which was treated as a separate count in the case.

Asked by Judge Peterson if he had anything to say before sentencing, Gores said he could not explain how or why the act happened and that he "...didn't think I was capable of doing a thing like that."

He was also sentenced to pay a $1,000 fine as part of the plea bargaining arrangement. Gores told the judge he had saved the money for the fine but asked that he not have to pay it until his release from prison since it would leave his family penniless. The judge ordered the fine paid forthwith.

Judge Peterson also advised Gores that he was "most fortunate indeed" that the crime for which he was being punished was not more serious. "You came within a very small distance, not by your own design, of being tried for the crime of murder," he said.

Also appearing in district court the same day, David Davidson of Thief River Falls was sentenced on a charge of theft under $100 to pay a fine of $500, serve 90 days in the county jail under the Huber law and make restitution of $500 to the party from whom property was stolen. The charge had been reduced in a previous appearance from a charge of theft over $100 to the lesser charge.

David Elroy McBride of Middle River was sentenced on a charge of aggravated criminal damage to property. He had appeared in court June 6 and entered a plea of guilty and a pre-sentence investigation had been ordered. Judge Peterson sentenced him to make restitution of $2,050 and stayed imposition of a five-year prison sentence upon meeting probation restric-

Pennington Co. Day Camp Days Are Announced

Pennington county 4-H day camp will be held in two locations this year. August 7 to 10 it will be held at the Sportsmen's club park located three miles north of Thief River Falls; August 14 to 17 it will be held in the park in Goodridge.

Day camp is open to anyone who has been or will be in grades 3 to 5. Various activities are planned including canoeing, nature study, craft, group games and more. Youngsters need not be 4-H members to attend.

To register or for more information contact the county extension office at 681-2116.

Library Book Sale Scheduled On Crazy Days

Friends of the Library will sponsor a book sale to be held in conjunction with the Thief River Falls Crazy Days, Thursday, August 2. Hours of the sale will be from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in front of Northern state bank at LaBree avenue and Third street.

Items to be sold include a wide variety of books and magazines which have either been withdrawn from the library's collection or donated to the library.

SPECIAL VISITORS in Thief River Falls Saturday were Gov. Al Quie (left) and U.S. Congressman Arlan Stangeland. The men participated in an early evening gathering at Hartz park and attended the Miss Thief River Falls pageant that evening.

NCC Will Begin Classes Sept. 11

Northland community college will begin its 1979-80 academic year on Tuesday, September 11 with the beginning of fall quarter classes. Indications are that enrollment will be higher than a year ago because of the increase in freshmen enrollment.

Because of the anticipated increase in freshmen enrollment, students planning to attend Northland are encouraged to enroll as soon as possible to avoid class scheduling and housing problems. Military veterans who would like information regarding educational benefits that are available are requested to contact Dennis Bendickson, registrar.

On Monday, September 10, Northland will conduct freshmen orientation under the direction of Ken Wiebolt, dean of students. The orientation will be held in the college auditorium beginning at 8:30 a.m. with information presented about college life, such as activities, financial aids, insurance, housing and food services, counseling, graduation requirements, grading system, class attendance, bookstore and parking.

Freshmen orientation will close with a picnic in the college patio area beginning at 6 p.m. After the picnic, freshmen students are invited to attend a free movie at the Galaxy Theatre.

Northland's fall quarter daytime schedule will include 59 course offerings, in art, biology, business, chemistry, computer science, economics, English, geography, health, history, journalism, law enforcement, mathematics, music, physical education, physics, political science, psychology, public service, sociology, speech, science and theatre.

The evening college credit schedule includes 14 classes with courses in art, business, English, law enforcement, music, physical education, computer science, public service, sociology, psychology and speech.

Community service non-credit classes are tentatively scheduled to begin the week of September 24 with a complete schedule to be announced at a later date.

Anyone desiring information about enrolling or classes may contact Northland community college at 681-2181.

Ringbo School Reunion Held

Former pupils and teachers from the Ringbo school district 58 in Holt township of Marshall county met July 15 at the old fire hall and adjoining park in Holt for a reunion and pot-luck lunch. Approximately 150 people attended the event. Ringbo school closed in 1956 when it was consolidated with Newfolden.

Afternoon program included singing of "America" by the audience; pledge of allegiance to the flag; roll call of teachers with responses given by Mrs. Lillian Thompson, Elll Tuura, Margaret Davis Frislie, Emma Swenson, Nellie Swenson, Helen Davidson and Mrs. Norman Voldness; history of old Ringbo written by Gunder Sorter in 1952 was read by Mrs. Helen Davidson; and piano medley by Stacy Davidson.

Prizes were awarded to Pete Sorter, 89, oldest former pupil in attendance at the reunion; Emma Swenson, oldest teacher present; Hazel Sostad Baldwin, Imperial Beach, Calif., traveling the greatest distance; Sidney Engstrom, 75, Holt, oldest bachelor; and Gloria Swenson Miska, Warren, youngest mother present among former Ringbo students.

Also on the program was a reading by Oliver Grondahl, 86, "My Get-up Is Gone," musical selections by Evelyn Sagstuen Beito; old-time piano music by Mrs. Kathy Erickson; reading entitled "End of a Perfect Day" by Hazel Christenson; and accordion music by Lewis Swenson.

In addition to a large number of people from Holt, Thief River Falls, Middle River, Strathcona and other neighboring communities, the following from out-of-town attended the reunion:

Mr. and Mrs. John Sop and John Anderson, Ranier; Mrs. Nora Stensrud, International Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilcox, Maple Grove; Hazel Baldwin, Imperial Beach, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Kenny

Annual Times' Vacation Dates Are Announced

Annual Times' vacation period to be observed August 5-12 will result in a change of schedule for publication and the discontinuance of two issues.

The issue of Monday, August 6, will be published on Saturday, August 4. Advanced deadline for that issue is necessary and cooperation of advertising and news sources will be appreciated.

No papers will be published on Wednesday, August 8, nor Monday, August 13. The next issue following the August 6 issue will be published on Wednesday, August 15.

As in prior years the Times has adopted the vacation closing period to provide all staff members with an uninterrupted week of vacation time. News and advertising sources are requested to bear the closing dates in mind when planning their copy for that period. The August 6 issue, to be printed August 4, will be the last issue published before August 15.

Crazy Days Set For Thurs. In TRFalls

Annual crazy days promotion is scheduled for Thursday, August 2, in Thief River Falls. Local retailers will be open until 9 p.m. with sidewalk specials and reduced prices on various merchandise. Special events will include a costume contest, auction sales and children's activities.

All retail business association (RBA) member organizations and their employees are eligible to compete in the costume contest. Prizes will be awarded to eight individuals and one store with the top prize set at $40, second at $30, third, $25, fourth $15 and four fifth places, $5 each. Winning store will get $20 in prize money. Those businesses who will have participants from their stores should call the chamber office at 681-3720 before August 1 and report the number of entrants. To be eligible for the store prize, a business must have at least 75 per cent of its employees in costume.

Two auction sales will be held this year by KTRF-DOSN on at the Falls Mall and the other at the Pizza Hut.

In conjunction with Crazy Days games are planned for children at 4 p.m. in the central business district. Seventy-five dollars in prizes will be given out to winners in three age groups: five and under, six to eight, and nine to 12 year olds. The Jaycee-run program will include an egg toss, balloon toss, etc.

Two one-hour children's programs are also scheduled for Thursday by the Northwest regional library. Movies will be shown in the city auditorium at 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. giving parents time to shop while their children are under supervision. In addition, free roller skating is being offered from 1 to 4 p.m. at the city sports arena.

The RBA and local chamber are requesting that all business and professional people and downtown employees ride their bike or walk to work Thursday to allow extra parking for crazy days shoppers. Free bike parking will be available on the north side of the Rusty Nail, at the back of First Northwestern bank, at the back of Ekeren Drug and in the front of J.C. Penney's auto center. Persons who live too far out to bike or walk are encouraged to park in the residential area and walk from there to work.

City To Inspect All Wood Piles

In an effort to prevent the spread of Dutch Elm disease to Thief River Falls shade trees, the local park and recreation department will be undertaking an inspection of all woodpiles looking for the presence of elm wood.

Residents who have elm wood in their woodpile must have the bark removed. Failure to remove the bark will result in convixcation of the elm wood by the city with related costs assessed back against property owners.

For further information about the upcoming inspection program call 681-2519.

Jane Olson Wins Miss TRF Title At Queen Pageant

Jane Olson, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Olson of rural Thief River Falls, wears the crown and title of Miss Thief River Falls following her coronation Saturday evening at the Miss Thief River Falls pageant in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Miss Olson won the overall title despite having all individual division titles held by other contestants. Ruth Ferber of Thief River Falls won the talent competition, Suzanne Fournier of Red Lake Falls captured the evening gown division, Aliza Novacek of Greenbush was judged winner of the swimsuit competition and Brenda Ohlhauser of Thief River Falls was named winner of the personal interview division. Cindy Poissant was selected by the contestants as Miss Congeniality.

Ruth Ferber was first runner-up in the event with Cindy Poissant as second runner-up, Suzanne Fournier as third runner-up and Brenda Ohlhauser as fourth runner-up. Other contestants were Julie Burrell, Middle River; Patti Hanson, Warren; Anita Hanson, Oklee; Valerie Prestegaard and Kim Blaeser, Thief River Falls.

Julie Schelling, Miss Thief River Falls of 1978, crowned her successor and a special guest appearance was made by Debra Nerby, Miss Minnesota.

The pageant was one of the opening events of the 35th annual Jaycee Aquacade which continues this week.

A SHORT RIDE followed by a long fall was the fate of this young contestant Sunday afternoon when the North Country Appaloosa club held its regional horse show in Thief River Falls. Stephanie Clow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Clow, was approaching the first barrel during the youth stumps (barrels) competition when she lost her balance and tumbled off the left side of her horse. The horse put on the brakes and waited for Stephanie to pick herself up but the youngster declined a second attempt offered by the ring announcer. For photos of other events at the show, see Wednesday's edition of the Times.

The treasure hunt for prizes of $50 and $100 is also underway and the first clues have been given. Treasure hunters are reminded that the treasures are hidden on public property and that no property need be distrubed in order to find them.

Treasure Hunt Clues

(1) Where there was one there are two — $50 and $100;

(2) Luck is your greatest asset;

(3) To search is to find;

(4) The smiling face in the west won't help you one bit; and

(5) Public ground is a good clue.

Additional clues will be given daily on KTRF radio and will be summarized in Wednesday's edition of the Times. Treasure finders must wear an Aquacade booster button when turning in their find to the KTRF station.

Aquacade water fights will be held on Thursday beginning at 7 p.m. with both male and female teams encouraged to enter. Teams will consist of four members and single elimination matches will be held to determine the winners. Entry fee is $10 per team plus an Aquacade button for each team member. Cash prizes will be awarded for first, second and third places, based

Local Residents Attend Open House For Robert Leens

Several from this area attended the 25th wedding anniversary celebration held on Sunday, July 22, at the Assemblies of God Church at Williams for Rev. and Mrs. Robert G. Leen, formerly of Thief River Falls.

Among the 200 relatives and friends attending were: Rev. and Mrs. James Hagemeister, Mr. and Mrs. Iver Lunde, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Paulson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Akin, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. John Flom, Mr. and Mrs. David Sheridan, Rae Lynn Sheridan, Mrs. Norman Jorgenson, Mrs. Evelyn Lindberg, Mrs. Rose Fluke, Mrs. Nora Doucette, Mrs. Sophie Sundby and Ronald LeBlanc, all of Thief River Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Strandquist and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hagenbeck of Newfolden.

The program included a history of the Leens. Robert Leen, a native of Mizpah, was graduated from Northome high school. A year later, he enlisted in the U.S. Air Force and his last year of service was spent in Fairbanks, Alaska. There he met Louise Harland, who was born and raised in the Washington and Burlington, Iowa area. In her senior year in high school, she moved to California with her family. Following graduation, she attended Bethany Bible school and later went to Alaska to work in a children's home. After Leen's discharge from service, they were married in 1954 at Red Bluff, Calif. That fall, he enrolled at Bethany Bible college. Since graduating, he has served parishes at Jackson, Calif.; Pillager, Moose Lake, Thief River Falls and Williams, where they have resided for the past five years.

The Leens have three children: Carol, 23, Philip 13, and Arnie 11. They were present, together with Mrs. Leen's mother, Mrs. Cecile Harland, Auburn, Calif., and Mrs. Leen's niece, Mrs. Robin Oster of Wirt. Also in attendance were parishoners from Pillager and Moose Lake.

Following the reception at the church, an open house was held at Leens' new home.

Activities Vary At Oakland Park Nursing Home

Activities at Oakland Park nursing home during the month of June included an ice cream social, an appreciation tea, church services, movies, birthday parties, memorial services and Saturday dinners.

The ice cream social was held in conjunction with a morning coffee hour with the residents walking or being wheeled outdoors for the event. The tea was given by the residents for the staff in appreciation for their extra kindness and consideration. In charge were members of the residents council. Olava Sollom, a resident, served the punch. Coffee was served by Mrs. Elba Collins.

Other special events were a happy-hour with wine and cheese served while recorded old-time music was played in the background; and an animal day with activities director Judy Mosloff and her son, Larry, showing his pet rabbits, ducks and chicks. Movies shown during the month were "Potlatch Country," "Animals of Africa," "No Room for Wilderness," "Northwest to Alaska," and "Dinosaurs".

The monthly birthday party was hosted by members of the Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance Union with McDonald's providing the fruit juice. Residents noting birthdays in June and the date of their birth, were Lena Iverson, June 9, 1980; Lilly Lee, June 15, 1987; Roy Adams, June 17, 1883; Emma Copp, June 19, 1892 and Olive Stenson, June 26, 1904.

Residents hosting Sunday dinners were Adell Berge with her husband A.F. Berge as guest; Sandra Roen with her daughters Helen Knutson of Grygla and Joyce Montgomery of Grand Forks, N.D., as guests; Henry and Bertha Grondahl with their sons-in-law and daughters: Mr. and Mrs. Don McMillin, Roseau, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Roen of Grygla and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Larson of Gatzke as guests; and Mrs. Mildred Ofstedahl with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Hanson, rural Thief River Falls, as guests.

Devotional programs and church services during the month were given by the Martha circle of Trinity Lutheran church, who also served lunch; Rev. Duane Aipperspach of the Nazareth Lutheran church of Holt, Rev. Leon Rausch of St. Bernard's Catholic church; Martha unit of Redeemer Lutheran church, who served angel food cake; Rev. Keough Patnode of St. Francis Xavier Catholic church of Oklee, the Women's Missionary society of the Evengelical Free church with Gladys Vedum incharge of the program and serving fancy breads; Rev. Duaine Espeseth, pastor of Faith Lutheran Brethren church; and Rev. J. Hovland of Trinity, who was in charge of the communion service.

Memorial services were held June 20 for Frank Lystad with Rev. Jonathan Law, pastor of the United Methodist church, in charge. Similar services were held June 26 for Ida Hanson with several members of her family present. Rev. Earl Eveland of the Newfolden Evangelical Free church was in charge of that service. Music was provided by Mrs. Myhrer and Mr. Bjorgaard of Newfolden.

On June 27, Laura Beito, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.A. Beito, Marcie and Michele Turenne, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Turenne, presented a Norwegian song and dance program for the residents. The girls had recently returned from Norwegian Language camp. Also presenting a program for the residents were members of the Star 4-H club of Goodridge with leader LeeAnn Holen in charge.

Also of interest was the monthly bowling game against the Valley Home team, who was victorious. Members of the Oakland Park team were Ray Welch, Andrew Hendrickson and Emma Copp with Bea Erickson as cheer leader. The game was played at Valley Home.

Others visiting at Oakland Park during the month were the Cosmo girls, who cut and styled hair, and the members of the Eagles Auxiliary and the American Legion auxiliary, who assisted the residents in playing bingo and served popcorn and juice, following the games.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Hannah Halvorson rural Viking

Buns
(Makes about 130 buns)

4 envelopes dry yeast
3 cups water
3 cups milk
1 heaping cup shortening, not melted
2 cups sugar
5 teaspoons salt
5 large eggs, beaten
Flour, enough for easy handling of dough

Method: Soak yeast for 10 minutes in lukewarm water to which ⅓ cup additional sugar has been added. Scald milk with sugar and cool. When lukewarm combine the yeast and milk mixtures. Add flour to make a medium stiff batter. Place shortening to one side of the dough and beat until dough is smooth. Add salt and well-beaten eggs. Add enough flour to handle. Knead well. Let rest about 15 to 20 minutes. Knead well again. Cover and set aside to raise until double in size. Knead again. Let raise and shape into buns, dip into butter or margarine, and place in pans or cookie sheets, far enough apart to allow for expansion. Press down flat and let raise until nice and fluffy. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. These buns freeze well.

Mrs. Hannah Halvorson lives in rural Viking with her son, George. Although she is a senior citizen (78 years old) she does her won housework, and gardening, which includes tending the flowers and raising the vegetables. When her children were at home, she did a great deal of sewing. Now, during her spare time, she crochets and reads. She also enjoys visiting her children, eight sons and two daughters, her 33 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

She has been a member of Zion Lutheran church, Viking, for many years. She is still active in the ladies aid and circles.

Gas Situation Appears Stable Through July

Most of the state's gasoline stations will have adequate supplies through the end of July without the strict curtailment of hours that marked the end of June, according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA).

"Hours have tightened a bit in the outstate areas, while metropolitan gas stations have lengthened their hours slightly, and reopened on Sundays," said Diane Nelsen, spokeswoman for the Minnesota AAA.

"I think all our stations will make it through the month," said Ken Wingard, executive secretary of the Minnesota independent ratailers association. Brian Ettesvold, executive director of the Minnesota service station association, said that a few of their stations may run out but that most "should be in fairly good shape through the end of the month."

Price increases slowed considerably this past week, following average increases of two cents per gallon the previous week. Prices were up nine-tenths of a cent at full-service stations and three-tenths of a cent at self-service pumps.

"In a few isolated cases, however, prices did increase drastically — the highest price recorded this week was $1.11.8 for unleaded," said Nelsen.

Currently, the average price per gallon at full-service stations is 94.8 cents for regular; 99.2 cents for premium, 98.9 cents for unleaded, $1.01.7 for unleaded premium and 90.9 cents for diesel fuel.

At self-service stations, the average price per gallon is 93 cents for regular, 98 cents for premium, 96.9 for unleaded and $1.01.3 for unleaded premium.

This week's survey of midwest states also showed adequate supplies of fuel and increases in the number of stations open Sundays.

As of July 20, national AAA reported that long lines at gas pumps had virtually disappeared, and that more service stations were remaining open on weekends and at night.

Minnesota AAA asks all motorists to help conserve fuel by altering their driving habits. To learn how to make 5 gallons do the work of 6, send for AAA's free "Gas Watchers' Guide." Contact your local AAA or write: Minnesota AAA, Public Relations Department, 7 Travelers Trail, Burnsville, MN 55337.

Bachand Wins Red Lake 4-H Dress Revue

Crowned queen of the senior division of the Red Lake county 4-H club dress revue recently at the Red Lake county fair was Michele Bachand, 16, who made and modeled a two-piece outfit (jacket and slacks) of wool blend.

Michele also won the championship in clothing construction and placed third and fourth with two other entries.

Court of honor among the 13 girls participating in the dress revue included Miss Bachand as queen, Jenny Schirrick, reserve champion; Julie Konickson, third; Mary Grenier, fourth; and LeRae Franklund, fifth.

Following Miss Bachand's championship in clothing construction was Julie Konickson.

Jill Hanson was junior division princess with Michelle Sevigny as reserve champion, Shannon Olson, third; Krista Hoffman, fourth; and Mary Bachand, fifth.

Clothing construction was also won by Hanson with Sevigny as reserve champion. Miss Bachand was third and Kim Baird fourth.

HISTORICAL GIFT was made to the Pennington county historical society recently by Local 1078 of the United Transportation union in Thief River Falls. Given to the society for its historical museum were the records and charter of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen local in this city. The charter was issued in 1906 and record books date back to 1915. Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen was merged with several other railroad unions in 1969 into the United Transportation union. Presentation of the records and charger were made at informal ceremonies held at the Pennington Pioneer Village site. Left to right on the photo are David Fimrite, first vice chairman of the UTU local; Elmer Bergland, Minneapolis, state director of the UTU; Bob Storhaug, chairman of Local 1078 committee of adjustment; Bob Reed, president of Local 1078; Bob Vaughn, Waterloo, Ia., field supervisor for the UTU; Inga Geving, president of the historical society; and Jerry Jenkins, secretary-treasurer of the local.

Nearly Half Of State's Trucks Used Personally

The census bureau' truck inventory and use survey, conducted every five years as part of the census of transportation, shows that in 1977 some 45 per cent of the 623,200 private and commercial trucks licensed in Minnesota were used primarily for personal transportation.

Data from the survey is issued as a series of state reports. The report with Minnesota's data, just issued by the bureau, also shows 28 per cent of the state's trucks were involved in agricultural activities.

Other data concerning the state's trucks in 1977 which appear in the report are:

+ 80 per cent of the total were pickup, panel, walk-in and multistop trucks, compared with 66 per cent in 1972;

+ 11 per cent were platform trucks compared with 21 per cent five years earlier;

+ Light (10,000 pounds or less) trucks averaged about 9,600 miles per vehicle; and

+ Heavy (more than 26,000 pounds) trucks averaged about 24,000 miles per vehicle.

Other statistics included in the report show the number of trucks and truck miles by year model, vehicle size, gross vehicle weight, range of operation, type of fuel used and miles per gallon.

The report, "Truck Inventory and Use Survey: Minnesota," (TC 77-T-24) is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Price is 35 cents per copy. Order forms for this series of reports may be obtained from Subscriber Services (Publications), Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233.

Demonstration Plots Meeting Planned Tues.

Area crop producers are encouraged to attend the varietal demonstration plot twilight meeting to be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The demonstration plots sponsored jointly by the Pennington county agricultural extension service and the Pennington county crop improvement association are located on land owned and operated by Clyde Christensen and Sons approximately four miles east of Thief River Falls on highway 1.

The plots include 27 varieties of small grain, 11 varieties of sunflowers and 11 varieties of field corn. "They are in excellent condition and will provide grain producers with some very useful information on performance of different varieties in this area," states Terry Courneya, Pennington county extension director.

Also included this year in the demonstration is experimental work on wild oats and pigeon grass in wheat.

Corn, Soybeans State's Major Cash Crops

Corn and soybeans are Minnesota's biggest cash crops, according to Carroll Rock, statistician in charge of the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service.

The service, a division of USDA's economics, statistics, and cooperatives service, will keep an ongoing watch on '79 corn and soybean yields for the state's farmers using specially-trained field enumerators. Farmers subscribing to the service's free reports are kept up-to-date on the latest developments.

The enumerators' job is to stake out 210 sample fields of corn and 120 of soybeans across the state. The fields belong to a randomly-selected group of Minnesota farmers whose voluntary participation is the lifeblood of the survey.

The enumerator walks a specified number of rows and paces into the field and stakes out a small portion of the field. He might end up in a good spot or a bad spot. However all the fields balance out to a representative state yield.

The enumerators watch the maturity stage and count, measure, and weigh the crop. USDA's yield projections, then, are "objective" because they're based on the enumerators' actual counts and measurements. Multiply this average yield times the total acres for harvest and the potential '79 corn and soybean production starts taking shape.

Enumerators keep visiting the plots right up till harvest. Farmers are kept informed of changes in forecasted yields and possible outcome of the crop before it's harvested.

"This is useful information to have when harvesting starts and decisions have to be made on whether to sell or store," said Rock. "The reports help take the speculation out of farm production and strengthen the farmers' position in today's markets."

MSU Sponsors Cheerleader Camp In August

Week-long cheerleader camp conducted by the All Star cheerleader conference of Kansas City is scheduled August 6 to 10 at Moorhead State University.

Varsity cheerleaders from colleges and universities throughout the country will direct the camp, aimed at girls in junior high school through college.

Student cheerleaders have the choice of either living in the university residence halls during the week or commuting. In either case, meals on campus can be arranged.

Instruction will cover cheer techniques, gymnastics, chants and pompon routines. There'll also be seminars on rules, fund-raising, uniforms and spirit rallies.

For more information contact Dave Holsen at the Moorhead State scheduling office, 236-2661. This is the fifth year that Moorhead State has hosted the ASCC regional cheerleader camp.

California leads the nation's Vietnam-era veteran population with 990,000, followed by New York, 610,000; Texas, 507,000; Pennsylvania, 493,000; and Ohio, 466,000. The Golden State also leads the nation in total veteran population with 3.3 million. New York, again, is second with 2.6 million residents who once served in the military.

Gatzke Group Wins Marshall Fair Contest

"Back Behind the Barn Boys", a vocal quartet from Gatzke comprised of Terry Ruud, Randy Larson, Gene Lunsetter and Tom Bernstein, won first place in the talent contest at the Marshall county fair in Warren last week.

As first place winners the group collected $200 in prize money and earned a trip to the Minnesota fair where they will compete in the statewide talent contest. The group, which also competed at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls, sang "Poor Man Lazarus" and "You're the One".

Ruth Ferber of Thief River Falls won the second place award of $100 with a vocal solo entitled "God Game the Song". She was accompanied by Bill Saetre.

IRS Eliminates Tax List Rule For Preparers

Federal income tax return preparers in Minnesota will no longer have to file an annual list of their employees, the Internal Revenue service announced recently.

The next Form 5717, "Annual List of Income Tax Return Preparers," would have been due on July 31, 1979.

A section of the income tax regulations, which requires the annual filing of Form 5717, will be changed so that the information previously reported on the form need only be retained for IRS inspection upon request.

Self-employed income tax return preparers, who also were required to file Form 5717 for themselves, no longer need to do so. As a result of this change, penalties assessed against tax return preparers for failure to file the 1978 Form 5717 will be abated. Penalties already paid will be refunded automatically.

1979 Awards Publication To List Tom Wang

Tom Wang of Thief River Falls was among the men selected for inclusion in the 1979 edition of the awards publication of the Outstanding Young Men of America program. Purpose of the program, which is endorsed by the United States Jaycees is to recognize the achievements and abilities of men between the ages of 21 and 36.

The men are selected on the basis of their voluntary service to the community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business advancement, cultural accomplishments and civic and political participation.

Wang, who is employed as an accountant at Northwestern hospital, is a past president of the local Jaycees organization. He has served as district and regional director for the Minnesota Jaycees and at the 1979 state convention was awarded a presidential bronze key for outstanding service as a regional director during 1978. Tom currently serves as publicity chairman for the local chapter of which he has been a member since 1973.

Collecting Of Stamps To Be Hobby Topic

Stamp collecting will be the topic discussed at the fourth hobby hour sponsored by the Northwest regional library. It will be held in the library on Thursday from 2 to 3 p.m.

Eddie Kraemer, one of Thief River Falls' avid stamp collectors, will introduce the topic and discuss with the group the different types of collections and how to get started. He will also display parts of his collection.

Hobby hours are free and open to anyone over eight years of age.

Prenevost To Head Red Lake Welfare Board

Neil Prenevost was elected chairman of the Red Lake county welfare board at its annual reorganizational meeting recently in Red Lake Falls. Cecelia Nelson was named vice chairman and Russell Huotari secretary.

Other board members are Donna Pahlen, Irving Beyer, A. Donald Gagner and Orrin Linder. Officers also hold the same positions on the Hillcrest nursing home board.

RLF Accident Claims Life Of Carnival Man

Daniel Lee Stanley, 27, son of William B. Stanley, owner of the Stanley shows, was killed Saturday, when the semi-trailer truck belonging to the company overturned. Injured in the same accident was Stephen Caswill, 24 of Cottage Grove.

The men were transporting heavy ride equipment from the Roseau fair. While attempting to negotiate a sharp curve, on Minnesota highway 32, the vehicle rolled over once and struck two empty parked cars.

The Benson funeral home, St. Cloud is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Minor Injuries In Crash Off Airport Road

Reportedly minor injuries were received by several occupants of a car which went off the roadway at the "T" intersection of CSAH 17 and CSAH 3 east of St. Hilaire about 9:43 a.m. Sunday.

The car driven by Harold Gearou, 52, of Hillsboro, N.D., was traveling south on CSAH 17 (airport road) when it crossed CSAH 3 and went into the ditch. Front end of the vehicle was damaged.

Passengers William Bister, 71 and Inez Bister of New Hope complained of chest pains and Bonnie Gearou, 46, Hillsboro, suffered a sore left hand and arm. Harold Gearou reportedly received a bumped and swollen lip.

Elect 2 New Directors At Co-op Meeting

Elected to the board of directors at the annual meeting of the Farmers Union Oil company held July 12 in Thief River Falls were Vernon Rogalla and George Panek, both of Goodridge.

Annual audit report showed sales of $3,191,697, an increase of $599,096 over last year's. Local net savings for the year were $104,392.46 as compared to $71,881.87 a year ago. Patronage refunds in the amount of $94,105.33 were received from Cenex for total savings for the year of $198,497.79 in comparison to $181,814.43 last year.

Assets of the company now total $1,695,341.54. The coop also returned $756,381.97 in cash stock retirement over the past year.

Dog Obedience Classes Will Begin Aug. 1

Dog obedience classes for beginners and advanced beginners are being planned under the sponsorship of the Tri-County Humane Society and the Pennington county extension office. First of the series of 10 classes will be held Wednesday, August 1, at 7 p.m. in the Thief River Falls sports arena. Cost for the course is $15 for adults and $7 for children.

For the first class those in the beginner group need not bring their dogs. Advanced beginners, however, are asked to bring their animals. Participants must also furnish a current certificate of inoculation.

U of M Scientist Studies Teardrops

by Paul Schurke
'U' M News Service

William Frey makes people cry. Mind you, he's not a bully. He and his colleagues are doing it in the name of science.

"We are trying to find out why people cry. If we determine that, it may help us understand the biochemical basis of emotions," Frey said. And that, he hopes, could lead to better treatment of people with emotional instabilities.

Tears have long been viewed by poets, songwriters and lovers with a certain amount of reverence. But, surprisingly few people have speculated about the scientific basis of "psychogenic lacrimation."

Among the few who have were medieval physiologists who thought tears were the body's way of excreting bad "humors," fluids thought to cause melancholy moods. But since that time, their status among scientists has declined.

Charles Darwin dismissed them as having no purpose, and fellow anthropoligist Ashley Montague suggested they simply serve to keep the throat and nasal passages moist since the short rapid breaths that accompany sobbing tend to dry them out.

Frey, a biochemist who splits his research time between the University of Minnesota and St. Paul-Ramsey hospital, and his colleagues have their own theory that, in some ways, reverts back to that of the medieval physiologists. "It may be that emotional stress has some chemical correlates in the body, such as increased levels of a particular hormone or some such substance," he said. "We believe crying is an excretory process, involved in removing toxic materials from the body. After all, Frey asks, don't people often say they feel better after a good cry?

With grant money provided by St. Paul-Ramsey's Medical Education and Research Foundation, Frey and his colleagues set out last year to gather tears, and found that getting people to hold test tubes to their eyes while they are sad isn't easy. They coaxed their subjects into carrying the tubes with them as they read their favorite tearjerker novels and watched sad movies. The researchers have now begun searching among the few tears they have collected for hormones and neurotransmitters, things like epinephrine, dopamines and catacolamines.

The search for these substances in body fluids isn't new. Since recent major scientific breakthroughs linked these substances with emotions, researchers have spent thousands of dollars isolating them in the blood and urine and trying to determine their relation to various mental conditions.

But those efforts haven't been entirely productive; Frey thinks the researchers may have been looking in the wrong place.

"All kinds of chemicals are dumped by the body into the blood and urine," he said. "It is difficult to isolate those that are emotionally induced." But tears, on the other hand, are a direct physical response to emotions. "My looking at them I think we have a better chance of finding something out."

Frey needs more tears and has taken to the streets to find them. In current newspaper ads he is seeking people willing to watch "Sundays and Cybele" ("a very sad and very good foreign film," he promises) with test tubes in hand. After watching the film, the subjects will be asked to complete a questionnaire about their feelings during the movie.

As in any scientific experiment, Frey also needs a "control" group — people to test whose tears are not emotionally induced — from which to make comparisons in his search for neurotransmitters. To induce these tears, nothing works better than an onion. Volunteers will be exposed to onions at a later session. For their efforts, volunteers will receive $10 and, Frey hopes, two good cries.

Frey's project is not without its problems. "One is that it has been difficult coming up with movies that people think are really sad," he said. Even "Brian's Song," a true tearjerker used by Frey in early trials, wasn't entirely successful in inducing tears.

But that may be related to a second problem which, Frey says, is that "it's hard to cry in a test tube. We do our best to tell people not to force their tears, but sometimes they are so busy worrying about them they just can't cry."

Funds Restored For Programs Under SCS

"Unlike many of our government programs which have been accused of throwing taxpayers' money to the winds or down the drain, soil and conservation service (SCS) programs are designed to stop one of our nation's most essential natural resources — our land — from blowing away in the wind and to prevent it from going down a drain. I give them my full support," Senator Rudy Boschwitz said recently.

Boschwitz was explaining why he co-sponsored an amendment to restore full funding for SCS programs, a measure which passed handily in the Senate by voice vote.

The measure reinstated $18 million in funding that had been cut in a bill passed to the Senate floor by the appropriations committee. It raises to $272,043,000, the total amount budgeted for SCS in fiscal year 1980.

Commented Boschwitz, "This amendment reflects the intent of the Senate agriculture committee whose members, including me, had earlier decided that the full amount is needed in order for SCS to carry out the full range of conservation programs.

"The money represents an essential investment in our nation's future productivity," he continued. "Right now, Minnesota is losing eight to 12 tons of top soil per acre every year on its unprotected land. That unprotected land amounts to almost half our total farm acreage.

"We've already noticed a substantial reduction in crop yields because of erosion. If we expect to reverse this trend and ensure continued high production, we have to invest in conservation."

"While I'm among the first to seek a slowdown in the growth rate of government spending, I must emphasize that we can't afford to harm programs that are essential for our nation's future economy," Boschwitz said.

"And, certainly, the preservation of our land — a natural resource as valuable as oil or gold — must be given top priority among our many agriculture department programs."

Health Clinic At Newfolden

Bloodpressure and foot care clinic will be held on Thursday, August 9, at the Newfolden senior meals center from 1 to 2 p.m. for the Newfolden residents of all ages. Nurses from the Marshall-Kittson county nursing service will be taking the blood pressures and giving foot care. There will be a charge of $1.00 for each individual having his or her blood pressure checked and an additional $1.00 charge for foot care.

Mink Ranchers Raise 447,000 Mink In 1978

The 447,000 mink pelts produced in Minnesota in 1978 gained 19 per cent from 1977, according to the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service. By color class, pastel claimed 31.0 per cent of the total 1978 production, standard 30.7 per cent, demi-buff 22.3 per cent and others 16.0. Mink females bred to produce kits in 1979 at 122,;;; increased five per cent from 116,000 a year ago. Of the total females bred in 1979, standard accounted for 56.7 per cent, pastel 25.2 per cent, pearl 5.1 per cent and the remaining color classes 13.0 per cent.

There were 141 milk ranches producing pelts in 1978, a nine per cent gain from the 129 ranches in 1977.

At 3.35 million pelts, 1978 output in the United States was up nine per cent from 1977. Wisconsin, the major mink state, produced one million pelts, eight per cent more than the 928,000 a year ago. By color class, standard claimed 34.8 per cent of 1978 production, demi-buff 20.6 per cent, pastel 23.2 per cent, pearl 5.6 per cent, violet 5.6 per cent, and the remainig color classes accounted for 10.2 per cent.

Mink pelts sold during the 1978 crop year were valued at $131.5 million, compared with $87.1 million during 1977. The average price per pelt for the 1978 crop year was $39.30 compared with $28.30 in 1977.

The 963,000 mink females bred to produce kits in 1979 were up four per cent from the 925,000 the previous year. Standard bred females at 528,000 rose 15 per cent while pastels at 205,000 were down 14 per cent. Females bred in the leading mink states and per cent changes from 1978 are: Wisconsin 268,000, up one per cent, and Utah 141,000, up nine per cent.

Of the total females bred to produce kits in 1979, standard claimed 54.8 per cent of all color classes, pastel 21.3 per cent, pearl 6.2 per cent, violet 5.9 per cent, with the remaining color classes accounting for 11.8 per cent.

There were 1,083 mink ranches producing pelts in 1978, up four per cent from a year ago. Wisconsin's 259 ranches were up two per cent while Utah, with 187 ranches, was up one per cent.

Energy Crisis, Or What?

Following editorial is from the Baudette Region:

It is easy to get caught up in terminology, the flippant phraseology that takes a large, complex situation and boils it down to a few words.

That condensation of a complicated situation into a two, three or four word catch phrase at times seems to give a person a "handle" for the situation, something that reduces it to the level of understandability.

At times, though, that catch phrase can totally mislead most of the people who generate it and use it.

Currently, the most popular catch phrase is energy crisis. It's one that our President appears to take special delight in using, and one sees it many times daily in newspapers and on television.

Yet that phrase, by its general all-inclusiveness, is as misleading as it can be. One must assume from it that this nation, nay — this world, is suffering from a shortage in energy sources that threaten to cripple the world's economy.

Actually, nothing could be farther from the truth.

There is no question that our country is suffering from a petroleum shortage of crisis proportions. The long lines at filling stations, the projected shortfall of heating oil for this winter and downturn in national individual travel patterns bear this out daily.

But petroleum is just one form of hydrocarbon energy available. There are many others, including coal and peat, that are readily available.

Ten days ago, President Carter addressed the nation on the national energy (?) crisis. His speech concentrated on development of expensive synthetic fuels to replace the world's dwindling supplies of crude oil.

It's a great idea. Should the nation become self supporting in the energy field, we have only to worry about dwindling reserves in copper, aluminum, titanium and borax from there.

But, somehow, the President and most of his Washington cohorts have managed to totally ignore one infinitely renewable, easily produced, and inexpensive form of energy that could, at least partially, replace petroleum.

No one seems to be thinking about alcohol, at least as a primary fuel.

Gasohol, a mixture of ten per cent alcohol and 90 per cent gasoline, has been the one commercial use of alcohol that has to date been put forth by our nation's energy planners. That combination, though, still uses huge amounts of scarce petroleum.

But Germany ran much of its economy on almost pure alcohol during World War II. Alcohol has been used in other applications to completely replace petroleum, as well. Alcohol isn't as efficient as gasoline. Until now, it hasn't been as cheap. It burns at a lower temperature.

On the other hand, alcohol's main pollutant is pure water. It is easily produced — in fact, every farm in the nation could be turned into an alcohol producer tomorrow. With modern technology, the costs are beginning to appear much lower than $20 per barrel petroleum.

Alcohol has one big disadvantage, so far as the major energy conglomerates are concerned. It doesn't take a huge investment to produce. A still can be easily and cheaply built.

It may be that when the government, through its specification process, can get the cost of production facilities for alcohol up into the millions of dollars so that only major companies can afford them, you will hear more about this readily available source of fuel.

Some Points Forgotten . . .

Following editorial is from the Milbank (S.D.) Herald Advance:

We are supporters of President Carter (we believe many of the candidates who might oppose him are worse), but we would like to add some items to his energy speech of Sunday night. Had we been President Carter, we would have also said:

Point 1: I have a speech planned at Kansas City tomorrow (in 12 hours), but instead, I am going to stay in the White House and deliver that speech by closed-circuit television to save energy.

Point 2: I will never take weekends or holidays at Camp David — I will set an example for the American people and stay in the White House to conserve fuel.

Point 3: I will contribute to the nation's freedom by eliminating 95½ per cent of the federal bureaucracy.

Point 4: I will give you people a break by balancing the federal budget and thereby reduce inflation and unemployment. I will not allow cabinet departments to have "birthday" parties like the Department of Health, Education and Welfare where it spent $108,678 of your money to celebrate its 25th anniversary.

Point 5: I will try to convince people that this is not a contrived shortage of energy by oil companies — President Nixon was right in 1973 when he invoked the 55 mph speed limit which most people, including the trucking interests, salesmen and others who depend directly on travel, chose to ignore with CB radios, fuzz busters, etc.

Point 6: I will urge Congress to rescind its massive salary increases, pension benefits, travel, postage, supplies, personnel allowances, etc., etc., to set an example for the American people that "your government is trying to curb waste, save energy and fight inflation."

Point 7: This government that was of the people, by the people and for the people has nearly perished from this earth — the name of the game is buy votes, rule by bureaucracy, sacrifice other people's money, and spend, spend, spend! Can you turn it around?

Preventive Audits

Following editorial is from the Duluth News-Tribune:

There's some constructive, and encouraging, nitpicking.

Minnesota Legislative Auditor Eldon Stoehr has just completed an audit of former Gov. Rudy Perpich's administration, which existed for a year and a half.

Stoehr's audit found that some employees of that administration had been reimbursed improperly for meals, that some charged long distance personal phone calls to the state, and that they had been overpaid for accrued vacation time.

But the net cost to the state has been negligible, and most of the inappropriate charges have been reimbursed by the former state employees who made them.

Stoehr said four employees during Perpich's brief administration had charged meals to the state which had already been paid for out of the governor's personal expense account. The governor himself also made some unauthorized meal charges, but he and the other employees have either made reimbursements to the state or have been requested to do so.

Four employees were overpaid for vacation time, three of them accumulating the time during service under former Gov. Wendell Anderson. The total cost of these overcharges was $1,454.

Auditors found that several state employees had charged personal telephone calls to the state. Total cost: only $108, and the employees have been asked to repay the state for these inappropriate charges.

Obviously, there isn't anything scandalous in this report. The misuse of public funds is minor both in quality and quantity. It's easy enough to mischarge a meal if you are in the habit of frequently eating on a public meal ticket, and it's understandable that some personal employee phone calls would end up being billed to the state — the surprise is that the amount is so small.

As for the overpay for vacation time, three of the employees involved were coming off the Anderson administration, and the fourth employee's extra pay resulted from an accounting error.

Thus, Stoehr's audit may be considered as much ado about nothing. It seems that the total amount of public money misused by employees of the Perpich administration was less than $2,000. We may guess that the audit itself probably cost the public more than the amount of financial abuse the audit uncovered.

But if there was so little abuse of the public trust under the Perpich administration, we may assume this fortuitous discovery is partially the result of Stoehr's auditing practice. Legislative audits of the activities of the Anderson administration uncovered a number of abuses of the public trust. That earlier audit may have served as an example to the Perpich administration and as a warning that public money had to be better accounted for.

These audits need not be considered valuable, then, only when they discover a number of fat little hands in the cookie jar. Rather, these audits may be viewed as valuable as well if they simply serve as a deterrent to those hands going into the cookie jar in the first place. It appears that under the Perpich administration, the cookie jar was not abused. Stoehr and his office should continue their auditing practices, not necessarily to find abuses of public trust, but to prevent them.

National Guard In State Gets Commander

Major General James S. O'Brien, commander of approximately 75 per cent of Minnesota's army guard troops, as well as guard units from Iowa, Illinois and New Mexico, ended his 40 year military career in mid-July, turning command of 47th "Viking" infantry division over to his successor.

A teenaged Jim O'Brien walked into the Stillwater national guard armory in the fall of 1939, more than two years before the attach on Pearl Harbor, and enlisted in the guard. This week, after four decases of military service, Maj. Gen. O'Brien — risen through the ranks from private to the highest rank attainable in the guard — stepped through those same portals of the Stillwater armory to ceremoniously pass the colors of the 47th division to his successor.

While hundreds watched, Maj. Gen. O'Brien handed the Viking division's colors to Maj. Gen Robert G. Walker, Golden Valley. The special ceremony symbolically commits the new commander to uphold the honor and traditions of the division.

Maj. Gen. O'Brien, a lifetime Stillwater resident, served on extended active duty during World War II, earning campaign ribbons in the european theater. Again called to active duty for the Korean war, O'Brien served in the war zone with an engineer battalion.

Between his tours of wartime service, he attended St. Thomas college, grauduating in 1949 with a BA degree. His military education included more than 10 major courses, some requiring monghs of full-time training, from infantry officers, candidate school in 1944 through more recent general-grade officer schools. In order to be qualified for promotion, he had to attain the same levels of education and experience as active army generals.

Maj. Gen. O'Brien held numerous assorted command and staff positions in the Minnesota guard, taking command of the 47th "Viking" division in 1976. As commander of the division, he controlled the 12,000 strong guard formation, one of only eight such divisions in the entire army national guard.

In civilian life, O'Brien is vice president of a furniture store and funeral home in Stillwater. He and his wife, Marjoie, have five children — four sons and one daughter.

"Overnight At The Mansion" Categories Set

Special eligibility categories for overnight visits to the governor's mansion have been announced by Gretchen Quie. Seven Minnesota citizens will be invited to spend a night in the Summit avenue governor's residence August 16 and September 24. Persons who fit the eligibility categories and would like to visit the governor's house are asked to send a post card to Gretchen Quie and from the responses received the 14 names of persons to be invited for a visit will be drawn.

Four eligibility categories for the August 16 overnight are: (1) a person who milks goats and their spouse, (2) a body and fender man with hat size 7¼ and his wife, (3) a girl named Gretchen and her grandmother, and (4) a single, blue-eyed retailer from Ramsey county. Post cards for this overnight must arrive by Wednesday, August 1.

Categories for the September 24 overnight are: (1) a single 4-H club member from south of Minnesota highway 7 with a hog project, (2) two brothers who recently moved to Minnesota from Wisconsin, Iowa, North or South Dakota, (3) an antique dealer over the age of 50 and his or her spouse and (4) a person from north of Minneapolis who gave up smoking at least six months ago and his or her spouse. Post cards for the second overnight must arrive by September 10.

Persons chosen in the drawings will be invited to join the governor and his wife for dinner, entertainment, an early morning breakfast and a tour of the state capitol.

Post card responses should bear the participant's name, address, phone number and category and should be sent to: Gretchen Quie, "An Overnight at the Governor's Mansion", 1006 Summit Ave., St. Paul, MN 55105. For further information contact the volunteer project chairman, Sue Dahl, at (612) 938-4779.

Minnesota To Receive More WIC Funds

Minnesota will receive $175,537 of the $8.6 million in additional funds being made available to 42 states to operate the special supplemental food program for women, infants and children (WIC), announced Monroe Woods, Midwest regional administrator of the USDA's food and nutrition service. This is the second and last reallocation to be made in fiscal year 1979.

Reallocations were started in February 1977 to make WIC benefits more widely available. Unspent funds are recovered and redistributed to state agencies with high WIC expenditure levels. Funds for this reallocation came from recovery of monies unspent in the second quarter of fiscal year 1979. To receive additional funds, a state agency must have spent at least 90 per cent of its WIC money alloted for May 1979.

Minnesota department of health, which administers the WIC program in the state, spent $718,091 in May, an amount 3.7 per cent over its $692,193 allocation. Participants numbered 23,450, with an average monthly cost of $30.62 per participant. Nationwide, there are currently over 1.3 million women, infants and children participating in the program — 500,000 more than in February 1977.

The WIC program serves pregnant and breast-feeding women, and infants and children up to five years. To be eligible, applicants must be at "nutritional risk" because of poor or inadequate nutrition and low income. Participants get monthly food packages of infant formula of milk, cereal, eggs, cheese and juice.

'79 Lamb Crop Down Again For 9th Year

Minnesota's 1979 lamb crop of 198,000 declined one per cent from the previous year, marking the ninth consecutive year of decline, according to the Minnesota crop and livestok reporting service.

The state's lambing percentage (lambs saved per 100 ewes one year old and older on January 1) of 124 is one point below last year and equal to the 1977 percentage which is second highest on record. Breeding ewes at least one year old remained at the previous year's level of 160,000.

Minnesota's 1979 shorn wool production of 1,842,000 pounds is also one per cent below last year. While the average fleece weight of 7.2 pounds is 0.4 pounds below last year, the number of sheep and lambs shorn gained five per cent to 256,000 head.

The 1979 United States lamb crop of 8.02 million head is the same as 1978 but seven per cent below 1977.

On Jan. 1, 1979 the inventory of breeding ewes one year old and older totaled 8.24 million head, three per cent less than a year earlier. Ewe lambs under one year on Jan. 1, 1979 totaled 1.67 million head, up 12 per cent from a year ago.

The 1979 lambing rate (lambs born in the native states, and lambs docked or branded in western states) per 100 ewes one year old and older on hand Jan. 1 was 97 compared with 94 in 1978 and 97 in 1977.

Wool shorn and to be shorn in the United States during 1979 at 100 million pounds, grease basis, is one per cent less than 1978 and six per cent below 1977. Sheep and lambs shorn and to be shorn are estimated at 12.6 million head, the same as last year. The average fleece weight for 1979 at 7.99 pounds compared with 8.08 pounds in both 1978 and 1977.

Boost Aids Under School Milk Program

Schools and child care institutions will receive increased payments for milk served under the special milk program, assistant secretary of agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman said recently. The new rate is in effect from July 1, 1979 to June 30, 1980.

Foreman said the rate of reimbursement has been increased from 6.75 cents to 7.75 cents per half-pint of milk served to children. Schools and institutions that elect to provide free milk will continue to be reimbursed the full cost of each half pint without charge to needy children.

The increase is based on changes in the producer price index for fresh processed milk during the period May 1978 to May 1979.

Spengler Rises Among Ranks of Ag Instructors

Verne Spengler of Thief River Falls, instructor in the farm management program of the area vocational technical institute, was elected vice president of the Minnesota vocational agriculture instructors association by the 440 teachers in attendance at the annual convention recently in St. Paul.

Charles Davis of Princeton was installed as president and other officers are from Rochester, Lewiston, Granite Falls and Milaca. Gov. Al Quie was a convention speaker and he stressed the importance of vocational agriculture and adult farm management to the state of Minnesota and its impact on agriculture in the United States.

Spengler had been serving as secretary of the state association.

Plans To Build Ethanol Plant Are Announced

Agri Energy, Inc., of Crookston has announced plans to build a large new plant employing advanced technology for the manufacture of synthetic fuels, according to Edward J. Wilkinson, chief executive officer of the company.

The plant will produce anhydrous ethanol for blending into gasohol, a fuel for automobiles. The product is to be manufactured from waste or distressed agricultural products including cull potatoes and potato processing wastes, molasses from the sugar beet industry and damaged grain.

In addition to fuel, the plant will produce high protein animal feed and will include an advanced design confined cattle feeding operation. Production will include 20 million gallons of synthetic fuel and 22,000 cattle annually. Fuel for the plant will include recovered methane gas, waste paper and coal.

The plant will be the first constructed employing a new "agri energy industry" concept including an integrated design linking agriculture with production of energy and converting renewable biomass resources produced from solar energy into clean burning domestically produced synthetic fuels. Plant nutrient materials recovered in the process will be recycled to the surrounding farm land for reuse.

The $68 million plant will meet all environmental standards and will bring significant employment to the area near Crookston. Construction is scheduled to begin in 1979 with completion in 1981, Wilkinson said. Engineering procurement and construction management of the plant is being provided by Vulcan Cincinnati, Inc., Cincinnati, OH. Plant financing, in an advanced state, is being established by Noble Securities, Minneapolis. Colorado school of mines research institute, an independent non-profit study group specializing in energy utilization, was engaged to assist Touche Ross and company, international accounting firm, in verification of the economics and technical aspects of the project.

Public Lands Maps Available For This Area

Maps for eight more areas showing the location of public lands and federal mineral rights in northern Minnesota are available for sale to the public from the bureau of land management (BLM), Lake states office, manager, Jerome Heinz, announced today.

"These are in addition to four other Minnesota maps which are released in May," Heinz said. The maps are produced as a result of a bureau-wide program to map areas of mineral interests.

"The initial four maps covered the areas around Baudette, Ely, Grygla, and Two Harbors while the eight new maps cover the Roseau, upper Red lake, Crane lake, Vermilion lake, Hibbing, Basswood lake, Saganaga lake, and Grand Marais areas," he said. The remaining Minnesota maps will be printed and made available for sale within the next year. Ultimately, maps will also be printed covering northern Wisconsin and western upper Michigan.

The maps are published in a two-edition series. "The "Surface Management" edition uses a color code to show private, county, state, and federally owned land, by agency in most cases. "The Surface-Minerals Management" edition shows the extent of federally owned mineral rights overprinted on the surface edition. Of the eight new maps, all except Basswood lake are available in this two-edition series. For the Basswood lake area, only the surface-minerals management edition is available.

Available in standard quandrangle editions, the maps are being published at the scale 1:100,000 (one centimeter equals one kilometer). Each map covers an area approximately 34 by 60 miles. In addition, section lines are indicated and a mileage scale is included.

The maps are being done in metric scale to more close match the scale and format used in the U.D. geological survey base maps.

Copies of the maps may be obtained for $2 each ($4 per set i.e., one copy of surface management edition and one copy of surface-minerals management edition for each area except Basswood Lake) from the BLM, Lake States Office, 125 Federal Building, Duluth, Minnesota 55802 or the BLM, Eastern States Office, 350 South Pickett Street, Alexandria, Virginia 22304. Payment may be made by check or money order payable to the bureau of land management.

Grant Awarded For Study Of Juvenile Court

Minnesota supreme court has received a two-year, $75,000 grant from the northwest area foundation to study the state's juvenile justice system, especially the juvenile courts.

The grant, when supplemented by funds to be raised, will support the work of the juvenile justice study commission, a group of citizens, lawyers, legislators and professors appointed by the court and under the direction of Richard Clendenen, director of the university of Minnesota's office of delinquency control.

The commission will collect information and make recommendations on questions such as when juveniles should be tried in the adult courts, whether "status offenses," such as truancy and running away, should be treated as juvenile offenses, if juveniles should have more rights to due process, whether there should be guidelines for sentences and treatment programs mandated by the juvenile courts, and what kinds of juveniles are now receiving treatment in the juvenile courts and at what cost.

Prairie Public TV Will Air N.D. All-Stars

Prairie Public Television will videotape the 1979 North Dakota high school all-star basketball game Thurs., Aug. 2, and broadcast the game Sat., Aug. 4, at 8 p.m. on KGFE-2-Grand Forks in this area.

The 1979 North Dakota high school basketball all-star game is the third annual game sponsored by the Gateway Lions Club of Fargo. The game will be played in the North Dakota State University fieldhouse at 8 p.m.

The contest features an all-star squad from North Dakota's Class A schools and an all-star squad from North Dakota's Class B schools. Lance Wolf, coach of last year's Class A champs, the Wahpeton Wops, will handle coaching duties for the Class A all-stars. Coaching the Class B all-stars is Gene Leer, coach of the Sargent Central Cadets, the 1979 Class B champs.

The Class B all-stars won the first all-star contest two years ago. The Class A team came back to win last year's game in overtime.

Prairie Public Television's Boyd Christenson will be in the broadcast booth handling the play-by-play. Carl Wall, former coach of the Fargo North Spartans, will join Christenson to handle the color commentary.

TRISHA KRUSE of Thief River Falls received a grand champion ribbon for her entry in the open class handiwork division at Pennington county fair last week. Trisha's entry was a macrame Christmas tree.

Scott Oen Is Honor Student

Scott Oen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Oen of Thief River Falls, was named to the President's list for the spring session at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks. He obtained this honor by achieving a 4.0 in accounting while maintaining a 12 credit minimum.

Scott's name was inadvertently left off the UND spring honor listing.

SCHOOL DISTRICT 564 TENTATIVE 1979-80 BUS ROUTES

School District No. 564, Thief River Falls, is proposing the following TENTATIVE Bus Routes for the 1979-80 school year. The district feels these are necessary to comply with budget needs, conserve energy, and operate efficiently. Public meetings for anyone interested will be held at St. Hilaire Elementary School at 7:30 P.M. on July 31, 1979; and Franklin Middle School at 7:30 P.M. August 2, 1979.

TRF, Crookston Sidelined

One of the disappointments of the 1979 American Legion baseball season was that long-time athletic rivals Crookston and Thief River Falls met just once this summer. An expected second meeting in the Northwest League Sub District tournament finals never materialized as East Grand Forks and Roseau pulled off a couple of surprises in Saturday's semifinals. East Grand Forks, beaten by Crookston 14-0 earlier this year, stunned the regular season Northwest League champions 5-4 in a 16-inning struggle that required four-hours, 40-minutes to complete. Roseau then stopped Thief River Falls 2-0.

We mentioned here at the start of the season that Roseau was a Northwest League contender. But like most observers, we felt Crookston would reign as regular season and playoff champion. Thief River Falls, based on two regular season wins over Roseau, was given the post-season edge when those two were paired in the semifinals.

Thief River Falls finished the year 11-4. Two of those losses came in a July 7-8 invitational tournament appearance at Crookston when the hosts won a 4-1 semifinal decision and Bemidji followed with a 5-1 victory in the third place game.

A 10-1, 3-1 regular season-ending Thief River Falls doubleheader sweep avenged that tournament loss to Bemidji. But Thief River Falls and Crookston never got together after a scheduled game at Crookston was twice postponed by rain. Using that invitational tournament game as a Northwest League-counting contest, Crookston won the pennant.

First-year Thief River Falls coach Terry Sullivan said he wasn't disappointed with the team's 1979 showing. "It was pretty good on the whole," he said. "The kids had a pretty good time, and that's the main thing."

With the Lincoln high school baseball program put of the shelf for next year, Sullivan hopes to expand the American Legion program, getting an earlier start and taking on such noted area powers as Moorhead, Fargo and Grand Forks.

Sullivan hopes to carry a bigger roster next summer, perhaps bolstered by some additions from the fine Thief River Falls team that is currently participating in the 13-15-year-old state Babe Ruth baseball tournament at Maple Lake.

Slow Pitch District Tournament

Those Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association teams fighting for standings positions entering the final week of the 1979 regular season schedule are also battling for post-season District 7 tournament berths at Crookston.

The 1979 District 7 Class B men's slow pitch softball tournament will be played at Crookston August 10-12. Eight Thief River Falls teams will participate in that event — the top six Division I finishers, along with the Division IV winner and Phase II, a late league entry this summer, out of Division III.

A week later, August 17-19, Crookston will serve as host to the 1979 District 7 Class C tournament which will include five Thief River Falls entries — the top three finishers in Division II, the champion in Division III and the runner-up in Division IV.

Miscellaneous

+ Staples edged Bemidji 3-2 in nine innings in the first round of Sub District American Legion baseball playoffs in the Sixth District. The game was scoreless through eight innings. Bemidji, once 13-5, finished 14-10.

+ Among the 15 new members recently selected to join the charter inductees in the Bemidji State University athletic hall of fame are Les Drechsel, Crookston; Dick Lawrence, Eveleth; Irv St. John, Duluth; and Norm Wagner, Fisher. The new hall of famers are all former athletic personnel from the BSU sports scene in the late 1940's or early 1950's.

STUMBLING AS HE neared home plate, Coca-Cola base runner Tom Drury was tagged out by North Star Transport catcher Bruce Johnson as umpire Nick Drees looked on in the second inning of Friday's Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league game. A match-up of the league's top two teams produced an 8-5 win for Coca-Cola.

Fast Pitch First Place Game Is Won By Coke 8-5

Coca-Cola assumed the role of undisputed leader in the Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league Friday with an 8-5 victory over North Star Transport. The two teams were virtual co-leaders going into the contest with one loss apiece, although Coca-Cola had the edge in the victory column.

Melvies completed the week with a 6-0 shutout against Radio Shack in Friday's doubleheader nightcap. Action Realty blanked Dallmann Athletic, Inc. 3-0 Thursday and Coca-Cola handled Melvies 12-3 Wednesday.

In the battle of league leaders, Coca-Cola went into Friday's game against North Star Transport with league-leading team batting figure that included a .314 batting average and 14 home runs. North Star Transport won the home run derby, but Coca-Cola continued to collect the base hits en route to an 8-5 triumph.

North Star Transport opened the scoring in the bottom of the first inning on Tom Neibauer's two-run home run.

Coca-Cola took a 3-2 lead the next inning on doubles by Tom Goddard and Paul Walker, a throwing error and Tom Drury's run-scoring single.

The Coca-Cola lead went to 4-2 in the third, but Kevin Sethre's two-run home run in the fourth tied the game 4-4.

Coca-Cola drilled four hits, highlighted by Tony Johnson's three-run home run, in the fifth inning for an 8-4 advantage and North Star Transport responded only with Bruce Johnson's solo home run on a 3-1 pitch in the sixth.

Melvies struck for four first inning runs as the game's first five batters all singled. A Radio Shack error and wild pitch also contributed to the Melvies outburst.

Meanwhile, pitcher Tom Shetler was shutting off the Radio Shack hitters as he retired the first ten batters he faced before Bob Lundbohm's fourth inning single. A double play erased the runner.

Mark DuCahmp set down nine Melvies batters in a row before Keith Charbonneau's two-out single in the sixth. Melvies then scored two runs in the top of the seventh on a walk, an error, a fielder's choice, a ground, out and Del Ray Beito's two-run single that raised his league-leading RBI total to 13.

Shetler gave up only a single in the sixth and a double in the seventh — both with two out — on his way to his second shutout in three wins this summer.

Action Realty pitcher Al Erickson won his 20th game of the year (league play and tournament action combined) in a two-hit, 11 strike out 3-0 victory over Dallmann Athletic, Inc.

Only run Erickson needed crossed the plate in the bottom of the first when Brad Kosel singled to center, stole second, went to third on Wayne Smith's fly ball to center and scored on an error on the play.

Action Realty scored again in the second on Tim Barris' RBI single and added another run in the sixth on a double by Mark Thorstad and a single by Erickson.

Only Dallmann Athletic, Inc. hits were collected by Terry Sullivan in the second inning and Randy Dallmann who beat out an infield single in the fourth.

Roger Cota continued his offensive assault against Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league pitchers Thursday as Coca-Cola burst Melvies' one-game bubble 12-3. Cota went 3-for-4, hit two home runs, drove in four runs and scored three times in making sure last place Melvies didn't repeat a 10-3 shocker over previously unbeaten North Star Transport earlier in the week.

Coca-Cola opened the scoring in the first inning as Cota laced a single to center and Wayne Gutterud reached base on an error. After two were out, Tom Goddard smashed the first pitch he saw over the left field fence for a three-run home run.

Melvies cut the gap to 3-1 in the bottom of the second on Darwin Nelson's first home run of the year and then tied the game 3-3 in the third when Doug Martell walked, Del Ray Beito doubled and Ric Kofstad singled.

A five-run Coca-Cola sixth inning, which started with a long Paul Walker home run, ended the drama.

Cota, who homered in the sixth and again in four-run seventh, raised his league-leading batting average to .533. The game also pushed his league-leading hit total and runs scored total to 16 and 15, respectively.

Merchants Win, Elks Lose In State Playoffs

Thief River Falls baseball teams participating in Babe Ruth state tournaments had contrasting first round results. The Thief River Falls Merchants, playing in the 13-year-old prep Babe Ruth tournament, opened with a 5-3 triumph over host Cottage Grove Saturday. The Thief River Falls Elks, playing in the 13-15-year-old Babe Ruth tournament at Maple Lake, lost to East St. Paul 15-3 Sunday.

Both 12-team double elimination tournaments resume today (Monday). At Cottage Grove, the Thief River Falls Merchants take on West Richfield at 6 p.m. They'll play again Tuesday — at 3 p.m. if they lose today and at 6 p.m. if they win today. At Maple Lake, the Thief River Falls Elks face Prior Lake at 6 tonight.

Merchants

A four-run first inning, done without the benefit of a base hit, carried the Thief River Falls Merchants to a 5-3 victory over Cottage Grove.

After a game-opening out, the Merchants' Bob Huot, Tim Bottem, Dave Stimac and Gary Cornell drew consecutive first inning walks. An error and a fielder's choice then helped the Thief River Falls cause.

Out-hit 7-6, Thief River Falls got out of jams in the sixth and seventh inning thanks to key defensive plays by Stimac at shortstop. With runners on second and third in the sixth, Stimac raced far into foul territory to make a fine inning-ending catch. Runners were in the same position again in the bottom of the seventh when Stimac went to his left to reach a hard-hit ground ball to end the game.

Scott Johnston was the game's winning pitcher.

"The kids played well," reported Thief River Falls coach Paul Williams. "They're tickled pink that they won."

The Thief River Falls Merchants own a 16-5-1 record.

Elks

East St. Paul combined 14 base hits with seven Thief River Falls errors to beat the Elks 15-3.

The winners scored four runs in both the third and sixth innings while holding Thief River Falls scoreless until the seventh.

Greg Harder was the game's losing pitcher. His offensive support provided only four base hits, with East St. Paul committing five errors.

Coached in state tournament play by Bruce Williams, the Elks are now 23-9 for the year.

Eliminate TRF, Crookston

Roseau, EGF Stage Upsets

Roseau and East Grand Forks will be surprise entries in the 1979 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament this week at New York Mills after both pulled off upsets Saturday in the Northwest League Sub District tournament semifinals at Roseau.

East Grand Forks pulled off a real shocker in outlasting regular season Northwest League pennant winner Crookston 5-4 in a 16-inning marathon. Then Roseau, beaten twice during the regular season by Northwest League runner-up Thief River Falls, turned the tables in taking a 2-0 post-season triumph.

Roseau was an easy 7-1 winner over East Grand Forks in Sunday's finals, but both teams, by virtue of their semifinal victories, will move on to the state tournament-qualifying Ninth District tournament at New York Mills. The eight-team double-elimination event is scheduled to be played Thursday through Saturday.

Thief River Falls, finishing the season with an 11-4 record under first-year coach Terry Sullivan, received a typically outstanding pitching performance from Scott Sabo Saturday against Roseau as the lefthander struck out 15 and gave up only two base hits.

But Thief River Falls batters collected just three hits off Roseau righthander Mark Huglen who struck out 12 in his shutout effort.

Only scoring was done in the sixth inning when Aaron Broten led off with a walk and was joined on the base path by Lonnie Vatnsdal whose fielder's choice ground ball was turned into an error. Both runners moved up a base on a passed ball and both scored on a one-out suicide squeeze, bunt near the third base foul line by Joe Magnusson who was thrown out at first base on the play.

"We didn't get any timely hits," explained Sullivan who watched Thief River Falls base runners reach third in the second, third and fourth innings.

In the second, Jim Nyland doubled with two out and went to third on a wild pitch. But a pitcher-to-first ground-out by Scott McKeever ended the inning.

Scott Bengston got on base on a fielder's choice in the third, reached second on Jeff Kosel's single and went to third on a ground-out. But the inning ended on Jim Sethre's fly ball to center field.

Then in the fourth, Jeff Ulrich doubled with one out, stole third and was joined on the bases by Nyland who was hit by a pitch. Nyland stole second to put two runners in scoring position with one out. But Huglen retired McKeever on a ground ball back to the mound and struck out Monty Peterson.

The 1979 NHL amateur draft, scheduled to be held August 9 will be limited to six rounds. Any player not drafted after those six rounds may negotiate as a free agent.

THE FIRST inning force play at second base during Friday's Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league game produced controversy when North Star Transport base runner Nick Drees argued that Coca-Cola shortstop Gordy Peterson did not reach the bag with his foot. The umpire said he did. Coca-Cola won the battle of league leaders 8-5.

Slow Pitch Leaders All Carry 1-Game Leads Into Final Week

All four division leaders own one-game leads as the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association heads into the final week of 1979 regular season games.

Rusty Nail Raiders own a one-game lead over the TRF Merchants in Division I, with those two scheduled to fight it out Wednesday. But first the Raiders must overcome Tony Dorn, Inc. tonight (Monday).

First Federal Savings & Loan Association has a one-game edge over the St. Hilaire Bears in Division II. The leaders will be favored to wrap up the pennant Tuesday in a doubleheader against non-contenders Home Lumber and Hamms-Pizza Hut. The Bears, meanwhile, will try to keep pace while facing The Get-A-Way Tuesday and Dallmann Athletic, Inc. Thursday.

Arctic IWA is the Division III leader, but Schumacher's Tireland, Phase II and Consumer's Co-op are all just one game out in the all-important loss column. Key matches this week include Arctic IWA vs. Phase II tonight, Schumacher's Tireland vs. Phase II and Arctic IWA vs. Schumacher's Tireland Thursday.

Wilson Brothers Co., with a one-game advantage over Jean Junction, Rundell Electric, can claim the Division IV crown Tuesday in a doubleheader assignment against the TRF Aggies and Tip & Ring. Jean Junction-Rundell Electric draws the same foes in reverse order that night.

Division I

A pennant race suddenly developed in Division I when Wagon Wheel upset the division-leading Rusty Nail Raiders 5-2 Wednesday.

TRF Merchants became the Raiders' chief threat by beating Furuseth-Nelson, Inc. 6-5 Wednesday and then collecting a key 9-1 triumph over Tony Dorn, Inc. Friday. Don Grabowska hit a two-run first inning home run to start the Merchants off against Tony Dorn, Inc. as the two battled for second place and a shot at first.

Tony Dorn, Inc. kept its faint pennant hopes alive by blanking Furuseth-Nelson, Inc. 11-0 in the second half of a Friday twinbill.

Hobo Haus won three games, taking Wagon Wheel 7-6 and Furuseth-Nelson, Inc. 12-6 Wednesday and adding a Friday victory over Arnold Realty.

Division II

First Federal Savings & Loan Association maintained its Division II lead with a 13-0 pounding of Dallmann Athletic, Inc. Friday.

St. Hilaire Bears stayed close by beating The Get-A-Way 12-4 Wednesday, followed by an 11-3 victory over Hamms-Pizza Hut Friday when the Bears trailed 3-0 with two out in the bottom of the sixth.

Home Lumber edged Bridgeman's 10-9 Wednesday.

Division III

A head-shaking round of Division III games Thursday produced a new division leader, two new pennant contenders, three forfeits and the demise of a franchise.

Consumer's Co-op Association knocked Schumacher's Tireland from the top spot by overcoming a 6-0 deficit with an 11-10 victory in the bottom of the seventh inning when a bases-loaded error at shortstop ruined a strategy session that called for two intentional walks.

Arctic IWA regained the Division III lead by beating First Northwestern Insurance Agency 11-8 behind 3-for-4 performances by Doug Eaju, Jeff Joppru and Don Knutson while adding a forfeit decision over McDonald's.

McDonald's second forfeit of the night and its fourth straight concession, thrust Consumer's Co-op Association into the title picture while prematurely ending the 1979 season for the first-year McDonald's club, a winner just once in 20 scheduled starts.

Phase II joined ranks of contenders with a pair of victories, cooling off a hot First Northwestern Agecy, Inc. on the strength of Brian Peterson's controversial two-run home run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Great Northwest Agency, Inc. collected a 9-8 triumph over The Club whose second game forfeit to Schumacher's Tireland capped the event-filled night.

Division IV

Wilson Brothers Co. broke an 8-8 tie in the bottom of the seventh inning to edge Jean Junction-Rundell Electric 9-8 Friday in a match-up of Division IV co-leaders.

Ed Sabol's third hit of the game led off the bottom of the seventh for the winners. Charlie Boyer reached base on an infield error and Sheldon Idso singled to right field as Wilson Brothers Co. took the season series in the same manner that Jean Junction-Rundell Electric had won the second meeting between the two.

Wilson Brothers Co. jumped out to a 7-9 lead through two innings but trailed when Jean Junction-Rundell Electric exploded for eight third inning runs. It became an 8-8 game in the bottom of the sixth on Gary Moore's RBI single.

Tip & Ring, in position to spoil the pennant hopes of both Wilson Brothers Co. and Jean Junction-Rundell Electric Tuesday, took a Wednesday doubleheader from Kmart 21-1 and the TRF Aggies 13-3.

RLF, Pizza Hut Top Standings In Softball

There are still three weeks of 1979 regular season games remaining, but there are only two legitimate title contenders — unbeaten Red Lake Falls and once-beaten Pizza Hut — in the Thief River Falls women's slow pitch softball league.

Pizza Hut eliminated the one-time pennant contending Ridge Runners from the title chase with a decisive 10-1 triumph Wednesday, improving the winner's record to 14-1. Idle Red Lake Falls is 16-0. An apparent title-deciding clash between those two looms Mon., Aug. 6.

St. Hilaire Saints kept their faith title hopes alive with a doubleheader victory Wednesday, beating the Schmidt Stealers 19-4 and knocking off Great Northwest Agency, Inc. 14-4 behind Kristi Thompson's 3-for-3 performance.

Jo Walseth's game-winning RBI base hit in the bottom of the seventh inning lifted J & B Drug to an 8-7 win over Hydra-Mac-Toreq.

Carol Laugen hit a two-run home run as Roseau Transport handled Rusty Nail 17-4.

Kelly Storhaug tripled as Ekeren Drug edged Falls Clinic 8-7 while the Schmidt Stealers beat First Federal Savings & Loan Association 10-6 and the Farmer's Co-op Stingers drilled Credit Bureau 10-3.

Opportunity For Public Hearing
For S.P. 57-603-14, RS6615 (23)

Pursuant to the provisions of Title 23, United States Code, Section 128, notice is hereby given that the Pennington County Highway Department is affording an opportunity for a Public Hearing to discuss the major design features and the social, economic and environmental effects of the proposed improvement of County State Aid Highway No. 3 between Trunk Highway No. 59 and the Red Lake River 13 miles east of T.H. 59.

The proposed improvement consists of widening the grade.

A Project Development Report which supports a determination that the proposed action will have no significant effect on the quality of the human environment, along with maps, drawings and other pertinent information relating to the project will be available for public inspection and copying at the County Engineer's Office, Courthouse, Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

Any adult person wanting to request a public hearing shall do so by a signed letter addressed to Arvid A. Olson, Pennington County Engineer, Box 491, Thief River Falls, Minnesota 56701. Said letter must be postmarked no later than August 13, 1979.

Notice of Request for Location and Design Approval

Notice is hereby given that the Minnesota Department of Transportation, Division of Field Operations is requesting approval from the Federal Highway Administration of the location and design features for the upgrading of Trunk Highway 32 from St. Hilaire to Thief River Falls in Pennington County.

This proposal calls for the widening of the existing deficient roadway by providing two 12 ft. driving lanes and a 10 ft. bituminous shoulders. Bituminous overlays will be provided in the urban areas of St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls. Additional right of way will be required on each side of the roadway in the rural areas to provide the necessary slope flattening and reconstruction of the ditches for drainage purposes.

The project reports along with other pertinent data is available for public review at the District Headquarters at Bemidji. This project is scheduled for February 21, 1981, letting contingent on available construction dollars.

The best of North Central and Southern combined.

Our people. Experienced people.
Together, as North Central Airlines and Southern Airways, these people have provided millions of flights during the past 30 years. And now these people are together as Republic Airlines.
It's a new name for a new airline. One that's building with new ideas based on solid experience. Being built by people who have made their reputation by delivering efficient, dependable and friendly service.
The folks at Republic are putting up their new name as fast as possible. But changing the name of the airline that serves more U.S. cities than anyone else is no small task.
So, for awhile, you might see some reminders of North Central and Southern.
But the most important change is already complete. The best people in the industry have come together. And they're building your kind of airline.
For reservations, call your travel agent or 681-1223.

Card of Thanks

We would like to use this means of expressing our heartful thanks to the many relatives, friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness and expression of sympathy during our recent bereavement in the loss of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Bertil Ness. Special thanks to Pastor Gene Broughton, Dr. Robert Dicken, the staff of Northwestern hospital, Alice, Julian and Garrold Rodahl and Oscar and Olive Lunke for their immediate aid and comfort. Pastor Broughton for his comforting word, Mrs. Orville Larson, organist; Mrs. Donald Rupprecht, soloist; to all who brought food to the house; those that came or called expressing sympathy; the Esther Circle for serving lunch; all that sent memorials, cards and flowers, and a special thank you to Gordon Peterson and the Green Funeral home for the wonderful service. May God bless you.

In Memory

In loving memory of our dear husband and dad, Emil Hill, who went to be with the Lord two years ago July 30:

He left us with loved ones near and far
And yet how lonesome we are.
There's a place in our heart no one can fill,
So now we wait for that great day that's not far away.
When together again we and our loved ones will always be with God through eternity.
What a wonderful day that will be!

Sadly missed by his wife, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. 1t61p

Card of Thanks

The committee of the Ringbo school reunion held at Holt June 15 wants to thank everybody who brought food, took part in the program, or helped in so many ways to make this such a happy day for all of us. 1t61p

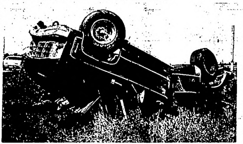
DISBELIEF is registered on the face of Jane Olson as she is crowned Miss Thief River Falls of 1979 at the Jaycee Aquacade pageant Saturday evening in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Julie Schelling, 1978 Miss Thief River Falls, placed the crown on the head of her successor after five finalists were announced from among 11 contestants for the title. Others pictured left to right are Ruth Ferber, First runner-up; Cindy Poissant, second runner-up; and Suzanne Fournier, third runner-up. Not pictured is Brenda Ohlhauser, fourth runner-up.



NO SERIOUS INJURIES resulted from a one-vehicle crash about 2:45 p.m. Thursday on county road 18 north-east of Long's bridge in Thief River Falls. The 1978 four-wheel drive pickup owned by Jack Kjellberg of Thief River Falls and driven by Paul Schroeder, 17, Monticello, was going north on the county road when it left the right side of the roadway, struck a crossing and overturned. The pickup was considered a total loss and extensive damage was also done to a fence which the pickup struck. Stacey Kjellberg, 14, a passenger in the pickup, was treated and released at Northwestern hospital. Schroeder was reportedly uninjured.

SMALL ENTRY in a big parade was this minature car. The little auto was one of many entries in the parade which marked the opening of the 35th annual Jaycee Aquacade. Events will continue throughout the week, ending with a concentration of activities Sunday at LaFave park.

Co. Historical Society Gets $3,000 Grant

Pennington county historical society recently received a $3,000 grant from the Minnesota historical society. The money will be used to build display cases at the Pennington Pioneer Village and to purchase a 35mm camera for the county organization. Inga Geving, president of the county historical society, estimates that the display cases will be completed in 18 months. They will be six feet high cases raised three feet off the floor.

Conservation Farmer Award Winners Named

Winners of the 1979 conservation farmer and farm beautification awards have been announced by the Pennington soil and water conservation district.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Peterson were selected as farm beautification winners and Mr. af Mrs. Clarence O. Swanson were named conservation farm family. They will be presented with awards at the annual meeting of the soil and water conservation district next spring.

More complete stories on the two honored families will be published in the Times later this summer.

Special school board meeting of Goodridge school district 561 will be held Tuesday at 9 p.m. in the Goodridge school. All board members are encouraged to attend.

RRV History Society Sets Annual Meet

Annual meeting of the Red River Falley historical society will be held at 11:30 a.m., August 5 at the state historical park pavillion in Pembina, N.D.

Activities will begin with a family pot luck dinner from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., followed by a keynote address by Dr. Clarence Glasrud, RRVHS research director and professor emeritus of Moorhead state university. Dr. Glasrud will speak on the current RRVHS research project to write a comprehensive history of the Red River valley and on the contributions of the Pembina area to that history.

Musical performances by a Pembina group will follow the keynote address at 2 p.m.

Nominating meetings of valley heritage commissions will precede the election of the new members to the RRVHS board of directors at 2:45 p.m. A regular business meeting will follow the election of the board.

The RRVHS annual meeting is open to the public at no charge, and everyone is welcome.

Further information is available by writing RRVHS, Box 733, Moorhead, MN 56560, or by calling (218) 236-9140.

Purdy Plays Saxophone In All-State Band

Minnesota music educators' all-state band, consisting of 145 high school students representing 96 schools and including Robert Purdy of Thief River Falls, was on the Mankato state university campus July 18-22 for its annual music camp and concert.

Guest conductor, Dr. J. Robert Hanson, directed the band in a concert given Sunday afternoon at the Mankato state university student union ballroom. Dr. Hanson is conductor of the orchestra at Concordia college in Moorhead, conductor of the Fargo-Moorhead symphony orchestra, and was formerly conductor of the Concordia college band. There will be a second performance in Minneapolis next February.

Auditions for the all-state band took place last March in 31 districts in Minnesota. Students were selected for the competition on the basis of a quota from the district in which they auditioned, the instrumentation of the band and their audition score. One student for every six was chosen in each district to meet the necessary quota.

The All-State Band is sponsored by the Minnesota music educators association (MMEA) Purdy plays the alto saxophone.

Meets Slated On Housing For Handicapped

Series of public meetings for handicapped people who have concerns about accessible housing will be held around the stage in August and September. One meeting scheduled in northwestern Minnesota will be at Bemidji Holiday Inn, Highway 2 West in Bemidji on Saturday, August 11, 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

These meetings are being sponsored by Handicap Housing service, Inc., a Twin Cities-based private non-profit organization that advocates accessible housing for the handicapped.

Purpose of the meetings is to hear from handicapped consumers about their needs. No good data exists on the numbers of handicapped people outside of the Twin Cities. It is hoped that these meetings will demonstrate the need for accessible hosting in outstate areas, a spokesman for the organization said.

Participants are requested to bring a bag lunch. People of all ages, handicapped and able-bodied, are invited to attend. For more information, contact Thelma Cabinett, (612) 222-1813, Handicap Housing Service, Inc., 290 Metro Square Bldg., St. Paul, 55101.

Cuppett To Be Guest Speaker At Fellowship

Guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Ekelund church family fellowship of rural Goodridge will be Terri Cuppett of Thief River Falls. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Sunday, August 5. Terri will speak about her blindness and will sing and play her guitar. Lunch will be served following the meeting. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Host Families For Exchange Program Sought

Youth for Understanding, a non-profit international high school student exchange program, is now seeking host families in Minnesota and western Wisconsin for approximately 200 students who will be arriving in August from 25 countries in Europe, South America, the Far East and Australia.

The students would like to learn what it is like to be an American teenager and will live with a family, attending public school and sharing in all facets of American life while teaching about their countries customs and culture. Participating youths are selected by committees in their home countries on the basis of conversational ability in English, good health and good academic performance. Most students will arrive in the United States in late summer and remain for one year.

Primary criterion for a host family is a willingness to welcome and exchange student as a real family member. Youth for Understanding provides cultural orientations and local support. Families offer room and board, and companship. The students will provide their own spending money and will share responsibilities in the host home.

Persons who are interested in hosting a foreign student should contact: Youth For Understanding, 4829 Minnetanka Boulevard, Saint Louis Park, MN 55416, (612) 920-2415.

TIGHT TURN around the barrels in "stumps" racing at the North Country Appaloosa club horse show in Thief River Falls required a little extra body English from Kerry Bushaw of Oslo. The system must have worked as she won the high point trophy Sunday in the division for youths age 13 and younger.

TAKING THE TURN together, horse and rider lean into the maneuver around a barrel during games competition of the North Country Appaloosa club horse show held Saturday and Sunday in Thief River Falls.

Times To Print Issue Saturday

Advanced deadlines are necessary for the Monday, August 6 issue of the Times which will be published on Saturday of this week. The change in publication date is necessitated by closing of the Times office from August 5-12 for an annual vacation period. After the August 6 issue, the next paper will not be published until Wednesday, August 15. There will be no papers published for August 8 or 13.

TRF Aquacade Events Extend Through Sunday

Jaycee Aquacade events continue this week with water fights to be held Thursday at 7 p.m., square dance workshop and dancing planned Saturday and Sunday, tennis and archery tournaments to be held Saturday and Sunday, joggers marathon, barbecue contest and power boat races also set for Sunday.

Four-member teams wishing to participate in the water fights August 2 should contact Dave Jones at 681-6545 evenings. Entry fee is $10 plus an Aquacade button. Single elimination matches will be held to determine the winners with prizes to be awarded for first, second and third places.

"Viking Weekend" square dance workshop will be held in the city auditorium from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday with dancing from 8 to 11 p.m. Square dancing will also be held Sunday from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Caller for the event will be Thor Sigurdson of Emerson, Manitoba.

Tournament director for Saturday and Sunday's tennis tournaments is Keith Breiland. Entry fees are $2 for singles and $3 for doubles teams. Tournament will be held at Northland community college courts.

Archery tournament is also scheduled Saturday and Sunday and will be held at the Thief River Archers range south of the regional airport.

Sunday events will include a joggers marathon which will begin at 11 a.m. Six classes of competition will be available for the six-mile course. Power boat races to be held Sunday afternoon on the river between the 8th St. and 3rd St. bridges will also have six classes of racing. Hot laps and time trials will be held in the late morning and early afternoon with the racing program expected to begin at 1:30 p.m.

Other Sunday events include a barbecue contest and barbecue dinner, children's games and fireworks at dusk.

Appaloosa Club Holds Weekend Horse Show

North Country Appaloosa club horse show held Saturday and Sunday in Thief River Falls attracted a large number of participants. The show is one of 10 shows held during the summer by the club with others at Barnum, Grand Rapids, Bemidji and Hibbing.

Saturday and Sunday events were considered as separate shows by the Appaloosa club and were the fifth and sixth shows held by the club this season. Conformation judging was done during the morning both days with action events held in the afternoon. The show was open to registered Appaloosa horse club entries only.

High point performance horse Saturday was "Miss Dinna Twist", owned by Robert Lewis of Baker. High point trophies went to John Marshell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Marshell Sr. of Grand Forks, N.D., in the youths 13 and younger division and to Kari Dittmer of Fargo, N.D., in the youths 14-18 age group.

Miss Dittmer repeated as high point winner in her division Sunday with Kerry Bushaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bushaw of Oslo, winning in the younger group. High point performance horse Sunday was "Lucky Bar", owned by the Marshells of Grand Forks.

Winners of conformation class judging were as follows with grand and reserve champion animals listed respectively:

Greg And Karen Home To Sing

"GABRIEL," contemporary Christian music group to appear in Thief River Falls August 11 includes former local residents Greg and Karen (Lindquist) Sorenson and Joy Lindquist (right) of Princeton. Also members of the group are four brass instrumentalists, a drummer and lead guitar player.

Now the leaders of a professional contemporary gospel music group, two former Thief River Falls residents will return to their home community on Saturday, August 11, to present a concert in the Lincoln high school auditorium at 8 p.m.

Greg Sorenson and his wife, the former Karen Lindquist, are no strangers to the Lincoln high school stage. They performed in several musicals and presented other entertainment sessions there for several years while attending Lincoln. Their professional group is known as "Gabriel" and presents pop, rock and jazz music to convey its message.

Sorenson, composer-arranger for the group as well as playing keyboard and singing lead vocal, attributes the group's "big band jazz flavorings" to his high school days' exposure to band instructor John Moum.

"Gabriel" consists of Greg at the keyboard, Karen and Joy Lindquist as female singers, four brass instrumentalists, a drummer and bass guitarist. The group has recently completed recording its first album, appeared in Europe during the summer of 1978 and is tentatively scheduled to return in the spring of 1980. The concert here will mark the start of an August series.

The group has appeared in churches, auditoriums, rally halls and supper clubs throughout the United States. At one concert Paul Anderson, billed as the world's strongest man, was guest speaker. Another appearance was at Herald's Christian supper club in Minneapolis, an attempted new concept in dining and entertainment.

Greg and Karen are now school teachers in the Chicago area, Karen in the fourth grade and Greg teaching elementary music. He is also part-time music minister at a suburban Chicago Evangelical Free church.

Sorenson claims that it is the text, not the music, that makes a song secular or sacred and that all performers owe it to their audiences to make the words understandable. Contemporary Christian music is limited only to the style of music that will most effectively convey each specific text.

"A text about a tender moment with a friend would be trampled and squashed and lost in a hard rock presentation," he said. "Likewise, a text about a powerful God

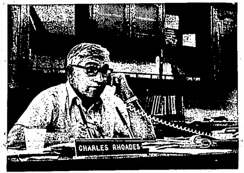
MINNESOTA WHEAT PRODUCERS are finding their markets expanding as a result of activities originating in this large frame building just southeast of Red Lake Falls. The building was constructed by the Minnesota Wheat Growers association which uses a part of the building and leases other offices to the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion council. A portion of the building will also be used for other office rental with such rental projected to pay the building cost. Also included in the building are public meeting rooms for 250 people, kitchen, laundry facilities, restrooms, speaker system, storage room and board meeting room. A deck is being built on the rear of the building overlooking the river and will be used when the wheat growers entertain foreign trade mission groups.

Wheat Producers Join In Market, Research Effort



TELEPHONE SERVICE is a vital part of the communications network established by the Minnesota Wheat Growers association and Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion council during their relatively short periods of existence. Charles Rhoades, executive vice president of the growers association and president of the council, is shown at his desk in the new council offices.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Last year the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion council located at Red Lake Falls had about a million dollars available for research and promotion activities. It spent or committed to spend all but about $60,000 of that amount. In spite of that record, council president Charles D. Rhoades maintains that the organization "has very deep pockets and very short arms".

The claim of frugality in the face of seeming largess is not inconsistent, however, value of a dollar spent can be measured in the return it brings and, as Rhoades quickly points out, the returns are enormous. When returns are good, the more money invested the greater the return.

"When Minnesota wheat growers organized and the wheat council was formed in 1976, Minnesota was exporting only 127 million bushels of spring wheat. After the 1978 crop that figure increased by about 100 million bushels . . . just about double," Rhoades said. "The only impact to cause that change — the only different input into the export situation — was the Minnesota wheat council."

Those are impressive figures. . . and important figures to the wheat producer who finds one cent a bushel deducted from his Minnesota wheat sales to support the wheat council. Most producers seem pleased with what the council has been able to do and continues to develop. Only 10 per cent of the 36,000 wheat producers in Minnesota requested a refund of their check-off last year.

"There are always a few who try to take advantage of a situation," Rhoades said, "like claiming a refund without making a sale or trying to claim a refund more than once. We keep a real tight file on our refunds and we check every claim we receive. I think we have a pretty good handle on it."

Despite the cross-checking effort, the council doesn't fool around with refunds. "Any valid refund claim is paid out of our office within a week," Rhoades boasted. "Once an elevator or ASCS office makes a check-off when grain is sold or placed under government program, we consider the money to be enroute to us. We pay the refund claim promptly. Of course, we hope that more and more producers will realize the value their check-off gives them and allow us to use the money to help them sell their wheat at a profit."

The new wheat growers office complex located southeast of Red Lake Falls is sort of a cross-bred operation. It houses two separate and distinct wheat organizations which work independently but cooperatively on programs which can benefit wheat growers.

The Minnesota Wheat Growers association was formed by wheat farmers concerned about markets and prices for their product. Hard dark northern spring wheat if the highest quality wheat available anywhere but it lacked promotion and market development.

Jorgen Knutson of Red Lake Falls is the president of the Wheat growers association. Fred Kreps of Felton is first vice president, John Ecklund Jr. of Badger is second vice president and David Steuart of Red Lake Falls is secretary-

Treasure Hunt Clues Given

Additional treasure hunt clues have been announced by the Thief River Falls Jaycees as the annual Aquacade treasure hunt continues. Clues announced Monday were published in the Monday edition of the Times.

Clues announced since Monday include the following: "For $50, only north is the right direction"; "For $100, highway 59 has played major roles"; "For $50, Number One will get you very near"; and "For $100, walking will get you very close".

The $50 and $100 treasures are hidden on public property but nothing need be disturbed in order to discover them.

A BUSHEL OF WHEAT FOR A BARREL OF OIL!!

A TIMELY MESSAGE which is intended to indicate a condition rather than influence foreign policy is contained on this button available at the Minnesota Wheat Growers association offices in Red Lake Falls. Displaying the button is Gail Kalbakdalen, bookkeeper for the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion council.

Arctic Begins Safety Effort

"Safety Starts with Me" is the theme for a concentrated safety effort to be initiated Monday at the Arctic Enterprises plant in Thief River Falls as well as other Arctic facilities on Monday.

Brad Powell, director of production personnel at Arctic, said the accident prevention safety campaign is aimed at individuals to help them realize that they hold the key to their own safe performance of their jobs.

"Everyone starts with a clean slate on August 6 at 7 a.m.," Powell said. "The object is for each employee to continue from that date for as long as possible without an accident. Each employee has been designated to the Arctic Safety task force and each is personally responsible to apply safety to his or her own job.

"It is our goal to convince our employees that there is no distinction between doing a job properly and doing it well," Powell said.

Dyrdal-Jacobson Vows Exchanged At Lindstrom

Miss Doreen Patricia Dyrdal and James Allen Jacobson of St. Paul Exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, June 9, at 11 a.m., at St. Bridget of Sweden Catholic church at Lindstrom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Drydal, former Thief River Falls residents who are now residing at Chisago City. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. George Jacobson of Shafer.

Rev. Filiben officiated at the double ring ceremony. Kim Ludolph was the organist and Mrs. David Mix of Chisago City, a friend, sang "There is Love," "Amazing Grace," and "Wedding Benediction."

Baskets of yellow roses graced the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of white organza over satin. The gown was styled with sheer, bouffant cuffed sleeves, a peter Pan lace collar and a chapel-length train. For a total-look, she wore a three-quarter length veil of bridal illusion trimmed with white rose appliques, matching the lace that enhanced her gown. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and green accents with white ribbon streamers.

Jane Jacobson of Shafer, a sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a yellow peasant-styled, floor-length gown and a yellow picture hat, and she carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies, accented with greenery and white ribbon.

Wearing similar attire and carrying identical bouquets were the bridesmaids, Kathy Dyrdal, Thief River Falls, and Suanne Wesphal, Chisago City, cousins of the bride.

Jaquelyn Dyrdal, the bride's five-year-old sister was flower girl. She wore a white floral gown with yellow accents and a white picture hat featuring yellow ribbon. She carried a basket of yellow roses, stephanotis and greenery. Her gold necklace, like those worn by the other attendants, was a gift from the bride.

Best man was Thomas Frasl of Lindstrom, uncle of the bride. Groomsmen were Greg Dyrdal and Tim Lewis of Thief River Falls, cousins of the bride. The rings were carried by the bride's three-year-old brother, Eric. All wore tan or brown suits with yellow rose boutonnieres.

Ushers were Todd Lewis, Thief River Falls, and Ronnie Wesphal of Chisago City, cousins of the bride.

The mother of the bride was attired in a brown qiana street-length dress with gold accessories; and the mother of the groom wore a blue polyester dress. Their identical corsages were of yellow roses.

Guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Frasl of Lindstrom and Mrs. Edith Dyrdal, Thief River Falls, grandparents of the bride; and Hattie Fortier, St. Paul, godmother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a wedding dinner in the church parlors for approximately 175 guests. To correspond with the bride's chosen colors, the dining area was decorated in yellow and white. Highlighting the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with yellow roses and gold wedding bands. Doves and white wedding bells topped the cake, which was cut and served by the bride's godmother. Joan Jacobson Shafer, sister of the groom, poured. At the punch bowl were Kristy Dyrdal, Thief River Falls, and Mary Wesphal, Chisago City, cousins of the bride.

Out-of-town guests were from Nordberg, Norway; Summerset, Wis.; Thief River Falls, Hinkley, Stillwater, Minneapolis, St. Paul, and the Chisago City area.

Following the rehearsal, the evening prior to the wedding, the groom's parents hosted a luncheon at their home for members of the wedding party.

After a wedding trip to Wisconsin and along the North Shore Drive, the couple is now at home at 1471 Wynne avenue, apartment 10, St. Paul, 55108. The bride is a graduate of Chisago Lakes school and is employed at Goodwill Industries in Minneapolis. The groom attended school in the Twin Cities and is employed at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis. Photo, Don Jacobson, Minneapolis

T. Danielsons, E. Grand Forks, Note Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Truman (Bernice) Danielson were honored on their 40th wedding anniversary on Sunday afternoon at an outdoor celebration at their home in rural East Grand Forks.

The event had been arranged by Danielsons' daughters and their husbands: Mr. and Mrs. David Beedy, Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Myerchin, Erskine; and Danielson's sisters: Mr. and Mrs. Percy (Orva) Bridgeford, Bemidji, Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Cora Mae) Hansen, Grand Forks, and Sylvia Franklin, East Grand Forks.

The Danielsons, together with the Bridgefords had dinner in East Grand Forks. Upon their return to their home, they were greeted by a large highway sign, made by the grandchildren, announcing grandma and grandpa's 40th anniversary. Gathered at the home were about 175 relatives and friends. For their convenience chairs and cloth covered tables in assorted sizes were placed on the lawn among the shade trees. The long refreshment tables, decorated in red and white, were centered with two floral arrangements sent by Mrs. Danielson's sister, Mrs. Edward (Thelma) Christensen of St. Paul and her husband, who were unable to attend. Mrs. Christensen was bridesmaid at the wedding 40 years ago.

Host and hostess greeting the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Odell Danielson of East Grand Forks. Sylvia Franklin, presided at the guest book, Mrs. Richard (Marilyn) Greve, Worthington, ladled the punch, and Susan Myerchin distributed the thank-you scrolls.

The pillared three-tiered anniversary cake, baked by Mrs. David Beedy's mother-in-law, Mrs. Dick Beedy of Wood Wake, was cut and served by Mrs. Robert Hansen and Mrs. Ray (Harriet) Gibbons, Hillsboro, N.D. For sentiment, the cake was topped with the same ornament that had graced the Percy Bridgefords' wedding cake and since had been used by many members of the family. Red and white roses completed the cake decorations.

Pouring coffee were Mrs. Bridgeford and Bernice Knutson of Thief River Falls.

Others assisting with the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Phil Helder, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Habedank, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bakke and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Knutson, all of Thief River Falls.

Among the many gifts presented to the couple were an antique green and gold sugar bowl, spoon holder and butter dish from Madelaine Johnson. The set had originally been given by Mrs. Danielson's father, Ben Johnson, to his brother Rasmus, when he was married on June 20, 1892. Special greetings were also received from Olav Danielson of New Jersey.

The couple, Truman Danielson and the former Bernice Johnson, was married in 1939 on New Year's day, which was also the bride's birthday. Rev. Halvor Lie officiated at the ceremony which was held at the Fisher Lutheran parsonage. Their attendants were the bride's sister, Thelma, and Linus Sorenson, who lives at East Grand Forks. He was present at the anniversary celebration.

Since their marriage, the Danielsons have lived on the Danielson home farm in the Bygland area. Danielson recently retired from farming; and Mrs. Danielson is semi-retired from her nursing duties at the Good Samaritan Nursing home in East Grand Forks.

They have three children. In addition to Mrs. David (Marlene) Beedy of this city and Mrs. Dale (Jean) Myerchin of Erskine, another daughter Mrs. Karl (Helen) Randal, resides at Phoenix, Ariz. They also have eight grandchildren. Six of their grandchildren were present for Sunday's event.

Relatives and friends present were from Tucson, Ariz., Thompson, Hillsboro and Grand Forks, N.D., Thief River Falls, Bemidji, Erskine, McIntosh, Fosston, Wood Lake, Worthington, Moorhead, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Minneapolis, Bygland, and Fisher.

For the occasion, Mrs. Danielson wore a print summer dress complemented by a corsage of miniature red roses. Danielson's boutonniere was a white carnation.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Larson spent Wednesday to Friday last week at their trailor at Rocky Point on Lake of the Woods. Wednesday they drove to Baudette where they visited John and Gloria Olson, who are managers of the Coast to Coast Store. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robarge at the KenMarKee Resort out of Baudette. On their way home Friday afternoon they visited Mrs. Esther Kezar in Middle River.

Melvin Saugen was pleasantly surprised when he awoke Saturday morning a week ago to see a camper pickup in his yard. His cousin Swen Kellepy from Williston, N.D. had come for a visit. In the afternoon Swen and Melvin were luncheon guests at the Charles and Wendell Sorenson home in Norden. Mr. Kellepy left Sunday morning.

Guests for supper Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Ethel Moe were Gena and Esther Gunderson and Mrs. Synneva Engelstad all of Rocksbury, Mrs. Goldie Halvorson of Seattle, Wash. and Agnes Tanberg and Mrs. Bernice Vatsaas of Thief River Falls.

The ALCW of the Silver Creek Lutheran church held their regular monthly meeting in the form of a family night picnic Thursday evening at the Larry Gustafson home. A pot luck supper was enjoyed at 6:30. A special feature of the meeting was the ingathering of the talented dollars.

Weekend houseguests at the Lloyd Larson home were their son-in-law and daughter, Roger and Ronda Nelson of Fargo. Saturday evening the Larsons and Nelson visited at the Eugene Kleinwachter home at Strandquist.

Sunday afternoon visitors at the Eldon Moe home were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spenst, Joan and Jean of Red Lake Falls.

Saturday and Sunday visitors at the Raymond Rausch home were her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Walsh of Murdock. Saturday evening Mrs. Rasch and her guests were callers at the home of Mrs. Ethel Moe. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh enjoyed the Farmers Union tour to Washington D.C. last spring and met Mrs. Moe, another member of the tour at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Larson were visitors at the home of Mrs. Johnny Nelson Sunday evening in honor of Mrs. Nelson's birthday, which is July 30. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jay Garthus and Myles, Mr. and Mrs. Don Lunke, Darrell Rodahl, Mrs. Bertil Ness and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Filmore and family.

Friday evening coffee guests at the Larry Gustafson home were Mabel and Eleanor Christofferson of Thief River Falls and their sister, Mrs. Florence Frankenburger of Norfolk, Virginia.

The Silver Creek Lutheran church and the Nazareth Lutheran church congregations had an outdoor service followed with a pot luck dinner at the park in Holt Sunday. A ball game was enjoyed in the afternoon.

Houseguests at the Raymond Rausch home from Tuesday to Thursday, July 17-19 were Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Torgerson and Rebecca Irene of Denver, Colo. Mrs. Rausch took them to Murdock Thursday, where she visited members of her family until Wednesday last week. The Torgersons were called to Aneta, N.D. from Murdock as his father had passed away, the day they left from here.

Zion Lutheran Breaks Ground For Addition

Zion Lutheran church held groundbreaking services last Sunday for its new $400,000 educational addition. Participating in the service were Rev. Richard Larson and Rev. James Mattson; building committee chairman Chuck Richards; congregational president Hal Freeman; and Sunday school and youth representatives Craig Olson and Karyn Richards.

The new addition will contain 10,790 square feet and will provide a ground level entrance and elevator, chapel and overflow seating, lounge, multi-purpose classrooms, youth room and choir rehearsal room. Some remodeling of the present structure is also contemplated.

The project will provide long needed facilities for the congregation's educational and youth programs as well as making the present structure more accessible to the handicapped and elderly. Ranum Construction company of Thief River Falls will be supervising the general construction. The members of the congregation are planning to donate as much volunteer help as possible.

Serving on the building committee for the project are: Chuck Richards, Ken Ose, Jim Feuerstein, Hal Freeman, Cliff Larson, Merle Lindberg, Glenn Peterson, Wally Sparby and Edna Wendel.

This spring a successful fund raising drive was held under the leadership of Al Sollom and Dr. Ed Nelson with $342,000 raised in cash and pledges. The remainder of the project will be financed by Lutheran Brotherhood insurance company of Minneapolis. Completion is set for August of 1980, in time for the 90th anniversary celebration of the congregation.

Plan Family Bible Camp At Lake Bronson

Seventeenth annual family Bible camp of the association of Free Lutheran congregations will be held at the Galilee Bible camp at Lake Bronson. The camp starts Monday, August 6 and runs through Sunday, August 12.

Morning sessions will begin at 9 a.m. with Bible study hour. Rev. Ralph Tjelta of SeKalb will lead the adult sessions and Rev. Larry Haagenson of Sedan, the youth sessions.

There will be discussion periods at 10:05 for adults and teens not participating in the camp choir. At 11:05 a daily mission hour meets with Brazil missionary Priscilla Wold speaking on Tuesday and Wednesday and John Abel sharing through the remaining sessions. Afternoon hours are open for recreation.

Evening sessions begin at 7 p.m. with prayer hour and end in an evening service at 7:45 with Rev. Wesley Langaas of Hampden as the featured speaker. Sunday morning services will be held to conclude the week. "The public is invited to attend any or all sessions of the camp," said Rev. Eugene Enderlein of the Free Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

administering justice to an ungodly people would be weakened, undermined and lost if limited to only a mellow four-part hymnody."

Sorenson adds that contemporary Christian music is slowly but surely proving itself as an effective vehicle for conveying the gospel message.

"In the early 1960's, contemporary music was used primarily by the drug oriented, unchurched population which often didn't even understand the texts being sung," he said. "But as the music matured, church musicians gleaned the elements that were truly the voice and personality of young America. Now church goers are accepting more and more the thought that 'the devil should not have all the good music'."

Tickets for the Gabriel concert are on sale at $2 from Larson Music company and Bethany Book store.

Arctic Begins Safety Effort Next Monday

manager, said that Arctic is adopting the approach accepted by the DuPont company which reports that 98 per cent of all accidents are entirely preventable.

"Accidents are a problem for us," Horning said, "but our record has been improving. We handle 300 hazardous materials in our operation. There are back injuries due to lifting, slips, trips and falls. We are urging care in use of hand tooks and chemicals and stressing use of eye protection, safety shoes and hard hats."

Arctic safety personnel have been joined by the safety committee of the International Woodworkers of America safety committee in taking active roles in the safety promotion effort.

"We're working constantly on analyzing how our accidents happen and what pattern they fall into," Powell said. "We have had 44 reportable workmen's compensation accidents in the first six months of our fiscal year. We pay out $1.3 million in workmen's compensation annually. We find that new employees have a better record than those who are transferred or reassigned within the plant, for instance.

"We know that it is less costly and less painful for the employee not to have an accident, either at the plant or at home. We want to send our employees home in the same condition as when they come to work every day. Not having an accident allows the employee to do things he or she wants," Powell added.

Plant employees arriving at work at 7 a.m. Monday will be greeted with a banner outside the plant and be met by Powell, Horning and others. Members of the medical community as well as employees will be encouraged to visit the plant's health unit which makes available such services as hearing and vision tests, blood pressure checks, weight control information, chemical dependency assistance, literature on routine health questions, tetanus shots and other services.

A special publication called the "Safety Spotlight" is being published monthly and will emphasize the monthly safety theme. August theme emphasis is fire prevention.

In a spirit of competition, Powell has also challenged the Clearbrook plant to a contest for the best safety record of accident-free hours.

Wheat Growers Join Research, Market Effort

treasurer. The wheat growers were instrumental in creating — through petitions, hearings and referendum — the Minnesota Wheat Research and promotion council.

This second organization was created under legislation which provides for producer organizations to be formed in agricultural commodities and to exact check-offs at point of sale for use in research and promotion. It is supported by the producers through a check-off of one cent per bushel of wheat sold in Minnesota which is deducted from the producer's check for that grain.

Terry Fladeland of Red Lake Falls is the producer chairman for the research and promotion council. Kermit Shaw of Morris is treasurer and Tom Humbolt of Marshall is secretary. Other council members are Larry Bogestad, Donaldson; Art Howard, Warren; Ed Fester and Ed Ross, Fisher; Einar Satter, Norcross; and Richard Kruse Sr., Breckenridge.

The council is restricted in the use of its funds and therefore the wheat growers organization has remained vital as a supplementary group. The growers organization has about 600 members at $50 per year and a number of associate members (elevators, commission firms, banks, millers, etc.) at $100 per year.

While the wheat council works in market development, product utilization, product promotion and research on varieties, production techniques and methods, the wheat growers are active in legislation, farm programs and other semi-political fields.

The wheat growers organization built the new headquarters building, a 50x100 foot structure with two levels and 10,000 square feet of space. The growers lease a portion of the office space to the wheat council and will be leasing about half of the upper floor to individuals who wish to rent office space.

Lower level of the building contains a public meeting room with capacity for about 250 people which can be divided into three separate meeting rooms if the occasion demands. A kitchen is included in the complex to facilitate handling of trade mission groups and others visiting or using the headquarters. Laundry facilities are also provided for research crews which will spend several days at the headquarters from time to time.

How does the council go about promoting wheat? It looks primarily to the export market and its selling points are both price and quality.

"Countries which are basically rice eating nations can feed their people for one-fourth the cost by using wheat instead of rice," Rhoades said. "We have set up demonstration kitchens in foreign countries to show them how to use wheat products. We are sponsoring a woman from Thailand to spend a year at NDSU studying how to use wheat. She already has two doctor's degrees and represents buyers in that country.

"We are working with the largest bakery in France by providing them with dark northern spring wheat for their baking. On their bread wrapper they are stating that the wheat for the bread was produced for the bakery in Minnesota, USA."

The council hosts trade missions from many countries each year. "If they're interested in shipping, we show them the port at Duluth. If they're interested in flour, we show them the mills. If they're interested in buying, we really roll out the red carpet for them," Rhoades said.

As an example, a Japan food agency mission is now in Minneapolis and visiting the grain exchange, state capitol and Cargill elevators.

Because transportation is such an important part of marketing in this area, the council increased its budget for work on transportation problems from $10,000 last year to $40,000 this year. It contracts with the Minnesota Agri-Growth council for service on freight rates and other transportation items.

The council participates in research efforts at universities and colleges as well as the wheat growers' 28-acre headquarters site.

The council has recently installed at Red Lake Falls a teletype system from Commodity News Service of Kansas City and a voice recorder which operates through the telephone system. Market news is analyzed and interpreted from the teletype and recorded with updates three to eight times a day.

Farmers and others can receive the latest market information without charge by calling 1-800-242-6125 at any time of the day or night.

The system is used extensively. Rhoades said that in the first two hours after it was installed it received 102 calls. If demand is great enought the service will be expanded.

The wheat council also enters into problem solving on complaints which foreign buyers have on poor quality product, short weights, sprout damage, ergot and other things that happen between the time the grain leaves the farm and arrives at its foreign destination.

Rhoades is convinced that the current strike at the Duluth port will not only be costly to farmers and truckers this year but will affect the market five to 10 years into the future. It will be necessary to re-establish a reputation for reliability to deliver grain, he said. Japan, for instance, has only 30-day storage capacity and requires continuous supply.

Because farmers and elevators have been unable to move grain as a result of the strike (it is estimated the cost in Pennington county is $35,000 a day to truckers and $300,000 to $400,000 per day for farmers), there will be storage for only about half of this year's crop.

In addition to Rhoades as a salaried employee, the wheat growers association employs Willie Mae Rhoades as office manager, Carol Pederson as bookkeeper and refund clerk; Kevin Klatt as director of public relations; Mervin Syverson as fieldman out of Red Lake Falls and Sam Peterson as fieldman out of Bloomington.

Employees of the wheat research and promotion council are Gail Kalbakdalen, bookkeeper; Pam Schmidt, receptionist; and Doris Theroux, part-time clerical employee.

Despite the short arms claimed by Rhoades, the wheat growers of the state are reaching down to grasp their own boot straps and pull themselves into the top spot they believe they deserve in the world market. If past success is an indicator of future effort, the wheat situation looks brighter than it has for many years.

AVTI Sets Food Service Course

Baking and cereal preparation, a 20-hour course designed for school food service personnel, will be offered by the Thief River Falls AVTI August 6, 7 and 8 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the library at Washington elementary school in Thief River Falls. Tuition is $12.

To pre-register call 681-5424, extension 30.

Plan Crazy Days Events Here Thurs.

Schedule of events for the annual Thief River Falls crazy days promotion August 2 has been released by the retail business association and the local chamber of commerce and will include children's games, auction sales and a costume contest in addition to sales specials at participating businesses. Stores will be open until 9 p.m. Thursday with most merchants setting up sidewalk stands as well as having indoor sales.

Auction sales will be held by KTRF-KOSN and by the Pennington county 4-Hers. The radio station merchandise auctions will be held at the Falls Mall and at the Pizza Hut with the 4-H auction of homemade fruit pies to be held at 2 p.m. near the former Sear's store building.

Nine prizes will be awarded in this year's costume contest, eight to individual participants and one to a store. All RBA members and their employees are eligible to participate and should report the number of participants they will have to the chamber at 681-3720 by August 1. To be eligible for the store prize, a business must have at least 75 per cent of its employees in costume. Top individual prize will be $40; second, $30; third, $25, fourth, $15 and four fifth places, $5 each. The winning store will receive $20 in prize money.

Northwest regional library has scheduled two one-hour children's programs Thursday which will give parents a chance to shop while their children are under supervision. Movies will be shown at 10 a.m. and at 2:30 p.m. in the city auditorium.

Other children's activities are being planned by the local Jaycees. Games such as egg and balloon toss will be held at 4 p.m. in the central business district with a total of $75 worth of prizes to be awarded to kids in three age groups: five and under, six to eight, and nine to 12 year olds. Free roller skating is also being offered at the city sports arena from 1 to 4 p.m.

All business and professional people and downtown employees are encouraged to ride a bike or walk Thursday to leave parking spaces available for crazy days shoppers. Those who live a greater distance are asked to park in the residential districts and walk to work. Free bike parking will be available at the back of Ekeren Drug, in the front of the J. C. Penney's auto center, at the back of First North-western bank and on the north side of the Rusty Nail.

Wildlife Art Show Slated August 4-6-7

Minnesota's finest wildlife artists will exhibit more than 500 pieces of oirginal art and prints at the second annual Minnesota wildlife art show August 4, 6 and 7 at Dayton's in downtown Minneapolis.

Featured will be David Maass of Waterville and Les Kouba of Minneapolis, the only artists to win both federal and Minnesota "duck stamp" contests.

In addition to its lineup of talented wildlife artists, the show will highlight several nationally - acclaimed sculptors and decoy carvers. Notable among them are Grant Goltz of Bemidji, an international decoy-carving champion, and Bob Windhip of St. Paul, whose bronze wildlife sculptures have garnered numerous national art awards.

The show is a fund-raiser for the Minnesota wildlife heritage foundation (WHF), a non-profit organization which assists people who want to donate articles of value, land, or money for wildlife habitat in Minnesota. WHF will receive a percentage of each art sale.

New at the three-day show will be a full-color, 36-page wildlife art collector's booklet featuring the best works of the 46 artists in the show. Proceeds of the booklet sales also go to the WHF.

The art show will be in Dayton's eighth floor auditorium during regular store hours. Admission is free.

For more information about the show or the names of artists in your community, write to Wildlife Heritage Foundation, 790 Cleveland Avenue South, Room 218C, St. Paul, Minnesota 55116 or call Chuck Wechsler at 296-0900.

Ask Settlement Of Twin Port Grain Strike

Three-week-old strike by grain handlers at the Twin Ports of Duluth and Superior will seriously affect Minnesota farmers unless it's settled shortly, the president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation said last Thursday.

Merlyn Lokensgard of St. Peter urged "prompt settlement" of the dispute involving the American federation of grain millers and eight elevators. Small grain harvest is "only a matter of days away," said Lokensgard, and farmers who ship to Duluth-Superior will "hurt and hurt badly" unless union demands for a cost-of-living clause are resolved soon.

Lokensgard said his organization doesn't propose interfering with "the orderly processes of collective bargaining." At the same time, "people most directly affected by the strike are farmers and they risk a real economic disaster unless millers at the Twin Ports return to work," he said.

Pre-harvest movement of farm-held grain stocks, capacity-filled country elevators, overtaxed transportation modes and diesel fuel situation combine to compound the grain farmer's concerns, according to Lokensgard. "We simply have to get the product to our overseas markets; for a lot of us, a whole year's income hinges on it", he said. "Nobody stands to gain so long as we have this controversy."

Lokensgard said President Carter should invoke the Taft-Hartley act's 90-day cooling off period "only as a last resort."

Kreuter On Dean's List

Paul Erich Kreuter, son of Mr. and Mrs. K.G. Kreuter, 1230 Centennial Dr., Thief River Falls, has been named to the Dean's List of the institute of technology at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, for spring quarter, 1979.

To qualify, students must earn at least a 3.5 out of a possible 4.0 grade-point average based on 12 or more credits.

Kreuter, a 1975 graduate of Lincoln High school, is a senior at the University.

Youth Traffic Safety Group Given Study

Minnesota safety council, in cooperation with the Minnesota department of education, is conducting a study of youth safety activities in Minnesota to assist in forming a youth traffic safety organization for junior and senior high school students in the state.

"Traffic accidents are the leading cause of death and injury to young Minnesotans after the first year of life," Rex Morriss, project coordinator, said. "A goal of the proposed youth traffic safety organization will be to decrease accidental death and injury to young people through safety education."

The organization would be aimed at reaching Minnesotans between five and nineteen years of age. In addition to special safety projects for junior and senior high school students, young people will participate as safety instructors for elementary and secondary school safety programs.

The Minnesota safety council is seeking input from local youth and civic organizations and schools regarding youth safety activities conducted by their groups within the past two years. Statements of support for the proposed youth organization are also being sought from these groups. Comments should be sent to Morriss at the Minnesota Safety Council, 145 Hamm Building, St. Paul 55102. Deadline for comment is August 15.

VICIUS BEAST
THE LITLE RASKULS

"THE LITTLE RASCALS" TV series inspired this entry in the 1979 Thief River Falls Aquacade parade held Saturday. The large dog seemed content to enjoy the ride and gave no indication of living up to his reputation as a "vicious beast" as proclaimed by the sign.

National Grain Board Opposed By Boschwitz

An amendment proposed and co-sponsored by Senator Rudy Boschwitz has halted a move within the senate which could have led to the creation of a national grain board as the sole authority to sell U.S. farm products abroad in times of tight supply.

The action came as the senate debated passage of the export administration act of 1979.

The effect of one section of that bill, explained Boschwitz, would grant authority to the Commodity Credit corporation (CCC) to become the only purchaser and sales man of farm commodities to foreign governments.

"The prospect of CCC with this kind of authority is disturbing," stated Boschwitz.

"With the government in coltrol of the international market in times of tight supply, private trade would, of course, stop and farmers' income be put in jeopardy," he continued.

"Further, we must remember that the CCC is headed by top administrators from the department of agriculture. They're political appointees, and this would subject international grain trading to political manipulation, a dangerous and undesirable strain on our farm economy and overseas markets."

Boschwitz added that he was concerned about the prospect of the CCC as a purchaser of grains, from farmers, cooperatives, and others involved in farm commodity trading.

"We saw the dangers of this kind of arrangment in the 50's and 60's when the government could serve as a purchasing agent and the huge stocks of grain they accumulated had a detrimental effect on market prices for farmers.

"I was relieved when our amendment passed and struck from the bill this kind of authority for the CCC," he concluded.

Rail Crossing Fatalities Rise In Past Year

Railroad crossing fatalities in Minnesota rose to 34 last year as compared to 26 deaths in 1977, while fatal vehicle-train crashes rose from 22 in 1977 to 25 in 1978.

"Contributing factors in many of these crashes were driver inattention and carelessness," said commissioner John P. Sopsic of the Minnesota department of public safety.

"Too often, motorists become careless at railroad crossings. They often fail to obey traffic warning devices at the crossings and hope to speed across the tracks before the train comes.

"A six-passenger car traveling at 60 miles per hour needs seven-tenths of a mile to stop while a freight train with 150 cars needs almost one and half miles of stopping distance. So, if you speed across the tracks, the train cannot stop for you," he said.

Sopsic recommended that to cross railroad tracks safely, you must always observe posted speed limits and warning signs. Do not race warning signals or speeding trains at an unmarked crossing. Also, be certain that you have enough time to get all the way across the tracks before starting to cross, he said.

"If your vehicle stalls while you are in the middle of the tracks, get everyone out of the vehicle and walk in the direction of the oncoming train, but far enough away from the active track. By doing so you will avoid being struck by flying debris from the crash," said Sopsic.

Other things to remember at railroad crossings are to look both ways; turn down the radio, heater or air conditioner; and do not try to drive around closed or closing crossing gates.

Sopsic also suggested that when you are in a line of cars crossing the railroad track, slow down and allow enough time for you to reach the other side without stopping. Otherwise, you could be pinned between cars directly in the path of an oncoming train.

Handicapped Eligible For Health Policy

Most health insurance policies which insure dependent children limit coverage to children between certain ages. Coverage for a newborn child takes effect when he is enrolled in the policy. When a child reaches a specified age, between 18 and 23, coverage terminates.

These provisions can cause a hardship for the parents of congenitally ill newborns and families with handicapped children who have reached the upper age limit. Two Minnesota laws provide relief for families in these situations.

If a child is unable to support himself because of mental retardation or physical handicap and is chiefly dependent on his parents for support, the parents can continue to insure him beyond the age dependent coverage would normally cease. To do this, the parents must present evidence of the disabling handicap and the child's dependency to the insurance company. This must be done within 31 days of the date the child reaches the age limit set by the policy. The insurance company can require periodic confirmation of this information.

Another law provides coverage from birth to newborn babies who are premature or congenitally malformed. This law applies to individual policies which insure two or more people and to group policies if dependent coverage is available in the group. The newborn's parents do not have to be personally enrolled for dependent coverage.

Newborns who need medical care beyond routine newborn care can receive the scheduled benefits of the parent's policy if they are premature, congenitally malformed, ill or injured. Coverage of routine newborn care is not required. To be eligible for this coverage, the parents must enroll the newborn within the time required by the policy and pay any necessary premium. The coverage is then retroactive to birth.

Eligibility For Food Stamps Is Tightened

Amendments passed by the senate to reduce fraud and misuse in the nation's food stamp program will save taxpayers an estimated $50,000,000 a year, according to Senator Rudy Boschwitz.

Boschwitz co-sponsored the four amendments, which were included in the food stamp supplemental appropriations bill for fiscal year 1979.

"These amendments will help ensure that anyone on the program is actually eligible for enrollment," he expalined. "They mean that money for the stamps will be spent on those who really need them.

"In the past, the public has seen ineligible people receiving stamps, and the whole program has been criticized because of abuse by a few.

"Our action this week will help greatly to eliminate those few and strengthen the rest of the program."

He added that the amendments also provide deterring penalties for those who are found to be fraudulently misusing benefits.

Two additional measures correct deficiencies in the program as it existed before, said Boschwitz, who supported both actions.

One, he explained, allows the elderly to deduct medical expenses from their income when determining their eligibility for the program.

"This takes into account the fact that many of the elderly must spend a large percentage of their income for medical purposes and will ensure that those senior citizens who do need the program's benefits will receive them," he pointed out.

The other amendment extends food stamp benefits to those handicapped persons living in group homes, a category previously excluded.

Era Is Favorite Of Wheat Growers

Minnesota's 1979 total wheat acreage of 2,690,000 acres is down six per cent from last year's 2,850,000 acres. Winter wheat plantings of 60,000 acres fell 14 per cent; durum wheat acreage at 80,000 is down 20 per cent; and plantings of other spring wheat dropped five per cent to 2,550,000 acres.

Hard red spring wheat accounted for 96 per cent of the total 1979 wheat acreage. Durum accounted for three per cent of the total, and hard red winter wheat accounted for the remaining one per cent.

Era again is the major hard red spring wheat variety seeded in Minnesota, accounting for 64 per cent of the 1979 hard red spring acreage. This compares with 65 per cent of plantings in 1974, when the last wheat varieties survey was conducted. Era accounted for over 50 per cent of each district's total acreage. Olaf, holding the No. 2 spot, accounted for nine per cent of the acreage.

The North Dakota agricultural experiment station released Olaf in 1973 as a semi-dwarfed medium maturity variety developed from crosses of Conley, Justin and Waldron. Kitt, a semi-dwarf mid-to-late season variety, was seeded on six per cent of the total hard red spring wheat acreage making it the third most popular variety in Minnesota. Kitt was released by the Minnesota agricultural experiment station and ARS-USDA in 1975.

Solar ranked fourth with five per cent of the hard red spring acreage. A semi-dwarf and mid-to-late maturity variety, it was released in 1977. Wared claimed fifth place with four per cent of the acreage. This is a mid-to-late season semi-dwarf variety, released by the Washington agricultural experiment station and ARS-USDA in 1974.

Butte, an early-to-mid-season, medium height variety, was planted on three per cent of the acreage. Butte is a 1977 release by North Dakota agricultural experiment station. Angus, Prodax, Profit 75, Protor, Waldron, Chris, and World Seeds 1809 were each seeded to one per cent of the acreage.

Other and unknown varieties made up two per cent of the hard red spring wheat acreage. Other varieties included Eureka, Glenlea, Coteau, Bounty 208, Ellar, Bonanza, Embro, Sinton, James, Red River, World Seeds 1812, Weather Master 85, 90 and 99. B-1, reported as a hard red spring variety but classified by the federal grain inspection service as a soft red winter, is also included in other and unknown varieties.

Ward replaced Rolette as Minnesota's No. 1 durum variety. Ward was planted on 55 per cent of the state's durum acreage versus 26 per cent in 1974 when it was the No. 2 variety. Cando, a 1975 release, placed second with 35 per cent of the total.

Released in 1973, Crosby ranked third with five per cent. Leeds was again the No. 4 variety claiming four per cent of 1979 durum plantings. Rugby, a 1973 release, accounted for the remaining one per cent.

Minter repeated as the No. 1 hard red winter variety but continued to drop in popularity. Minter was seeded to 45 per cent of the acreage this year compared with 72 per cent in 1974 and 77 per cent in 1973. Bronze accounted for 14 per cent and Gent claimed 12 per cent of the 1979 hard red winter plantings. Winoka and Roughrider accounted for 10 per cent each. Winoka was the No. 2 variety in 1974 with 16 per cent of the total acreage. Eklund was seeded to four per cent of the total acreage. Froid was seeded to three per cent of total acreage compared with eight per cent in 1974 when it was the No. 3 variety. Centurk and Gage accounted for one per cent each of the state's total hard red winter acreage.

State Agency Positions Open For Application

Secretary of state's office is seeking applicants for vacancies on multi-member state agencies. In accordance with the Minnesota open appointments law, application forms may be obtained at the Office of the Secretary of State, 180 State Office Bldg., St. Paul 55155; (612) 296-2805. Application deadline is Tuesday, August 7, 1979.

Interagency task force on special transportation services has three vacancies open immediately for members representing public and private entities that provide special transportation services. This task force was created by Special Session laws, chapter 1, 1979. In addition to these public members, it is composed of representatives of state departments, boards, and agencies which provide or regulate special transportation services, and representatives of the metropolitan council and regional development commissions.

The task force shall identify special transportation programs, study opportunities for coordination of such programs and evaluate their effectiveness, recommend the adoption of policies, rules, and legislation necessary to implement programs the task force has developed and report its findings to the legislature. The task force expires December 31, 1980. The commissioner of transportation is the appointing authority. Members receive no compensation. For specific information, contact Sherri Alston, 413 Transportation Building, St. Paul, 55155; (612) 296-8047.

American Indian advisory board has two vacancies open immediately for residents of Duluth and St. Paul for terms expiring December 31, 1979. The board establishes policies and procedures for American Indian chemical dependency programs, reviews proposals for funding, and makes recommendations to the citizens' advisory council. Meetings are held quarterly. Members receive $35 per day plus expenses. The appointing authority is the director of the chemical dependency programs division of the department of public welfare. For specific information, contact Joe Bigbear, Indian Desk, 4th Floor, Centennial Office Bldg., St. Paul, 55155; (612) 296-4043.

Gas Shortage Prompts Rise Of False Claims

Gasoline shortages as well as rising prices have prompted an increase in exaggerated and misleading advertising claims involving gas saving and emission control devices, according to Ronald J. Graham, president of the Better Business Bureau of Minnesota, Inc. Graham said the BBB previously had challenged advertising claims for several gas saving devices during the time of the oil embargo in 1973.

"We encourage media to obtain all the facts before deciding on the acceptability of such advertising," said Graham. A "Media Bulletin," now being distributed by the Better Business Bureau to newspapers, magazines, radio and television stations, states that in addition to exaggerated and misleading claims made for these products, "data offered to substantiate gas saving claims for a number of devices have often been inaccurate, outdated or otherwise insufficient."

The bulletin cites past testing of fuel savers by the environmental protection agency (EPA) that showed in most cases not enough improvement in gas mileage to justify the cost of purchasing and installing them. Final rules were issued by the EPA earlier this year which set test procedures and criteria for evaluating fuel economy improvement claims for such devices.

Under the program, any manufacturer of a fuel saving device may apply to EPA for product testing, providing the device has already been tested in an EPA-approved laboratory. A review of the data follows and a decision is made whether or not EPA testing of the device is needed. Results of any EPA testing performed on gas saving devices, however, does not render government certification or approval.

Better Business Bureau of Minnesota recommends that before media accept advertising for devices which either claim to increase gas mileage or lower emissions, they require advertisers to submit conclusive, up-to-date, scientific test results to back up these claims. EPA testing has been cited as the preferred form of substantiation; the federal trade commission plans to rely on the EPA test data in making decision on whether or not given advertising is deceptive.

The EPA is in the process of developing a similar testing program for gas tank additives which are advertised as gas savers.

Propose Change In Food Stamp Hours, Places

Department of agriculture has proposed minimum standards for hours and locations of food stamp offices to provide better service to applicants and participants, according to Monroe Woods, midwest regional administrator for the food and nutrition service.

One set of standards is proposed for offices that certify applicants for food stamps, and a different set is proposed for offices that issue food stamps. According to Woods, the department anticipates that most cities and counties will be able to comply with minimal changes in their current operations.

Regulations call for offices certifying applicants for food stamps to be open a minimum of either 30 hours per month or 35 hours per week, depending on the number of participants in the area. In areas with very small caseloads, agencies may use out-of-office certification procedures such as a traveling caseworker.

County and city offices that issue food stamps must be open a minimum of six hours per week. This requirement may also be set through mailing stamps to participants.

In addition, the department proposes that counties and cities provide both certification and issuance services within 30 miles of all, or nearly all, households receiving food stamps. The exceptions could be granted in areas where people routinely travel farther to shop for food.

Beyond the minimum standards for hours and locations, the department would allow state agencies flexibility in applying the standards to local circumstances. The regulations permit local agencies to determine service needs, and require public participation in the development of local service plans for every four years.

Comments on the proposed regulations must be received by September 13 and should be sent to: Alberta C. Frost, acting deputy administrator for family nutrition programs, food and nutrition service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

State Agency Vacancies Open For Application

Secretary of state's office is seeking applicants for vacancies on multi-member state agencies. In accordance with the Minnesota open appointments law, application forms may be obtained at the Office of the Secretary of State, 180 State Office Bldg., St. Paul, 55155; (612) 296-2805. Application deadline is Tuesday, August 14, 1979.

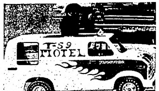
Minnesota municipal board has one vacancy open immediately for a resident of a city of the first class for a term expiring June 30, 1985. The board regulates incorporations and boundary adjustments for cities and towns; provides advisory services; conducts hearings and meetings; issues orders.

The meeting schedule varies but meetings or hearings are held at least five times a month. Members receive $50 per diem plus travel expenses. The appointing authority is the governor and Senate approval is required. For specific information, contact Patricia Lundy, 165 Metro Square Bldg., St. Paul, 55101; (612) 296-2428.

Governor's task force on educational policy has eight vacancies open immediately for public members for terms expiring June 30, 1981. Members should be representative of public constituent groups in education, should be geographically balanced throughout the state and should have a demonstrated interest in elementary and secondary education. This task force was created by laws of 1979, chapter 333, section 9, and is composed of a maximum of fifteen members, at least eight of whom shall represent the public.

The task force will conduct a review of major educational policy issues; examine alternative strategies for public policy action; make recommendations based on the findings. Meetings will be held at least monthly and members are compensated for travel expenses. The governor is the appointing authority. For specific information, contact Donna Knight, 101 Capitol Square Bldg., St. Paul 55101; (612) 296-1755.

MAYOR BOB CARLSON rode with his wife, Vivian, and their grandchildren in the parade which kicked off this year's Aquacade events in Thief River Falls Saturday. The Jaycee sponsored Aquacade celebration continues through this weekend with upcoming events to include waterfights, powerboat races and a barbecue contest.



VARIETY OF VEHICLES drew attention at the Jaycee Aquacade parade Saturday in Thief River Falls. While antique autos drew admiring looks from many of the parade watchers, this minature van also gained its share of crowd appreciation.

Personal Office Hours Set By Stangeland

Congressman Arlan Stangeland of the seventh district announced recently that he will be holding personal office hours Tuesday, August 7, with seventh district constituents who live in Pennington and Marshall counties.

"Personal, one to one, conferences offer an opportunity for me to discuss with constituents their federal problems and views on issues," said Stangeland.

The personal conferences will be held between 2:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. at the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls. No appointment is necessary.

"I represent the people of the seventh district of Minnesota and I want to know their views. I encourage anyone who wants to see me about a problem with the federal government, to discuss issues, or just visit, to take time out of their day and stop by," said Stangeland.

Rep. Stangeland Would Remove Income Limit

"As inflation boosts prices for food, housing and fuel, it becomes increasingly difficult for senior citizens to maintain a satisfactory standard of living. In order to alleviate the economic crunch experienced by senior citizens, I am co-sponsoring legislation to remove the outside earnings limitation now set on social security benefits," states Congressman Arlan Stangeland.

"Senior citizens receiving social security benefits are prohibited from earning in excess of $4,500 and this gross injustice in our law has the effect of forcing many retirees to live at or near the poverty level. I strongly believe that these people are entitled to receive benefits without penalizing stipulations, since they have contributed to the social security fund during their working years," Stangeland said.

The Seventh district congressman offered additional support for senior citizens by emphasizing his belief that their knowledge, experience and productive capacity are among the most important resources the United States possesses.

"I am determined," Stangeland said, "to find and support measures to relieve the unhealthy burden now placed on our senior citizens. This provision of the law interferes with the basic rights of citizens to earn as much income as they desire. By maintaining this prohibitive law, we lessen the motivation of individuals to continue working, not only for their own good, but also for the good of the nation. Earnings limitations must be removed."

Agricultural Advisory Group To Meet Aug. 7

Establishment of nine-member Minnesota agricultural advisory committee and scheduling of the unit's first meeting for Tuesday, August 7, was announced yesterday (Tuesday) by commissioner Mark Seetin.

"This is a blue ribbon group of experienced leaders, representing the major agricultural, business, industry and consumer segments of Minnesota's economy. I am grateful for their ready cooperation and willingness to donate their time, experience, and talent in helping my office to better serve this great agricultural state.

"Although many of the problems currently confronting all of us, such as the energy and transportation cruises, continuing inflation and the threat of recession are national issues needing federal solutions, we in Minnesota have a responsibility to determine what we can do within our own state to alleviate or hopefully to abate these concerns. I am a firm believer in the axiom 'the first place to look for a helping hand is among those in your own state,' " commissioner Seetin stated.

Members of the new Agricultural Advisory Committee who will meet in the Minnesota Department of Agriculture offices, 420 State Office Building, St. Paul, at 10:30 a.m. on August 7 are: Bob Rupp, editor, The Farmer magazine, chairman of the committee; Merlyn Lokensgard, president, Minnesota Farm Bureau federation; Cy Carpenter, president, Minnesota Farmers Union; and Bob Arndt, president, Minnesota National Farmers organization.

Also William Hueg, vice-president, University of Minnesota; Hugh Cosgrove, president, Minnesota food retailers association; Ed Slettom, executive director, Minnesota association for Cooperatives; Ted Shields, vice president, Minnesota association of Commerce and Industry; and John Himle, executive director, Minnesota Agri-Growth council.

Regents Discuss 'U' 'Daily' Publication

Operations of the student-run Minnesota Daily came under the careful scrutiny of a special University of Minnesota board of regents subcommittee recently during the first of what could be several meetings to discuss the issue.

During the four-hour meeting, the four-member panel closely questioned Daily staff members, journalism faculty members, and the adviser to the publication that has become controversial since publication of a school-year-end "humor" issue.

That issue has been labeled obscene, racist and anti-religious by critics since it appeared June 4, and it has brought a deluge of public response — much of it negative — to the regents and university administrators.

David Lebedoff, who chairs the subcommittee, announced at the outset of the meeting that the board was not conducting "hearings." "Our mission is one of careful inquiry," he said. "The ultimate disposition (of this matter) must come from the university itself. Our goal is justice, not vengence."

Many of those most offended by the humor issue have called for sanctions against Daily staff members responsible for the issue. The situation is complicated, however, by the fact that those who supervised the production of the humor issue no longer work for the Daily.

Donald Gillmor, a member of the journalism faculty who sits on the board of student publications, expressed his strong displeasure with the purpose of the meeting. "I'm very unhappy about having to be here," Gillmor said. "The board (of regents) has not seen fit to defend the 280 highly competent issues of the Daily this year" but is concentrating instead on the offending issue, he said.

Gillmor's comment drew a sharp response from Paynesville regent Lloyd Peterson. "I'm unhappy to be here too," said Peterson, who then questioned the effectiveness of the journalism faculty's "hands-off" policy toward the Daily.

Peterson was the author of the original resolution, passed at the June regents' meeting, criticizing the Daily issue and lodging a complaint with the board of student publications.

The subcommittee was named last week to study four key aspects of Daily production and will make recommendations to the full board at its next meeting August 9. The group will study the relationships between the Daily, the regents and the board of student publications; the structure of the publications board; the development of a journalistic code of ethics and ways to enforce it; and alternative means of circulating and supporting the Daily financially.

Several critics have suggested that the university remove all financial ties it has to the Daily, letting it succeed or fail on its own. The university currently collects $1.75 each quarter from each student to pay for subscriptions to the Daily, allows the Daily to occupy university space in exchange for the publication of official notices in the paper, and pays about $33,000 each year for faculty and staff subscriptions.

Donald Zander, associate vice president for student affairs, told the regents that several other colleges and universities have no official ties to their student newspapers. "In every case, the school is still seen as responsible for the paper by the public," Zander said.

"Student newspapers incorporated off campus tend to be lower in quality," Gillmor said. "There is not as much interaction with the students and faculty, and there tends to be an adversarial relationship. There are no moderating influences on the paper whatsoever. I predict that this would happen here."

Without ties between the university and the Daily, Gillmore said, "the journalism school would have no way of recreating the kind of experience that generations of students have received at the Daily."

That possibility is "of great cocern" to the journalism faculty, which is currently drafting a statement to present to the regents, Gillmor said.

"Apologies (for the issue) have been given by any number of people in any number of ways," Gillmor said. "I hope that punishment isn't inevitable. I think that's what some people are interested in, simply punishment."

"I really think that at this point, comments about what the board (of regents) has or has not done are premature," Lebedoff said, asking that Gillmor not "pre-judge the intention of this committee."

Arnold Ismach, faculty adviser to the Daily, said that the inquiry by the regents has gone beyond the internal channels set up by the university to handle such cases, and has had "an unfair effect on the current staff of the Daily."

"It is a form of attempted censorship just to suggest that the regents might like to change the status and relationship of the Daily," Ismach said. "It's an intimidating set of circumstances."

Regent Michael Unger said his group has no intention of preempting action by other university bodies. "We are merely using a parallel method of informing ourselves," Unger said.

Ismach told the regents that if very strict monitoring procedures were set up — say a full-time faculty member making writing assignments and checking copy before publication — the Daily would lose its value as a training ground for young journalists.

"Would the students learn faster? Would they develop the ability to make decisions on their own? No," he said.

The influence of the journalism faculty on the Daily is "very substantial," Gillmor said, but added that there "is no way we can prevent youthful madness from breaking out on the paper every now and then."

Jim Clark, president of the board of student publications, told the group that if the former editor of the Daily were still on the staff, he would probably be "up before the board of publications now, in jeopardy of losing his job."

"If I had to say what went wrong," Clark said, "I would have to say the process of review was not as comprehensive as it usually is." Cutting ties between the university and the Daily would be ineffective, Clark said. "If you remove support, people on the outside still think the paper is connected to the institution. You haven't changed public perception one whit, you've only eliminated your ability to do anything about it."

The board spent some time discussing financial aspects of the Daily, particularly the question of Daily survival if financial arrangements between the paper and the school were severed.

"The subject is not raised to imply a threat," Lebedoff said. "It's just simply impossible to discuss the Daily without studying the financial arrangements."

The Daily is the simplest and least expensive method available to distribute necessary information each day to faculty and staff members, university relations director Russell Tall told the group.

The university would have to spend at least $80,000 a year to publish its own weekly newspaper for faculty and staff members, whereas it currently provides the Daily with about $40,000 worth of working space in exchange for publication of notices, Tall said.

The subcommittee postponed discussion of journalistic codes of ethics until its next meeting Tuesday, July 31. At that time, the group will hear a report from the board of student publications, which is currently preparing its own set of recommendations on the four areas under study by the subcommittee.

At that time, the regents' subcommittee will also consider any written testimony submitted by interested parties, Lebedoff said.

Regents Name New Dean Of 'U' Law School

Robert A. Stein, vice president for administration and planning at the University of Minnesota, was named dean of the University of Minnesota law school by the board of regents.

Stein, 40, has been on the law faculty since 1964 and was named to the vice presidency in December of 1977. He had been named associate dean of the law school a year earlier.

Stein told the regents that after he assumes the deanship in January or February of next year, he will concentrate on improving minority enrollment in the school and improving the relationships between the school and the legal profession.

"The greatest challenge is a commitment to excellence," Stein told the regents, adding that he hopes to make the law school a "law center for the state."

Stein's duties as vice president have made him visible in issues such as intercollegiate athletics, personnel and handicapped student policies. He chairs the planning council, a group of faculty, students and administrators who have been meeting regularly to work out a long-range plan for the University.

Stein is a student of property law, tax planning and trusts and estates. He is a Minnesota law school graduate and author of a textbook on probate law.

He succeeds Carl A. Auerbach who announced his resignation last year because, he said, the University was not living up to its commitments to expand the faculty after its move into the new law building on the West Bank.

Minnesota Ag Statistics Book Is Available

Annual summary of Minnesota's agriculture, "Minnesota Agricultural Statistics 1979," now is available for distribution commissioner Mark Seetin announced Monday.

The 1979 edition has been expanded to 88 pages with charts, graphs, and illustrations incorporated for easier understanding of the production and economic scope of Minnesota agriculture.

County estimates are included for all major crop and livestock commodities produced in 1977 and 1978, along with state-level production and resource measures for the past ten years. County gross farm income estimates for 1976 and 1977 also are in the new annual report. Resource data published includes early 1979 farm land values, and grain, hay and livestock inventories.

Distribution is now being made to regular subscribers, including reference copies to schools, libraries, and county agricultural extension service offices.

Individuals may obtain a copy of the "Minnesota Agricultural Statistics 1979" for $2.08, sales tax included, from the Documents Section, 140 Centennial Office Bldg., St. Paul, 55155. Mail orders should include a check or money order payable to "State of Minnesota."

Safe Following Distance Can Cut Accidents

Key to maintaining a safe following distance between your car and the car in front of you is to learn the two-second rule, according to the Minnesota safety council.

When the vehicle ahead of you passes a fixed object, slowly count one thousand, two thousand. That takes about two seconds of time. If you finish counting before you reach the object, you're at a safe following distance. If you haven't, allow more room. Allow another second if the road is slippery.

Minnesota safety council reminds drivers to observe the 55 mph speed limit as another safeguard against rear-end collisions. It takes less time for your vehicle to stop at 55 mph, and you have more time to react to situations ahead of you when you travel 55 mph.

Wisconsin Pig Co-op Issues 1966 Refunds

Paul Schink, general manager of Wisconsin feeder pig marketing cooperative, reports that the cooperative has released the final payment on 1966 patronage refunds in the sum of $52,161.90.

Members of the co-op's board of directors voted recently to make these funds payable to 1966 co-op members. Schink says that the total earnings of the co-op in 1978 were large enough to make the 1966 funds available for distribution.

Allocated cash returns to members for 1978 were $92,402.03. Of the total 1978 allocation of $174,227.56, $81,825.53 was paid in membership equities. Total cash payments to members during the year were $144,563.93.

Wisconsin feeder pig marketing co-op marketed 848,348 feeder pigs during its last fiscal year of operations. This was the second highest volume of pigs in the co-op's 22 year history and 14,000 more pigs than last year. Total dollar volume of business for the period was $32,569,391.

Wisconsin feeder pig marketing co-op markets feeder pigs nationwide through private treaty contract and Tel-O-Auction sales in Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota and North Dakota. Co-op feeder pig sales programs are in operation at Boltonville and Lancaster, Wis.; Sauk Centre and Perham, Minn.; and Litchville, N.D.

The cooperative's main headquarters is at Francis Creek, Wis., with the Minnesota division headquarters at Sauk Centre.

Slaughter Of Livestock In State Under '78

Commercial livestock slaughter in Minnesota during the first half of 1979 has produced over 824.1 million pounds of red meats. This amounted to 4.5 per cent of the nation's total domestic supply of consumer meats, according to agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin.

He added that for livestock farmers supplying Minnesota slaughter plants with cattle, calves, hogs, lambs and sheep the January-June total represented an estimated gross farm market value of over $688 million.

Minnesota's red meats production this year is about three per cent below the first half of 1978, but due to higher livestock market prices this year, the gross farm value is higher by over $94.5 million or 16 per cent above last year.

According to the six-month summary of commercial livestock slaughter released by the state federal crop and livestock reporting service, Minnesota this year is supplying nearly 6.5 per cent of the nation's pork, 5.3 per cent of the nation's lamb and mutton and 3.5 per cent of the nation's beef.

Beef cattle continue to be the leading source of meat animal income for Minnesota farmers with an estimated gross of $376.6 million for the first six months of 1979: Minnesota ranks eighth among all states in cattle slaughter for beef production.

Minnesota continues to be the third-leading state in hog slaughter and pork production, with a six per cent increase over last year's volume. Gross farm value of the approximately 2.7 million hogs slaughtered this January-June was $300.3-million.

Lamb and sheep slaughter in the state during the first half of this year was up four per cent from a year ago and sixth in the nation. Gross farm value was nearly $10.7 million.

Calf slaughter for veal production in Minnesota continues at a minimum level, reflecting the rebuilding of beef and dairy herds.

Emergency Route Added For Truckers

Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) has added another emergency route to the statewide system of roads and streets authorized to carry 10-ton single axle loadings and 80,000 pounds total gross weight, according to commissioner Richard P. Braun.

Mn-DOT's action was taken in response to the state of emergency order of June 19 to alleviate conditions brought about by the truckers' strike and to alleviate fuel shortages in the state.

TH 55, from junction with TH 29 to junction with TH 28 (bypassing Glenwood), was added to the 12 emergency routes announced June 28.

Monthly transportation permits, available at Mn-DOT offices statewide, are required to haul 80,000 pounds on the emergency routes. At $5, the permits are good for the month in which they are issued during the emergency. The permits can only be issued for properly registered vehicles, licensed to carry up to 80,000 pounds.

Undelivered Tax Checks Can Be Claimed

Undelivered federal tax refund checks for some Minnesota taxpayers are waiting to be claimed, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Many of these checks remain undelivered because taxpayers have moved and left no forwarding address with the U.S. Postal Service, according to the IRS.

Taxpayers who filed on time and still have not received their 1978 tax refunds should check with the IRS as soon as possible, because refund delays can also be caused by lost or stolen checks. If this is the case, the IRS can put tracers on the missing checks.

Other refund delays are caused by errors or omissions on the tax return, such as illegible names or addresses. In all refund inquiries, the IRS said, taxpayers should provide the names and addresses as they appear on the return, the actual names and addresses if different, the social security numbers and the type of forms filed.

Under most circumstances, an undelivered refund check can be reissued to the new address and received within two weeks.

Arthritis Can Be Controlled By Medication

Misconceptions about arthritis are wide-spread and common, according to the Arthritis foundation. For example, arthritis is not just a disease of older people. Rheumatoid arthritis, the kind of arthritis that can cripple, usually strikes between the ages of 20 and 50.

Many people think that nothing can be done about arthritis. Actually, a foundation spokesman said, proper medication and care can control the disease in the great majority of cases.

As part of its work to replace false notions about arthritis with the best current information, the Minnesota chapter of the Arthritis foundation operates a message center that may be called at any time, toll-free. It's number is 1-800-552-1278. During August callers will hear a special message with some of the basic facts about arthritis.

This free service of the Arthritis foundation is supported in most Minnesota communities by the United Way.

It's August 1 today and football is less than a month away in Thief River Falls for members of the Lincoln high school and Northland community college squads.

Coach Gene Jurgens' Lincoln high school Prowlers begin preseason practice drills Mon., Aug. 13. The daily morning-long practice sessions start at 7:30 a.m.

Thief River Falls' 1979 football season has an unusual Thursday night start August 30 in Grand Forks against Red River. The Thursday instead of normal Friday playing date involves a schedule conflict on Cushman Field in Grand Forks, used by both Red River and Central high schools on that first weekend.

First Lincoln high school home game will be played the following week; Fri., Sept. 7, against Detroit Lakes.

Rest of the Thief River Falls schedule will have the Prowlers playing Fri., Sept. 14, vs. Crosby-Ironton; Fri., Sept. 14, at Staples; Fri., Sept. 21, vs. Moorhead; Fri., Sept. 28 vs. Bemidji; Fri., Oct. 5, at Fergus Falls; Fri., Oct. 12, at East Grand Forks; and Fri., Oct. 19, vs. Crookston.

Thief River Falls finished 4-5 a year ago.

Expecting maybe as many as 70 players, Northland community college football coach Irv Smith will start twice-a-day preseason drills Mon., Aug. 27. Split squad morning sessions will start at 8 and 9 a.m., with a full team workout planned for 3:30 p.m.

A year ago Smith began his first season as Northland coach with 26 ball players. The Northmen finished with a 2-6 record.

Northland will open its 1979 football season Sat., Sept. 8, in Virginia against Mesabi.

Home opener for the Northmen will be a week later, Sat., Sept. 15, vs. Vermilion.

Rest of the Northland schedule will have the Northmen playing Sat., Sept. 22, vs. Hibbing; Sat., Sept. 29, at Fergus Falls; Sat., Oct. 6, vs. Itasca; Sat., Oct. 13, at Brainerd; Sat., Oct. 20, at Bismarck, N.D.; Sat., Oct. 27, vs. Golden Valley Lutheran; and Sat., Nov. 3, at Crookston.

Miscellaneous

+As the 1979 summer sports season draws to a close, the Times would like to publicly thank the following people for their cooperation in relaying scores and information to us: Terry Sullivan, American Legion baseball; Mike Lee and Jon Ballingrud, golf; Richard Bjerken, men's fast pitch softball; Dennis Bendickson, Dave Vagle, men's slow pitch softball; Sandy Schob, women's slow pitch softball; Pat Fischer, trap; and Ron Novak, youth baseball; Bruce Williams, Paul, Williams, Babe Ruth baseball.

+Alex Easton of Thief River Falls birdied the first extra hole of a sudden death playoff Sunday to win the annual Greenbush shortstop golf tournament. Easton had earlier carded rounds of 35, 33 and 36 for a one-under-par 104 on the sand green golf course, Easton earned his first major victory of the 1979 season with his performance Sunday.

+ Cliff Morlan of the Bemidji Pioneer says the field of 235 golfers who entered the last week's annual Birchmont International golf tournament at the Bemidji Town and Country Club was the smallest in many years.

+Dave Retzlaff, a member of the staff at Fergus Falls community college for 11 years and head basketball coach at the school, has been appointed athletic director at the college. Retzlaff will continue as the head basketball coach where his teams have an overall 156-100 record.

TRF Merchants, Elks Eliminated In State Play

Post-season state tournament play ended for both Thief River Falls Babe Ruth baseball teams earlier this week.

Thief River Falls Elks, playing in the 13-15-year-old Babe Ruth state tournament at Maple Lake, came home with a 23-10 season record following a 9-2 defeat at the hands of Prior Lake Monday. The Bruce Williams-coached Elks fell to East St. Paul 15-3 Sunday in their first start of the 12-team double elimination tournament.

Playing in the 13-year-old Babe Ruth state tournament at Cottage Grove, the Thief River Falls Merchants, after opening with a 5-3 triumph over Cottage Grove Saturday, lost twice Monday in the 12-team double elimination tournament.

West Richfield edged the Merchants, after opening with a 5-3 triumph over Cottage Grove Saturday, lost twice Monday in the 12-team double elimination tournament.

West Richfield edged the Merchants 4-2 in nine innings and Roseville came from behind to eliminate Thief River Falls 10-4, ending the Paul Williams-coached Merchants season at 16-7-1.

Elks

Prior Lake, trailing 2-1, broke loose for eight runs in the sixth inning Monday to eliminate the Thief River Falls Elks 9-2. Losing pitcher Mark Harder game up five walks and three base hits that inning.

Thief River Falls scored single runs in the third and fourth. In the third, Rob Blankenfeld singled, moved up on a passed ball and scored on a single by Greg Harder. In the fourth, Lonnie Aune walked, stole second and scored on a double by Rob Jorstad.

Owning a 6-4 base hit advantage, Thief River Falls left runners at second and third base in the second, third and seventh innings.

Plan Playoffs In Men's Slow Pitch Softball

Post-season divisional playoff format was announced this week for the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association. The double elimination event will extend from August 5 to August 17.

Division IV will start the playoffs with a Sunday tournament August 5. First round games will be played at 9 a.m. when pairings match the regular season division runner-up against the seventh place team, third vs. sixth and fourth vs. fifth, with the first place team receiving a bye.

Division I playoffs start Mon., Aug. 6, when first round pairings match third place vs. eighth, fifth vs. sixth, fourth vs. seventh and second vs. ninth, with the regular season division champion getting the first round bye. Games will also be played Wed., Aug. 8, Tues., Aug. 14, and Fri., Aug. 17.

In Division II, the Tues., Aug. 7, first round pairings will match the fourth place team against fifth, third vs. sixth, second vs. seventh and first vs. eight. Everybody will be playing twice that night, with survivors playing again Thurs., Aug. 9, and Mon., Aug. 13.

First round games in Division III will cover two nights as the first place team draws a bye and fourth plays fifth on Wed., Aug. 8, with second vs. seventh and third vs. sixth on the second night planned Thurs., Aug. 9. Games are also on tap for Mon., Aug. 13, Wed., Aug. 15, and Thurs., Aug. 16.

THROWN OUT BY a half step at first base in Monday's Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association Division I game matching Tony Dorn, Inc. against the Rusty Nail Raiders was Randy Dallmann of Tony Dorn, Inc. Rusty Nail Raiders first baseman Tom Williams made the third inning play. Tony Dorn, Inc. won the game 5-4.

First Federal, Wilson Brothers . . .

Slow Pitch Titles Won By Division II, IV Squads

First Federal Savings & Loan Association and Wilson Brothers Co. became divisional champions Tuesday in the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association.

Two division titles and a share of a third crown, are still up for grabs as the 1979 regular season schedule draws to a close this week.

Division I

Division I pennant goes to the winner tonight (Wednesday) when the Rusty Nail Raiders and the TRF Merchants match 17-6 records at 7:40 p.m. on field 2.

TRF Merchants ripped Hartz 13-1 Monday to gain a first place tie with the Rusty Nail Raiders whose doubleheader split with Tony Dorn, Inc. and Furuseth-Nelson, Inc. prevented them from locking up at least a title tie.

Two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning carried Tony Dorn, Inc. past the Rusty Nail Raiders 5-4. Brad Kosel and Tim Engelstad both went 3-for-3 for the winners who nailed three Rusty Nail runners at the plate.

A little seventh inning magic then helped the Raiders overcome Furuseth-Nelson, Inc. 9-6. Rusty Nail trailed 6-2 with two out and nobody on base in the top of the seventh before the Raiders started spraying singles around the outfield for the win.

Elsewhere, Hobo Haus climbed two places in the Division I standings with a 10-6 victory over Hartz and Swenson Plumbing & Heating, Inc. knocked off Wagon Wheel 11-6.

Division II

First Federal Savings & Loan Association posted a pair of narrow one-run wins over Home Lumber 3-2 and Hamms-Pizza Hut 6-5 Tuesday in Division II to become the first team to lock up a 1979 divisional crown.

In addition to the doubleheader sweep, First Federal Savings & Loan received a title boost when the St. Hilaire Bears, the only other Division II pennant contender, absorbed a 12-8 nine-inning loss at the hands of The Get-A-Way.

Hamms-Pizza Hut doubled Bridgeman's 6-3 and Popplers-Action Realty beat Dallmann Athletic, Inc. to complete Tuesday's schedule.

Division III

It's a virtual four-way tie for first place in Division III where Arctic IWA, Schumacher's Tireland, Phase II and Consumer's Co-op all carry six losses. Arctic IWA, with a wild 13-12 victory over Great Northwest Agency, Inc. Monday, has played and won one more game than the other three contenders.

A title-deciding doubleheader on field 3 Thursday will feature Schumacher's Tireland vs. Phase II at 6:20 p.m. and Schumacher's Tireland vs. Arctic IWA at 7:40.

Phase II, a 13-6 winner over Arctic IWA in a key Monday match, is already assured of at least one more win — a Thursday forfeit over a defunct McDonald's squad.

Consumer's Co-op Association, a 9-2 winner over First Northwestern Insurance Agency Monday, can clinch at least a title with two season-ending wins vs. Great Northwest Agency, Inc. Thursday and vs. First Northwestern Insurance Agency Friday.

Division IV

Wilson Brothers Co. assured itself of at least a Division IV title tie with an 8-5 triumph over the TRF Aggies Tuesday. A win Thursday against Tip & Ring would make Wilson Brothers Co. outright champions.

Jean Junction-Rundell Electric kept its faint pennant hopes alive with a doubleheader sweep Tuesday, Stopping 10-8 and beating the TRF Aggies 16-6 to complete its schedule.

Legion Baseball Tournament . . .

Ninth District To Open On Thursday

Led by the five-time defending champion Moorhead Blues, eight teams will gather this week in New York Mills for the 1979 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament. The double elimination event will send its winner to the Minnesota state American Legion baseball tournament in Willmar August 10-13.

First round Ninth District tournament pairings Thursday feature Breckenridge vs. Red Lake Falls, 1 p.m.; Moorhead Blue vs. East Grand Forks, 3:30; Bagley vs. New York Mills, 6:30; and Detroit Lakes vs. Roseau, 9.

Games continue Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

In last week's sub district championship games played throughout the Ninth District, Breckenridge drilled New York Mills 17-0, Bagley beat Red Lake Falls 9-4, Moorhead Blue out-scored Detroit Lakes 9-8 and Roseau handled East Grand Forks 7-1. All eight sub district semifinal winners earned Ninth District tournament berths.

All ten district tournaments throughout Minnesota will be completed Sunday, with the ten champions joining host Willmar in the 11-team double elimination state tournament.

First District games are being played in Rochester, Second District in Sleepy Eye, Third District in St. Peter, Fouth District in St. Paul, Fifth District in Minneapolis, Sixth District in Cold Spring, Seventh District in Litchfield, Eighth District in Grand Rapids and Tenth District in Delano.

Minnesota state tournament champion will join the champions from Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota, along with the host Fargo, N.D. team in the Central Plains Region 6 tournament August 22-26.

Eight regional champions will compete in the American Legion World Series in Greenville, Miss. August 30-September 1. 1980 American Legion World Series will be played in Minnesota, with Ely serving as the host city.

Thurs., Aug. 2 — Melvies vs. Dallmann Athletic, Inc., 9 p.m.

Fri., Aug. 3 — Action Realty vs. North Star Transport, 7:30 p.m.; Radio Shack vs. Schmidts, 9 p.m.

On paper the 1979 Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league is suppose to be completed this week. However, that paper doesn't include 12 make-up games the seven teams have accumulated this summer which will extend the regular season schedule at least another week.

In the latest schedule change, North Star Transport beat Schmidts 10-3 Tuesday in a game originally scheduled for tonight (Wednesday). A Dallmann Athletic, Inc. vs. Coca-Cola game originally slated Tuesday was moved to Wednesday, then scratched altogether, making it an even dozen games on the shelf awaiting new times and dates.

North Star Transport started Tuesday's game with a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning when Darrell Stromlund led off with a triple to center and scored on Al Jenson's sacrifice fly.

Schmidts took a 3-1 lead in the top of the third on singles of Dean Lawrenz and Larry Coltom, followed by Howard Dalager's first-pitch three-run home run.

But North Star Transport regained the lead by matching those three runs in the bottom of the third on a run-scoring single by Jenson and Ron Ostby's two-run homer, another first-pitch shot that gives Ostby three home runs in ten official at-bats.

North Star Transport added six runs in the bottom of the fourth as they jumped on Lawrenz and relief pitcher Dalager for five hits. Schmidts also hurt its own cause that inning with the game's only two errors.

PAUL HANSON of Mahnomen watched as Thief River Falls' Stu Rugland lined up a putt on the 16th green during last week's qualification round in the prestigious Birchmont International golf tournament played at the Bemidji Town and Country Club. Rugland competed in the vice president flight while Hanson was a winner in the men's D flight.

Area Golfers Play In Birchmont Event

Several Thief River Falls area golfers competed in the 55th annual Birchmont International golf tournament completed Saturday at the Bemidji Town and Country Club.

A semifinalist in last year's tournament, Thief River Falls' Jay Moum aagain qualified for the prestigious championship flight but failed to produce any victories. Moum suffered two eighteenth-hole losses to Rolf Engwall and Stu Oftelie.

Local high school golfers Wade Hoppe and Bob Fitzgerald gained second place and consolation honors in their respective flights. Hoppe defeated Bart Bradford four and two and Allan Thompson, Jr. ten and eight before falling to Paul Hanson of Mahnomen six and four in the finals of the men's D flight and two for consolation honors.

Local golfer Steve Waale, also playing in the D flight, lost to Scott Steinbach three Fitzgerald, playing in the men's C flight, was defeated in the first round but came back to win consolation honors with victories over Ed Lebrau in one extra hole and Elliot Gates four and three.

Playing in the men's F flight, Alex Easton attained victories over Charles Henberger five and three and Jeff Reese of Hallock one up before losing in the finals one up to Tim Tweeten.

Bill Corliss, playing in the men's third flight, lost his first match but went on to take consolation titles with a final round victory over Tim Dorian.

In the women's division, Sylvia Sjoberg lost to Nancy Mac Gibbon for consolation honors in the ladies championship first flight. Sjoberg had earlier lost to Roxy Gumila and defeated Susan Rosland two-up.

Mahnomen golfer Jim Strandemo, a former Northland community college golfer and a runner up two weeks ago in the Cat Classic played here, gained victories over Crookston brothers Mike and Todd Sipe and went on to win consolation honors with an extra holes victory.

Championship flight winner of the 1979 Birchmont International was Bill Israelson of Bemidji, who attained the title by sinking a three-foot par putt on the 18th hole to defeat Dan Norman of Edina one up.

Pre-Registration Needed For Thief Lake WMA Goose Hunt

A pre-registration will be required for the 1979 controlled goose hunts at the Thief Lake wildlife management area according to wildlife officials of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Hunters may apply to reserve one of the stations within the controlled area. Applications must be made on a standard 3¼-inch by 5½-inch post card bearing the applicant's full name and address and listing first, second and third choice of dates. Applicants should indicate whether they will accept any other date if none of their choices are available.

At Thief Lake, the reservation system will be in effect through Oct. 22, but after that date stations will be available on a first-come basis.

Applications should be sent to: Controlled Hunt, Thief Lake WMA, NE Star Route, Box 17, Middle River, Minnesota 56737.

Only one postcard per hunter may be submitted to each area and only successful applicants will be notified. Those submitting more than one application per area will have all of their applications rejected.

Applications will be accepted on the basis of the earliest postmark. Applications postmarked before Sept. 1 or after Sept. 25 will not be accepted.

Successful applicants may be accompanied by one or two guests. Hunters at Thief Lake will be limited to one trip to the stations for the season, either as a guest or as a successful applicant. However, if all hunters have been accommodated, a second trip will be permitted.

Hunters with reservations will be assigned shooting stations by lottery on the morning of the hunt. Hunters without reservations will be assigned stations in drawings to be held daily at 6 a.m. and 9 a.m.

Some stations at Thief Lake will be designated for use by handicapped persons with walking disabilities. These applicants must apply in the same manner as other hunters. Successful applicants will receive priority to hunt in the blinds designated for the handicapped, which will be assigned on the morning of the hunt.

This is the sixth year a controlled goose hunt has been held at Thief Lake.

Additional information on the controlled hunt and application procedures are available from the Thief Lake wildlife management area.

Steel Shot Zones Affect 29 States

Parts of 29 states in all four migratory waterfowl flyways will be affected by steel shot regulations for the 1979-80 waterfowl hunting season, the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) reported.

The zones where steel shot will be required for waterfowl hunting next fall were published in the July 17, 1979, Federal Register.

States in which regional zones will occur are as follows:

Mississippi Flyway— Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Other affected states in the Mississippi Flyway included Iowa, Louisiana, Missouri and Tennessee.

Zones for states in other flyways will be announced by appropriate FWS regional offices, namely for the following states:

Atlantic Flyway— Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina and Virginia.

Central Flyway— Kansas, Nebraska and Texas.

Pacific Flyway — Nevada, Oregon and Washington.

About 20 per cent of the waterfowl harvest of the United States occurs within the zones that have been identified for the next waterfowl hunting season.

In some states, non-toxic shot zones are identified by state regulations only. In addition, some national wildlife refuges require non-toxic shot for waterfowl hunting. Hunters are advised to check state and refuge regulations for other areas where non-toxic shot is required. Steel shot regulations for regional national wildlife refuges will be announced in the near future, FWS officials said.

In 1979, steel shot will be manufactured in 12-gauge shells only. As a result, the service published regulations permitting those using guns other than 12 gauge to continue to hunt in the zones with toxic shotshell loads during the 1979-80 waterfowl season. The exception will terminate after this season and steel shot will be required in all gauges of guns beginning in the fall of 1980.

In 1978, congress passed legislation prohibiting the Interior Department from enforcing steel shot regulations in any state unless the state wildlife agency approved. Several states did not approve the enforcement of the regulations. This provision will expire September 30, 1979; however, it could be extended into the coming hunting season by congressional action similar to that of last year.

Purpose of requiring waterfowl hunters to use steel shot is to reduce the incidence of lead poisoning in waterfowl. About two million waterfowl die of lead poisoning annually in the United States after eating spent lead shot, which the birds mistake for seeds or grit. Steel shot is not toxic to waterfowl.

Steel shot zones are selected on the basis of the amount of shot found in the digestive tracts of waterfowl and on the quantities of lead shot deposited by waterfowl hunters. The Fish and Wildlife Service and the states have conducted extensive studies on these factors over the last several years. The service cooperates with state wildlife agencies in identifying which areas should be designated steel shot zones.

Non-toxic steel shot zones in Minnesota (not including special regulations for certain federal lands and some national wildlife refuges which will be announced in the near future) are as follows:

1. All waters within the boundaries of all state wildlife management areas and federal waterfowl production areas and within a 150-yard zone of land adjacent to the margins of these waters. This includes lakes, ponds, marshes, swamps, rivers, streams and seasonally flooded areas of all types. Drainage ditches and temporary sheet water more than 150 yards from the water areas described above are excluded from the steel shot requirement. Controlled hunting zones of goose management areas are excluded from the provision, except the Roseau wildlife management area which is included.

2. On the waters on Swan and Middle lakes in Nicollet county, North and South Heron lakes in Jackson county, Pelican Lake in Wright county, Bear Lake in Freeborn county and Christina Lake in Douglas and Grant counties and within a 150-yard zone of land adjacent to the margins of the above lakes.

3. Beginning at the intersection of the midline of the Mississippi River and U.S. highway 61 at Hastings, thence southerly along U.S. highway 61 to U.S. highway 16 at LaCresent, thence southerly along U.S. highway 16 to state trunk highway 26, thence southerly along state trunk highway 26 to the southern boundary of the state; thence along the southern and eastern boundaries of the state to the confluence of the St. Croix and Mississippi rivers, thence along the midline of the Mississippi River to the point of beginning.

1980-81 Duck Stamp Contest Opened July 1

Annual "Duck Stamp" contest for waterfowl art to adorn the 1980-81 migratory bird hunting and conservation stamp opened July 1, the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announced.

Revenues derived from the sale of this stamp are the major source of funding for acquisition of critically needed habitat for the nation's waterfowl populations.

The annual competition is the only art contest regularly sponsored by the federal government. The colorful stamps whose designs are selected through the contest constitute the longest running, annually issued series of stamps in revenue or postage stamp history.

Artists interested in submitting an entry should write to the Office of Audio Visual, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240, for copies of the contest rules and an entry form.

Entries will be accepted from July 1 until midnight, October 15, 1979. Only one entry per person will be accepted. Judging and selection of the winning entry, open to the public, will take place on November 8, 1979, at the Department of the Interior auditorium in Washington, D.C.

Migratory bird hunting and conservation stamp was authorized and required by the migratory bird hunting stamp act of 1934. Popularly known as the Duck Stamp, it is sold through local post offices and must be carried by every migratory waterfowl hunter 16 years of age or older. All of the stamp revenues, beyond printing and handling costs, are used solely for the acquisition of additional habitat for ducks and geese. The $7.50 stamp for 1980-81 will go on sale July 1, 1980.

Prior to 1949, wildlife artists were commissioned to provide the design for the Duck Stamp. Since that time, the design has been chosen through the contest — open to all artists who are citizens or residents of the United States.

Prestige of winning the contest has enhanced the reputations of established artists and has elevated otherwise unknown artists to public acclaim. The federal government offers no prize to the winner, but commercial wildlife art dealers in the past have been eager to market limited edition reprints for the winner.

The regulations, summarized in the contest rules that will be sent to each entrant, describe the technical specifications for designs created for the contest, the procedures to be followed in submitting an entry, the qualifications and selection of the judging panel, the criteria to be used in scoring entries, and the voting procedures to be followed by the panel.

Surprises Highlight Play In Women's Slow Pitch

Surprises highlighted Monday's Thief River Falls women's softball league as the Farmer's Co-op Stingers held first place Red Lake Falls to a 4-4 tie, Roseau Transport outscored Pizza Hut 11-10 and Rusty Nail doubled Credit Bureau 10-5.

Red Lake Falls bounced back to crush J & B Drug 18-0 in the second half of a doubleheader, but the tie was the first blemish on the league leaders' record. League rules call for one extra inning in the event of a tie, and if a deadlock still exists, both teams are credited with one-half win and one-half loss in the standings.

Carol Aamodt's home run provided the winning margin as Roseau Transport kept second place Pizza Hut from gaining ground on Red Lake Falls. Rita Rantanen and Maureen Johnson both went 3-for-4 for the losers.

With 56 softball teams in Thief River Falls — men's and women's slow pitch and men's fast pitch — playing since May, Rusty Nail was the only one without a win until Monday.

Elsewhere, Laura Bray homered to lead the Healthy Hustlers past Great Northwest Agency, Inc. 9-8, Ekeren Drug slipped past First Federal Savings & Loan Association in a rare 1-0 game.

There were 22 registered at our center Thursday. Our visitors were Sandy Stallock, Lori and Jimmy of Circle Pines, the Arizona kid and Helen Eskildsen, Mabel Stromberg, Anna Rud, Ida Bruce and Elsie Kimbrough. It was just grand to have Bertha Holmstrom with us again. Marcelyn Lindstrom and Delores Donaldsen brought her here to visit and later Phalea Thompson came to bring her back to the nursing home. We all miss Bertha but we know we have a greater loss than she has. Thursday she brought us some items she had made and on leaving she had some yarn and a frame along home. She will make a sofa pillow top for us.

Four door prizes were given away. Sophia got the prize Sarah gave, Martin won the prize Ella donated, and Anna Rud received the prize donated by Ruth Harper, and Bertha got the prize Amanda gave.

Louie Lofstrom took Mildred to Karlstad Tuesday so they could get some Arctic scrap bags. Now we will be back in the bed pillow business. Mabel Borsvold served lunch.

Dinner guests on Thursday at the Isaac Thompson home were Helge and Breta Lofstrom of Boras, Sweden, Richard Thompson, Elsie Lefrooth, Morris and Hazel Anderson, Kathy Thompson and Andrew.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Kleinwachter spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Conati of Crookston. Saturday they spent the day at Maple Lake and Sunday they took part in the Tec Rally at Crookston.

Mrs. Keith Britten visited at Paul Andersons Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunnar Swanson of Grand Forks visited Ruth Anderson Wednesday. The Swansons also visited Knute Swanson at the Karlstad nursing home and later visited Gerda Johnson at Middle River where they were supper guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Chwialkowski and Shannon visited at the Daryl Johnson home at Drayton Wednesday.

Helge and Breta Lofstrom of Boras, Sweden, showed pictures of their trips to different countries at the Vance Lefrooth home Tuesday evening. Marcelyn Lindstrom, Elsie Lefrooth, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Lefrooth and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Thompson were there to view the slides.

Ruth Anderson visited Jorgen Rickenberg at the Karlstad hospital Sunday evening and later visited at Elmer Andersons.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lefrooth and Melanie and Anna Brekke returned home Wednesday evening after a two week vacation trip out west. They went out for the 25th wedding anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Milo Brekke at Auburn, Wash. They also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Norell Underberg and Brent at Longview.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mestenbrook, Nancy and Lenny of Minnesota City are here visiting for some time at the Alfred Setten and Bob Engler homes.

Victor Holmstroms have had as their visitors this past week Mrs. Ruby Barstad and Lanny Barstad of Lansing, Mich., Mrs. Eddy Kuznia, Aaron Waterworth, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Dyrud, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Myhrer, Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Maurstad, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Maurstad, Daryl and Arnold Mortenson.

Mike Erickson of Thief River Falls came by Wednesday morning and took Sarah Wikstrom along to Roseau for a visit at the Art Erickson home. Relatives were here from Duluth and the state of Washington. Wednesday evening a family picnic was held at the Walter Storie home at Wannaska. It had been a long time since Sarah had seen some of these relatives. Marie Erickson of Thief River Falls took Sarah home Thursday noon just in time for Sarah to go to the senior citizens center.

Karyn Grandstrand enjoyed the birthday party in her honor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Grandstrand of rural Stephen Sunday afternoon. A delicious lunch, birthday cake and coffee was served to the following relatives visiting there that day: Mr. and Mrs. Mark Robertson of Argyle, Mr. and Mrs. Orton Brekke of Strathcona, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Borowicz and David, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grandstrand and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Frie, Mrs. Ronald Donarski and children, Merlyn Nelson and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Grandstrand and Darren, Mr. and Mrs. Gayhard Nelson, Donald, Dean and Myron, Mildred Nelson, Anna Brekke and Irene Larson.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery Flaten and Mary Ellen Flaten drove to Clearbrook Friday evening to visit Jennifer's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Engebritson where they were overnight guests, returning home Saturday evening.

Lena Larson and Ruth Anderson visited with Gerda Johnson at Middle River Wednesday evening and together with Gerda enjoyed a club supper at the cafe in Middle River.

Visitors at the Isaac Thompson home Wednesday afternoon were Lydia Nelson of St. Paul, Alma Stromlund of Galena, Mo., Howard Rood of Holt and Peter H. Thompson of Karlstad.

Visitors this past week at Gust Johnsons were Florence Stennes of Stephen, her daughter Caroline Farmer of California, Mr. and Mrs Algot Erickson of Karlstad, Mrs. Lee Wernberg, Mrs. Elmer Holmstrom, Anna Rud, Ida Bruce, Gena Henrickson, Stacey Westman and Rudy Lindgren.

Saturday Christopher Anderson celebrated his third birthday and Grandma Eva Bernard came for cake and coffee. Sunday Paul Andersons attended the Sunday school picnic at the Old Mill state park.

Mrs. Stanley Donarski, Diane, Bernadette, Lucy, Marc and Paul and Jens Steen, all of Thief River Falls, were visitors and supper guests at the Art Kleinwachter home Tuesday. Anne returned home with her mother after spending a few days at Art's.

Mr. and Mrs. Laures Kleinwachter were later visitors.

Lorraine Setten and Delphine Braff visited Sarah Wikstrom last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Brekke, Mike and Chad of Warren visited Anna Brekke Sunday evening.

Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Holmstrom of St. Paul visited at Alvin Holmstroms. Friday evening Mrs. Philip Cargill visited with Ruth and Roger called Saturday. Saturday evening Ellen Flaten visited Ruth.

Sunday Sophia Borowicz, Evelyn Kujava, Rita Kasprowicz and girls visited Wanda Kuznia. Sophia also accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Kuznia, Paulette and Scott, also Rita Kasprowicz, Tracy and Jenny and Duane Cargill to Hays Lake near Roseau for a day of outing and a picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kronz, Mr. and Mrs. James Larson accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Brekke, Mike and Chad to Greenbush where they were supper guests and visitors at the Floyd Blawat home.

LITTLE OAK . . .

Mrs. Linda Goderstad and Troy of Eden Valley arrived at the Henry Burrack home on Tuesday and they stayed until Friday. Troy stayed for a longer visit with his grandparents.

Card of Thanks

We want to express our heartfelt thanks to all who comforted us during the trying days following the sudden death of our husband and father, James Klosterman.

A special thanks to our friends, relatives and neighbors who brought food and helped when we arrived home.

Thanks to Father Kleinwachter of St. Bernard's for his comforting messages; Mr. Peterson and the Green Funeral Home who conducted the funeral in their special way in Thief River Falls and Wyndmere, N.D.; Mrs. Harger and Miss Nelson for the organ-piano selection; and the VFW and Am. Legion Color Guard.

Thanks also the the pall bearers and the Ladies circle who served lunch following the service.

To all who sent memorials and cards and attended the funeral, we thank you. You have made our sorrow much easier.

POWER BOAT RACING will come to Thief River Falls Sunday when six classes of outboard boats will compete in races on the Red Lake river. The racing event is part of the Jaycee Aquacade and is co-sponsored by the Jaycees and Spirit Marine division of Arctic Enterprises, Inc. Racers will compete for the Spirit Cup to be awarded to the high point racer of the day. Some of the boats have engines up to 200 horsepower and racing is expected to be fast and exciting. Time trials will be held in the late morning or early afternoon and racing will get underway about 1:30 p.m.

Wheat Growers Ask Help For End To Strike

Jorgen Knutson, Minnesota association of wheat growers president, recently called on all farmers in Minnesota to send telegrams to President Carter, with copies to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, asking that necessary action be taken to put members of the grain millers union back to work at Duluth-Superior.

"It is evident that losses from the strike at Duluth-Superior have now amounted to about $100,000,000 and continue to mount on a daily basis," Knutson said.

He pointed out further that action at the port will be compounded as farmers cannot possibly move their grain from country storage in time to prevent dumping grain on the ground this fall."

"We have been informed that some 40 ships, originally scheduled for the Duluth-Superior port, have been diverted to other ports in the United States. This amounts to irreparable damage to the financial status of every farmer in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota," Knutson said.

Necessary papers have been filed for the President to invoke the Taft-Hartly amendments calling for the grain handlers to go back to work during a period of time when the union and management can negotiate.

"It is deplorable that negotiations between union and management are not even underway. The elevators should insist on talks with the union and definite offers made. The farmers are becoming impatient with the lack of progress," Knutson added.

"Union demands, according to information reaching us, are completely out of line with the presidential guidelines. We have been urging federal and state negotiators to abandon their approaches and come with strong positions in getting talks started. The only talks so far have been at the time the strike started. Information also reaches us that some companies do not even have proposals for such talks," Knutson said.

Wheat grower association officers have been in contact with grain companies, union officials, Vice-President Mondale's office, the congressional delegation, Secretary Bergland's staff and many more people for more than two weeks.

"If this strike doesn't come to a quick settlement, Minnesota can kiss its expected economy improvement goodbye this year," Knutson said.

Soc. Security Men Here Tues.

Ted Hoversten and Neil Rowe, field representatives of the Grand Forks social security office, will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Folkedahl To Head Regional FHCE Office

Bonnie Folkedahl has been named to manage a new regional office in Thief River Falls for the foundation for health care evaluation, a Minneapolis-based physician organization.

"The foundations contracts with the U.S. department of health, education, and welfare to help hospitals review the appropriateness of certain admissions and lengths of stay as well as the quality of care delivered," Folkedahl said. "This review is provided primarily to patients whose hospital bills are paid by the government."

A regional council of physicians drawn from each hospital in this area will set standards under federal law and oversee the peer review process, which is called professional standards review. The foundation for health care evaluation is a private, nonprofit organization.

The Thief River Falls office will oversee the review program for all hospitals in Norman, Clearwater, Lake of the Woods, Beltrami, Polk, Roseau, Kittson, Mahnomen, Hobbard, Red Lake, Pennington and Marshall counties.

Jenifer Springsteen, also of Thief River Falls, will join Folkedahl in the new office as program specialist. The office is located at 212½ N. LaBree.

Flood Control Coalition For Valley Formed

Over 100 citizens and leaders from the Manitoba, Minnesota and North Dakota Red River Valley formed a "Red River Valley international citizens flood control coalition" recently at a meeting held in the Westward Ho Motel in Grand Forks.

Caucauses of delegates from Manitoba, North Dakota and Minnesota each nominated 15 leaders for nomination to the coalition's charter board of directors. They were in turn elected by the entire group present. The coalition will be an affiliate of Red River land, N.D.

Charter officers of the board elected include Ralph Eisbrenner, Mayor, Emerson, Manitoba, president, Albert St. Hilaire, St. Jean Babtiste, vice-president, Manitoba, Gale Smith, Hendrum, vice-president, Minnesota, Mrs. Glen Lougheed, rural Halstad, vice-president, North Dakota, Don Myrold, Fargo, vice-president, RRL, ND, Ann Murphy, Fargo, secretary, Morris Lanning, Moorhead, treasurer and Vern stiller, Fargo, executive-director.

Co-chairmen of an authorized, Valley-wide donor-membership drive are Mrs. Lougheed, Minnesota RRV, Mrs. Murphy, ND RRV and Jack Stott, Niverville and D.K. Friesen, Altona, Manitoba RRV. These persons are now appointing chairmen in each municipality and county and in each community and township in flood threatened parts of the valley. Membership goal is a minimum of 5000 within one year.

Coalition motto adopted was "Red River Flood Control Now". Basic purpose statement for the coalition adopted by the group is, "to achieve immediate start-up of a "Flood Control Now" system throughout the entire Red River Valley Manitoba, Minnesota and North Dakota on an emergency basis temporarily and then on a permanent, long-term basis.

One basic control systems are in place, to continue to press for ever-improving flood control and to represent the unified people of all parts of RRL, interstate and international in all matters pertaining to drought water supply management and other water resources-related problems."

Information about participating in the coalition and its activities can be obtained at its offices in Block 6, Fargo, or by phoning 235-8850, Fargo.

Safety and health standards set by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration are designed to eliminate or reduce on-the-job hazards faced by workers.

Preserve A Seasonal Fruit Favorite

By Carolyn Avelino

Home canning is old news. But with the rising cost of food and the development of simplified processing methods, more and more homemakers are taking an interest in "storing up" when favorite foods are plentiful. For example, what better way to keep the fresh taste of summer fruits now coming into season than by preserving them with home canning and freezing? Because the big concern in preserving is spoilage, our home economists at Hunt-Wesson offer these guidelines for successful preservation.

Avelino

Always select ripe fruit that's unbruised and still firm. Add ascorbic acid to both canned and frozen fruits to ensure they will maintain their quality and natural color.

Sugar will generally give processed fruits a better flavor and texture. However, light corn syrup or honey can be substituted for as much as half the sugar used in canning fruit or up to one fourth the amount used in freezing.

Always wash canning jars in hot soapy water before you use them and leave them in hot water until you fill them. You can use either the "open kettle" or "water bath" method of preserving, but make sure the method pertains to the fruit you are canning. Follow your recipe carefully!

When packaging fruits for freezing, make sure your materials are moisture and vapor proof. It's a good idea to label and date preserved fruit so you'll know how long it's been on your shelf or in your freezer!

Preserving fruit can be economical and fun for the entire family. You can save money by buying a large quantity of your favorite fruit when it's plentiful. One easy way to determine seasonal buys is through the Hunt-Wesson Better Food Buys guide, which is printed monthly and available at participating supermarkets nationwide. These lists are compiled from information supplied by governmental agencies and grower association publications not readily available to consumers. It's Hunt-Wesson's way of making it better for you.

Ms. Avelino is a senior home economist for Hunt-Wesson Foods.

Inflate Tires Properly; Save And Be Safe

Vacation-bound motorists who are anxious to squeeze every mile from a gallon of gas are reminded that proper tire inflation can reduce fuel consumption while ensuring a safer trip.

Underinflated tires can add to gasoline consumption, according to the Tire Industry safety council. Also, underinflated tires will run hotter, wear faster and may fail prematurely.

"Underinflated tires, that is tires having less than the amount of air pressure recommended by the vehicle manufacturer, have greater rolling resistance. This in turn means your engine and your tires have to work harder," said council chairman Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr.

Recommended pressures are found on a sticker affixed to either a doorpost or glove compartment door and in the owner's manual.

Lovell also cautioned drivers about the dangers of overloading a vehicle. Tires are designed to carry a maximum load for any given inflation pressure and loafding beyond this without increasing inflation often leads to handling difficulty and premature failure.

There is a maximum pressure permissible for each tire and it is stamped on the tire sidewall along with the corresponding maximum load.

"Rear tires on station wagons and cars loaded on a vacation trip are prime candidates for overloading," he said. "That's another reason to add four extra pounds before embarking on a long trip. But remember, don't exceed the maximum pressure shown on the tire in an attempt to compensate for overloading."

The council has available a free, 16-page Consumer Tire Guide which lists the load and inflation tables for passenger car tires. You may obtain a copy by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to: Consumer Tire Guide, Box 1801, Washington, D.C. 20013.

The Tire Industry safety council offers the following tips aimed at making your vacation safer this summer:

—Don't drive on bald tires, that is tires with less than one-sixteenth inch of tread. Insert a Lincoln head penny upside down in two adjacent tread grooves. If the top of Lincoln's head shows, there is less than one-sixteenth inch tread and the tire is unsafe.

—Check tire inflation pressures before long trips in addition to monthly pressure checks. Don't forget check the spare tire.

—Don't reduce air pressure after driving. Pressure buildup due to heat from running is normal and tires will cool down on their own.

—Don't overload your vehicle. Make sure your tires have enough load capacity to handle the maximum loads you intend to carry.

—Carry your own tire pressure gauge because service station air towers are often inaccurate.

—If you have any questions about your tires or their load limits, consult a tire dealer.

Strategic Air Force Begins 'Global Sheild'

Strategic air command (SAC) announced recently that the command-wide, no-notice exercise "Global Shield" began July 8 at 7 p.m. (CDT).

Global Shield 79 will include command post and field training exercises designed to test the ability of SAC forces to implement Emergency war orders (EWO) which support U.S. national policy if deterrence falls.

As part of the exercise, SAC will test plans and procedures designed to enhance the survivability of SAC's bomber and tanker forces during periods of increased tension. SAC air and missile crews will receive simulated orders to execute strikes against hypothetical enemy targets. Throughout the exercise, SAC will be conducting command post exercises to evaluate the ability of SAC commanders and their staffs, at all levels, to effectively command and control their forces.

During the exercise, unarmed aircraft will disperse to civilian and military airfields and fly simulated airborne alert missions. Additionally, unarmed SAC B-52 and FB-111 bombers will be flying federal aviation administration (FAA) approved low level training routes. These routes have been announced to the media located in areas affected by them. These routes, with the aircraft flying at altitudes ranging from 400 to 2,000 feet above the ground, will be used in conjunction with ground radar sites to electronically measure the simulated precision bombing, navigation and electronic counter-measure skills of participating SAC aircrews. Aircraft flying exercise missions will not carry weapons of any kind.

All SAC tanker, bomber and missile units, selected recon units, and sixteen Air Force reserve and Air National Guard units will participate in one or more aspects of Global Shield 79.

The purpose of Global Shield 79, SAC's largest and most comprehensive exercise in more than 20 years, is best summarized by General Richard H. Ellis, commander in chief, strategic air command, "The overriding purpose of the exercise is to test SAC's readiness and capability to support the war plans that would be implemented by national leaders in response to an attack on the United States."

Citizens living adjacent to Air Force bases with SAC units should not be alarmed by unusual activities, including sounding of on-base alert sirens and movement of personnel, aircraft and support equipment and supplies during the period of the exercise.

Exercise Global Shield 79 will last for approximately one week.

Hints For Homeowners

WHAT KIND OF CARPET FOR YOU?

Select your carpet with care, and it can give you years of pleasure, pride and service like this Naturally Yours of Trevira by Gulistan.

Don't be floored when you shop for carpeting. Know before you go.

Over 90 percent of all carpets sold today are tufted. In tufting, loops of yarn are pulled through a primary backing to form the face or surface pile.

The four representative types of cut-pile carpet textures—plush, shag, frieze, Saxony—are differentiated by the amount of twist in their yarns. Plush yarns have less twist, saxonies are in-between; frieze is tightly twisted.

For carpet used on high traffic areas, the more dense constructions are best. Although shag carpets with higher pile heights may look thicker, they are not recommended for high traffic areas.

Quality of carpet and resultant performance are determined by the height of pile, the inherent strength of the fiber and pile density. The denser the pile, the less visible will the backing material be when you bend back a corner of the carpet.

Base your choice of carpet fiber on the performance you expect. Wool has good resitance to crushing: spots and stains are readily removed, but its abrasion resistance is not up to polyester, nylon or polypropylene.

Polyester fiber offers colorfastness, easy care, low static and durability. The largest-selling polyester carpet fiber is Trevira, made by Hoechst Fiber Industries. Its unique five-faceted concave cross-section provides a rich luster that enhances the color.

Nylon fiber wears very well although it soils more readily and is prone to static. But when properly constructed, it is a good choice for high traffic areas. Acrylic carpet fiber features excellent pattern retention; it looks and feels a lot like wool. Its resistance to abrasion is not on a par with polyester or nylon.

Polypropylene is a synthetic that has good abrasion resistance, excellent cleanability and low static.

From here de gustibus non disputandum—there is no disputing about taste!

Watching the excited antics of youngsters when they catch their first fish is a priceless experience.

In a 1976 survey (by the Sports Network) of Americans' attitudes toward fishing, two facts emerged.

— More than 75 percent of anglers began to fish before age 12.

— Most of these anglers were introduced to the sport by a parent or close relative.

The Youth Fishing Division of the American Fishing Tackle Manufacturers Association has the following tips for teaching youngsters to fish:

— Don't force them!

— Young ladies like to fish too.

— Teach them about proper equipment and care.

— Keep them comfortable with proper clothing.

— Use simple methods. Using spin cast outfits for bluegills is a good place to begin.

— Make sure there is some action. Dunking worms for yellow perch or flounder is elementary, but practically insures a mighty nibble and often a thrilling catch.

— Once you teach them the fundamentals, let them do their own fishing.

— Learn as well as teach. Don't take fishing too seriously. It's a good chance to talk and become closer to the youngster.

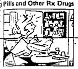
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Engen and Lia and Angela Critchley of Ada called at the Norman Folden home on Monday evening and also at the Lyle Olson home.

NEWS OF HEALTH

Danger Signals: Sleeping Pills and Other Rx Drugs



Millions of people in the United States use mood-altering drugs under a doctor's care with beneficial effects, but these drugs—tranquilizers, stimulants, sleeping pills, and pain relievers—can be abused.

If you think you or someone you know has a problem with drugs, ask yourself these questions:

1. Are you defensive if anyone mentions your drug use?
2. Are you ever embarrassed or frightened by your behavior under the influence of drugs?
3. Have you gone to a new doctor because your old one would not prescribe the drug you wanted?
4. When under pressure or feeling anxious, do you automatically take a tranquilizer?
5. Do you take drugs more often or for reasons other than those indicated by your doctor?
6. Do you mix drugs and alcohol?
7. Do you regularly take drugs to help you sleep?
8. Do you have to take pills to wake up?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, you may have a drug problem. To avoid problems before they start, the National Institute on Drug Abuse says you should always be able to answer the following questions:

1. Do you know what drug you're taking and what it's supposed to do for you?
2. Do you know when to stop taking it?
3. Do you know what side effects or problems to watch for?
4. If you have questions about the drug you've been prescribed, have you talked with your doctor or considered a second opinion?

The Institute points out that a recent study shows sleeping pills only reduce the time needed to fall asleep by 10 to 20 minutes, only increase a night's sleep by 30 to 40 minutes, and continuous use of some sleeping pills actually worsens insomnia. The study also showed that flurazepam (Dalmane), the most prescribed sleeping drug, can affect driving performance the day after use.

Toney Penna Talks Golf

How you feel when you swing your clubs should be the most important factor when you are selecting your woods.

If you feel comfortable with your clubs, you swing with confidence. That alone will improve your game. And you'll feel most comfortable with clubs that permit you to stand relatively upright so your swing is vertical rather than flat. This means you must choose club lengths that fit.

Fit depends on arm length, not height. If your finger tips are 27 to 30 inches from the ground with your arms hanging naturally at your sides, then you need standard-length clubs.

Another important factor is lie—the angle between clubhead and shaft. As you address the ball, the lie must position the bottom of the clubhead with heel on the ground...toe slightly higher.

If you're troubled with a consistent hook or slice, you can probably cure it with the proper face angle. If the face of the clubhead "looks" to the left, the face angle is said to be closed, which creates a tendency to pull the ball and overcome a slice. An "open face" looks to the right. With an open face, you'll push the ball and compensate for a hook.

Mr. Penna, a former leading tour and club pro, is the designer of the widely imitated MT irons and head of the Toney Penna Company, custom golf equipment manufacturing division of A-T-O Inc.

Topsoil Losses Due To Erosion 'Unacceptable'

About eight million acres of Minnesota's 23 million acres of cropland have the potential for losing topsoil at an average rate of 11 tons per acre per year — more than twice the rate considered acceptable by soil conservationists. This soil loss rate is one of the conclusions of an erosion inventory conducted by the U.S. soil conservation service (SCS).

The inventory also shows, however, that only about four million acres of cropland are actually losing topsoil at unacceptable rates. The rest of the potentially erodible cropland is protected by erosion control practices that farmers have carried out through local, state and federal soil conservation programs.

"Generally, an annual soil erosion rate of five tons per acre is considered acceptable," said Harry Major, SCS state conservationist for Minnesota. "An annual erosion rate higher than five tons per acre means that erosion is adversely affecting soil sertility. A farmer either would have to accept lower production from a field eroding at that rate or would have to replace fertility lost to erosion with fertilizer or through some other method."

Major added that at 1979 prices it would cost $1.2 billion to reduce all soil erosion in Minnesota to acceptable levels. Maintenance costs on those erosion in Minnesota to acceptable levels. Maintenance costs on those erosion control measures would be an additional $67 million annually.

"In many areas of Minnesota the water pollution that results from soil erosion is at least as serious as the loss in soil fertility that erosion causes," Major said.

In west central and southeastern Minnesota landscape features cause much of the soil that erodes from cropland to wash into lakes and streams. "In those areas," Major said, "we may be looking at the need to keep erosion rates even lower than what we usually consider acceptable for future productivity of the land. Annual erosion rates of five tons per acre may still be too high to assure adequate protection of water quality."

As a followup to this erosion inventory, SCS is now starting a more detailed inventory of soil erosion in 23 Minnesota counties. The study will be expanded to 60 counties in 1980 and will be completed in 1982.

"This new inventory will be very helpful at the county level because it will add more detailed information to the broader inventory just completed," Major said.

"The information we have now consists of average rates of soil erosion. When soil erosion rates from various fields are averaged, those rates can appear acceptable. Within that average, though, there can be some very high soil losses, which will cause fertility and sedimentation problems on individual farms. These areas of high erosion can also cause wider problems, in the form of pollution of lakes and streams."

Major added that by showing where these particular problem areas are, the county erosion inventories will help local soil and water conservation districts provide erosion control help to the landowners who need help the most.

Vacation Without 'Heat'

You've waited all winter long, and at last that vacation is just around the corner. The kids and camper are packed, ready to roll. And a week's supply of Doggie Delights are neatly stacked with the picnic supplies. But alas, if your calculations are right, Queenie is going to be in heat.

No longer does your dog's heat have to throw a snag into vacation plans. Schering Corporation has developed a birth control pill for dogs that not only prevents unwanted pregnancies but also can be used to suppress the heat cycle. So Queenie won't be attracting male dogs to your door. It's called OVABAN® and is available through your veterinarian. The product is safe, convenient, and what's more dogs find it tasty (palatable).

The canine pill is similar to the human birth control pill in that it suppresses the hormones responsible for the heat cycle. So it's a contraceptive and a heat cycle suppressant.

Most importantly, Ovaban is effective, and it has a proven safety record. On the U.S. market for four years and in England for ten, it has been used on dogs of all ages, weights and breeds.

Enjoy your vacation and your pet. If she's about to go into heat, the pill will suppress the cycle, so you won't be bothered by the nuisance of heat and the accompanying howling dogs. For more information, contact your veterinarian.

MOST VALUABLE RESOURCE

"Every child has a right to an opportunity to develop physically, mentally and morally in freedom and dignity."

This is one of the rights championed by the U.N. Declaration of the Rights of Children issued in 1959.

Twenty years later the world's observance of the International Year of the Child (IYC) is still seeking to focus attention on children.

Among American voluntary agencies actively taking part in the IYC is Catholic Relief Services. More than half of the 18 million people touched by Catholic Relief Services are children in the poorest nations.

CRS personnel in Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America know from first hand experience that the children of the poor and dispossessed are the world's most valuable and vulnerable resource. Every half minute 100 children are born in developing countries. Sixty of these children will have no access to modern medical care during their childhood.

Catholic Relief Services works daily with children, their mothers and their villages to combat malnutrition, to provide the opportunity to develop physically, mentally and morally in freedom and dignity.

American voluntary agencies like Catholic Relief Services are a good way for Americans to translate the abstract rights of children expressed by the IYC declaration into vital, healthy and enduring reality.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

A Principle Worth Keeping is Worth Living Up To

One of the age-old criticisms of the National Chamber is that we have become too predictable. Our response has been that any large organization, by definition, is predictable. It is a component of management's responsibility to define, shape and carry out its organization's mission. Who is surprised, for example, when George Meany asks for more money for his members or when the Joint Chiefs of Staff argue for increased defense spending when their mission is to protect the nation?

But this question of predictability is especially true in the case of the Chamber. For our mission: "to advance human progress through an economic, political and social system based on individual freedom, incentive, initiative, opportunity and responsibility," is really a statement of those principles conceived by the Founding Fathers as the basis of our American society. Our predictability is another way of saying that we intend to be dependable; we intend to honor our birthright.

Benjamin Franklin once remarked: "If a principle is good for anything it is worth living up to." I happen to believe that America's record speaks for itself. In this country, a fraction of the world's population, with no monopoly on natural resources has created more wealth and given more away than any other country in history. Just consider for a moment what America produces and contributes: An agricultural system that feeds and sustains millions of the world's hungry, miraculous medical breakthroughs that reduce pain and eliminate crippling disease, and universities, industries and research centers that continue to attract the world's finest minds and produce technological discoveries that free us from drudgery and shower us all with the most abundant assortment of foods and consumer goods the world has ever known.

But how did it all happen? Was this unprecedented prosperity legislated from Washington... was it handed down by edict from HUD, ICC, FTC, DOT, or any of the other countless departments, bureaus, agencies and commissions that make up the growing network of roots of Big Brother's family tree? Heavens no! Washington itself is a creation of our affluence. The weeds of that affluence were planted some 200 years ago in our revolutionary experiment in self-government. The whole idea was to protect the freedoms of individuals, not just from outsiders, but from insiders as well — and especially from those in office.

And that's the only idea that has ever worked. For as Irving Kristol has observed: "Where people are given the freedom to engage in economic activities for the purpose of bettering their condition and most important, where the entrepreneur is given the freedom to innovate, then you get economic growth. Where such freedoms are restricted by government, you get relatively slow or no economic growth." And what is true here is true everywhere. That's why South Korea prospers while North Korea stagnates; and that's why in Europe, it is those in the East who always yearn to live in the West.

Yet we're constantly asked, what about all our problems now? The same people, for example, who spent, taxed and regulated us into our present dilemma of soaring prices and energy shortages now say that only a massive new federal commitment can provide solutions. But how? Will we be saved by the Department of Energy which spends $10 billion in taxes each year without producing a drop of oil, and which cannot even deliver its own mail? DOE estimates it loses at least 120,000 pieces of mail every year (a stack more than twice as high as the Washington Monument) and it needs more than two days just to deliver one letter between offices in the same town.

Compare that performance with the voluntary activities during the past two years of a somewhat smaller organization, the Wilkes Chamber of Commerce in North Wilkesboro, North Carolina. With the help of its members' profits (that's right, profits), that one Chamber, working with its Foundation and the downtown North Wilkesboro Association, accomplished the following for its neighbors: Sponsored sickle cell anemia clinics; provided thousands of dollars to a community college for scholarships and physical additions; spent thousands to upgrade the county's medical delivery system including the recruitment of doctors; secured industries and professions to provide new jobs, and acted as a local sponsor, providing the matching funds for hot meals for the elderly program.

So perhaps you will understand why I say the National Chamber has no intention of abandoning, nor of ever apologizing for its mission. In fact, we rather like being called predictable; that's what promoting principles, people and progress is all about.

About 63 percent of all American families own their own homes.

ENTERTAINING IDEAS

CELEBRATE THAT HAPPY OCCASION OUT-OF-DOORS

Whether it's an August bridal shower, a birthday or an anniversary celebration out-of-doors, give the occasion a touch of elegance by adding wine to the meal. Apple Crisp Rosé, delicately laced with Tavel Cotes du Rhone rosé wine, complements the feast. Decorate your table with flowers from your garden and bright, festive paper tablecloths. For a perfect sauce over ice cream, try Nectarine Rosé topping. Elegant desserts for summer entertaining.

APPLE CRISP ROSE

- 1/3 cup Tavel Cotes du Rhone rosé wine
- 6 tart baking apples, peeled, cored and sliced
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3/4 cup unsifted flour
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans or toasted almonds
- Sweetened whipped cream or vanilla ice cream

In bowl, toss wine and apples to blend. Add 1/2 cup sugar, spices and lemon juice. Mix lightly and spoon into buttered 1 1/2 quart baking dish.

Blend remaining sugar with flour, salt and butter until crumbly. Add nuts and sprinkle over apple mixture. Bake at 350° F for 45 minutes or until apples test done. Serve warm with whipped cream or ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

NECTARINE ROSÉ TOPPING

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons light brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon or lime juice
- 3 medium nectarines or peaches, sliced
- 1/4 cup Tavel Cotes du Rhone rosé wine
- Vanilla ice cream
- Toasted coconut

In skillet or chafing dish, combine butter, sugar and lemon juice. Cook over medium heat until bubbly. Add fruit and cook until heated through and glazed, stirring occasionally. Add wine and heat through.

Serve over ice cream. Garnish with coconut. Makes 4 servings.

MAKEUP ARTIST SHARES COMPLEXION CARE SECRETS

Few models use soap on their faces, according to New York makeup artist Paul Hayes, who has worked on such familiar visages as Star Wars' Carrie Fisher and ballerina Gelsey Kirkland.

Hayes has strong feelings on proper complexion care. He likes to work his cosmetic artistry on the smoothest, softest, clearest skin possible.

"Beauty actually is a model's profession, so she has to take better care of her skin than does the average woman," says Hayes. "That's why models have frequent facials and use gentle cleansers twice a day to help achieve a perfect complexion."

Hayes says he thinks more women would take the time to cleanse their faces thoroughly if they knew how to do it correctly. "That includes paying attention to important details such as choosing the right cleanser, using a gentle touch while washing and remembering to rinse thoroughly."

The most important time to cleanse is at night, after you've been exposed to weather and air pollution all day, says Hayes. His advice is to remove your makeup thoroughly with a gentle, moisturizing cleanser such as Dove Beauty Bar with its one-quarter moisturizing cream ingredient. Don't use soap, which can dry out your skin.

Soap is bad enough for cheeks, chin and forehead, the makeup expert says, but never use it around the eyes. "The eye area is much more delicate than the rest of your face and dries out more easily."

Hayes' prescription for proper complexion care is to apply a cleanser, like Dove, in soft, circular motions. A creamy lather will let your fingers glide easily over your skin. Work outward toward the hairline, while being careful not to tug or pull. "If you look at skin under a microscope, you'll see dead cells on the surface," he points out. "They look like fish scales. You have to loosen and remove those dead cells every time you cleanse."

Thorough rinsing is a must to remove every trace of lather and dirt. Use tepid water so you don't shock your face.

Always cleanse completely before every makeup application. "Models do this, even if they're being made up four or five times a day," he notes.

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad
Oklee, Minn.

The neighbors of Ole Hofstad gathered Saturday to build an outdoor ramp for Ole who has been crippled for over 30 years with multiple sclerosis, a disorder of the nervous system. Ole will be presented with a new wheelchair in a few days, too. Ole is able to go outdoors and enjoy the nice weather we are having this summer and exercise moving about in the wheelchair. Carpenters building the ramp were Brad Nelson and Oliver Hofstad. Others helping were Julian Gunderson who furnished the lumber material at cost. Orlando Chervestad, Kevin Hinden, Verner Arveson, Glen Hofstad. Ladies came with a potluck dinner including Birdie Gunderson, Luella and Jennifer Peterson, Lavonne Radniecki, Evelyn Lundeen, Linda Hofstad, Carol and Helen Chervestad, Sina Chervestad and Signe Evenson. Ole would like to extend a great big thank you to all who contributed money, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Peterson and Jennifer traveled to Aberdeen, S.D., Sunday to visit with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Stanl Cwikla, Greg and Brad. When they returned home Tuesday, Mrs. Stan Cwikla and Brad accompanied them home for a visit. Wednesday Mrs. Adolph Peterson, Jennifer and Isaac, Mrs. Stan Cwikla and Brad visited at the Art Bergland home in Thief River Falls. Thursday they visited at the Richard Lambert home in Oklee and on Friday they stopped over to visit at the Fred Lundeen home. Friday evening Stan Cwikla joined his family at the Adolph Peterson home. Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Stan Cwikla and Brad left for Middle River to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cwikla.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Halvorson of Grand Forks were visitors and supper guests at his sister's home, the Malcolm Stucys.

Tuesday visitors at Birdie's were Mr. and Mrs. Galen Halvorson, Bunny Cote and Audrey Stawarski, Mrs. Merald Halvorson and boys. In the evening Birdie and Julian and Tillie visited at the Herbert Lundeen home.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU?

Corporate Mergers

Mergers are often the best way small and middle-sized companies can raise needed funds.

American jobs and America's ability to compete effectively in world markets may hinge on the outcome of the debate on imposing legislative restrictions on conglomerate mergers. A recent New York Times editorial concluded that the economic arguments for and against such mergers "virtually cancel each other out" and that the argument should "turn largely on the noneconomic consequences."

However, a leading American businessman—head of the Business Round Table's Task Force on Economic Organization and Chairman of The Continental Group—explains why restrictive legislation would produce a negative effect on our economy.

By Robert S. Hatfield

A recent N.Y. Times editorial concerning corporate mergers presented the view that the economic arguments of conglomerate mergers "cancel each other out." However, the vast majority of economic and legal opinion, as evidenced in hearings before the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly, is that most mergers make good economic sense and that antimerger legislation will have negative economic consequences.

Whenever a rational economic decision is prohibited, there are going to be costs to society. Mergers provide an important check upon the quality of managerial performance. They often increase competition and frequently lead to economies of scale and other synergies in product development, research and development and marketing.

Mergers are often the best way small and middle-sized companies can raise needed funds, enhancing the stability of both the acquired and the acquiring companies through diversification and distribution of risk. Such stability benefits not only the companies' shareholders but also its employees, suppliers and communities.

Finally, mergers offer U.S. firms one important way to compete with ever-growing and often subsidized foreign companies. American goods and services must be competitive in world markets in order for the people of our nation to continue to be productively employed.

The support for additional checks on conglomerate mergers is an expression of concern that such companies are gaining undue influence over the political and legislative processes. There is agreement among leading scholars who have studied this allegation that it has no valid basis. Prof. Edwin Epstein of the University of California at Berkeley testified that "there does not exist at this time a sufficiently reliable empirical base concerning the nature, extent and implications of corporate political and social power to permit Congress to formulate legislation with the requisite level of information and insight required for sound public policy." I do, however, agree that these issues warrant further study to establish the facts.

A major concern is undue lobbying influence of large corporations. In appearing before the Administrative Law and Governmental Relations Subcommittee of the House of Representatives, I emphasized the Business Roundtable's support of lobby-law reform. We agree with the need for full disclosure of what the business community and other lobbying groups say and do in communicating with the Congress. Such disclosures will relieve public anxiety about the ability of "conglomerates to acquire greater potential influence over government."

Cancer Answers

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Cancer society, and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

Dear Cancer Answers:

I recently quit smoking cigarettes (tobacco) but have continued to smoke marijuana. Is marijuana less harmful to my lungs than cigarettes would be? Could I still get lung cancer?

J.R.

Dear J.R.;

Anything you smoke will damage your lungs. This is because the hot smoke, when inhaled, harms the cells that line the breathing tubes. Over the years, the cells that have been damaged begin to grow in abnormal arrangements rather than in orderly rows like normal cells. This sets the state for cancer or other smoking-related diseased.

Although data on the effect of marijuana is limited, it is known that one usually inhales marijuana smoke more deeply than one inhales cigarette smoke. Also, marijuana is likely to contain more resins and tar than does tobacco. It probably dirties the lungs more, puff for puff, than tobacco.

However, most marijuana smokers don't smoke twenty or more "reefers" daily. (While heavy cigarette smokers often smoke many more than that.) Although each reefer may be more hazardous than each cigarette, one's exposure may not be the same.

You don't say how long or how intensely you smoked cigarettes and how much marijuana you've smoked. If you stop smoking both tobacco and mairjuana now, your chances of having lung disease, including cancer, will significantly decrease.

Dear Cancer Answers:

If a person has cancer symptoms, is checked at a hospital and told nothing is wrong but still has the symptoms, what should he do?

Eleanor

Dear Eleanor:

Speak to your physician. Explain that you are still concerned. The symptoms may not mean cancer, but you deserve some explanation for the symptoms. If you are not satisfied with the answer the doctor gives you, it may ease your mind to get the opinion of another doctor.

Dear Cancer Answers:

We've been told my dad has cancer. This is quite a shock and it's difficult to understand everything we're being told by the doctors, especially since we don't really know a lot of the new terms being tossed about. What is a carcinoma? What kind of a doctor is an oncologist? What is chemotherapy? Where can we find out more about cancer?

Paula

Dear Paula:

It is very difficult to absorb such an overwhelming amount of "new" information, particularly when it is both frightening and foreign-sounding.

The medical terms you asked about are frequently used when discussing cancer and its treatment. We offer the following definitions to aid in your understanding:

CARCINOMA — a form of cancer that starts in the tissues that cover or line parts of the body such as the skin, intestines, lungs, etc.

ONCOLOGIST — a doctor who specializes in the treatment of cancer, particularly its treatment with drugs.

CHEMOTHERAPY — the treatment of diseases — in this case, cancer — with drugs or chemical compounds.

In order to obtain more information about your father's particular case, your family might want to discuss what they already know, then write down some questions before speaking with your dad's physician again.

The Minnesota Cancer Information Service can answer any general questions you have about cancer and its treatment, give you information about community resources, and provide a vareity of helpful, written information such as the "Cancer Word Book," a small dictionary of medical and scientific terms used by health professionals who deal with cancer. In Minnesota you can call the Cancer Information Service, toll-free, 1-800-582-5262, or you can write to this address: Minnesota Cancer Information Service, 2750 Park Avenue, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55407.

Dear Cancer Answers:

Is it safe to have a breast implant after surgery for cancer? Could the implant cause another cancer?

Margaret

Dear Margaret:

All inserts used in breast reconstruction by competent specialists are now encapsulated and are not known to cause cancer or to be a health risk. Opinions on the advisability of such reconstruction will vary based upon the individual case and the physician consulted. In some cases such surgery may be inappropriate while in others it may be an important part of the woman's emotional recovery from mastectomy.

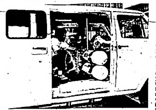
Energy Crisis . . .

Benefits From Alternate Fuel



Placement of the natural gas cylinders within the vehicle can vary. In this van, the cylinders are placed in the front of the cargo space. Other van installations situate the cylinders under the floor of the cargo space. For cars, the cylinders are installed in the trunk area.

In a country where the gasoline powered vehicle is king, it may be surprising to know that several thousand vehicles are running on an alternate fuel—natural gas—and running well. Developed by a group of Southern California engineers, the relatively new system for converting a gasoline engine to operate on natural gas has been installed in thousands of vehicles from taxi cabs to delivery vans throughout the U.S. and in many other parts of the world as well.

Manufactured by Dual Fuel Systems, Inc. of Montebello, California, the system is being used for primarily fleet vehicles—that is cars, vans, and trucks which return each day to a centralized refueling point.

The system has definite advantages over gasoline including economy, reduced polluting emissions, reduced engine wear and easier starting in very hot or very cold climates.

Converting a vehicle to the Dual Fuel system requires less than a day. When a company installs the system, they also set up a natural gas refueling station. This can either quick fill vehicles in less than five minutes or refuel the entire fleet overnight while parked in their stalls.

The vehicle conversion components can be easily removed from a vehicle once it is retired and installed on another.

Although the system was originally developed as a possible solution to the pollution problem, economy has become a major selling point. With ever rising gasoline costs, the ability to reduce fuel expenditure by as much as 66 percent is reason enough to convert. The system frequently pays for itself in less than 2½ years. Added economic benefits include savings in operating costs. Engine parts, especially spark plugs and engine oil, may last twice as long as those of a gasoline powered vehicle because natural gas does not contain lead or other additives that produce engine fouling deposits. And since natural gas is a cleaner burning fuel, many communities are converting their municipal vehicles because it does not add to their area's pollution problems in addition to saving tax dollars.

Dual Fuel's engineers continue to experiment with new applications for their systems to make better use of our natural resources and at the same time help reduce air pollution.

Fifteen Chinese Students To Attend MN 'U'

by Bill Huntzicker
University News

University of Minnesota officials hope that the recent arrival of a scholar from the People's Republic of China to study insect physiology on the St. Paul campus will be the first of many exchanges between Minnesota and China.

Her visit is part of an effort on the part of the People's Republic of China to improve their high technology capability, which fell behind during the cultural revolution of the 1960s.

Minnesota officials believe that the most productive exchanges will be in the health sciences, agriculture, mathematics, engineering and physics.

Zhai Qi-hui, whose family name is promounced Ji (rhymes with sky), will study in the entomology, fisheries and wildlife department. The second visiting Chinese scholar, Lu Zhenxiang, is expected to arrive later this month to study in the same department. Fifteen other students and visiting scholars have been accepted by the university and most of them are also in highly specialized fields in agriculture, medicine, and civil and mineral engineering.

Zhai is in Minnesota as an honorary fellow, which means that she is a visiting scholar who has access to university classes, laboratories, libraries and other facilities. She is not formaly enrolled as a student but works as a peer with her co-advisors, Richard Jones, associate professor of entomology, and Sam Kirkwood, professor of biochemistry.

Zhai said that the Chinese expect to send both post-graduate students, who will mostly be in their thirties, and more experienced researchers to the United States.

But, she said, the government has reduced its original goal to send 10,000 students to western universities in the next few years because of financial and language difficulties. She said she didn't know how many students will be involved.

Zhai chose to study at Minnesota because of informal contact that has been maintained between Huai-chang Chiang, professor of entomology in St. Paul, and Zhai's supervisor at the Chinese academy of sciences in Beijing (Peking). Her supervisor had studied at the University of Minnesota for a year before the revolution.

Lu, who is a student, will do graduate work in the department. He is from the Chinese academy of agricultural sciences at Beijing and will enroll at resident tuition rates because he was awarded a regents' scholarship, which dismisses non-resident tuition for selected foreign students.

The kind of informal contacts maintained between American professors such as Chiang who have Chinese family ties are expected to yield more exchanges, particularly in agriculture and the health sciences.

"We are allowed to stay one to two years, no longer than two years. I think, if possible I will be here one year and a second year in another laboratory," Zhai said in an interview. "It depends on the money because the academy of sciences in China can give us living expenses and travel funds but not research funds."

Other scientific exchanges are taking place through delegations that exchange ideas in their fields and negotiate other scholarly exchanges.

Chiang will host a team of Chinese plant protection scientists in August. The delegation will visit six American campuses.

Currently, Chiang is part of a U.S. department of agriculture delegation visiting China to study methods of biological control of insect pests. Biological controls involve the use of natural predators, such as ladybugs, to control insects that kill crops. This is the field in wich Zhai is studying.

An official delegation from the University of Minnesota will visit China in September in an effort to negotiate future exchanges and a possible sister relationship with a Chinese university.

Similar arrangements have been made between about a dozen American universities and their counterparts in the People's Republic of China.

The 12-member delegation will be headed by regents' chairman Wenda Moore, who visited China last year. The group includes mostly administrators and faculty, members in the technical areas in which the Chinese are interested.

A University of Minnesota professor, C.J. Liu of the East Asian languages department, will spend the next two years in China teaching and studying style in translation in the early Chinese texts imported to the United States. She will spend most of her time in Chungking province.

Hints For Homeowners

CARPETS: PRETTY IS AS PRETTY DOES

Home carpeting can be an unexpected source of energy savings, as well as bring beauty to your home like this Singing Wind of Trevira by Monticello Carpets.

One way to cut your energy overhead is to take a closer look at what's underfoot. Insulation isn't something just in the walls and attic. By overlooking your flooring, you may be underestimating a source of savings.

Carpet, especially carpet installed over padding, can contribute to insulation and help cut home-energy costs.

The insulation qualities of different materials used in carpets and pads vary. That's why you should read the labels carefully. Hoechst Fibers Industries, for instance, makers of Trevira polyester fibers label the thermal resistance or R-value of their products.

R-value is a term that manufacturers of insulation and engineers use to describe the insulating ability of a product. The higher the R-value, the better its ability to provide insulation from heat or cold.

Heat flows from warm spaces in a home to cooler ones. If you have a two-story house, for instance, and maintain both floors at 68°F., there will be no heat flow between the floors. But if your downstairs floor is over a ventilated crawl space whose temperature is considerably lower, the heat will flow from your warm room to the crawl space, resulting in a heat loss.

Carpeting the lower floor, then, will reduce the rate of heat flow from the warm room to the cold crawl space.

Carpet is usually laid over a pad. The R-values of each are added together to get the total insulation value. Thus, if the carpet's R-value is 1.25 and that of the pad .75, the total insulation, or R-value, is 2.0.

A new carpet is a long-term investment, so care should be given to its selection. Good quality carpet will give you years of service, pleasure—and savings.

To receive a free copy of "The Value of Carpeting as a Home Insulation Material" write to: Dee Graeper, Hoechst Fibers Industries, 1515 Broadway, New York, NY 10036.

Gully

Mrs. Peter Rutkowski
Gully, 268-2845

A family picnic was held at Cross Lake on July 1 arranged by the Robert Thorssen, Elmer Stolen and Henry Lund families. There were 78 relatives who registered the guest books which were presented to Ed Skeie of Crescent City, and to his cousin Mrs. Alice Cleary of Minneapolis. Ed Skeie played a few numbers on his Hardanger violin. There were relatives from Crescent City, Calif., Minneapolis, Coeur D Alene, Idaho, Seattle and Everett, Wash., Detroit, Michigan, Jamestown and Grand Forks, N.D., Decorah, Iowa, Colorado Springs, Colo., Anoka, Fisher, Bemidji, Hallock, St. Hilaire, Plummer, Oklee, Fosston, Trail, Gonvick, Clearbrook and Gully. Everyone enjoyed a lovely day. Also that evening many relatives went to hear Ed Skeie play in the Fiddlers Contest at Trail.

On July 2 about 30 relatives gathered at the Elmer Stolen home for pot luck dinner including barbecued turkey. Nina's sister Ann of Jamestown and her 2 brothers had spent sometime at Nina's. All the five Stolen children were home.

The next evening, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lund of Trail, Myrtle's aunt, Mr. Alice Cleary, her daughter Mrs. Bob Huemoeller and Carol of Minneapolis and David and Steven Eskeli of Plummer were supper guests at the Robert Thorssen home together with their houseguests Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anderson and Estelle Thorssen of Everett, Wash. and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Skeie of Crescent City, Calif.

After spending a week at the Robert Thorssens, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anderson and Estelle Thorssen went to Grand Forks on July 4 to visit relatives before returning to their home in Everett, Wash. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Skeie also spent 2 weeks at the Robert Thorssens before going to Grand Forks to visit relatives and then returned to Crescent City, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Haugen (nee Judy Thorssen) of Bea, Calif. are the parents of an adopted baby girl, JeNelle Avonette, 8 months old. She has a brother, Jason. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Thoreson. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Haugen of East Grand Forks and great-grandmother is Mrs. Hilda Hangaard.

Geraldine Thoreson and Vi and Mel Sundrud spent a few days visiting their brother LaVerne Trogstad who lives in Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada.

Family night will be held at Bethany church on Sunday evening at 8 p.m. July 29.

Recent visitors at the Orville Haugens were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Haugen and Carla of Lakeville, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Haugen of Brooklyn Center, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Willette of Missouri, Mr. and Mrs. Gret Willette of Fosston, Jeff Lindgren of Oklee, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Widseth of Berner, Mrs. Bob Rouland, Mr. and Mr. Lief Haugen and family of Boise, Idaho and Almer Halvorson of Trail.

Mr. and Mrs. Halvor Groven of Oklee visited Sunday afternoon with Ann Nyland, they also called on the Ted Nylands.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rutkowski of Minnetonka, Peter C. Rutkowski of Mankato and Wally Rutkowski of St. Paul were weekend guests at the Peter Rutkowski home. The Bob Rutkowski's also visited with Nora and Dick Maples.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Tharaldson, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Les Wright of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Nyland and daughter Marilyn and boys of Mt. Clemens, Mich., Donald Qualley of Olathe, Kansas and his brother Robert Qualley of St. Paul all came to attend the funeral for Harold Steile and to visit Ragna Steile.

Kermit Hangaard of Moorhead was a supper guest at the Curtis Hangaard home Thursday evening. Sunday afternoon visitors at C. Hangaards were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sollen and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Myers and children.

Mrs. Arden Buchholz and family of Halstad are spending the week with Diane's mother, Mrs. Ragna Steile.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Merchlewitz (nee Linda Johnson) and family of Brooklyn Center were visiting friends in the Gully area last week.

Mrs. Ken Forsberg and Elaine Bergman of McIntosh took Alice's sister, Mrs. Doris Terril to the Cities last Thursday and they visited at the Frank Forsberg, Al Miller and Ernest Kilberg homes. Doris returned to her home in Campbell, Calif on Sunday and Elaine and Alice came home Sunday afternoon.

Irene Carlson and Sophie Nelson visited one afternoon with Vi Tharaldson and Vivian Nyland at the Ragna Steile home.

Mrs. Alvin Strand and Mrs. John Nelson visited with Mrs. George one afternoon.

ADGER . . .

Mrs. Leslie Nelson, Dale and Darren and Julie Schwartz brought birthday greetings to Jayne Schwartz Monday afternoon July 23.

Mrs. Jean Nelson left Monday to spend two weeks at the Glen Dahlquist home in St. Paul.

Attorney General
State of Minnesota

Many citizens dream of living in a retirement community where they can enjoy themselves with friends while free from the burden of home maintenance and assured of adequate health care.

Retirement communities are being developed throughout the country. The typical complex offers varying types of apartment or condominium living, health care facilities, recreation and transportation.

The cost ranges from a monthly fee to a substantial initial payment plus a monthly fee. In return, a retired person has a relatively secure, maintenance-free place to live, usually for life, with 24-hour emergency protection.

As in other areas, development of retirement communities is susceptible to the unscrupulous who promise great luxury and deliver little or nothing.

Sometimes using a prominent clergyman or personality as a means of advertising, these individuals often prey on the fear of many older citizens — loneliness. They may use this fear and high-pressure sales tactics to encourage a person to part with a substantial sum of money even before the development is completed.

An individual may have no guarantee that a project will be completed or that there will be room for him or her. Once a person has moved in, he or she may find it costly to move out. If he becomes ill and ends up in the hospital, he may even lose his unit in the development. In order to protect yourself, here are some things to check out before making a decision on any particular retirement community:

—Beware of high-pressure tactics or use of the "fear of being alone" to sell you.

—Closely examine the record of the developer. Ask for his past record. Has he or his past developments gone bankrupt in the past five to 10 years?

—Ask for an audited financial statement of the development.

—If the development is still in the construction stage, ask for detailed information concerning financing.

—Find out what happens to your money if you move out. Can you get a pro rata share back?

—If you experience a prolonged period of hospitalization, what happens to your unit in the development? What happens if there are not units available when you heave the hospital?

—If the development is under construction, what provisions are there for a refund if the project is oversold and there is no space for you?

—If a substantial initial payment is required, make sure you know what you are receiving.

—Before signing any contracts or documents, consult with an attorney to insure that your assets are being protected and that your actions are consistent with good estate planning principles.

If after checking everything out things still do not look right, please contact the Consumer Division, Office of the Attorney General, Room 102, State Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

Consumers can often combat some of the cost of inflation by buying a used car rather than a new car. Although there are bargains to be found in purchasing a used car, there are also some real "lemons." Care must be taken in order to avoid purchasing a defective automobile.

The frustrations of owning a "lemon" are increased when the owner discovers that the vehicle has no warranty protection. Most automobile dealers sell used cars "as is." In Minnesota and in most other states, the words "as is" mean that the dealer is not legally responsible for any repairs which the vehicle may need later.

Unfortunately, many purchasers of used cars are confused by the words "as is." Until the sale is made, salesmen have little incentive to correct this confusion. The words "as is" are sometimes incorrectly interpreted by consumers as meaning "as equipped." In other words, the consumer believes that the car comes with the accessories already on it. Others believe "as is" means the dealer will not do any more reconditioning on the car before delivery. Still others think "as is" means the car comes with the defects which have been disclosed to them at the time of purchase and that the dealer will cover the repairs of any defects which occur after the vehicle has been purchased.

All the above interpretations are wrong. If you buy a car "as is," it means that you and not the dealer will be responsible if anything goes wrong with the car.

Further misunderstandings evolve out of hard-to-read warranty clauses in the purchase contract. A clause might read as follows:

"As Is. (Merchant X) hereby expressly disclaims all warranties either expressed or implied, including any implied warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose and neither assumes nor authorizes any other person to assume for (it) liability in connection with the sale of this vehicle."

That statement means the dealer will not make any repairs on the car after it leaves the lot. Even if the car salesman verbally indicates to the consumer that the car comes with warranty protectin, the verbal guarantee probably will not be binding if the sales contract contains an "as is" clause.

If a salesperson does orally inform you that a car is protected by a warranty, ask the salesperson to cross out the "as is" clause on the contract, place his or her initials by it and provide you with a warranty statement which clearly outlines what the warranty will cover in terms of car repairs and the length of time the warranty will be in effect. Clarifying the terms of a warranty on a used car will save you a lot of headaches later, should your car need extensive or even minor repair work.

If you have any questions or comments about buying a used car or any other consumer matter, please write to the Attorney General's Office, 102 State Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

RIVER VALLEY . . .

The annual Grand Forks National Guard reunion was held Sunday at the Darrel Novack home east of Grand Forks. Mr. and Mrs. Korydon Chervestad and family drove down for the special event. The men drove out to look at the crops and noticed that the army worm is heavy on the sunflower fields. The crops are surviving from the heavy rains and looking fair.

Sunday callers at the Julian Gunderson home were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson of Oklee. Otto and Ethel also visited at the Orlando Chervestad home. Monday dinner guests at Birdie Gunderson's were Sena Chervestad, Signe Evenson and Tillie England of Erskine. Tillie remained to stay several days with Birdie. In the afternoon they all visited at the Ole Hofstad home.

Bunny Cote spent Wednesday with Grandma Birdie. Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Julian Gunderson and mother Birdie attended the wedding for Mr. and Mrs. Steve Flatland at Zion Lutheran church in Oklee.

Many from this community attended the wedding for Wayne Olson and Pamela Schumacher Saturday at Our Savior's Lutheran church in Crookston.

Tamie Chervestad entertained a group of ladies at a coffee party Wednesday evening: Mrs. Shirley Lundeen, Muriel Mandt, Lana Nelson, Carol and Helen Chervestad, Gloria Rustan, Therese Radniecki, Karen Matheson, Annabelle Chervestad and Tamie's girlfriend from Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Brad Nelson attended a coffee party at Keith Nelson home north of Goodridge Thursday evening, along with many others.

Tillie England of Erskine spent a week with her sister, Sena Chervestad and also visiting relatives and friends.

HIGHLANDING . .

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hanson were dinner guests at the Dale Spong home of Grand Forks. Others there were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hegge of Oklee and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Venturna and family of Swan River, Manitoba.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Srnsky, Rhonda and Mitchell enjoyed a picnic Sunday at Warren with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kasprowicz and family, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Abel and boys and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Kasprowicz all of Stephen. They also attended the Marshall county fair at Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. C.R. Appleman and Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Sweep of St. Paul were Sunday afternoon visitors at the Katherine Hagen home. Later Appleman's and Sweeps enjoyed supper at the Country Kitchen.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnsrud visited at the Clifford Johnsrud home on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Nelson and Richie were Sunday visitors of the Kenny Nelson home.

REGULATION OF SOCIAL SECURITY TAXES

Keeping the number of people on Social Security down can help keep your taxes down.

More than 80 million federal tax returns are filed every year, and the IRS collects almost $400 billion in one year. Nevertheless, Congress, it appears, may increase the tax burden on most Americans through a scheme they think will rescue it.

These people have advocated a merger between the independent retirement system of federal civilian employees and the Social Security system.

According to the experts at the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, such a move would be short-sighted and contrary to the national interest. When the 2.7 million federal employees retire, they will over strain an already overburdened Social Security system. As it is, some people's Social Security tax bite could be close to $2,000 by 1981.

Such a merger scheme could cost taxpayers more in other ways, too. Right now, the monthly annuity payments received by civil service retirees and survivors are taxable at all levels of government. Social Security benefits are not. This means that tax agencies throughout the country would find their tax base reduced by more than nine billion dollars per year at present levels, and by a greater amount as wage increases and inflation increase the value of annuities.

Despite that, you may be able to save something on your taxes, if you know about some deductions:

- Included in your tax deductible medical expenses are seven cents per mile, plus parking and tolls in travel costs for visits to your doctor.
- The cost of a safe-deposit box is tax deductible if you keep stocks or bond certificates inside it.
- The cost of medicines are deductible to the extent that the total exceeds one percent of your adjusted gross income.

VIEWPOINT ON THE NEWS

SERVING THE PUBLIC INTEREST

Sweepstakes: a way to get people involved with its customers.

The million dollar question: Does anyone ever really win in those national contest sweepstakes?

Well, the truth is they better had! Because if there are no winners, or fewer winners than the sponsoring company says there will be, the only real loser is the promoter.

No company could afford to run a sweepstakes that was anything less than completely honest. Federal and state agencies and consumer groups carefully monitor contests.

Case in point: Reader's Digest has just awarded its millionth prize since initiating its Sweepstakes in 1962. The millionth winner, a North Little Rock, Ark., father of two, is $25,000 wealthier today.

Periodically, the Digest publishes partial lists of winners. Anyone can get a complete winner's list by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Reader's Digest, Pleasantville, N.Y. 10570.

By law, companies must offer the same chance to everyone. Beyond legalities, Reader's Digest policy has always been to be completely fair and above-board with its customers.

Why has Reader's Digest given away more than $15 million since 1962? Because the Sweepstakes has proven to be an effective method of getting people to read material, interest them in products, get them to try them.

An important point: magazine sweepstakes are not only good for companies using them. They also benefit readers, because the cost of selling by mail is cheaper than it might be through other techniques. And the greater the number of products a company can sell, the lower the cost.

Sometimes a prospective subscriber needs that extra "push" to turn desire into action. The Reader's Digest Sweepstakes is a push—and a plus, if the contestant wins.

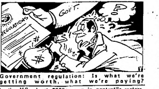
YOU BE THE JUDGE !

HOW MUCH GOVERNING SHOULD AN AVERAGE FAMILY BUY?

We buy governing just like any other commodity. What we get for our money is a set of rules that tell us how to behave. How much governing do we really need? How much are we willing to pay for it? An answer to that question is suggested by a business and civic leader.

By C. Hoke Leggott



Government regulation: Is what we're getting worth what we're paying?

Who's the big decision-maker in your family? Maybe you think you are—or maybe you think your spouse is.

But a lot of the decisions that directly affect the air you breathe, the clothes you wear, the car you drive or even the kind of house you build aren't being made by you or your spouse.

They're being made for you by an army of more than 100,000 government regulators in Washington. And they're costing you plenty: they're costing you in terms of tax dollars, in terms of the prices you pay for products, and the products you can't find at any price. And they're costing you in terms of your right to make your own decisions.

Did you know that today federal regulations are adding $666 to the price of the average new car? More than eight cents a pound to the price of ground beef? Ten dollars and seventy-five cents a day to a patient's hospital bill? As much as $2,500 to the cost of a typical new house?

The Federal Office of Management and Budget estimates that government regulations currently cost each man, woman and child in the U.S. about $600 a year. And it's no wonder. The combined budget for federal regulatory agencies in fiscal 1979 amounts to $4.8 billion.

We need some regulation. But I believe every thinking American needs to ask if all of these regulations are really necessary? Do their benefits outweigh their costs? Du Pont, for instance, estimates that by 1985, it will be spending $1 billion a year to meet all of its environmental requirements—and yet three-fourths of the money it will spend between now and 1985 for pollution control will yield no practical benefit to the environment at all.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) has proposed rules for controlling noise in the workplace. To comply with these rules will cost industry $18-1/2 billion in capital costs and about $1 billion a year in operating costs. Yet a study commissioned by OSHA showed that earmuffs and ear plugs for workers could do the same job for less than 1/20 the cost.

OSHA has announced an overly stringent standard for controlling cotton dust, even in nontextile sectors, where no dust-related health problems have ever been substantiated. OSHA's rush to regulation—unless halted by the courts—will cost over $2 billion and could cause thousands of people to lose their jobs.

Ironically, a 1975 study revealed that for every 100 workers, the number of work days lost to injuries or illnesses had actually increased since OSHA and its rules came into existence!

People who work for the Council on Wage and Price Stability—which monitors the inflationary impact of regulations—are frank to say that their experience has convinced them that this country is paying far too much for what it's getting in the way of benefits from regulations.

And the trouble is, we will keep on paying this high price until the average citizen wakes up to what regulations are costing in the way of inflation, loss of productivity, increased taxes, unemployment and, eventually, loss of freedom.

Mr. Leggett is President of the National Cotton Council.
